By JAMES A. BRUSSEL, M.D.

A starry-eyed young newspaper reporter once referred to me as "psychiatrist James Brussel, the Sherlock Holmes of the couch." This was very flattering but not very true.

There is no couch in my office. My patients simply sit or slouch in a comfortable leather armchair and talk me face-to-face. My face is not so attractive that the patients feel compelled to look at it, but they can look at it if they like. It is a comfortable enough face for the purpose.

Other newspaper, magazine, and television reporters have called me other embarrassing names, such as the "Psychiatric Seer" and the "Twelfth Street Prophet." It is true that I live on Manhattan's West Twelfth Street, but nothing else about these designations is accurate. The only thing I have ever done to get my name in the papers has been to apply some common psychiatric principles in reverse, using my own private blend of science, intution, and hope.

I've worked on hundreds of cases during my military and civilian careers, I'm going to tell the stories of six. I've chosen these six because each illustrates what I think are important facts about crimes and criminals. I haven't chosen the cases to show what a clever fellow I am. I made mistakes in some of them, as I will admit. I analyzed facts incorrectly or incompletely, I made deudctions I had no right to make.

But now let me introduce you to a much more interesting man.

The neighbors called it the Crazy House. It was a gaunt, gray, three-story frame house with sagging porches and wooden pillars that had once, long ago, been white.

The neighbors didn't know much about the people who lived here, except that all three were strange. There was a middle-aged man and two gaunt, grim-faced older women.

SIRHAN: FREE IN 2 YEARS?

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The man who killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will return to his native Jordan as a conquering hero—and in "not more than two years."

This is the way that man—Sirhan Bishara Sirhan— feels, the Independent, Press-Telegram learned today.

From a high-placed defense source—one of the few people allowed to talk to the young Arab assassin—came the admission that Sirhan is confident he will spend only two years in an American prison.

How and what makes him think so?

The thinking behind his release from prison apparently is as clear as his thinking when he killed the would-be president.

He got a gun within an inch of the senator's head before he pulled the trigger—it was a sure kill.

His return to Jordan—to his native land—is planned with equal precision, Sirhan feels.

"I'll be traded just like Powers was traded for Abel . . . it'll be a swap . . . me for someone the Americans want back," the 25-year-old Sirhan is quoted as saying.

And he can back up his idea.

Gary Powers, Sirhan recalls well, was shot down in a U-2 spy plane over Russia in 1960. He was traded two years later for Col. Rudolph Abel, a Russian spy, who was convicted of espionage in 1957 and received a 30-year sentence. Abel served five years of that term before he was returned to Russia in exchange for Powers.

"HE TALKS more and more about the trade," Sirhan's confidant relates, "and it's backed up by the thousands of letters we're getting from the Middle East—from Egypt and Iraq and Jordan. They all consider him a hero, and

Nixon Reduces LBJ's Budget By $4 Billion

Will Give Record Surplus

By ERNIE HERNANDEZ
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Nixon announced Saturday a $4-billion slash of the fiscal year 1970 federal budget proposed last January by former President Johnson.

The cut, from Johnson's $196.9 to $192.9 billion, will result in a $5.8-billion surplus — the largest since the 1951 $7.6 billion surplus.

Budget Director Robert Mayo said the surplus would be the fourth largest in U.S. history. There was a $6.6-billion surplus in 1947. In 1948, it was $8.9 billion.

* * * *

WHERE THE cuts — broken down to $1.1 billion in defense spending and $2.9 billion in domestic expenses — will be won't be disclosed until Tuesday, said Mayo.

Department budgets will be announced then. It is believed there will be cuts in the health-education-welfare, labor and agriculture budgets.

Johnson had proposed a 1970 budget of $195.3 billion, but Nixon disputed that as a poor estimate. Actually, the Johnson budget called for $196.9 billion, the President said in a statement.

Mayo said Johnson's economic advisers apparently failed to give proper accounting of the interest on the federal debt, farm price support payments and receipts of official leases.

NIXON stressed the need to curb inflation which "has eroded the value of every pay raise won by the average wage earner; it has done unquestionable harm to the economic welfare of the very poor in our society and those millions of Americans living on pensions and Social Security."

Inflation, said Nixon, "has weakened our international payments position; it has sapped foreign and domestic confidence in the American dollar.

BECAUSE Naples' life today is not the same as it was before April 8, 1967, when two orange tongues of flame licked the predawn darkness and spit defiance — two leaden globs of death — in society's face.

The identical, .38 caliber slugs which crashed into the brains of Mrs. Elaine Terry Kirschke, and Orville William Drankhan, hit the lush, water-oriented Naples community with the force and shock of a lightning bolt.

Attractive Elaine Kirschke, dark-haired fashion designer, who at 43 still looked good enough to model her own creations, was described by a close friend as "a real go-getter . . . a gal who worked hard, played hard and got a real kick out of living."

She died on the expensive, queen-size, round bed in the Kirschke apartment at 185 Rivo Alto Canal, in the arms of Bill Drankhan, 41-year-old flyboy, playboy, electronics technician and co-owner of a Long Beach aircraft radio firm.

Q. Dec. 17 we signed a contract and made a deposit on a speed reading course and a set of books, magazines and encyclopedia annuals. It is going on five months now and we haven't received our order or heard from the company. Can you help me? D.S., Long Beach.

A. Your credit was rejected but, through an error, your refund check has not been sent. Joseph Lieberman, manager of the R. H. Hinkley Co. Burlingame, apologized and promised that a deposit refund would be sent to you immediately.

Cleaning Fluid

Q. I work at the McDonnell-Douglas plant in Long Beach with a chemical solvent called trichlorotehane. The management has assured us that the chemical is not harmful, but 25 people in my department have passed out from it. Is it dangerous? N.N., Lakewood.

A. Dr. I. D. Litwack, director of the Long Beach Health Department, said the chemical can be toxic when it enters the body through the lungs, skin or gastro-intestinal tract. It also acts as an irritant to eyes and the mucous membranes. However, he pointed out that when adequate precautions are taken to prevent the inhalation of the chemical or direct skin contact with it, there is very little risk. He added that the Health Department has been in contact with McDonnell-Douglas and has been assured adequate safety measures are being taken. A spokesman for McDonnell-Douglas said the company has been using 1-1-1 trichlortethane for more than a year as a solvent to clean wing tanks. He pointed out that trichlorotehane has an advantage over other equally toxic solvents which were being used because it is not flammable. He denied your report that 25 employes have been overcome by inhaling the chemical fumes and said the company records show only one employe, exposed to a higher than normal concentration of fumes, passed out. A second worker lost consciousness recently but it was later learned that it was caused from other than chemical inhalation, he said. Employes working with the chemical must wear gloves and a respirator. The spokesman added that additional safety measures are being taken: new fresh air ventilating hoses are being installed in the area, a more comfortable respirator is going to be added and the quantity of the chemical used in the wing cleaning area has been reduced. However, if you are still concerned, Dr. Litwack invites you to submit a complaint to the Health Department, and they will look into the matter again.

Q. In 1967, AAA Roof Co. of Lynwood replaced my roof. The work was guaranteed for five years, but after the heavy rains this year, the roof leaked in six places. I have called the company countless times, but I cannot get my roof repaired. P.G., Downey.

A. ACTION LINE tried to contact the owner of the roofing company for three weeks, but he was always "out" and did not return any of our calls. A spokesman for the Long Beach Better Business Bureau said there have been numerous complaints recently against AAA Roof Co. which have not been adjusted by the firm. D. L. IN THE BAG—WELL SURE! WHAT ELSE?
Waitress Paid No Mind to Him or Others Like Him

WHY WORRY . . . IF THEY TEAR IT DOWN THEY TEAR IT DOWN
I Can Have My Sandwich in the Sun, and a Little Drop for Later . . .

. . . CAN SLEEP IT OFF UNDER CLEAR SKY, WHEN WEATHER'S RIGHT

. . . WITH FRIENDS TO TALK TO AS THE DAY WEARS ON

Two yellow bananas poked up from his left coat pocket. On the other side, a bulgy white paper package showed where he'd stashed a couple of sandwiches.

He wasn't drinking coffee, either; it was milk. Milk, to put out a fire. Get the fire out, inside there, and he'd be ready for the tall paper bag on the counter.

In the bag — well, sure! — what else? A cheap bottle of redeye, product of a prebreakfast panhandle.

* * * *

THE WAITRESS paid no mind to him or the others like him, along the counter of this skidrow eatery. Waitresses in the few restaurants still open in San Pedro's Beacon Street area don't give second looks to the twitching yellow fingers, pouched eyes and whiskery chins of the area's 250 "floating residents."

This was Friday morning, 36 hours after a noisy official hearing in the L.A. City Council chambers, 23 miles away in downtown Los Angeles, where the council had approved a long-pending $17-million, seven-year cleanup of the Beacon Street skid row.

* * * *

TWO-THIRDS paid by Uncle Sam, one-third by the city, the cleanup will rejuvenate 17 square blocks of shops, hotels, saloons and shacks — most of them nearly a century old. And it is here and there, in the old buildings, by secret hidden entrances, that the 250 floaters find their way "home."

For a year past, staff members of the Community Redevelopment Agency, working from an office at 282 W. Sixth Street, San Pedro, have been "surveying" the slum area. Their report convinced the City Council to go ahead.

In the year starting now, the agency will acquire title to all property in the square block lying between Second and Third streets, Mesa and Centre Streets.

* * * *

THAT BLOCK — northwest corner of the blighted district — contains only a dozen or so old houses, a corner store, a gully, a top-heavy Phoenix palm, clumps of castor-bean shrubs, an abandoned automobile and vacant lots paved with broken glass and knee-deep in bobbing foxtails and wild oats.

So the cleanup, it seems, won't immediately evict the floaters from their snug hideouts in boarded-up buildings.

Life will go on as usual, it seems, among the row's fraternity, the shaky gents carrying the paper bags containing — now whoever would guess it? — bottles off redeye.

Up until a couple of years ago, every morning the police made a sweep of the Row. The brethren were swept humanely into a paddywagon. They were fed, cleaned up, taken to court and maybe given a few nonalcoholic days in jail.

* * * *

NO MORE. New laws have put the brethren "home free" when they're on private property, unless the owners holler.

And corporations which own boarded-up buildings don't give a hoot, nor a holler, either.

And drunks aren't criminals; they're sick.

"That lets us out," say the police.

The man with the two yellow bananas in his left coat pocket, and the sandwiches in his right coat pocket, finished his glass of milk in the skidrow eatery. He wiped his mouth on the back of his right hand. He stood and counted out coins for the milk. He sighed and picked up the tall paper bag and shuffled out into the morning sunshine.

HE HAD company out there. Already, not 8 o'clock yet, and his fraternity brothers were stirring. Some were making their morning checks of the trash cans. Some already were grouped in doorways passing around a tall paper bag.

Seven years, for the project? For the brothers, it might as well be seven centuries! The brothers live only for today.

And seventeen million dollars? Might as well be seven cents, for all the ripple the news made among the brethren. For them, wealth comes from a bottle, one swallow at a time.

Railroad Strike Threat

By United Press International

The nation's railroads braced for a possible strike by signalmen that could halt virtually all trains in the country at 6 A.M. Monday.

Negotiators continued talks in Washington Saturday night in efforts to avert the walkout.

The major freight carriers reported any call for an embargo on shipments of perishables would come from the Association of American Railroads in Washington. No decline in freight orders in anticipation of the strike was reported in a sampling of the larger roads.

Negotiators for the railroad management and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen were "still plugging away" at issues in talks with a federal mediator, a Labor Department spokesman said. He would not comment on whether the two sides were any nearer an agreement.

When asked about preparations for a possible strike, a spokesman for Southern Pacific said, "it's a national situation. All we can do is sit back and wait for word from Washington."

A Milwaukee spokesman said, "we're just going along and watching the situation just like everybody else." Their comments were typical.

CLEANUP TO OUST FLOATERS, BUMS

Story and Photos
By Dick Emery

IN THE BAG — WELL SURE! WHAT ELSE? Waitress Paid No Mind to Him or Others Like Him

Two yellow bananas poked up from his left coat pocket. On the other side, a bulgy white paper package showed where he'd stashed a couple of sandwiches.

He wasn't drinking coffee, either; it was milk. Milk, to put out a fire. Get the fire out, inside there, and he'd be ready for the tall paper bag on the counter.

In the bag — well, sure! — what else? A cheap bottle of redeye, product of a prebreakfast panhandle.

* * * *

THE WAITRESS paid no mind to him or the others like him, along the counter of this skidrow eatery. Waitresses in the few restaurants still open in San Pedro's Beacon Street area don't give second looks to the twitching yellow fingers, pouched eyes and whiskery chins of the area's 250 "floating residents."

This was Friday morning, 36 hours after a noisy official hearing in the L.A. City Council chambers, 23 miles away in downtown Los Angeles, where the council had approved a long-pending $17-million, seven-year cleanup of the Beacon Street skid row.

* * * *

TWO-THIRDS paid by Uncle Sam, one-third by the city, the cleanup will rejuvenate 17 square blocks of shops, hotels, saloons and shacks — most of them nearly a century old. And it is here and there, in the old buildings, by secret hidden entrances, that the 250 floaters find their way "home."

For a year past, staff members of the Community Redevelopment Agency, working from an office at 282 W. Sixth Street, San Pedro, have been "surveying" the slum area. Their report convinced the City Council to go ahead.

In the year starting now, the agency will acquire title to all property in the square block lying between Second and Third streets, Mesa and Centre Streets.

* * * *

THAT BLOCK — northwest corner of the blighted district — contains only a dozen or so old houses, a corner store, a gully, a top-heavy Phoenix palm, clumps of castor-bean shrubs, an abandoned automobile and vacant lots paved with broken glass and knee-deep in bobbing foxtails and wild oats.

So the cleanup, it seems, won't immediately evict the floaters from their snug hideouts in boarded-up buildings.

Life will go on as usual, it seems, among the row's fraternity, the shaky gents carrying the paper bags containing — now whoever would guess it? — bottles off redeye.

Up until a couple of years ago, every morning the police made a sweep of the Row. The brethren were swept humanely into a paddywagon. They were fed, cleaned up, taken to court and maybe given a few nonalcoholic days in jail.

* * * *

NO MORE. New laws have put the brethren "home free" when they're on private property, unless the owners holler.

And corporations which own boarded-up buildings don't give a hoot, nor a holler, either.

And drunks aren't criminals; they're sick.

"That lets us out," say the police.

The man with the two yellow bananas in his left coat pocket, and the sandwiches in his right coat pocket, finished his glass of milk in the skidrow eatery. He wiped his mouth on the back of his right hand. He stood and counted out coins for the milk. He sighed and picked up the tall paper bag and shuffled out into the morning sunshine.

HE HAD company out there. Already, not 8 o'clock yet, and his fraternity brothers were stirring. Some were making their morning checks of the trash cans. Some already were grouped in doorways passing around a tall paper bag.

Seven years, for the project? For the brothers, it might as well be seven centuries! The brothers live only for today.

And seventeen million dollars? Might as well be seven cents, for all the ripple the news made among the brethren. For them, wealth comes from a bottle, one swallow at a time.

WHY WORRY . . . IF THEY TEAR IT DOWN THEY TEAR IT DOWN

Campus Disorders Hurt Us, Says Marine Commandant

Combined News Services

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. said Saturday anti-war opposition, sometimes in the form of physical obstruction, is cutting into Marine Corps officer-recruiting on campuses across the country.

The corps commandant said some college administrators not only are failing to control student protesters but also are refusing to provide Marine recruiters adequate time and central locations to sign men on campus.

The Marines get 85 per cent of their officer candidates each year from the annual crop of graduating college seniors.

Chapman said the traditionally volunteer service has been forced to start a new recruiting program in junior colleges that drops the college-degree requirement usually faced by a young man seeking to become a Marine officer.

A check showed the other armed services also are being hampered in their recruiting efforts on campus.

The Marine Corps, forced into a sharp organizational expansion in recent years because of Vietnam, estimates it needs around 4,000 new officers each year.

In coming months, Marine spokesmen said, it appears the corps will be falling 300 to 400 men short of the requirement.

CHEERS

Alvin Paul "Pete" Jones, a junior at Central Missouri State College, turns 21 Sunday, and his mother bought a display ad in the Warrensburg Daily Star-Journal Friday to congratulate him.

The advertisement, three columns by three inches, said simply, "Happy Birthday, Pete Jones. Life begins at 21."

His mother, Mrs. Edwin Benz of Kansas City, explained that "in this day of hippies, Yippies and draft card burners, I think Pete is something special. It's just that young men like this don't get the publicity that the rebels and loud-mouths do."

Young Jones works his way through school, and pays all of his expenses, including rent, car, clothes, books and tuition.

SCRATCHED

Two cars of a New York Times Square subway passed over Mrs. Georgianna Biederman, but she escaped with only a scratched chin.

Mrs. Biederman, 25, told police she became dizzy, fell from the platform and rolled into a center trough between the rails. Dazed, she lay face up as the first two cars of an oncoming train passed over her. Police managed to extricate her within minutes. She was given first aid for the scratch on her chin.

POPE'S TRIP

Pope Paul VI will make his scheduled trip to Uganda a two-day journey starting July 31, during the coolest period in that part of Africa, the Vatican announced Saturday.

The pontiff, 71, will land at Kampala, Uganda's capital, where he will meet with African bishops, consecrate a cathedral and pray for peace in the Nigerian civil war, the announcement said.

The trip will be Pope Paul's seventh journey since his election in 1963. He had visited the continent as a cardinal in 1962. The trip will come 11 months after the Pope's last, and longest, overseas journey, an 11,660-mile round trip to Bogota, Colombia.

BUSY

Patricia Nixon's schedule for the remainder of April is booked solid with several massive White House receptions, teas and a special invitation from the President to attend a cabinet meeting.

Mrs. Nixon's White House hospitality activities begin Monday with the springtime Washington convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution and carry on with the entertaining of visiting Republican women and the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

She will be the host at a tea and tour of the White House for the DAR Monday afternoon. On Tuesday, she will welcome 45,000 delegates of the National Republican Women's Conference to the executive mansion and on Friday, the President and Mrs. Nixon will give a black tie reception 6 to 7:30 p.m. for editors and their wives.

GREETING

President Nixon dropped in Saturday to greet 48 foreign policy scholars from across the country who came to the White House for day-long discussions with national security experts.

WHOOPEE

Madison County (Ala.) Dist Atty. David Thomas was jailed Saturday on charges of disorderly conduct and drawing a pistol on a sheriff's officer.

Sheriff Jerry Crabtree said Thomas and three other men were arrested after a champagne party in the county courthouse.

Crabtree said Thomas refused to be fingerprinted and was told that he would not be released unless his prints were taken.

When Chief Deputy Marcus Daniel opened a cell block, the sheriff said, Thomas pulled a pistol. Daniel took a gun from another officer, cocked it and took Thomas' weapon. The sheriff said the four men were celebrating at a party for two young lawyers who had just passed their bar examinations.

Woman Shot in Face, Dies

A 24-year-old Norwalk woman was shot in the face and killed at a party in her home early Saturday. Two men were booked on suspicion of murder.

Linda Weirich, of 12123 E. 163rd St., died almost instantly after the 5 a.m. shooting, sheriff's homicide detectives said.

Deputies booked Alfred Stoolfier, 27, of 1809 Grayland Ave., Artesia, and Roger Wayne Martin, 30, of the 163rd Street address.

Investigators said witnesses told them Miss Weirich argued with Stoolfier, her boyfriend, and threatened him with an unloaded rifle. Minutes later, they said, Stoolfier pulled a .38-caliber revolver and shot her.

Guests at the party were extremely intoxicated, deputies said, and investigators were still sorting out details of the shooting.

James R. Seaton, 54, of 940 Ethelinda Way, Brea, was killed when his car was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Jerry A. Mhoon, of Pomona, on Brea Canyon Road just north of the Orange County Line near Diamond Bar, it was learned Saturday.

California Highway Patrol officers said Mhoon's auto went out of control Friday, veered into Brea Canyon Road's southbound lanes and struck Seaton's car head-on.

Seaton was dead on arrival at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, where Mhoon was treated.

CHEERS

Alvin Paul "Pete" Jones, a junior at Central Missouri State College, turns 21 Sunday, and his mother bought a display ad in the Warrensburg Daily Star-Journal Friday to congratulate him.

The advertisement, three columns by three inches, said simply, "Happy Birthday, Pete Jones. Life begins at 21."

His mother, Mrs. Edwin Benz of Kansas City, explained that "in this day of hippies, Yippies and draft card burners, I think Pete is something special. It's just that young men like this don't get the publicity that the rebels and loud-mouths do."

Young Jones works his way through school, and pays all of his expenses, including rent, car, clothes, books and tuition.

SCRATCHED

Two cars of a New York Times Square subway passed over Mrs. Georgianna Biederman, but she escaped with only a scratched chin.

Mrs. Biederman, 25, told police she became dizzy, fell from the platform and rolled into a center trough between the rails. Dazed, she lay face up as the first two cars of an oncoming train passed over her. Police managed to extricate her within minutes. She was given first aid for the scratch on her chin.

POPE'S TRIP

Pope Paul VI will make his scheduled trip to Uganda a two-day journey starting July 31, during the coolest period in that part of Africa, the Vatican announced Saturday.

The pontiff, 71, will land at Kampala, Uganda's capital, where he will meet with African bishops, consecrate a cathedral and pray for peace in the Nigerian civil war, the announcement said.

The trip will be Pope Paul's seventh journey since his election in 1963. He had visited the continent as a cardinal in 1962. The trip will come 11 months after the Pope's last, and longest, overseas journey, an 11,660-mile round trip to Bogota, Colombia.

BUSY

Patricia Nixon's schedule for the remainder of April is booked solid with several massive White House receptions, teas and a special invitation from the President to attend a cabinet meeting.

Mrs. Nixon's White House hospitality activities begin Monday with the springtime Washington convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution and carry on with the entertaining of visiting Republican women and the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

She will be the host at a tea and tour of the White House for the DAR Monday afternoon. On Tuesday, she will welcome 45,000 delegates of the National Republican Women's Conference to the executive mansion and on Friday, the President and Mrs. Nixon will give a black tie reception 6 to 7:30 p.m. for editors and their wives.

GREETING

President Nixon dropped in Saturday to greet 48 foreign policy scholars from across the country who came to the White House for day-long discussions with national security experts.

WHOOPEE

Madison County (Ala.) Dist Atty. David Thomas was jailed Saturday on charges of disorderly conduct and drawing a pistol on a sheriff's officer.

Sheriff Jerry Crabtree said Thomas and three other men were arrested after a champagne party in the county courthouse.

Crabtree said Thomas refused to be fingerprinted and was told that he would not be released unless his prints were taken.

When Chief Deputy Marcus Daniel opened a cell block, the sheriff said, Thomas pulled a pistol. Daniel took a gun from another officer, cocked it and took Thomas' weapon. The sheriff said the four men were celebrating at a party for two young lawyers who had just passed their bar examinations.

Woman Shot in Face, Dies

A 24-year-old Norwalk woman was shot in the face and killed at a party in her home early Saturday. Two men were booked on suspicion of murder.

Linda Weirich, of 12123 E. 163rd St., died almost instantly after the 5 a.m. shooting, sheriff's homicide detectives said.

Deputies booked Alfred Stoolfier, 27, of 1809 Grayland Ave., Artesia, and Roger Wayne Martin, 30, of the 163rd Street address.

Investigators said witnesses told them Miss Weirich argued with Stoolfier, her boyfriend, and threatened him with an unloaded rifle. Minutes later, they said, Stoolfier pulled a .38-caliber revolver and shot her.

Guests at the party were extremely intoxicated, deputies said, and investigators were still sorting out details of the shooting.

Brea Man Dies in Crash

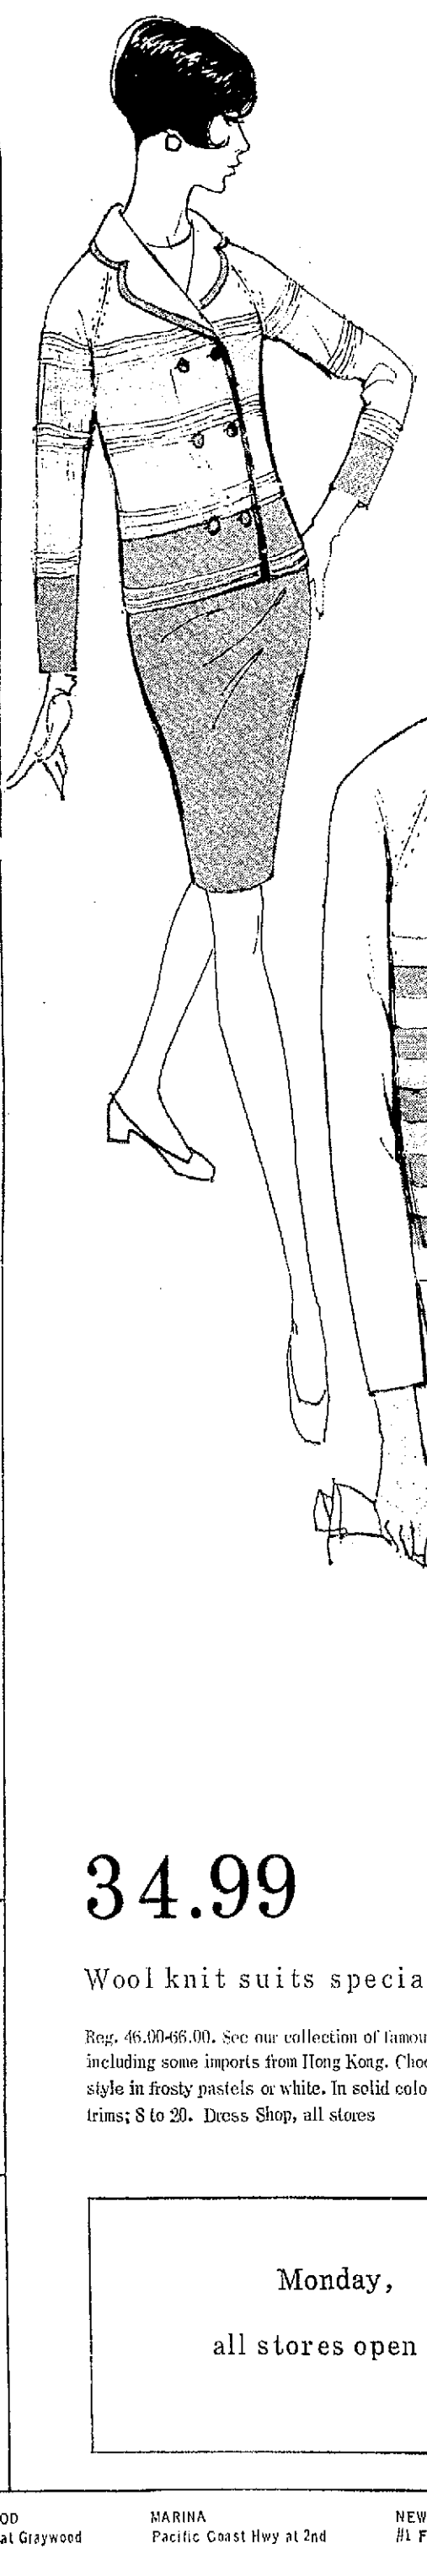

James R. Seaton, 54, of 940 Ethelinda Way, Brea, was killed when his car was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Jerry A. Mhoon, of Pomona, on Brea Canyon Road just north of the Orange County Line near Diamond Bar, it was learned Saturday.

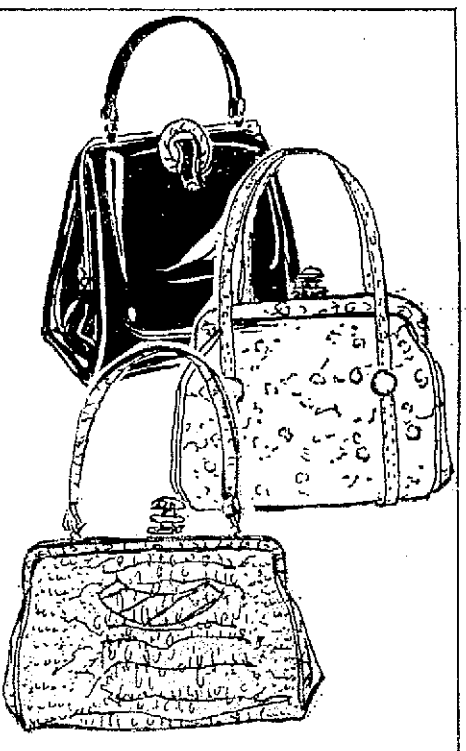

California Highway Patrol officers said Mhoon's auto went out of control Friday, veered into Brea Canyon Road's southbound lanes and struck Seaton's car head-on.

Seaton was dead on arrival at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, where Mhoon was treated.

Nixon Not 'New Man' He's Just Matured With Job, Klein Says

DE KALB, Ill. (UPI) — Herbert Klein, President Nixon's communications director, said Saturday there is not a "new Richard Nixon," and it is not true that Nixon does not read newspapers.

Klein, addressing a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic society, said Nixon is not a new man, but "he is a man who has grown toward the job."

Nixon, Klein said, has undergone no basic change since taking office.

After a 40-minute speech at Northern Illinois University to the journalism group composed mostly of students, Klein invited questions.

A student asked if it is true Nixon does not read newspapers. Klein answered:

"Mr. Nixon does read the papers. Some days he doesn't have time to read the newspapers in depth. I can testify, due to notes I get, that he reads some newspapers that I wish he hadn't seen."

Klein said Nixon had not banned any particular newspaper from the White House. Klein recalled other Administrations had done so and observed that one of the newspapers which had been prohibited at the White House was the New York Herald-Tribune.

Klein noted that "this newspaper is no longer in existence, but I am not sure what that means."

Klein took the question further and said that he had advised Cabinet members to read newspapers from other than the East Coast. Klein said some people in Washington have the idea that the Washington Post and the New York Times provide all the information a government official needs.

Klein said he has urged members of the Cabinet "to keep in touch with the real world by reading other newspapers."

During the speech Klein said inflation "is the greatest domestic problem we have today." It "hurts the poor more than the rich and those who get hurt most need help most," he said.

He also noted that malnutrition is a worse problem in America than hunger.

Klein said some Americans, despite food-stamp assistance, do not avail themselves of proper diet.

"Some people," he said, "give their children Pepsi Cola and Coca-Cola—because it keeps them from crying—instead of milk.

"The problem is how to educate people better," Klein said.

imposed; and we intend to lift that hidden tax off the backs of an overtaxed people."

MAYO NOTED that even today prices are still rising at the rate of 4½ per cent a year. He called that "much too high."

Nixon and Mayo saw the $4-billion slash, along with a proposed cutback of federal employment, as gestures of sincerity made before Congress.

"We have made a major step in proving to the other side of Pennsylvania Avenue that we are conducting a businesslike administration," said Mayo.

Instead of adding 43,000 persons to the federal payroll — which was provided for in the Johnson budget — employment would be reduced by 5,000, the budget director said.

* * * *

WHILE THE Nixon $192.9-billion budget calls for a cut from that proposed by Johnson, it still represents an $8 billion increase in federal outlays.

Expenses for the current fiscal year which ends June 30, will amount to $184.9 billion, said Mayo.

Johnson's projection for this year's outlays was also off, Mayo noted. The LBJ budget estimated expenditures of $183.7 billion.

Nixon pledged that "this administration will never turn its back upon the growing needs of the American people. That is why domestic spending in the coming year — even after these cuts — will far exceed that for any other year in American history."

FISCAL year 1970, the Nixon proposal for spending for domestic problems is $6.5 billion higher than expenditures for the present fiscal year.

Looking forward to fiscal year 1971 and later, Nixon recommended that Congress not authorize $5.5 billion sought for domestic and defense spending.

The "authority" to spend usually comes a year or more before the "appropriation." Thus, if the $5.5 billion sum — or a large portion of it — isn't authorized, it won't be appropriated later.

Mayo said the cuts in authority are mostly in defense spending, $3.1 billion.

Russian Departs on Kenya's Orders

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Victor Eliseev, first secretary at the Soviet embassy left for home Saturday after being ordered to leave by the Kenya government, diplomatic sources said.

Also ordered to leave was a Pravda correspondent, Mikhail Domogatskh, reliable sources reported.

Russ Asks All-Europe Conference

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a direct challenge to NATO, the Soviet Union proposed Saturday that East and West European states hold a meeting soon to organize a conference on European security.

The NATO council issued a communique Friday in Washington in which it avoided direct reference to Soviet calls for such a security conference and said only that it would "study how a useful process of negotiation (with the Soviet bloc) could be initiated, in due course."

The Soviet news agency Tass attacked NATO's decision in a commentary signed by commentator Vasily Kharkov and said it reflected "a certain camouflage, the striving to avoid in actual fact the answer to this call.

"It is apparent that some circles of this military-political bloc prefer NATO to be an instrument of splitting Europe," he said.

Kharkov said the Warsaw Pact, the Soviet-bloc counterpart of NATO, holds that "a meeting of all European states concerned, held at an earlier date, would be a practical step to the consolidation of European security.

"This meeting could decide in mutual agreement on the procedures of convening the conference and on its agenda", Kharkov said. "It would help create the climate of trust that could help convene an all-European conference and insure its success."

A. The mellow music man and his orchestra are appearing six days a week from 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. at the Top of the Strip nightclub in the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas. Their day off is Wednesday. Morgan's son, Jack, is still with the orchestra, said Lee Fisher, publicity director for the Dunes. He added that Russ Morgan likes to receive fan mail and attempts to answer most of it. You can write him in care of the Dunes Hotel, Las Vegas, Nev. 89109. Morgan's 65th birthday is on April 29, and you may want to send him a card. He was born in Scranton, Pa. and began trombone lessons when he was 16, taking time to practice after working hours in the coal mines near Nanticoke, Pa. He worked his way up in professional bands and did some arranging for Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa and Louis Armstrong. In 1939, he became a leader of his own orchestra, which began playing "music in the Morgan manner."

Medicare

Q. It is my understanding that under the voluntary medical coverage of Medicare, my $4 premium matched by the federal government is paid to Occidental Life Insurance Co. Occidental then pays my medical bills out of the company's insurance funds. My friend says the government pays the medical bills. Who's right? C.R., Seal Beach.

A. Your friend. Various insurance companies throughout the United States have contracts with the federal government to act as fiscal intermediaries for both the hospital and medical insurance portions of Medicare. They receive the Medicare bills, determine whether the charges are reasonable and then pay the charges out of Medicare trust funds, explained Charlotte Crenson, press officer for the Social Security Administration in Baltimore. She added that the companies are reimbursed by the federal government for their administrative expenses, but they make no profit and incur no loss on the arrangement. Occidental Life Insurance is one of these private contractors handling the administration of Medicare.

Ellsworth Is Tagged for NATO Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday nominated one of his White House assistants, Robert F. Ellsworth, a key adviser on European affairs, to be U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels.

Ellsworth, formerly a congressman from Kansas and political director of Nixon's election campaign last fall, will succeed Harlan Cleveland in early June if the Senate confirms the nominations.

Before flying to Camp David, Md., for an overnight stay alone, the President spoke for a half-hour in the White House cabinet room to about 50 university professors attending a day long foreign affairs seminar led by Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser.

Japan Students Riot; One Killed, 78 Hurt

OKAYAMA, Japan (AP) — One policeman was reported killed and 78 others were injured Saturday in a clash with militant students at the state-run Okayama University here.

About 500 riot squad members ran into fierce resistance from Zengakuren students when they entered the campus to investigate reports of student violence against professors at the university.

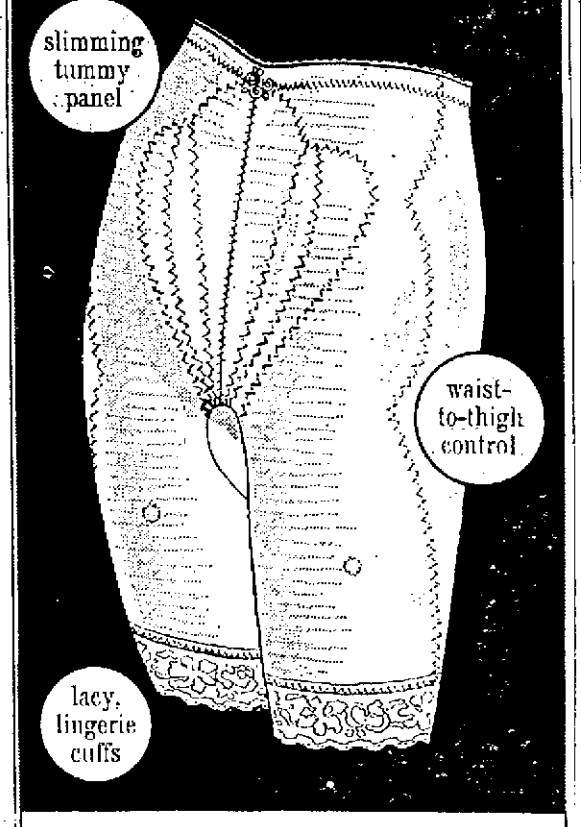

Police said 20 students were given first aid at a university clinic after the clash.

CONFIRMED, DENIED

Soviet Troop Rumors Have Czechs Confused

New York Times Service

PRAGUE — The government announced Saturday — and then denied — that the Soviet Union would send more troops to Czechoslovakia.

This tense country was thrown into a state of nervousness and confusion first by a Prague radio broadcast at 3 p.m. that the troops would be coming and then by a broadcast at 5 p.m. that the earlier government communique had been withdrawn "in view of the changed facts."

What happened in those two hours was the subject of intense speculation. There was no explanation from the government.

Some observers were not ruling out the possibility that the Soviet Union was in fact dispatching more soldiers here to supplement the estimated 70,000 remaining after the Soviet-led invasion in August. They speculated the working or timing of the first announcement had led to its withdrawal.

Others raised the possibility of shifts in signals from Moscow in those two hours. And some observers saw the denial as perhaps more ominous than the original announcement.

This thinking — not based on any solid information — was that the Soviets perhaps had succeeded in those two hours to get a balky party leadership to capitulate to new demands, perhaps including the removal of one or more of the progressive leaders.

One immediate result of an announcement of the arrival of more troops would be to bolster the pro-Moscow forces in the Central Committee who plan to use the latest crisis here and the fear of another Soviet intervention to force changes in the leadership at the committee meeting here on Thursday.

American Ships Hammer 106 Red Supply Caches

SAIGON (UPI)—Communists fired rockets and mortar rounds into about 35 military bases or towns in Vietnam Saturday night and early Sunday in a third night of intensified shelling attacks, military spokesmen said.

The barrages caused generally "light" damage and casualties, the spokesmen said. U.S. communiques reported only light ground fighting in South Vietnam and said Communist forces made no significant ground attacks against Allied forces overnight.

A dozen American warships Saturday knocked out 106 Communist hideouts with salvoes from their station off South Vietnam's coast in the South China Sea, spokesmen said. The drive was aimed at destroying caches supplying the Communists' nationwide offensive.

Among the targets of the new wave of shelling overnight were a province capital near Saigon and a U.S. air base. South Vietnamese spokesmen said three 107mm rockets slammed into Hiau Nghia, a province capital 21 miles northwest of Saigon. There were no casualties, they said.

Rocket and mortar fire also hit the American air base at Phen Rang, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon but caused no damage or casualties, spokesmen said.

Communist troops stepped up their shelling attacks and renewed their seven-week-old offensive Thursday night by hammering about 45 bases and towns. They shelled about 30 locations Friday night.

In the week before the intensified shellings started, they carried out an average of less than 15 shellings a night.

In a delayed report, U.S. spokesmen said American fighter-bombers struck at Communist positions inside the Demilitarized Zone Friday. The strikes were ordered after an aerial observer spotted a Communist automatic weapons position.

Three Americans were killed and nine wounded Saturday when troops of the U.S. 1st Air Calvary Division fought a three-hour battle with Communist forces 45 miles northwest of Saigon, spokesmen said. Three Communist bodies were found on the battlefield, they said.

U.S. B52 bombers flew three missions over South Vietnam Saturday and early Sunday, spokesmen said. They dropped more than 500,000 pounds of bombs on Communist positions within 50 miles of the capital.

MEETING TODAY

Panthers' Letter Not from Cleaver

A spokesman for the Friends of the Black Panthers has dispelled rumors that a letter from controversial Negro militant Eldridge Cleaver might be made public today.

Cleaver, 33, a best-selling author and the Black Panther Party's minister of information, disappeared last Nov. 27.

It has been speculated that Cleaver might have fled the United States to avoid going back to prison after being paroled in 1966 but then judged to have violated that parole by alleged involvement in a gun battle with Oakland police last April 6.

Donald Freed, a spokesman for the Friends of the Panthers, told the Independent, Press-Telegram "an important letter from someone out of the country" will be made public Sunday during a meeting of the organization at Los Angeles Trade Technical College, 400 W. Washington Blvd., at 1:30 p.m.

"But the letter is not from Cleaver," Freed said. "It is a message, however, from someone in much the same situation as Cleaver."

Cleaver, paroled in 1966 after serving a sentence for assault, had maintained innocence of the parole violation charges. He claimed he was the victim of "political persecution" by state authorities because of his involvement with the Panthers and his outspoken stance on racial matters.

Satellite Put Back to Work

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's most complex scientific satellite, a $75-million Stargazer, responded to emergency commands from earth Saturday after coming within three hours of failure from a mysterious electronic ailment.

Engineers at the Satellite Control Center at Greenbelt, Md., quickly ordered the spacecraft to keep its solar panels aimed toward the sun to recharge its near-depleted batteries. They told it to temporarily forget its star-watching experiments.

The 4,400-pound Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, ran into trouble at 8:30 a.m. when it refused to follow routine stabilization commands radioed from a ground station in Chile. It started tumbling out of control and that drained electricity from its batteries.

It was the Stargazer's first serious trouble after four months of highly successful operation.

But at 5 p.m. EST, a tracking station in Australia reported it had received a response from the crippled satellite. OAO then stabilized itself and began soaking up energy from the sun to recharge its batteries.

Laos Hunts Killers of 5 Frenchmen

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Laotian government has ordered the army to capture guerrillas who executed five Frenchmen Thursday, officials announced Saturday.

They said Premier Souvanna Phouma had expressed his personal regrets to the French ambassador, Andre Ross. The French embassy identified the victims as:

Pierre de Forel, 62, chief engineer in the French Mission's technical assistance department; Emile Breton, 42, a construction engineer; Jules Milesi, 42, a teacher; Sgt. Jean Trattwein, 30, a helicopter pilot for the International Control Commission, and Sgt. Jean Bretin, 32, a pilot for the French military mission.

U.S. Attempts to Renew Relations With Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced Saturday a new diplomatic initiative toward paving the way for resumed diplomatic relations with Cambodia, broken nearly four years ago.

The State Department said the Australian ambassador in Phnom Penh, representing U.S. interests in the Indo-China country neighboring South Vietnam, has been instructed to deliver this message to the Cambodian government next Wednesday:

"In conformity with the United Nations charter, the United States of American recognizes and respects the sovereignty, independence, neutrality and territorial integrity of the kingdom of Cambodia within its present frontiers."

Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk, in a Phnom Penh speech earlier in the day, welcomed the U.S. move as "what I have been working toward for a long time."

The Cambodian leader went on to say that now "we have to re-establish diplomatic relations" with the United States.

Sihanouk broke off relations with Washington in May 1965, shortly after American combat forces entered the Vietnam war, alleging intrusions by U.S. forces into Cambodia's territory.

CONFIRMED, DENIED

Soviet Troop Rumors Have Czechs Confused

New York Times Service

PRAGUE — The government announced Saturday — and then denied — that the Soviet Union would send more troops to Czechoslovakia.

This tense country was thrown into a state of nervousness and confusion first by a Prague radio broadcast at 3 p.m. that the troops would be coming and then by a broadcast at 5 p.m. that the earlier government communique had been withdrawn "in view of the changed facts."

What happened in those two hours was the subject of intense speculation. There was no explanation from the government.

Some observers were not ruling out the possibility that the Soviet Union was in fact dispatching more soldiers here to supplement the estimated 70,000 remaining after the Soviet-led invasion in August. They speculated the working or timing of the first announcement had led to its withdrawal.

Others raised the possibility of shifts in signals from Moscow in those two hours. And some observers saw the denial as perhaps more ominous than the original announcement.

This thinking — not based on any solid information — was that the Soviets perhaps had succeeded in those two hours to get a balky party leadership to capitulate to new demands, perhaps including the removal of one or more of the progressive leaders.

One immediate result of an announcement of the arrival of more troops would be to bolster the pro-Moscow forces in the Central Committee who plan to use the latest crisis here and the fear of another Soviet intervention to force changes in the leadership at the committee meeting here on Thursday.

American Ships Hammer 106 Red Supply Caches

SAIGON (UPI)—Communists fired rockets and mortar rounds into about 35 military bases or towns in Vietnam Saturday night and early Sunday in a third night of intensified shelling attacks, military spokesmen said.

The barrages caused generally "light" damage and casualties, the spokesmen said. U.S. communiques reported only light ground fighting in South Vietnam and said Communist forces made no significant ground attacks against Allied forces overnight.

A dozen American warships Saturday knocked out 106 Communist hideouts with salvoes from their station off South Vietnam's coast in the South China Sea, spokesmen said. The drive was aimed at destroying caches supplying the Communists' nationwide offensive.

Among the targets of the new wave of shelling overnight were a province capital near Saigon and a U.S. air base. South Vietnamese spokesmen said three 107mm rockets slammed into Hau Nghia, a province capital 21 miles northwest of Saigon. There were no casualties, they said.

Rocket and mortar fire also hit the American air base at Phen Rang, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon but caused no damage or casualties, spokesmen said.

Communist troops stepped up their shelling attacks and renewed their seven-week-old offensive Thursday night by hammering about 45 bases and towns. They shelled about 30 locations Friday night.

In the week before the intensified shellings started, they carried out an average of less than 15 shellings a night.

In a delayed report, U.S. spokesmen said American fighter-bombers struck at Communist positions inside the Demilitarized Zone Friday. The strikes were ordered after an aerial observer spotted a Communist automatic weapons position.

Three Americans were killed and nine wounded Saturday when troops of the U.S. 1st Air Calvary Division fought a three-hour battle with Communist forces 45 miles northwest of Saigon, spokesmen said. Three Communist bodies were found on the battlefield, they said.

U.S. B52 bombers flew three missions over South Vietnam Saturday and early Sunday, spokesmen said. They dropped more than 500,000 pounds of bombs on Communist positions within 50 miles of the capital.

MEETING TODAY

Panthers' Letter Not from Cleaver

A spokesman for the Friends of the Black Panthers has dispelled rumors that a letter from controversial Negro militant Eldridge Cleaver might be made public today.

Cleaver, 33, a best-selling author and the Black Panther Party's minister of information, disappeared last Nov. 27.

It has been speculated that Cleaver might have fled the United States to avoid going back to prison after being paroled in 1966 but then judged to have violated that parole by alleged involvement in a gun battle with Oakland police last April 6.

Donald Freed, a spokesman for the Friends of the Panthers, told the Independent, Press-Telegram "an important letter from someone out of the country" will be made public Sunday during a meeting of the organization at Los Angeles Trade Technical College, 400 W. Washington Blvd., at 1:30 p.m.

"But the letter is not from Cleaver," Freed said. "It is a message, however, from someone in much the same situation as Cleaver."

Cleaver, paroled in 1966 after serving a sentence for assault, had maintained innocence of the parole violation charges. He claimed he was the victim of "political persecution" by state authorities because of his involvement with the Panthers and his outspoken stance on racial matters.

Satellite Put Back to Work

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's most complex scientific satellite, a $75-million Stargazer, responded to emergency commands from earth Saturday after coming within three hours of failure from a mysterious electronic ailment.

Engineers at the Satellite Control Center at Greenbelt, Md., quickly ordered the spacecraft to keep its solar panels aimed toward the sun to recharge its near-depleted batteries. They told it to temporarily forget its star-watching experiments.

The 4,400-pound Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, ran into trouble at 8:30 a.m. when it refused to follow routine stabilization commands radioed from a ground station in Chile. It started tumbling out of control and that drained electricity from its batteries.

It was the Stargazer's first serious trouble after four months of highly successful operation.

But at 5 p.m. EST, a tracking station in Australia reported it had received a response from the crippled satellite. OAO then stabilized itself and began soaking up energy from the sun to recharge its batteries.

Laos Hunts Killers of 5 Frenchmen

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Laotian government has ordered the army to capture guerrillas who executed five Frenchmen Thursday, officials announced Saturday.

They said Premier Souvanna Phouma had expressed his personal regrets to the French ambassador, Andre Ross. The French embassy identified the victims as:

Pierre de Forel, 62, chief engineer in the French Mission's technical assistance department; Emile Breton, 42, a construction engineer; Jules Milesi, 42, a teacher; Sgt. Jean Trattwein, 30, a helicopter pilot for the International Control Commission, and Sgt. Jean Bretin, 32, a pilot for the French military mission.

U.S. Attempts to Renew Relations With Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced Saturday a new diplomatic initiative toward paving the way for resumed diplomatic relations with Cambodia, broken nearly four years ago.

The State Department said the Australian ambassador in Phnom Penh, representing U.S. interests in the Indo-China country neghboring South Vietnam, has been instructed to deliver this message to the Cambodian government next Wednesday:

"In conformity with the United Nations charter, the United States of American recognizes and respects the sovereignty, independence, neutrality and territorial integrity of the kingdom of Cambodia within its present frontiers."

Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk, in a Phnom Penh speech earlier in the day, welcomed the U.S. move as "what I have been working toward for a long time."

The Cambodian leader went on to say that now "we have to re-establish diplomatic relations" with the United States.

Sihanouk broke off relations with Washington in May 1965, shortly after American combat forces entered the Vietnam war, alleging intrusions by U.S. forces into Cambodia's territory.

PHASE 1 of the St. Mary's Hospital development plan calls for the erection of a 1-story tower to meet the community's health care needs. It will increase the hospital's capacity from 341 to 473 beds.

Actually, the tower will add 230 new beds. But 98 beds located in the 1937 building no longer meet today's standards and must be replaced.

Of the 230 new beds, 60 will be used for intensive care needs. Additionally, the tower will provide for future expansion to accommodate another 100 beds.

Pleads Insanity in Sniper Case

FREMONT (UPI) — A San Francisco man accused of the sniper shooting of two railroad workers has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

Jose F. Trujillo entered the plea in Fremont Municipal Court. He was ordered held in jail in lieu of $40,000 bond.

Police said Trujillo climbed atop a supermarket and fired a single shot through the window of the Southern Pacific office in Fremont.

The bullet struck roadmaster Lawrence Fonseca, 53, passed through him and lodged in Rosenda Guzman, 39. Fonseca is in serious condition and Guzman is in fair condition.

Facts You Should Know About Diamonds

By Joe Stoltz
Lawson's Jewelers
250 Pine Ave.
Downtown Long Beach Only

We have now published five consecutive articles dealing in depth with DIAMOND APPRAISALS. In our Opinion, there is no more confusing, thankless task than to ask a jeweler to appraise a diamond another jeweler sold. The situation itself is an impossible one - you are asking one man to judge whether another man acted fairly with you. Do you do this when you purchase a car - or a house - or clothes? Why then do you do this with jewelry?

Isn't the fairest and most simple thing to do, if you desire an appraisal, to ask the JEWELER WHO SOLD YOU the diamond do the appraisal? We believe so.

Jewelers are well aware of all the problems we have raised in the previous articles - not only the extreme difficulty due to no universal standards of grading but also the key factor - knowing the market, being able to ascertain your fellow jeweler's cost for that diamond.

We must praise the Gemological Institute of America and other organizations for their great efforts in upgrading the caliber of appraisals. In the last 30 years, great advances have been made in appraising through use of new machines and other aids. Also, standards have been set with the emphasis on definitions that will obtain greater objectivity so that the majority can agree as to that standard.

We have tried to show that the problem is that when one deals with terms, people can differ as to the meaning, just as we differ upon the meaning of the Bible. Jewelers are constantly trying to reduce the personal opinion and feelings and obtain greater objectivity.

Unfortunately, the most neglected standard of all is the most crucial - the current market or the cost of the diamond. Surveys are periodically taken but, invariably, are always 6 months or 1 year out-of-date at the moment of publication! A comparable situation is the "Kelley Blue Book" on used cars which we are all familiar with.

If you hve any questions please write or contact us at Lawson's Jewelers, 250 Pine Ave., Downtown Long Beach only. We are now available for guest lectures.

Facts You Should Know About Diamonds

By Joe Stoltz
Lawson's Jewelers

Downtown Long Beach Only

We have now published five consecutive articles dealing in depth with DIAMOND APPRAISALS. In our Opinion, there is no more confusing, thankless task than to ask a jeweler to appraise a diamond another jeweler sold. The situation itself is an impossible one - you are asking one man to judge whether another man acted fairly with you. Do you do this when you purchase a car - or a house - or clothes? Why then do you do this with jewelry?

Isn't the fairest and most simple thing to do, if you desire an appraisal, to ask the JEWELER WHO SOLD YOU the diamond do the appraisal? We believe so.

Jewelers are well aware of all the problems we have raised in the previous articles - not only the extreme difficulty due to no universal standards of grading but also the key factor - knowing the market, being able to ascertain your fellow jeweler's cost for that diamond.

We must praise the Gemological Institute of America and other organizations for their great efforts in upgrading the caliber of appraisals. In the last 30 years, great advances have been made in appraising through use of new machines and other aids. Also, standards have been set with the emphasis on definitions that will obtain greater objectivity so that the majority can agree as to that standard.

We have tried to show that the problem is that when one deals with terms, people can differ as to the meaning, just as we differ upon the meaning of the Bible. Jewelers are constantly trying to reduce the personal opinion and feelings and obtain greater objectivity.

Unfortunately, the most neglected standard of all is the most crucial - the current market or the cost of the diamond. Surveys are periodically taken but, invariably, are always 6 months or 1 year out-of-date at the moment of publication! A comparable situation is the "Kelley Blue Book" on used cars which we are all familiar with.

If you hve any questions please write or contact us at Lawson's Jewelers, 250 Pine Ave., Downtown Long Beach only. We are now available for guest lectures.

SOVIETS ADD FORCE IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviets will move more warships into the Mediterranean in the next few days, Western defense sources said Saturday.

Several Russian destroyers and a cruiser were reported enroute from the Black Sea through the Bosphorus into the Mediterranean, giving the Soviet Union the largest submarine and missile concentration they have ever massed in that sea.

Cruisers, destroyers, submarines and supply vessels have been moving into the Mediterranean in the past 10 days both from the Black Sea and from a Soviet "mystery" fleet in the Atlantic. Already 40 Russian vessels have been counted in the sea, including 14 submarines. At least seven destroyers armed with guided missiles are expected to reinforce the fleet.

The Soviets intend to establish "a permanent presence" in Mediterranean waters, both to strengthen their foothold in the Mideast and to bolster their potential for conflict in the Far East, diplomats and defense experts said.

Taxpayer Mail Floods Congress

By MICHAEL L. POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There's a big black box ticking away in Congress. It's made from cardboard and loaded only with letters. Yet it packs the wallop of dynamite.

The box symbolizes a "tax revolt" brewing in America.

Several times a day, postmen dump hundreds of letters into the box, perched at the entrance of the House Ways and Means Committee. A shapely brunette empties the container, only to find it bursting with letters again at the next delivery.

Some letters are scribbled. Others are typed by secretaries. All have similar messages from angry taxpayers: Do something about the tax system to make it fairer.

Ways and Means Committee taxwriters, who have been investigating loopholes in the tax laws, don't expect another Boston Tea Party.

But, unless something is done, they fear the wrath now being expressed in letters could explode into a widespread breakdown in voluntary compliance with tax laws.

Why are they angry? Both wealthy and middle-income taxpayers claim they pay more than their share of taxes, especially after they read about some millionaires who pay little or no taxes because of loopholes in the laws.

For every letter arriving at the Ways and Means Committee room, there are dozens going to individual senators and House members.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., a House taxwriter, has received dozens of tea bags, symbolizing the Boston Tea Party revolt against British taxes in 1773.

Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., who is not a taxwriter, has mailed teabags himself — to each senator and congressman.

"I've never had more mail on a subject than I've had on tax reform," said Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., a 14-year House veteran.

Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., senior Republican on the panel where all tax bills originate, said they are determined to get tax reform legislation.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE plans to start writing a measure in closed-door sessions some time this spring.

While the thrust of the tax-reform bill would be on closing loopholes which benefit the rich, proposals also have been made to relieve the burden on middle and lower income taxpayers.

Under one proposal, the present 10 per cent standard deduction of up to $1,000 — allowed to people who don't itemize deductions — would be increased to 14 per cent with a maximum deduction of $1,800.

Low-income families would pay no taxes, under some pending proposals for changes in the minimum standard deduction.

The shape of the tax-reform bill will depend in part on proposals yet to be submitted by the Nixon administration. The last major review of the tax laws was in 1954.

Should the present popular view prevail, however, tax revisions would include crackdowns and changes in some of the following areas developed during open hearings:

Tax-exempt foundations. More than 30,000 of these foundations are virtually uncontrolled by the Treasury.

Oil industry taxation. The petroleum industry receives several billion dollars annually in tax advantages, through special depletion allowances and other tax writeoffs.

Charitable contributions. Some wealthy people qualify for unlimited charitable contributions. In some cases, millionaires have donated paintings and buildings and have eliminated taxes entirely.

Hobby farms. Some 2,400 people a year, for example, with nonfarm income of more than $100,000, write off more than $90 million annually from their farm losses.

Estate taxes. Numerous high-income people pass on stock and other property from generation to generation without paying taxes.

Real estate shelters. Special depreciation allowances for apartments and other new buildings allow people high tax writeoffs, called real estate tax shelters.

Investment tax credit. A growing number of congressmen want repeal of the 7 per cent investment tax credit which pumps $3 billion a year into the overheated economy, by allowing industries large discounts through the tax laws on purchases of plant and equipment.

Tax-free bonds. The interest on municipal bonds is not subject to federal taxation. Many high-income people invest millions of dollars and get a tax-free income. Many congressmen have suggested federal subsidies to municipalities to help them float bonds. The subsidy cost would be lower than the lost revenue now.

Army Hashish Counts Dropped

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)— West German legal authorities and the U.S. Army announced they have dropped proceedings against 10 of 11 U.S. soldiers taken into custody last week under suspicion of illegal possession of hashish.

The Army said its investigation "does not establish any offense in violation of U.S. law."

The soldiers, along with three American civilians and two Germans, were taken March 31 in a Nuernberg apartment rented by two Americans.

One of those against whom proceedings were dropped is Sgt. Timothy W. Carryer, 26, Pacific Palisades, Calif.

'THE MAD BOMBER'

Sirhan Psychologist Used These Passages, Verbatim

The relationship of the three was a neighborhood mystery.

For more than thirty years this strange threesome had occupied the ground floor of the Crazy House, and in all that time the neighbors had failed to penetrate the mystery. Neither the middle-aged man nor the thin, gray women ever attempted to make friends in the neighborhood. They kept to themselves. Early afternoons, when the weather was good, the man could sometimes be seen strolling the streets. He was a man of medium height, stocky but not fat, with thin, sandy hair. If you greeted him, he would smile pleasantly and say, "Good afternoon," but he would never stop to chat. He always seemed absorbed in thought. He walked with his hands behind his back, staring at the ground. The kids called him "Mr. Think." The two women were less polite. They would only nod curtly when greeted.

Mr. Think seemed to have no job. Once or twice a month, however, in the early mornings, neighbors would hear a metallic clanging as he opened the door of his small, corrugated-iron garage. He would back out his small, lovingly cleaned, brilliantly waxed black Daimler, carefully close and lock the garage door after him, then drive away, not to return until evening or sometimes midnight. Where did he go? What did he do? The neighbors wondered—and wondered.

I sat in my office in New York City. It was a cold winter day late in 1956. Across from my desk sat Inspector Howard E. Finney, director of the New York Police Department's Crime Laboratory. The photographs and letters were the only clues Inspector Finney had to the idnetity of a mysterious and dangerous man called the Mad Bomber. For sixteen years, starting in 1940, this ghostly figure had been detonating homemade bombs in public places around the city. At first, the bombs had been small, and the city had paid scant attention to them. But he had gradually increased their size and power, and now the city was terrified. He had made at least thirty bombs in his strange career. Some had failed to explode, and the police had examined these and photographed them. Occasionally, the Mad Bomber had written letters to the police, newspapers, and others. The bombs and the letters: these were all the police had. The rest was mystery.

He had planted his first bomb on November 16, 1940. It wasn't a well-made bomb. It didn't explode. Workers at the Consolidated Edison Company's building on West Sixty fourth Street, Manhattan, found it on a windowsill, in a tool-box. It was made of a short length of brass pipe, stuffed with gunpowder that the police Bomb Squad believed had been taken from rifle bullets. There were no fingerprints on it. Wrapped around it was a note: "Con Edison crooks, this is for you."

The police were curious about this note. If the bomb had exploded, the note would have been destroyed. Had the bomb-maker intended it to be destroyed? Had he written it only to satisfy some compulsion in himself, knowing that the "Con Edison crooks" would never read it? Or was he so far out of touch with reality that his had never occurred to him? Or—a third possibility—had he deliberately planned that the bomb be a dud? Had he intended only to scare Con Edison with it?

The police guessed that the bomb-maker had some kind of grudge against the company. He was angry over some real or imagined injustice. But the task of guessing who he might be seemed almost impossible. Checking the company's personnel files, the police found hundreds of cases in which employees had recently been discharged, refused pay raises, or treated in some other way that could have caused anger. There were also hundreds of recent arguments with customers about bills, power failures, and other matters.

In September, 1941 second unexploded bomb was found on Nineteenth Street near Fourth Avenue, five blocks from Consolidated Edison's headquarters on Irving Place and Fourteenth Street. It was lying in the street, stuffed inside a man's woolen sock. There was no note with it this time, but the Bomb Squad recognized it as similar to the Con Ed bomb of a year before. Its alarm-clock trigger was not wound. The police theorized that the bomb-maker had been on his way to set the bomb in or near Con Ed's headquarters but for some reason had been scared off. Perhaps he had seen a patrolman, and this had worried him. At any rate, he had dropped the bomb in the street without setting the fuse.

Three months later, the United States was at war. Shortly afterward, a cryptic letter mailed from suburban Westchester County, north of the city, arrived at police headquarters in downtown Manhattan. It was printed in block capitals. It said: "I WILL MAKE NO MORE BOMB UNITS FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR—MY PATRIOTIC FEELINGS HAVE MADE MADE ME DECIDE THIS —I. A T E R I W I L L BRING THE CON EDISON TO JUSTICE—THEY WILL PAY FOR THEIR DASTARDLY DEEDS . . F.P."

The letter was printed in ink on a sheet of plain white typewriter paper. In later years the police would become familiar with the neat hand-printing, the peculiar style of ending sentences with dashes instead of periods, the recurring phrase "dastradly deeds," and the mysterious initials, F.P.

Between 1941 and 1946, at least sixteen other letters signed "F.P." were received by Con Ed, The New York Times, and various Manhattan theaters, department stores, and hotels. Then, for the next four years, nothing further was heard from "F.P."

Then, on March 29, 1950, a third unexploded bomb turned up on the lower level of New York's Grand Central Railroad Station.

Shortly before Christmas, 1950, the New York Herald Tribune received a cryptic letter. It was printed in block capitals, in ink, on white paper.

The police were deliberately trying to play down all news of the bomber's activities. But the bomb-maker was getting more skillful. Of his first eight "units," as he called them, only two had worked. His next four, in 1951 and 1952, all worked. One exploded in a subway locker, one in a phone booth, and two under seats in movie theaters. The explosions were more powerful than the previous ones.

He set four more bombs in 1953, and all of them worked. He set four in 1954. One of them exploding under a seat in Radio City Music Hall, seemed to be about twice as big as anything the Mad Bomber had built before. The thundering detonation sent shrapnel and upholstery spraying through the screaming audience. Four people were hurt, two of them seriously.

In the audience that evening at the Music Hall was the strange, lonely man the kids called Mr. Think.

In 1955, the Mad Bomber stepped up his pace. He set six bombs. Two, unexploded, were found in what was evidently his favorite location: stuffed through slits in the undersides of theater seats. They were larger than previous bombs. Another exploded in Grand Central, nearly killing a redcap.

He appears to feel more and more strongly that the world in general has done him wrong.

What kind of man would harbor such a belief? I was forced to a conclusion: the Mad Bomber was suffering from paranoia.

Paranoia, to define it in textbook language, is a chronic disorder of insidious development, characterized by persistent, unalterable, systematized, logically constructed delusions.

(Dr. Martin M. Schorr, San Diego clinical psychologist, in his diagnosis of Sirhan Sirhan: "The paranoid mechanism is a chronic disorder of slow insidious development, characterized by persistent, unalterable, highly systematized, logically constructed delusions.")

The disorder slowly but steadily grows worse. He had aimed that first bomb directly and explicitly at Con Edison.

Ten years later, his delusion had broadened, but not fundamentally changed, to include, apparently, all the people of New York.

(Dr. Schorr in Sirhan diagnosis: "Ten years later, Sirhan's delusional system of persecutory ideas had broadened now, but not basically changed, from that of the father, the persecutor, to include apparently all the Jewish people living in the new state of Israel.")

The paranoiac is the world's champion grudge holder. We all get mad at other people and organizations sometimes, but with most of us the anger evaporates eventually. The paranoiac's anger doesn't. Once he gets the idea that somebody has wronged him or is out to hurt him, the idea stays in his mind.

(Dr. Schorr in Sirhan diagnosis: "The Paranoids are champion grudge holders. Most people when they get mad at other people work out their anger so that there is eventual dissolving of the initial anger. In the case of the paranoid, this does not occur. Once the idea becomes fixed that somebody has wronged him, or is out to hurt him, the idea lingers in his mind like an eternal flame."

(Dr. Schorr, during cross-examination, admitted his diagnosis of Sirhan was made with the book by Dr. Brussel "in front of me.")

MONDAY: Dr. Brussel, with the scant method-of-operation knowledge available, gives police a mental picture of the Mad Bomber and describes the area where he lives.

Sirhan Sees Only 2 Years in Prison

many of them feel the way he does.

"The Arab newspapers, too, are adding credence to this . . . Posters with his picture have been circulated all over the Middle East. They proclaim him the 'leader of the Arab guerrillas.'

"I'll really be a political prisoner," Sirhan is quoted as saying. "They'll either want to swap me for an American agent—or the Arabs will make some political compromise with the United States and will ask for me in return."

THE VERY presence of Issa Nakleh, the leader of the Palestinian Arab delegation to the United Nations, at the trial of the young Jordanian strengthens the possibility, the unidentified source claims.

It has been a point, pounded home by the defense in the 14-week-old murder trial of Sirhan, that he has claimed he was "right" in killing Kennedy and would serve "only two years, if that" if convicted. The two years, defense attorneys have claimed, is not "mature" thinking.

If it's not mature, the defense source claims, there are thousands of letter writers and Arab newspaper editors and reporters who are childish. They feel the same way.

German Reds Meet

ESSEN, Germany (UPI) — The West German Communist Party opened its first national congress in Essen Saturday with 800 delegates in attendance. The former Communist Party in West Germany was outlawed for openly advocating the violent overthrow of the government. The new party has declared its loyalty to the German constitution.

San Diego High Students Walk Out

SAN DIEGO (AP) — More than 1,000 of the 1,100 students at Lincoln High School walked out of classes Friday and presented a list of 22 demands on Principal Henry Lawrence.

The demands included day-time class credit for studies about Negro and Mexican-American heritage, better food and less strict dress codes.

More Wheat Held on Support Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers had 353.1 million bushels of 1968-crop wheat held off the market under government price support loans at the end of March.

The total was well above the level of 179.3 million bushels under loan on the same date a year earlier, according to the Agriculture Department.

Arab Posters Praise Sirhan as 'Guerrilla Not Murderer'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, confessed assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is being portrayed as a patriot and hero in the Arab world.

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) has issued posters of Sirhan, declaring "Zionism" was the real culprit in Kennedy's death. The posters, in Arabic and English, carry a picture of Sirhan and a rifle-toting commando fighter on a red and white background.

"Sirhan Bishara Sirhan . . . a guerrilla and not a murderer," the legend proclaims. Thousands of such posters have been distributed in the Mideast and abroad.

"Kennedy is dead and Sirhan is in jail. Zionism, the real culprit, is free," another poster declares.

Sirhan's trial has been given wide coverage in the Arab press but very little editorial opinion has been expressed. Although the PLO posters assert Sirhan served the Palestinian cause, no claims have been made that he actually was a member of any guerrilla organization.

'THE MAD BOMBER'

The relationship of the three was a neighborhood mystery.

For more than thirty years this strange threesome had occupied the ground floor of the Crazy House, and in all that time the neighbors had failed to penetrate the mystery. Neither the middle-aged man nor the thin, gray women ever attempted to make friends in the neighborhood. They kept to themselves. Early afternoons, when the weather was good, the man could sometimes be seen strolling the streets. He was a man of medium height, stocky but not fat, with thin, sandy hair. If you greeted him, he would smile pleasantly and say, "Good afternoon," but he would never stop to chat. He always seemed absorbed in thought. He walked with his hands behind his back, staring at the ground. The kids called him "Mr. Think." The two women were less polite. They would only nod curtly when greeted.

Mr. Think seemed to have no job. Once or twice a month, however, in the early mornings, neighbors would hear a metallic clanging as he opened the door of his small, corrugated-iron garage. He would back out his small, lovingly cleaned, brilliantly waxed black Daimler, carefully close and lock the garage door after him, then drive away, not to return until evening or sometimes midnight. Where did he go? What did he do? The neighbors wondered—and wondered.

I sat in my office in New York City. It was a cold winter day late in 1956. Across from my desk sat Inspector Howard E. Finney, director of the New York Police Department's Crime Laboratory. The photographs and letters were the only clues Inspector Finney had to the idnetity of a mysterious and dangerous man called the Mad Bomber. For sixteen years, starting in 1940, this ghostly figure had been detonating homemade bombs in public places around the city. At first, the bombs had been small, and the city had paid scant attention to them. But he had gradually increased their size and power, and now the city was terrified. He had made at least thirty bombs in his strange career. Some had failed to explode, and the police had examined these and photographed them. Occasionally, the Mad Bomber had written letters to the police, newspapers, and others. The bombs and the letters: these were all the police had. The rest was mystery.

He had planted his first bomb on November 16, 1940. It wasn't a well-made bomb. It didn't explode. Workers at the Consolidated Edison Company's building on West Sixty fourth Street, Manhattan, found it on a windowsill, in a tool-box. It was made of a short length of brass pipe, stuffed with gunpowder that the police Bomb Squad believed had been taken from rifle bullets. There were no fingerprints on it. Wrapped around it was a note: "Con Edison crooks, this is for you."

The police were curious about this note. If the bomb had exploded, the note would have been destroyed. Had the bomb-maker intended it to be destroyed? Had he written it only to satisfy some compulsion in himself, knowing that the "Con Edison crooks" would never read it? Or was he so far out of touch with reality that his had never occurred to him? Or—a third possibility—had he deliberately planned that the bomb be a dud? Had he intended only to scare Con Edison with it?

The police guessed that the bomb-maker had some kind of grudge against the company. He was angry over some real or imagined injustice. But the task of guessing who he might be seemed almost impossible. Checking the company's personnel files, the police found hundreds of cases in which employees had recently been discharged, refused pay raises, or treated in some other way that could have caused anger. There were also hundreds of recent arguments with customers about bills, power failures, and other matters.

James A. Brussel, M.D.

Introduction by Gerold Frank

- The Mad Bomber
- The Hylie Murders
- The Boston Strangler
- The Coppolino Case
- And other adventures from the files of America's psychiatric Sherlock Holmes

COVER of widely sold casebook from which passages were taken and used in the Sirhan murder trial.

In September, 1941 second unexploded bomb was found on Nineteenth Street near Fourth Avenue, five blocks from Consolidated Edison's headquarters on Irving Place and Fourteenth Street. It was lying in the street, stuffed inside a man's woolen sock. There was no note with it this time, but the Bomb Squad recognized it as similar to the Con Ed bomb of a year before. Its alarm-clock trigger was not wound. The police theorized that the bomb-maker had been on his way to set the bomb in or near Con Ed's headquarters but for sume reason had been scared off. Perhaps he had seen a patrolman, and this had worried him. At any rate, he had dropped the bomb in the street without setting the fuse.

Three months later, the United States was at war. Shortly afterward, a cryptic letter mailed from suburban Westchester County, north of the city, arrived at police headquarters in downtown Manhattan. It was printed in block capitals. It said: "I WILL MAKE NO MORE BOMB UNITS FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR—MY PATRIOTIC FEELINGS HAVE MADE MADE ME DECIDE THIS —LATER I WILL BRING THE CON EDISON TO JUSTICE—THEY WILL PAY FOR THEIR DASTARDLY DEEDS . . F.P."

The letter was printed in ink on a sheet of plain white typewriter paper. In later years the police would become familiar with the neat hand-printing, the peculiar style of ending sentences with dashes instead of periods, the recurring phrase "dastradly deeds," and the mysterious initials, F.P.

Between 1941 and 1946, at least sixteen other letters signed "F.P." were received by Con Ed, The New York Times, and various Manhattan theaters, department stores, and hotels. Then, for the next four years, nothing further was heard from "F.P."

Then, on March 29, 1950, a third unexploded bomb turned up on the lower level of New York's Grand Central Railroad Station.

Shortly before Christmas, 1950, the New York Herald Tribune received a cryptic letter. It was printed in block capitals, in ink, on white paper.

The police were deliberately trying to play down all news of the bomber's activities. But the bomb-maker was getting more skillful. Of his first eight "units," as he called them, only two had worked. His next four, in 1951 and 1952, all worked. One exploded in a subway locker, one in a phone booth, and two under seats in movie theaters. The explosions were more powerful than the previous ones.

He set four more bombs in 1953, and all of them worked. He set four in 1954. One of them exploding under a seat in Radio City Music Hall, seemed to be about twice as big as anything the Mad Bomber had built before. The thundering detonation sent shrapnel and upholstery spraying through the screaming audience. Four people were hurt, two of them seriously.

In the audience that evening at the Music Hall was the strange, lonely man the kids called Mr. Think.

In 1955, the Mad Bomber stepped up his pace. He set six bombs. Two, unexploded, were found in what was evidently his favorite location: stuffed through slits in the undersides of theater seats. They were larger than previous bombs. Another exploded in Grand Central, nearly killing a redcap.

He appears to feel more and more strongly that the world in general has done him wrong.

What kind of man would harbor such a belief? I was forced to a conclusion: the Mad Bomber was suffering from paranoia.

Paranoia, to define it in textbook language, is a chronic disorder of insidious development, characterized by persistent, unalterable, systematized, logically constructed delusions.

(Dr. Martin M. Schorr, San Diego clinical psychologist, in his diagnosis of Sirhan Sirhan: "The paranoid mechanism is a chronic disorder of slow insidious development, characterized by persistent, unalterable, highly systematized, logically constructed delusions.")

The disorder slowly but steadily grows worse. He had aimed that first bomb directly and explicitly at Con Edison.

Ten years later, his delusion had broadened, but not fundamentally changed, to include, apparently, all the people of New York.

(Dr. Schorr in Sirhan diagnosis: "Ten years later, Sirhan's delusional system of persecutory ideas had broadened now, but not basically changed, from that of the father, the persecutor, to include apparently all the Jewish people living in the new state of Israel.")

The paranoiac is the world's champion grudge holder. We all get mad at other people and organizations sometimes, but with most of us the anger evaporates eventually. The paranoiac's anger doesn't. Once he gets the idea that somebody has wronged him or is out to hurt him, the idea stays in his mind.

(Dr. Schorr in Sirhan diagnosis: "The Paranoids are champion grudge holders. Most people when they get mad at other people work out their anger so that there is eventual dissolving of the initial anger. In the case of the paranoid, this does not occur. Once the idea becomes fixed that somebody has wronged him, or is out to hurt him, the idea lingers in his mind like an eternal flame."

(Dr. Schorr, during cross-examination, admitted his diagnosis of Sirhan was made with the book by Dr. Brussel "in front of me.")

MONDAY: Dr. Brussel, with the scant method-of-operation knoweldge available, gives police a mental picture of the Mad Bomber and describes the area where he lives.

many of them feel the way he does.

"The Arab newspapers, too, are adding credence to this . . . Posters with his picture have been circulated all over the Middle East. They proclaim him the 'leader of the Arab guerrillas.'

"I'll really be a political prisoner," Sirhan is quoted as saying. "They'll either want to swap me for an American agent—or the Arabs will make some political compromise with the United States and will ask for me in return."

* * * *

THE VERY presence of Issa Nakleh, the leader of the Palestinian Arab delegation to the United Nations, at the trial of the young Jordanian strengthens the possibility, the unidentified source claims.

It has been a point, pounded home by the defense in the 14-week-old murder trial of Sirhan, that he has claimed he was "right" in killing Kennedy and would serve "only two years, if that" if convicted. The two years, defense attorneys have claimed, is not "mature" thinking.

If it's not mature, the defense source claims, there are thousands of letter writers and Arab newspaper editors and reporters who are childish. They feel the same way.

German Reds Meet

ESSEN, Germany (UPI) — The West German Communist Party opened its first national congress in Essen Saturday with 800 delegates in attendance. The former Communist Party in West Germany was outlawed for openly advocating the violent overthrow of the government. The new party has declared its loyalty to the German constitution.

San Diego High Students Walk Out

SAN DIEGO (AP) — More than 1,000 of the 1,100 students at Lincoln High School walked out of classes Friday and presented a list of 22 demands on Principal Henry Lawrence.

The demands included day-time class credit for studies about Negro and Mexican-American heritage, better food and less strict dress codes.

More Wheat Held on Support Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers had 353.1 million bushels of 1968-crop wheat held off the market under government price support loans at the end of March.

The total was well above the level of 179.3 million bushels under loan on the same date a year earlier, according to the Agriculture Department.

Arab Posters Praise Sirhan as 'Guerrilla Not Murderer'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, confessed assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is being portrayed as a patriot and hero in the Arab world.

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) has issued posters of Sirhan, declaring "Zionism" was the real culprit in Kennedy's death. The posters, in Arabic and English, carry a picture of Sirhan and a rifle-toting commando fighter on a red and white background.

"Sirhan Bishara Sirhan . . . a guerrilla and not a murderer," the legend proclaims. Thousands of such posters have been distributed in the Mideast and abroad.

"Kennedy is dead and Sirhan is in jail. Zionism, the real culprit, is free," another poster declares.

Sirhan's trial has been given wide coverage in the Arab press but very little editorial opinion has been expressed. Although the PLO posters assert Sirhan served the Palestinian cause, no claims have been made that he actually was a member of any guerrilla organization.

Harvard Faculty Vows Probe of Police Use in Ending Sit-in CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Students cheered Saturday as Harvard faculty members promised to investigate student demands and the administration's use of police to expel student demonstrators from University Hall Thursday.

"The faculty decision to appoint its own committee to investigate is of extreme importance," Prof. Stanley R. Hoffman told a gathering in Harvard Yard of several hundred students, most of them apparently not members of the group that seized the hall Wednesday.

"It means the faculty has decided to take important events into its own hands," Hoffman added, followed by a burst of applause.

HOFFMAN, a noted war historian, said the students must join with the faculty for unity and that the faculty investigation will take time.

Several students hissed, but Hoffman was applauded when he responded: "The only things that do not take time are hissing and making demands which will never be fulfilled."

The faculty decision to investigate was made Friday night at a session at which faculty members also voted 396 to 13 to drop criminal trespass charges against nearly 200 students expelled from the hall by club-swinging police. The faculty is the ultimate authority in matters of discipline at Harvard.

The gathering Saturday in Harvard Yard was largely for faculty and students to discuss what led to the demonstration and what course to follow. Other meetings between faculty and students took place in campus buildings.

ATTENDANCE at classes has declined somewhat since the students for a Democratic Society called on the 15,000-member student body to boycott classes through Monday to protest police action in removing the demonstrators.

SDS also led the takeover of the hall, demanding an end to ROTC on campus, lower rents in Harvard-owned buildings and an end to tearing down existing housing in Boston for planned medical school expansion.

Faculty members have indicated some sympathy for the demands, but objected to methods used by the demonstrators.

Hoffman told students Saturday not to expect the faculty to take lightly the methods used to take over the hall. "There must be some rules of procedure," he said.

Prof. George Wald, Nobel laureate in biology, said the faculty was told Friday that SDS demands were irrelevant, "but I'm finding out they were not." He added that he has learned 182 apartments would be torn down for the teaching complex.

Stanford Students Will Not Budge Till Demands Met

STANFORD (UPI) — A student occupying force said Saturday they would stay camped in Stanford University's applied electronics laboratory until school officials end military-related research.

The demonstrators, whose ranks at times ebbed to 60, entered the building Wednesday. So far, there have been no indications Stanford president Kenneth S. Pitzer intends to order the dissidents ejected.

Up to 600 anti-war demonstrators surged into the building originally to call for an end to what they said was $2 million of war-related research conducted on campus, most of it by the Stanford Research Institute, a university affiliate.

* * * *

THE SIT-INS drafted a letter Friday to Pitzer and the Academic Senate asking that SRI be barred from classified work, war-related research and counter-insurgency studies.

In addition, the demonstrators demanded a special meeting of university trustees on Monday, although none is scheduled, and demanded a Tuesday meeting of the Academic Senate.

"We'll stay right here until the trustees stop ignoring us," said Joe Litven, a graduate student from Oak Park, Mich. "We are going to be heard."

Pitzer has asked the dissidents to "join the faculty and me on working through peaceful channels to resolve the issues which so concern us."

"The longer the disruption of university activities continues, the more serious will the case become," Pitzer said. "You, in your cause, are infringing on the rights of others."

Although the sit-in has been free from violence and property damage, demonstrators made so much noise it was impossible for faculty members to use offices and laboratories.

"We have decided we are stopping work here," said Benton Cook, a freshman no longer enrolled at the school.

Arrest Triggers Attack on Police

SAN FERNANDO (UPI) — The arrest of one youth early Saturday triggered a violent disturbance in which about 200 others attacked seven police officers and tried to storm the police station.

One police officer suffered minor head injuries and 12 youths were booked on charges of disturbing the peace, interfering with a police officer and failure to disperse.

Sgt. W. F. Trachsel said he and six other officers tried to break up a fight at a service station in a predominantly Mexican-American neighborhood where the youths were gathered.

* * * *

TRACHSEL SAID the youths, mostly from 17 to 22 years old, began to throw bottles and cans and attack the officers bodily when they arrested one boy for disturbing the peace. The seven policemen used 15 cans of mace to repel the attacking youths for 35 minutes until police reinforcements arrived.

One participant in the fight was in critical condition Saturday at Holy Cross Hospital. Attendants said David Oliveros, 20, San Fernando, suffered two deep knife wounds.

Eight young men were arrested at the service station.

* * * *

"AFTER THE violence at the service station about fifty kids put the police station under siege attempting to free their friends," Trachsel said.

Three windows were broken at the station as police armed with shotguns routed the youths with mace and clubs. Four youths were arrested when they tried to storm the brick building.

Trachsel said most of the group, including girls, had been drinking and several "just went berserk."

"It was the worst incident of group violence I've seen in seven years on the force . . . they just went wild," Trachsel said.

Orange Boy Falls on Spear

A 10-year-old boy was in serious condition at Children's Hospital in the city of Orange Saturday after he veered off a race course while running a relay and fell onto two javelins left sticking in the grass.

Doctors said Bartholomew Genovese of Orange was impaled on a javelin which punctured his stomach, kidney and penetrated his back.

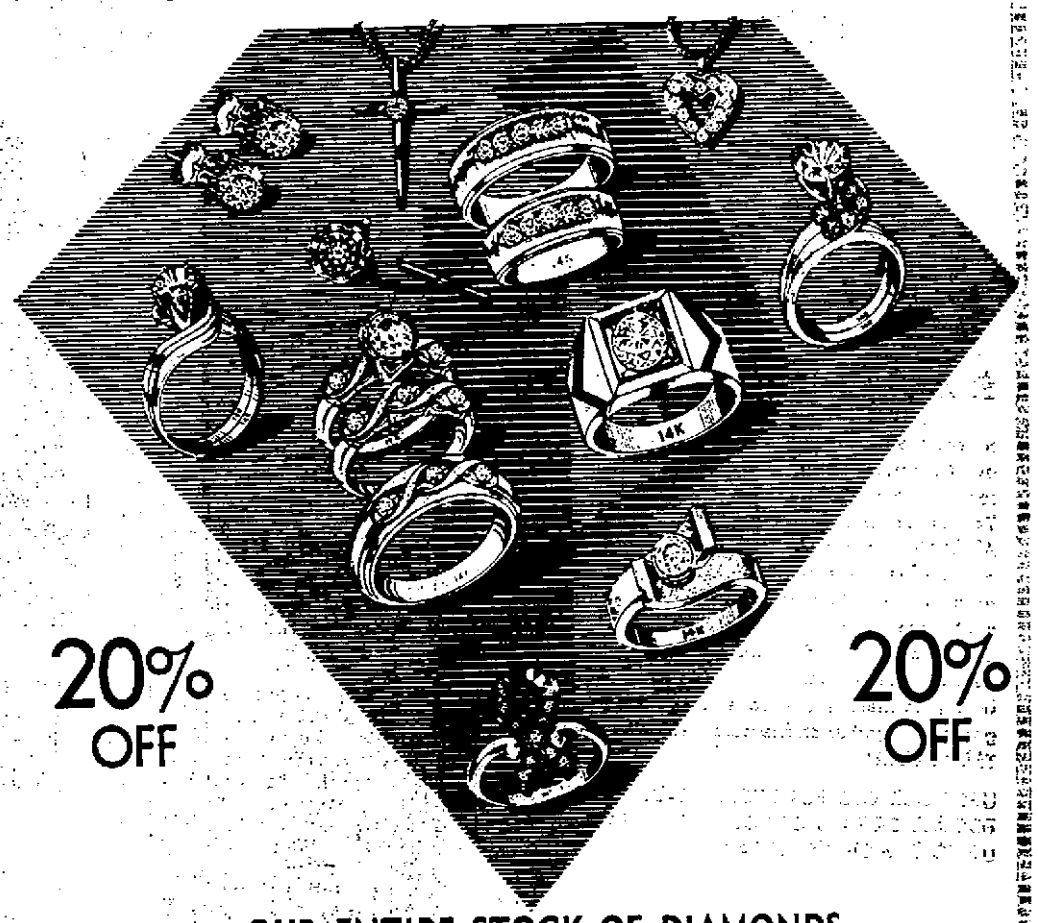

After a 1¼ hour operation, doctors said his condition remained serious but prognosis was good.

The accident occurred at a Roman Catholic youth organization track meet at Santa Ana Junior College.

Orange Boy Falls on Spear

A 10-year-old boy was in serious condition at Children's Hospital in the city of Orange Saturday after he veered off a race course while running a relay and fell onto two javelins left sticking in the grass.

Doctors said Bartholomew Genovese of Orange was impaled on a javelin which punctured his stomach, kidney and penetrated his back.

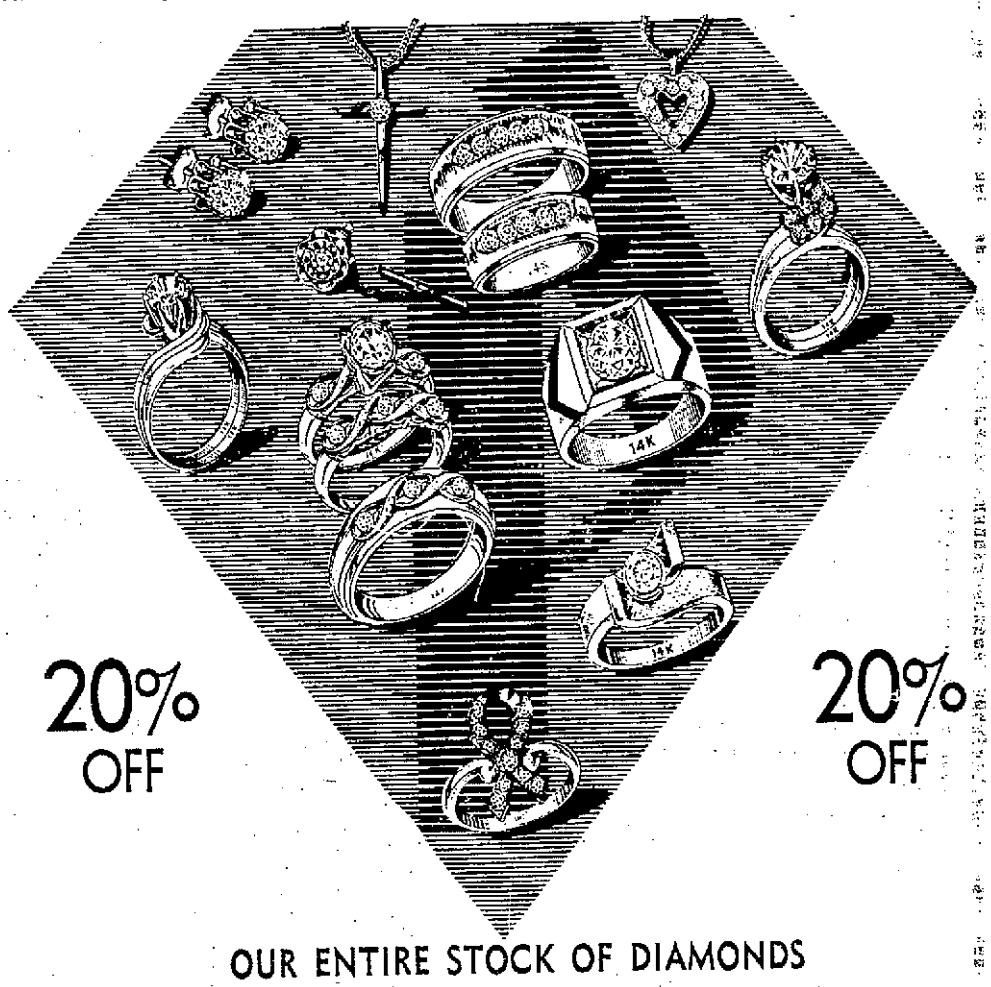

After a 1¼ hour operation, doctors said his condition remained serious but prognosis was good.

The accident occurred at a Roman Catholic youth organization track meet at Santa Ana Junior College.

Navy Rejects Airline Bid

Requests by Air West and Air California for temporary use of the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station while repairs are being made at their Orange County Airport facilities have been turned down by Navy Department officials in Washington, it was learned Saturday.

The airlines made their request about three weeks ago, a Los Alamitos spokesman said

Navy officials, in turning down the requests, said joint military-commercial use of Los Alamitos, the largest Naval air reserve facility in the nation, would lead to safety hazards because of present heavy flight operations at the base.

Forty-six Navy and Marine squadrons are headquartered at Los Alamitos.

Fictional Destruction of California on TV Ignites Panic in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Newspaper switchboards rattled with calls Friday night from worried television viewers seeking reassurance that California was still with us.

A one-hour local telecast by WLS-TV of a fictional account of California's destruction by an earthquake touched off the panicky calls.

Ronnie Barratt, host of a midnight talk show, and two other men spoke of "California's Demise in 1969," and one of them, Curt Gentry read portions of his book, "The Last Days of the Late Great State of California."

The book is built on the premise that it is 1971 and the author is looking back to April 1969 when California was destroyed and the changes that have occurred in the United States as a result.

"We expected some reaction, but not that much," he said.

"One woman called up and berated us for 'irresponsible broadcasting'," he said.

"I don't know how it could be called that, since we went to great pains to show it was only an imaginary account. At each segment of the show, it was explained that Gentry was reading from his own book, a purely fictional volume," he said.

"I say it was irresponsible viewing," he said.

The flood of calls recalled the wave of hysteria that swept the country in 1938 after Orson Welles' radio broadcast "War of the Worlds."

Indo Reds Released

JAKARTA (UPI) — The government released 130 Communist prisoners after they signed oaths pledging loyalty to Indonesia's constitution, it was announced Saturday. About 24,000 Communists still are in prison for their part in the abortive coup of 1965.

'Hair' Pair Fired by Producer

Ordered Out of Theater for Ad Libbing

NEW YORK (AP)—The producer of the hit musical "Hair" has fired two of the stars, who happen to be the two who wrote the script.

The author-actors, James Rado, 29, and Gerome Ragni, 26, were ordered out of the theater Thursday and Friday and were told producer Michael Butler had fired them for improvising too much.

RADO, standing in front of the theater Friday, commented: "The management turns out to be our enemy. That's the very thing we're writing about."

Ragni added: "I wish it would close. It doesn't belong here."

The shaggy-haired pair returned to the cast this week after spending five months with the Los Angeles company. They denied they had been departing from the script and said they would delete any material the management considered objectionable.

Tuesday Deadline For Tax Returns

The only thing surer than death and taxes is the "Ides of April" when those taxes must be paid, and that annual day of mourning — April 15 — will be upon us Tuesday.

F. S. Schmidt, local Internal Revenue Service district director, is urging last-minute filers to be sure their returns are accurate and complete since errors delay processing and issuance of any refunds due.

Deadline for filing tax returns with federal and state governments is midnight Tuesday, after which penalties can be levied.

Arraign Black Panthers in Munition Conspiracy

CHICAGO (UPI)—Four men, reportedly members of the Black Panther party, were arraigned Saturday on charges of conspiring to purchase two submachine guns, 25 hand grenades and an automatic pistol.

They were arrested Friday night by agents of the alcohol tax and firearms unit of the federal government and Chicago detectives and uniformed police.

Nathaniel Junior, 27, described as a "field marshal for the Panthers," and William McClinton, 22, were arrested in an Illinois Central Railroad station while allegedly guarding a locker in which money for the weapons was stored.

Merrill Harvey, 22, and Michael White, 23, were seized by police and agents armed with floodlights and a helicopter after accepting the automatic weapons, police reported.

L.A. International Bracing For Jumbo Jets

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Satellite terminals at Los Angeles International Airport are bursting at the seams as airlines prepare for the first stage of operations with the new generation of jumbo jets early next year.

Construction is under way on new boarding gates and supporting service facilities to accommodate the coming Boeing 747s, McDonnell Douglas DC-10s and Lockheed L-1011s with passenger loads more than double the capacity of current jetliners.

But the alteration of existing facilities by the airlines is only a precursor of a gigantic expansion program outlined by the Los Angeles Depatment of Airports for the next 10 years.

The long-range plan calls for a $400-million investment to double the present facilities at Los Angeles and to develop new ones at Ontario and the proposed superport at Palmdale. These are aimed at handling a combined passenger flow of up to 160 million annually, eight times the present traffic load.

* * * *

BUT EVEN this fantastic effort will not be sufficient to cope with Southern California's estimated potential of 250 million passengers a year by 1958, according to Clifton A. Moore, general manger of Los Angeles airports.

Serving this demand will require the full utilization of all the airports in the area, including Long Beach, Orange County, Hollywood - Burbank and Riverside, Moore declared.

He reminded critics of airport development that municipalities do not have full jurisdiction over facilities which have received federal and state subsidies for airline and public use.

"We don't have control over certain things, and everyone should be made aware of them," Moore said. "We can't control the certification of airlines into an airport and we can't control the use of the airways, glideslopes and departure corridors.

"We can't tell the manufacturers what kind of aircraft they can build and we can't control the federal and state aid programs to airports and airways."

* * * *

MOORE SAID the timetable for planned improvements at Los Angeles International is based on a policy of meeting aviation demands "within reasonable limits of growth and financial resources."

The first increments provides for two new terminal complexes, each larger than anything now on the airport, and both to be completed in 1972.

Satellite No. 1, sketched in on the original airport plans more than 10 years ago but never built, will be located on the north side of the airport entrance and will give United Air Lines more elbow room than it now has in the two terminals it occupies exclusively.

NEW FACILITIES WILL HELP HANDLE EIGHT TIMES PRESENT TRAFFIC LOAD

United's move to new quarters will allow a reshuffling of leases in the existing seven terminals, with some expansion of facilities for all the airlines.

The West Terminal, a huge structure to be built across the unoccupied end of the World Way loop serving all the satellites, will contain more area under roof than all of the present terminals combined. Assignment of space in the new facility to American, Continental, Pan American World and Trans World Airlines will further relieve the pressure in the existing terminals.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, the jumbo jets are on the way, and individual airlines are pushing out the walls to provide interim facilities for their 300-plus passenger loads.

Construction of finger piers and additional passenger staging areas is under way at Satellites 3 and 4, where TWA and American are racing to be first with the new facilities.

Pan Am, which has scheduled the first 747 service from Los Angeles for January, is quietly shaping things to come in its own area, and United is immersed in expansion plans for Satellite 7, the larger of its two present terminals.

TWA is changing the rounded face of Satellite 3 with rectangular projections at either end. The $2 million interim expansion includes dual jetway boarding ramps at each 747 dock and supporting improvements in service areas.

American Airlines' three-gate expansion for the 1970-72 period will swallow up one end of Satellite 4 with a structure containing new restaurants and support services. The three 747 gates will be developed in stages, with the first scheduled for completion in December. Two of the gates will be adapted for DC-10 service requirements.

CONTINENTAL Air Lines plans a third-level passenger hall in Satellite 6, with an above-ground link between the terminal and the ticketing building on the street in addition to the present tunnel connection to provide separation of incoming and outgoing passengers.

Western, National and Delta, all with larger jet equipment on order, expect to make do with present facilities until new space becomes available. Foreign carriers serving Los Angeles also are following this plan.

Regional and commuter airlines now sharing terminals with the trunk carriers eventually will be provided a separate facility on the south side of the airport. Industrial property under consideration for this expansion will not be available until 1974, but an interim terminal for commuter and supplemental airlines and Pan Am freight operations is scheduled for 1972.

The two terminal complexes will be linked by an automated underground transit system with possible connections to perimeter parking lots. The central parking area is presently undergoing a multi-deck facelift and additional perimeter parking lots are planned through 1971.

* * * *

VEHICLE access to the airport, now funneled through the single entrance on the east, will be vastly improved by the addition of a roadway from the west and tunnel connections to the central terminal area from the north and south.

In addition, an elaborate roadway interchange is planned just north of the present airport entrance for the sole purpose of serving United's Terminal No. 1, expected to account for a full 30 per cent of vehicle traffic into the airport.

While Los Angeles International is in transition to a 40 million passenger capacity, a parallel program will be pushed to develop Ontario from its current primary role as a bad-weather alternate. Ontario is expected to increase its traffic from a mere 500,000 passengers annually now to 18 or 20 million by 1978.

At the same time, acquisition of desert plateau properties north of Los Angeles will continue for the proposed giant regional airport at Palmdale, which is expected to build rapidly to more than 100 million passengers a year after it opens in 1978.

* * * *

AIRPORTS Manager Moore admits to one snag in the overrall expansion program. Airline commitments to underwrite the master plan fall about $100 million short of the projected $400 million cost. This is further complicated by a Los Angeles City charter provision limiting interest payments on bond issues to far less than the going rate.

This may mean some readjustment in scheduling or a shrinking in the scope of improvements, Moore said. But it isn't likely that the developments at Los Angeles International will be halted or even delayed, because the jumbos are coming, the jumbos are coming.

Nimbus 3 Satellite Launch Due Tonight

VANDENBERG (UPI) — Scientists expect to launch the Nimbus 3 weather satellite, already postponed three times, into an orbit 690 miles above the Earth late tonight.

The latest delay in the firing of the Thorad Agena D launch rocket came Friday when a fuel leak in the second stage was detected. The 1,269-pound spacecraft carries delicate devices which will paint a three dimensional electronic picture of moisture, ozone and temperatures in the atmosphere.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Firebombs extensively damaged a portion of Western Michigan University's Student Union Saturday. Police said no one was injured.

PATRONS SLUMP IN SEATS, PASS OUT

Minnesota Movie a Gas – Literally

FARIBAULT, Minn. (UPI)— The movie was a gas — literally.

But no one seems to know yet just what kind of gas it was.

Some 20 teen-agers and young adults watching "Romoe and Juliet" when a mysterious, odorless gas descended on the audience.

Some got headaches, others slumped on their seats.

"My girl friend was fine until she got outside," said Kirk Dean, 21, a senior at St. Olaf College. "She took a whiff of fresh air and keeled over. Most of them were like that."

Ambulances, fire trucks and police cras rushed the young patrons to Rice County Hospital here.

All were released, some after a dose of oxygen.

Police company technisians searched the theater but failed to turn up the source of the gas.

Hijacked Airliner on Return to Ecuador

HAVANA (AP) — A hijacked Ecuadorian airline left Cuba Saturday to fly back to Ecuador, the Swiss Embassy reported.

There were 57 passengers aboard when the plane was taken over Friday by a band of hijackers on a flight from Guayaquil to Qyuito, the capital. The armed men ordered the pilot to fly to Havana.

L.A. International Bracing For Jumbo Jets

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Satellite terminals at Los Angeles International Airport are bursting at the seams as airlines prepare for the first stage of operations with the new generation of jumbo jets early next year.

Construction is under way on new boarding gates and supporting service facilities to accommodate the coming Boeing 747s, McDonnell Douglas DC-10s and Lockheed L-1011s with passenger loads more than double the capacity of current jetliners.

But the alteration of existing facilities by the airlines is only a precursor to a gigantic expansion program outlined by the Los Angeles Depatment of Airports for the next 10 years.

The long - range plan calls for a $400-million investment to double the present facilities at Los Angeles and to develop new ones at Ontario and the proposed superport at Palmdale. These are aimed at handling a combined passenger flow of up to 160 million annually, eight times the present traffic load.

* * * *

BUT EVEN this fantastic effort will not be sufficient to cope with Southern California's estimated potential of 250 million passengers a year by 1958, according to Clifton A. Moore, general manger of Los Angeles airports.

Serving this demand will require the full utilization of all the airports in the area, including Long Beach, Orange County, Hollywood - Burbank and Riverside, Moore declared.

He reminded critics of airport development that municipalities do not have full jurisdiction over facilities which have received federal and state subsidies for airline and public use.

"We don't have control over certain things, and everyone should be made aware of them," Moore said. "We can't control the certification of airlines into an airport and we can't control the use of the airways, glideslopes and departure corridors.

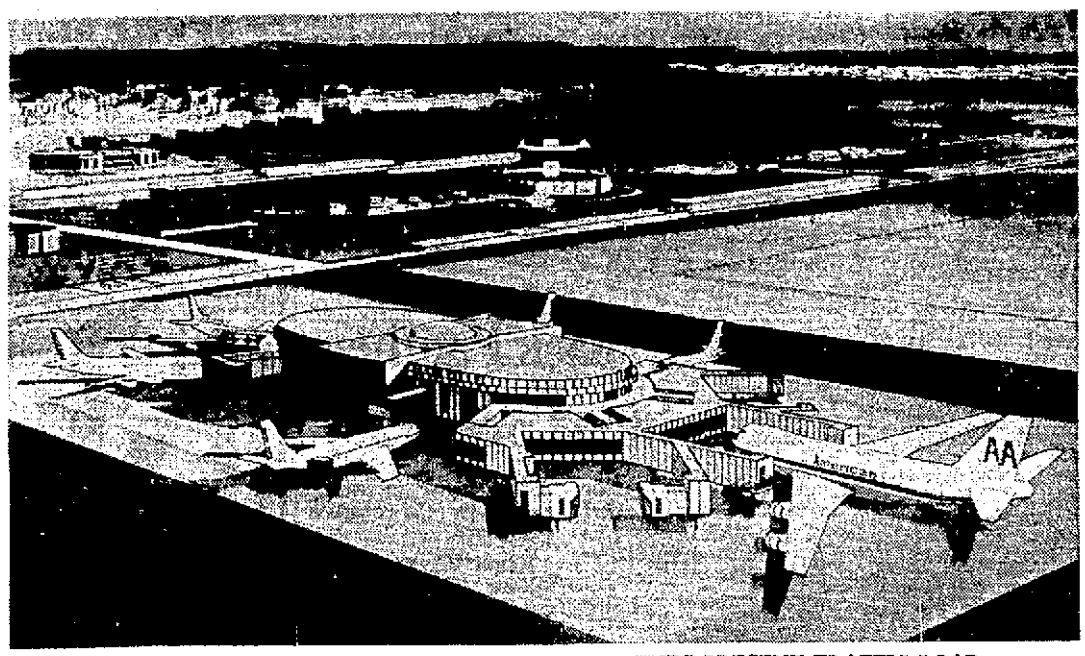

"We can't tell the manufacturers what kind of aircraft they can build and we can't control the federal and state aid programs to airports and airways."

* * * *

MOORE SAID the timetable for planned improvements at Los Angeles International is based on a policy of meeting aviation demands "within reasonable limits of growth and financial resources."

The first increments provides for two new terminal complexes, each larger than anything now on the airport, and both to be completed in 1972.

Satellite No. 1, sketched in on the original airport plans more than 10 years ago but never built, will be located on the north side of the airport entrance and will give United air Lines more elbow room than it now has in the two terminals it occupies exclusively.

NEW FACILITIES WILL HELP HANDLE EIGHT TIMES PRESENT TRAFFIC LOAD

United's move to new quarters will allow a reshuffling of leases in the existing seven terminals, with some expansion of facilities for all the airlines.

The West Terminal, a huge structure to be built across the unoccupied end of the World Way loop serving all the satellites, will contain more area under roof than all of the present terminals combined. Assignment of space in the new facility to American, Continental, Pan American World and Trans World Airlines will further relieve the pressure in the existing terminals.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, the jumbo jets are on the way, and individual airlines are pushing out the walls to provide interim facilities for their 300-plus passenger loads.

Construction of finger piers and additional passenger staging areas is under way at Satellites 3 and 4, where TWA and American are racing to be first with the new facilities.

Pan Am, which has scheduled the first 747 service from Los Angeles for January, is quietly shaping things to come in its own area, and United is immersed in expansion plans for Satellite 7, the larger of its two present terminals.

TWA is changing the rounded face of Satellite 3 with rectangular projections at either end. The $2 million interim expansion includes dual jetway boarding ramps at each 747 dock and supporting improvements in service areas.

American Airlines' three-gate expansion for the 1970-72 period will swallow up one end of Satellite 4 with a structure containing new restaurants and support services. The three 747 gates will be developed in stages, with the first scheduled for completion in December. Two of the gates will be adapted for DC-10 service requirements.

CONTINENTAL Air Lines plans a third-level passenger hall in Satellite 6, with an above-ground link between the terminal and the ticketing building on the street in addition to the present tunnel connection to provide separation of incoming and outgoing passengers.

Western, National and Delta, all with larger jet equipment on order, expect to make do with present facilities until new space becomes available. Foreign carriers serving Los Angeles also are following this plan.

Regional and commuter airlines now sharing terminals with the trunk carriers eventually will be provided a separate facility on the south side of the airport. Industrial property under consideration for this expansion will not be available until 1974, but an interim terminal for commuter and supplemental airlines and Pan Am freight operations is scheduled for 1972.

The two terminal complexes will be linked by an automated underground transit system with possible connections to perimeter parking lots. The central parking area is presently undergoing a multi-deck facelift and additional perimeter parking lots are planned through 1971.

* * * *

VEHICLE access to the airport, now funneled through the single entrance on the east, will be vastly improved by the addition of a roadway from the west and tunnel connections to the central terminal area from the north and south.

In addition, an elaborate roadway interchange is planned just north of the present airport entrance for the sole purpose of serving United's Terminal No. 1, expected to account for a full 30 per cent of vehicle traffic into the airport.

While Los Angeles International is in transition to a 40 million passenger capacity, a parallel program will be pushed to develop Ontario from its current primary role as a bad-weather alternate. Ontario is expected to increase its traffic from a mere 500,000 passengers annually now to 18 or 20 million by 1978.

At the same time, acquisition of desert plateau properties north of Los Angeles will continue for the proposed giant regional airport at Palmdale, which is expected to build rapidly to more than 100 million passengers a year after it opens in 1978.

* * * *

AIRPORTS Manager More admits to one snag in the overrall expansion program. Airline commitments to underwrite the master plan fall about $100 million short of the projected $400 million cost. This is further complicated by a Los Angeles City charter provision limiting interest payments on bond issues to far less than the going rate.

This may mean some readjustment in scheduling or a shrinking in the scope of improvements, Moore said. But it isn't likely that the developments at Los Angeles International will be halted or even delayed, because the jumbos are coming, the jumbos are coming.

Nimbus 3 Satellite Launch Due Tonight

VANDENBERG (UPI) — Scientists expect to launch the Nimbus 3 weather satellite, already postponed three times, into an orbit 690 miles above the Earth late tonight.

The latest delay in the firing of the Thorad Agena D launch rocket came Friday when a fuel leak in the second stage was detected. The 1,269-pound spacecraft carries delicate devices which will paint a three dimensional electronic picture of moisture, ozone and temperatures in the atmosphere.

Minnesota Movie a Gas -- Literally

FARIBAULT, Minn. (UPI)— The movie was a gas — literally.

But no one seems to know yet just what kind of gas it was.

Some 20 teen-agers and young adults watching "Romoe and Juliet" when a mysterious, odorless gas descended on the audience.

Some got headaches, others slumped on their seats.

"My girl friend was fine until she got outside," said Kirk Dean, 21, a senior at St. Olaf College. "She took a whiff of fresh air and keeled over. Most of them were like that."

Ambulances, fire trucks and police cras rushed the young patrons to Rice County Hospital here.

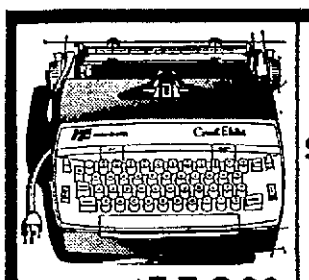

All were released, some after a dose of oxygen.

Police company technisians searched the theater but failed to turn up the source of the gas.

Hijacked Airliner on Return to Ecuador

HAVANA (AP) — A hijacked Ecuadorian airline left Cuba Saturday to fly back to Ecuador, the Swiss Embassy reported.

There were 57 passengers aboard when the plane was taken over Friday by a band of hijackers on a flight from Guayaquil to Qyuito, the capital. The armed men ordered the pilot to fly to Havana.

ROOF CREAKED – THEN FELL

Roof of School Collapses as Pupils, Teacher Escape

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—The roof of an all-purpose room at an Albuquerque church school collapsed moments after an alert teacher evacuated 12 students when she "heard the roof creak."

Myrna Brown, 22, was working with the students Friday in a music class when "we had a quiet moment and heard the roof creak. We decided it was time to get out."

Miss Brown said she told her 11 second and third graders "to line up at the door and to leave immediately.

They went out quickly, not running or anything like that. "It was a quiet, orderly exit."

Cause of the collapse of the roof on the five-year-old building was not determined, but the collapse came during the heaviest April rain in Albuquerque history, which dumped up to 1.5 inches of rain on parts of the city within 24 hours.

Anguillan Chief Gets a Vacation

New Man Put in Charge to Appease Natives

ANGUILLA (AP)—Britain's lord Caradon announced Saturday that Anthony Lee, the controversial British commissioner of this troubled Caribbean island, will take a leave of absence.

Caradon, who has been trying to negotiate a settlement with Anguillan independence advocates, said Lee would not leave the island immediately.

Lee's removal has been a chief demand of Anguilla independence leader Ronald Webster.

IT WAS NOT clear whether Caradon's announcement would satisfy the independence forces.

Webster also has demanded the removal of British troops sent in to this tiny arid island last month to quell the independence movement.

He said Saturday that a referendum would be held Thursday on whether islanders want the British forces to stay or leave.

Webster contends Lee broke a truce agreement signed March 30 when he reimposed martial law and dismissed the island's seven-member council.

CARADON, British ambassador to the United Nations, negotiated the truce and flew back here Friday when the situation took a turn for the worse.

Shortly after his arrival, a crowd of angry jeering Anguillans tried to storm Lee's residence.

Caradon said Lee would be replaced by John Cumber, a long time member of the British overseas civil service and administrator of the Cayman Islands in the British West Indies from 1964 to 1968.

FTC RULES

Mergers Need Prior Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission moved Saturday to check the pace of corporate mergers by requiring large firms to report planned acquisitions before actual transactions are made.

The action was taken, the FTC said, "in response to the sharp acceleration in merger activity" which reached a peak last year with 4,003 consolidations —68 per cent more than in 1967.

It coincided with release of the FTC's statistical report on 1968 merger trends, showing that more and more big firms are becoming swallowed up by expansion-minded corporations.

Although final figures were not tabulated, it appeared likely the 1968 totals would show that the nation's 200 largest corporations controlled well over 60 per cent of the country's manufacturing assets.

Assailing the trend, the FTC said it is requiring prior notification from all firms planning mergers that would create combines with $250 million or more in assets.

Special reports will be required, the FTC said, within 10 days after an agreement is reached in principle and no less than 60 days prior to actual consummation.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, the rules call for corporations to report acquisitions of "at least 10 per cent" of the voting stock in other firms with $10 million or more in assets.

Analyzing the merger trend, the FTC noted that activity stepped up even more during the first three months of 1969 when 43 large manufacturing and mining corporations with combined assets of $4.5 billion were taken over by other firms.

If this pace continues, the commission said, corporations worth $1 billion in assets will be combined this year with other companies.

Moreover, the FTC said, stockholder voting dates have been set on 17 proposed mergers with assets of $2.7 billion and negotiations are under way on an additional 62 mergers involving $4.7 billion in holdings.

And these figures, the commission pointed out, pertain only to the worth of the corporations that are being acquired.

Italian Leaders Split Over Riots

ROME (AP)—Italy's four-month-old government was rocked by internal squabbles Saturday as a new wave of bombings and of springtime student and labor unrest rippled through the country.

The cabinet of Premier Mariano Rumor was under the pressure of opposing factions within the ranks of the center-left coalition parties. Some were asking that police be disarmed; others demanded stiffer measures to stop violence.

As Rumor tried to patch up the controversy and weather the crisis, police faced the problem of stopping a series of bombings which have spread throughout the country.

There have been explosions in Milan, Naples, Trento, Vibo Valentia and the central Adriatic town of Ascoli Piceno.

As violence continued, the government appeared shocked by the reaction of its own members. Left-wing Christian Democrats and Socialists, including Deputy Premier Francesco de Martino, were reported demanding government condemnation of police action in Battipaglia during a riot Wednesday.

The clash, between thousands of demonstrators and 2,000 policemen during a protest march against a feared cutback in personnel in local industries, left two dead and 140 injured. The city hall, the police station and several other buildings were badly damaged.

Other government factions pushed Rumor for stiffer measures against violence and bombings. These groups, led by the Republican party and including right-wing Christian Democrats and Socialists, expressed deep concern at the wave of strikes and of student and labor demonstrations that followed the Battipaglia riot.

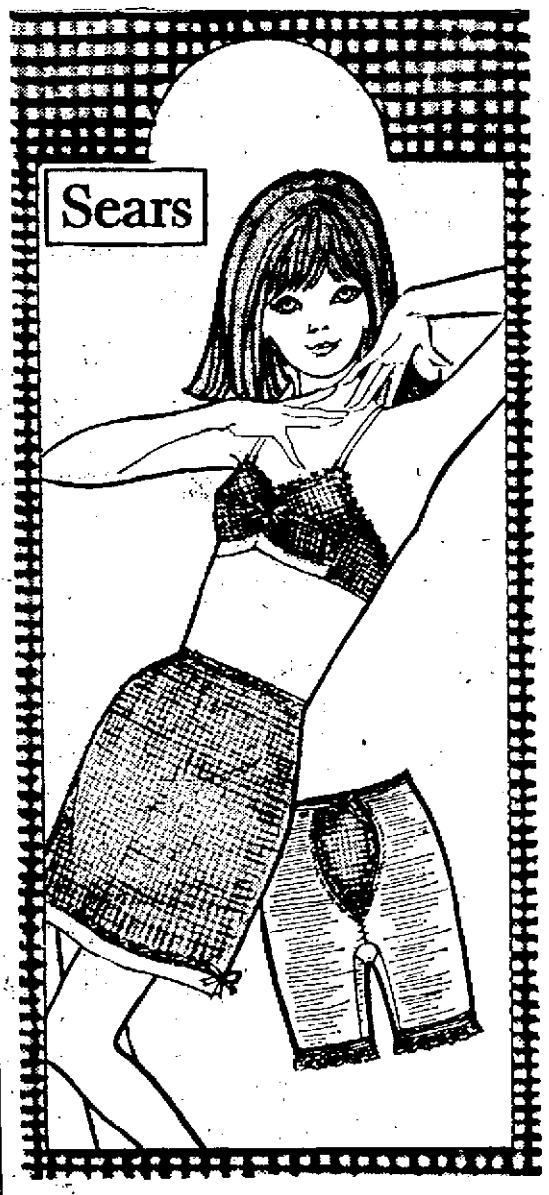

African Leader Foils Coup Plot

BANGUI, Central African Republic (UPI) — President Jean Bedel Bokassa announced Saturday his government has foiled a coup by army officers and sentenced their leader to death.

Numerous arrests were made and a shakeup of the army was reported imminent because of the plot, informed sources said.

Bokassa told the nation in a radio broadcast that the plot was headed by Lt. Col. Alexandre Banza, 37, minister of finance and economy until he fell into disfavor two months ago.

RIVER THREATENS SOUTH DAKOTA CITY
Turbulent waters of the Big Sioux River surge down a spillway with great force and have been threatening portions of Sioux Falls, S.D., since Thursday. The plant in the background was closed by the floods. An earthen dike, shown by the arrow, nearly gave way but was plugged.

Midwest Floods Top $5 Million Mark in Damage

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flood damage passed the $5-million mark Saturday and crests rolling down stream endangered new areas of the Midwest, where thousands of persons have been driven from their homes.

The Red River of the North, rampaging along the North Dakota-Minnesota border, surged up almost nine feet in 24 hours. The current swept chunks of ice and tree branches past Grand Forks, N.D.

Two streets were overrun by cold water in Grand Forks. Some lowlying areas were inundated. The Fire Department flooded basements of some homes with clean water to keep out dirty flood water and provide protection against pressure from the outside. The city, which has placed most of the 50,000 sandbags on hand, expects to receive 20,000 more.

Gov. William Guy estimated North Dakota's damage at $4.5 million.

The James River, which pushed through a dike and forced 75 men and women to leave a housing development for elderly persons in Jamestown, N.D., raised threats of more trouble.

* * * *

THREE tributaries of the James — Foote, Elm and Moccasin — flooded considerable land near Aberdeen, S.D.

M. R. Cheeseman, highway superintendent, placed damage to roads and bridges in Brookings County, South Dakota, at almost $1 million. The Big Sioux River damaged more than 50 bridges, and washed away some of them.

The hazard of explosion and fire hung over Minot, N.D., on the bloated Sourris River. Two homes — vacated because of the high water — burned. An accumulation of gas was blamed. Some of the 2,000 persons who had evacuated went back to their homes.

Several bridges over the Minnesota River were closed south of Minneapolis, forcing commuters to take long detours. An interstate bridge between Minnesota and Wisconsin over the St. Croix River was closed after water lapped at the floor.

Minnesota, where about 2,000 persons have been routed from their dwellings, counted four fatalities.

The Big Sioux River, rushing southward in South Dakota and Iowa, began to drop rapidly from record heights in the Sioux Falls, S.D., and Sioux City, Iowa areas. Dikes still held, but 50 families which had fled from a menaced district in Sioux Falls were kept away from their homes.

INLAND from the Big Sioux-Missouri valleys the west fork of the Des Moines River approached a Sunday crest in Estherville, Iowa. Downstream a half-dozen families were evacuated in Emmetsburg.

La Crosse, Wis., expects the Mississippi River to crest April 23 at 16 feet. The dikes can withstand 18 feet.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's river forecast center in Hartford, Conn., said warm weather is causing considerable melting of snow in northern New England states. Runoff from unusually heavy winter snows brought floods to the upper Midwest.

The center in Hartford said the Connecticut River reached a flooding peak level Saturday in northern Massachusetts. The crest is expected in Connecticut in the next two days.

2 Petition White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Writer Dwight Macdonald and actress Viveca Lindfors went to the White House Saturday with a petition said to contain more thean 9,000 signatures from New York City residents urging an immediate end to the Vietnam war.

Macdonald and Miss Lindfors led a delegation from an organization called the Interblock Council for Peace and presented the petition to John Davies, director of the White House tour office.

Lynwood Man Is Rescued

An Avalon sheriff's deputy rescued a 55-year-old Lynwood man who fell off a float on the way to his boat at the end of Catalina's Pleasure Pier early Saturday.

The victim, Gerald Lionell Park, of 3699 Agnes St., was in good condition at Avalon Municipal Hospital after the 2:20 a.m. accident.

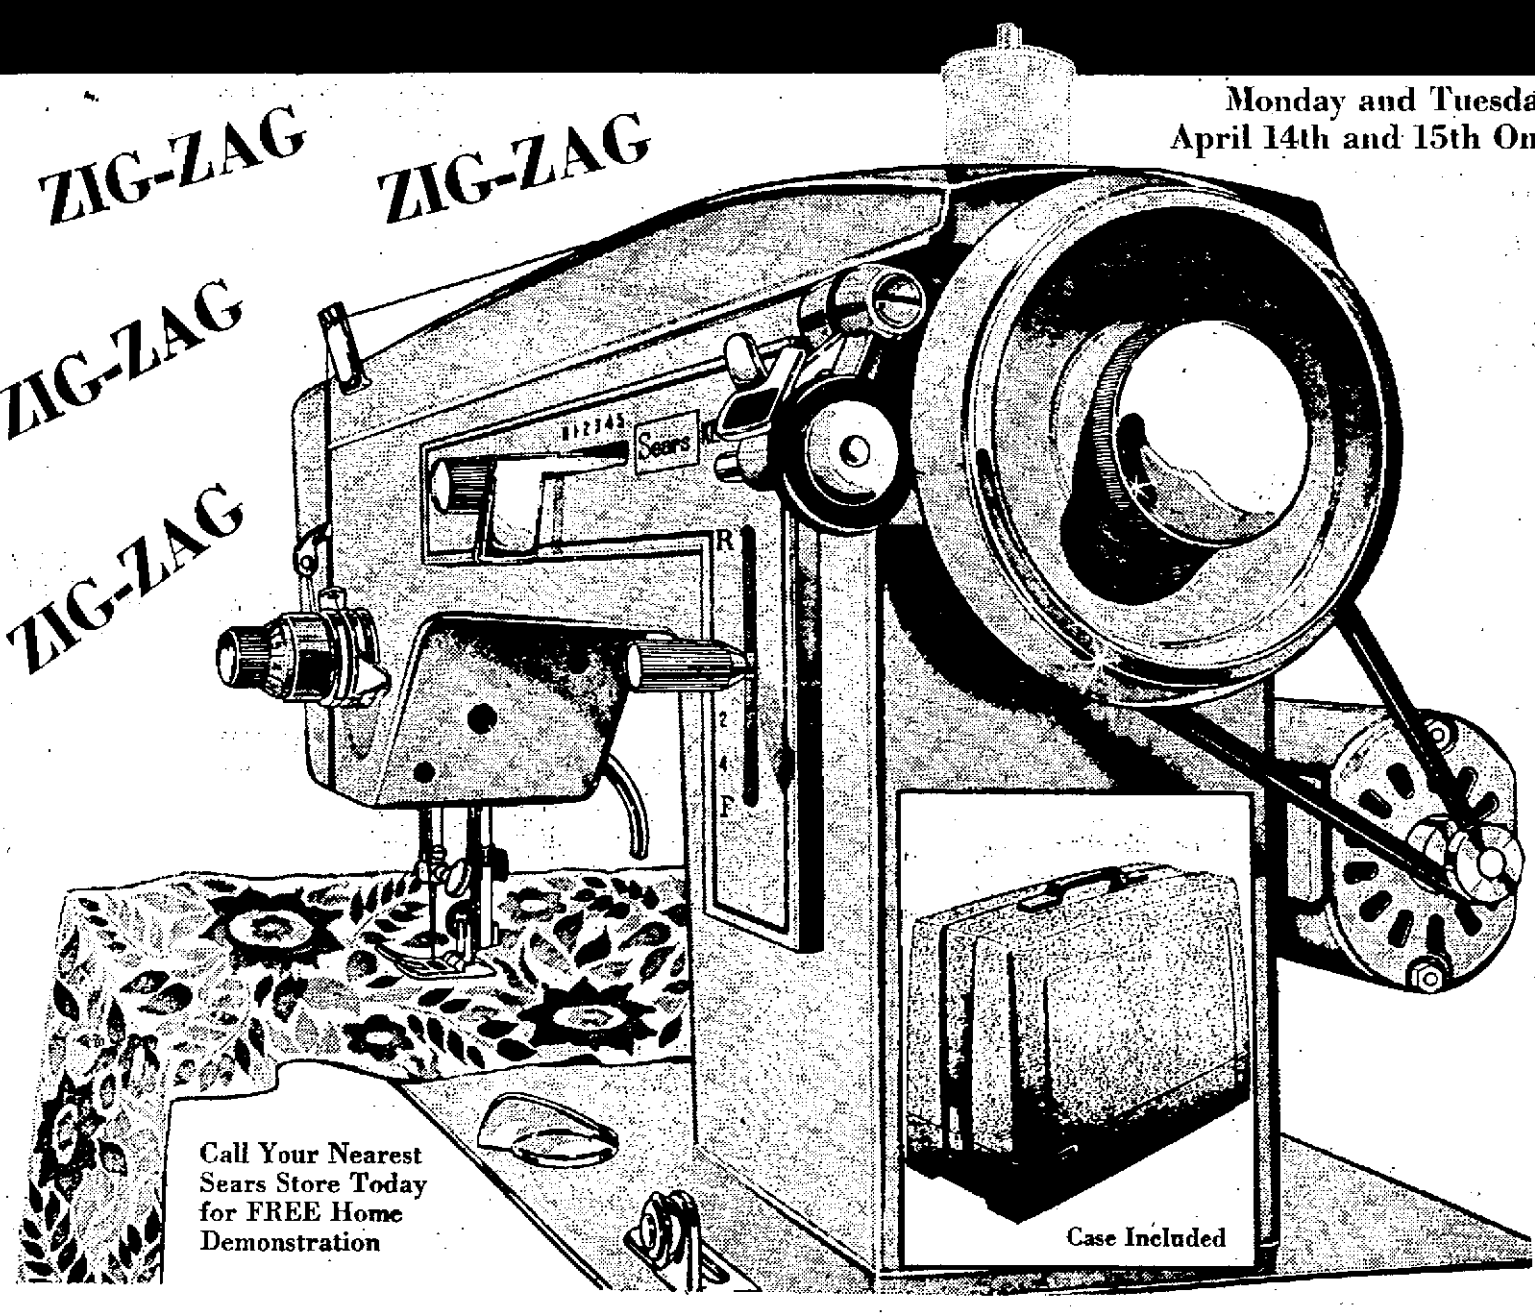

He was rescued by Deputy James Holts, who was on foot patrol along the Avalon waterfront when he heard Park's cries for help. Holts revived Park with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after the rescue.

RIVER THREATENS SOUTH DAKOTA CITY
Turbulent waters of the Big Sioux River surge down a spillway with great force and have been threatening portions of Sioux Falls, S.D., since Thursday. The plant in the background was closed by the floods. An earthen dike, shown by the arrow, nearly gave way but was plugged.

Midwest Floods Top $5 Million Mark in Damage

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flood damage passed the $5-million mark Saturday and crests rolling down stream endangered new areas of the Midwest, where thousands of persons have been driven from their homes.

The Red River of the North, rampaging along the North Dakota-Minnesota border, surged up almost nine feet in 24 hours. The current swept chunks of ice and tree branches past Grand Forks, N.D.

Two streets were overrun by cold water in Grand Forks. Some low-lying areas were inundated. The Fire Department flooded basements of some homes with clean water to keep out dirty flood water and provide protection against pressure from the outside. The city, which has placed most of the 50,000 sandbags on hand, expects to receive 20,000 more.

Gov. William Guy estimated North Dakota's damage at $4.5 million.

The James River, which pushed through a dike and forced 75 men and women to leave a housing development for elderly persons in Jamestown, N.D., raised threats of more trouble.

* * * *

THREE tributaries of the James — Foote, Elm and Moccasin — flooded considerable land near Aberdeen, S.D.

M. R. Cheeseman, highway superintendent, placed damage to roads and bridges in Brookings County, South Dakota, at almost $1 million. The Big Sioux River damaged more than 50 bridges, and washed away some of them.

The hazard of explosion and fire hung over Minot, N.D., on the bloated Souris River. Two homes — vacated because of the high water — burned. An accumulation of gas was blamed. Some of the 2,000 persons who had evacuated went back to their homes.

Several bridges over the Minnesota River were closed south of Minneapolis, forcing commuters to take long detours. An interstate bridge between Minnesota and Wisconsin over the St. Croix River was closed after water lapped at the floor.

Carman Warschaw Booed at Democratic Meeting

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

SACRAMENTO — The "400" among California Democrats proved the depth of their discord Saturday night as they lustily and repeatedly booed their national committee woman, Carmen Warschaw.

"Sieg heil," some yelled at the "Dragon Lady" of California politics as she approached the microphone at this, a conference to reform and reorganize the state party.

The demonstration was Mrs. Warschaw's wage for the "sin" of her support for Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty over Councilman Thomas Bradley. Yorty's past defections to Richard M. Nixon from Democratic candidates and other "un-Democratic behavior" make his name a trigger word for boos among party regulars.

"THE NICE part of democracy," Mrs. Warschaw parried, "is that everyone is entitled to his own opinion, even if it's wrong."

More boos and cries of "go home" resounded.

"Nobody here knows how to be told like it is," she responded, taking note of this conference's slogan, "Tell it like it is."

She said she had spent the day in Modesto working on the special election campaign for a Democratic candidate seeking the seat of Republican John Veneman, who resigned to take a federal appointment.

She was asked in Modesto, Mrs. Warschaw told her hostile listeners, "Why are there 400 in Sacramento? Why aren't they here in Modesto making it like it's going to be?"

MRS. WARSCHAW'S counterpart, Stephen Reinhardt, rubbed it in by expressing his pride that national Democratic Chairman Sen. Fred Harris, D-Oklahoma, had supported Bradley.

"It's the most critical race we have in the nation," he said, and added his specific gratitude to other party leaders for support of Bradley.

Sen. Harris capped the banquet festivities with a cheer leading speech about broadening the base of the party and making it open to all.

Earlier San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, a prospective candidate for governor or U.S. senator in 1970, told the conference the public "couldn't care less" about the petty jealousies and intrigues of feuding Democrats "playing king of the mountain."

The average voter, he said, is interested in his taxes, the schools his kids attend and the quality of life in the community. He is demanding substance in his political party and in its candidates.

Democrats cannot afford, he said, to withdraw further into the party's own internal structures, but "must expand its coalition of groups and interests and must insure that its doors are open to new leadership and to all points of view."

Alioto said Republican leadership is not likely to reverse the trend of racial and social polariziation threatening democracy.

"In fact," he said, "Ronald Reagan seems more intent on echoing and enlarging the voices of frustration in our society than in bringing hope and solutions to society's grave problems."

Democrats cannot win, Alioto said, if organized labor, for instance, "should be amputated. That amounts to harikari . . . we cannot win if we either abandon the traditional forces of Democratic support or ignore the forces of change."

The mayor said the confrontation between the "old coalition" and the "new politics" could forge an unbeatable alliance of forces and ideals.

While the conference, like a multicircuited computer, attempted to spit out an answer for recovery, some of the state's "name" Democrats fed their personal data into the weekend discourse.

Jess Unruh, Assembly minority leader, made his Saturday luncheon speech a recitation of Democratic accomplishments and a spate of scorn for Gov. Ronald Reagan.

He said every major advance "made for and by our minority citizens and our poor citizens has come about by virtue of Democratic authors, Democratic initiative and Democratic effort."

He noted that ex-Governor Edmund G. Brown had the largest number of sit-in students arrested at one demonstration and yet Reagan accused him of being soft on campus disorder.

But Reagan, according to Unruh, gave the state the biggest tax increase any state in the union has ever had in one year; promised and failed for three years to give tax reform; proposes now an even bigger tax increase; had the most campus unrest under his administration; said he saw "no reason to cease drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel even while "the beaches and seawalls were black with filth;" vetoed a $7-a-month increase for California's senior citizens; refuses to fund and build the colleges that will allow the middle class to send their children to their schools.

"This administration," said Unruh, "has done its dead level best to destroy the Medicaid program. Democrats vs. the Reagan administration has been "a picture of program against paralysis."

George Moscone, state Senate Democratic leader, urged on delegates here a clear definition of party purpose and platform or else face the risk "of an emotionally charged electorate accepting totally distorted charges regarding our positions" on a host of sensitive issues.

Moscone said the Democratic State Central Committee should become a direct corallary to county central committees rather than persist in being two relatively ineffectual groups.

He said the official party must devise some way to allow official endorsements in primary races, adding, "13 Democrats running for a state Senate seat against a consensus Republican is ridiculous."

He advocated the vote for 18-year-olds and an easier registration clause including provision for allowing change of address registration by mail.

He said every major advance "made for and by our minority citizens and our poor citizens has come about by virtue of Democratic authors, Democratic initiative and Democratic effort."

He noted that ex-Governor Edmund G. Brown had the largest number of sit-in students arrested at one demonstration and yet Reagan accused him of being soft on campus disorder.

But Reagan, according to Unruh, gave the state the biggest tax increase any state in the union has ever had in one year; promised and failed for three years to give tax reform; proposes now an even bigger tax increase; had the most campus unrest under his administration; said he saw "no reason to cease drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel even while "the beaches and seawalls were black with filth;" vetoed a $7-a-month increase for California's senior citizens; refuses to fund and build the colleges that will allow the middle class to send their children to their schools.

"This administration," said Unruh, "has done its dead level best to destroy the Medicaid program. Democrats vs. the Reagan administration has been "a picture of program against paralysis."

George Moscone, state Senate Democratic leader, urged on delegates here a clear definition of party purpose and platform or else face the risk "of an emotionally charged electorate accepting totally distorted charges regarding our positions" on a host of sensitive issues.

Moscone said the Democratic State Central Committee should become a direct corallary to county central committees rather than persist in being two relatively ineffectual groups.

He said the official party must devise some way to allow official endorsements in primary races, adding, "13 Democrats running for a state Senate seat against a consensus Republican is ridiculous."

He advocated the vote for 18-year-olds and an easier registration clause including provision for allowing change of address registration by mail.

Fear for Woman Who Aided Killer

By CHUCK CHEATHAM
Staff Writer

Southland police who are doggedly trying to solve the Compton Dec. 30 slaying of Roger Guindon Jr., 16, said Saturday new information led them to believe the same killer may strike again.

They feared the victim would the the youth's benefactor, a 36-year-old, blonde woman who has the appearance of being a businesswoman.

"We believe she may not know she has important information which would lead to the arrest and conviction of the murderer and that the killer may well kill her to cover his tracks," Sgt. R. C. Johnson, Los Angeles Police Department narcotics division, said.

Johnson said police had information that the unknown woman gave the suspected killer a $50 bill to buy clothing in a Long Beach clothing store last Sept. 20.

* * * *

THE KILLER IS descrebed as being a male Negro, from 18 to 22 years old, 5-foot, 6-inches tall, with thin face with a pointed chin and thin nose. His features are small, he has a slender build, medium brown skin, wears a size eight shoe and has a 30 inch waist, the police description shows.

"We believe he lives in Long Beach or in the general Long Beach area and that the woman may also live in Long Beach of the general area," Johnson said.

Young Guindon, the son of Los Angeles Police Capt. Roger Guindon Sr. and nephew of Los Angeles Police Inspector Alfred Twenbly, lived at 11310 Cornish Ave., Lynwood.

Sgt. Johnson said the youth was driving from his home to a part time job at a hamburger stand at 1117 S. Long Beach Blvd., Compton, when three male Negroes forced their way into his auto.

"We believe he was forced to drive to Elm St. and Long Beach Blvd., Compton, where he was shot, possibly while leaving his auto," Johnson declared.

* * * *

"OUR INVESTIGATION leads us to beleve the woman may be in great danger and that she could well be ignorant of the fact that she has vital information regarding the killing. We believe that if we do not locate her to tell her of the danger or if we do not arrest the killer, she may well be dead in a few days," Johnson asserted.

"There is a $1,500 reward posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer and all information we receive will be kept in the strictest confidence," Johnson declared.

Anyone having information regarding the identity of fthe woman or the suspect are asked to contact Sgt. Johnson in Los Angeles or Compton Detective John Pranan.

SUSPECT BENEFACTOR

SHE KNOWS HIM

Fear for Woman Who Aided Killer

By CHUCK CHEATHAM
Staff Writer

Southland police who are doggedly trying to solve the Compton Dec. 30 slaying of Roger Guindon Jr., 16, said Saturday new information led them to believe the same killer may strike again.

They feared the victim would the the youth's benefactor, a 36-year-old, blonde woman who has the appearance of being a businesswoman.

"We believe she may not know she has important information which would lead to the arrest and conviction of the murderer and that the killer may well kill her to cover his tracks," Sgt. R. C. Johnson, Los Angeles Police Department narcotics division, said.

Johnson said police had information that the unknown woman gave the suspected killer a $50 bill to buy clothing in a Long Beach clothing store last Sept. 20.

* * * *

THE KILLER IS descrebed as being a male Negro, from 18 to 22 years old, 5-foot, 6-inches tall, with thin face with a pointed chin and thin nose. His features are small, he has a slender build, medium brown skin, wears a size eight shoe and has a 30 inch waist, the police description shows.

"We believe he lives in Long Beach or in the general Long Beach area and that the woman may also live in Long Beach of the general area," Johnson said.

Young Guindon, the son of Los Angeles Police Capt. Roger Guindon Sr. and nephew of Los Angeles Police Inspector Alfred Twenbly, lived at 11310 Cornish Ave., Lynwood.

Sgt. Johnson said the youth was driving from his home to a part time job at a hamburger stand at 1117 S. Long Beach Blvd., Compton, when three male Negroes forced their way into his auto.

"We believe he was forced to drive to Elm St. and Long Beach Blvd., Compton, where he was shot, possibly while leaving his auto," Johnson declared.

* * * *

"OUR INVESTIGATION leads us to beleve the woman may be in great danger and that she could well be ignorant of the fact that she has vital information regarding the killing. We believe that if we do not locate her to tell her of the danger or if we do not arrest the killer, she may well be dead in a few days," Johnson asserted.

"There is a $1,500 reward posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer and all information we receive will be kept in the strictest confidence," Johnson declared.

Anyone having information regarding the identity of fthe woman or the suspect are asked to contact Sgt. Johnson in Los Angeles or Compton Detective John Pranan.

Student Total at 7.6 Million

However, students in private colleges and universities dropped in 1968 for the first time in 16 years. The enrollment was 2.1 million, a decrease of 11,193 or one-half per cent below 1967.

The fall 1968 enrollment for publicly controlled institutions was 5.5 million, an increase of 619,142 or 12.8 per cent over the previous year.

Clete Roberts to Talk at LBCC Wednesday

Clete Roberts, award-winning foreign correspondent and television newscaster, will speak on "A Correspondent's View of the Press" at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Long Beach City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Avenue.

Tickets for the lecture, third in the college's series on "Insights into the American Scene," will be available at the box office.

Originally scheduled here on March 19, Roberts had to switch lecture dates because of a special assignment to cover the most recent Arab-Israeli crisis in the Middle East.

He has worked as a correspondent in Israel and Egypt on numerous assignments since 1945, including the 1956 Sinai campaign and the "Six-Day War" of 1967.

Roberts has received four Emmy awards and seven Golden Mikes from the Southern California Radio and Television News Club for excellence in news reporting.

Final speaker in the "American Scene" series will be George Reedy, veteran Washington newsman and former White House press secretary, on May 14.

Long-Missing F111A Sought

LAS VEGAS (AP)—The Air Force will resume hunting for an F111A fighter-bomber missing two months when snow melts in the mountains.

The swing-wing plane and its two pilots were last heard from Feb. 12 when they took off from Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas for a 750-mile night training mission.

Aboard were Capt. Robert Earl Jobe, 31, of Chicago, and Capt. William D. Fuchlow, 30, Ventura, Calif.

HUNT FOR LOST PLANE

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — A limited ground and air search resumed Saturday for a "gamblers special" airliner, missing for almost two months with 35 persons aboard.

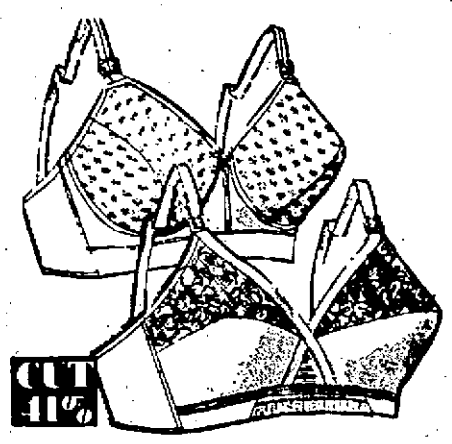

Four Civil Air Patrol ground parties set out from here, one headed for the Bishop area and the others for Fish Lake Valley, near the California border south of Hawthorne.

One CAP search plane was up this morning. A spokesman said others might join the search later in the day.

At Bishop, the CAP had two planes ready but weather was marginal and they did not have takeoff clearance by mid-morning.

The Mineral County Airlines DC-3 disappeared Feb. 18 while returning gambling casino patrons from Hawthorne to Burbank and Long Beach. Its last radio contact was shortly after takeoff.

THE KIRSCHKE CASE: TWO YEARS LATER

By Mary Neiswender
Staff Writer

Jack Kirschke, a "model" deputy district attorney working his way slowly-but-surely to a judgeship, did two things the day his wife was buried.

He cried.

And he danced on the tables of the lush Long Beach Yacht Club in a pair of tight jeans with a sexy blonde date.

KIRSCHKE GLARES AT CAMERA
—Staff Photo

As a "model" attorney, yachtsman, husband and father, he could have done one or the other.

But not both.

He was either faking when he cried, or faking when he danced.

POLICE OFFICIALS investigated, decided it was the former and he was indicted by the County Grand Jury for the cold-blooded murder of his wife, Elaine, and her lover, Orville "Bill" Drankhan. He was subsequently convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Although his appeal is still pending, the 45-year-old legal expert again is a "model."

"He's a model prisoner," his superiors at the California Institute for Men at Chino, admit, "and one of the best fingerprint men we've ever had."

And he's been a "model" for more than a year — from the day he arrived at the minimum security facility.

But Jack Kirschke has always been a "model."

He was a "model" attorney — although a bit unconventional, his lawyer-friends admit.

He was a "model" father — although he rarely wrote to or saw his children, they admit.

He was a "model" husband — although he chased around and rarely came home, his wife admitted to friends.

. . . and, of course, he killed her, a jury of 12 decided.

But the old Kirschke is gone. Although he doesn't live-it-up any longer in the free-swinging atmosphere of the yacht club crowd, probably because of jail bars and a high prison wall, his entire demeanor has changed.

His quick movements and staccato speech — trademarks from the time of his arrest on a lonely road between Long Beach and Las Vegas to the day he snapped at a jury "free me or kill me" — have mellowed.

EVEN HIS ANGULAR facial features have rounded — with the addition of weight.

Three things about the former attorney haven't changed:

He still keeps physically fit — by playing handball every night.

He still has one of the best criminal attorneys in the state working for him.

And he still maintains his innocence.

"He's amazingly well adjusted," attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, says of his client.

Ramsey, one of the few people allowed to visit the ex-district attorney in prison, took up Kirschke's cause the day he was returned to Long Beach following his arrest in Victorville. And, despite the entrance and exit in the case of two high-powered legal firms — F. Lee Bailey of Boston and George Davis of San Francisco — Kirschke's fate still hinges on the legal know-how of Ramsey, the man he dubbed "the silver fox."

It is Ramsey who is handling Kirschke's appeal — the appeal he filed himself.

"Kirschke," the Long Beach attorney says, "has always felt that technical errors occurred during the trial — as we all did — but he had become so engrossed in his daily life in prison that his appeal became a manana deal."

When Ramsey, as a friend, visited Kirschke, the greying convicted murderer asked him to re-enter the case.

"It was no big deal," says Ramsey candidly. "We're associated for the appeal. It gives Jack access to certain technical books and papers he probably wouldn't be able to get otherwise."

AND IT GIVES Ramsey a "four to five feet high" stack of transcripts to go through, looking for errors that may have occured during the sensational trial.

"I've just asked for another 60 day extension on the appeal," Ramsey admits, adding that since the Kirschke case there have been two cases ruled on by the State Supreme Court which ruled that decedant's declarations are illegal. Both cases were reversed.

Elaine Kirschke's statements — made to friends — were admitted into court and detailed her "fear" of her husband and her divorce plans.

Ramsey — and Kirschke — are hinging their hopes on this.

But Ramsey is going one step farther.

"We're working on a writ of habeus corpus based on the fact that we believe the conviction relied upon false testimony for its basis."

DRANKHAN

ELAINE

What the false testimony was or who it was that gave it, the attorney won't say. But, he says, if it "checks out, as we believe it will" the writ will be filed in San Bernardino County Superior Court — Kirschke's now-permanent address.

Ramsey, however, isn't the only one who still remembers Kirschke and the double-murder.

FOUR PEOPLE HAVE come into the Ramsey law office to offer information as to the "real killer" — the latest only last week.

"It was a person who heard someone confess to the killings," Ramsey says. "And two or three weeks ago I got a call from Boston, confessing to have killed the two."

And Kirschke gets mail and calls too.

But jail officials are making it easy on Kirschke. All telephone callers are summarily dismissed without the prisoner knowing about the call, and all unsolicited mail is returned to the sender.

. . . all except Jack's little touch with the past.

As a life member of the Long Beach Yacht Club, he still receives notices of parties . . . and dinners . . . and luaus . . . and cruises . . .

. . . and one of his girl friends always visits him in jail.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM
SUNDAY, APRIL 13, 1969 SECTION B—PAGE B-1

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

I DON'T want to spoil anybody's Sunday morning, but on this threshold of the state income tax filing deadline it seems proper to mention a li'l thing that's happening in Sacramento.

Our legislators have a bill in the well-oiled works that will raise their pay again.

This measure would kick up the wage of each Senator and Assemblyman from $16,000 to $19,200, effective Jan. 4, 1971. That's 20 per cent, and will cost taxpayers another $576,000 annually.

At $16,000, our legislators are already the best paid in the country. But we must keep out ahead in all things.

THE LAWMAKERS' wage boost is based on a "cost-of-living" factor.

How come? Well, in 1966 the people voted a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to set its own pay. Added was a cleverly-designed little provision that after 1967, cost-of-living adjustments must not exceed 5 per cent per year.

The 1966 wage provisions were buried in a measure that included a number of unrelated items. They never became a real issue in the campaign and got little mention, especially by legislators.

At that time the foresighted Legislature had already passed a bill which, upon adoption of the amendment, increased legislative pay from $6000 to $16,000.

The 1966 amendment doesn't require that wages be kicked up 5 per cent on a cost-of-living factor, but the authorization is there and it's a cinch the lawmakers wouldn't overlook such a chance.

There was a little flimflammery, but the people can only blame themselves. Many say they didn't know it was in there, but they opened the way with that 1966 vote.

NOW THE Legislature doesn't have to pass the new wage boost and at a time when the state is struggling with financial problems and the taxpayers are hard pressed. But do you need more than one guess as to what will happen?

If you should write your legislator, you might suggest that taxpayers also be given a "cost-of-living" break. Such as a 5 per cent per year rebate on their state income taxes.

That'll get a laugh.

THE PROLONGED snow hold-over from last winter still holds the secret of two tragic disappearance incidents—the loss of a D-C 3 plane between here and Hawthorne, and the vanishing of half a dozen Boy Scouts in the Green Valley area of the nearby San Bernardino mountains.

Fruitless searches have been made for the Scouts from the Pacific Cascader area, who were on a ski jaunt in marginal weather. Scouting circles throughout the area have been shocked by the incident, which must have involved a large avalanche.

Among passengers on the ill-fated plane traveling this way from Hawthorne Feb. 18 were Jack and Lorraine Uplinger of Long Beach.

Hope of there being survivors has vanished, and today the Fraternal Order of Eagles will hold special services for the Uplingers. This will be in connection with regular memorial service at 2 p.m. at the Aerie, located at 2821 E. Anaheim St. The public is invited.

Rites Slated for Marine Killed in Viet

Full military services for a Long Beach Marine officer fatally wounded in Vietnam are set for Monday at 1 p.m. at the Marine Corps Recruiting Depot, San Diego.

The officer, Lt. Col. Harry Morris, 43, died at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital Tuesday, two months after he was wounded in Vietnam.

Morris, a career officer, graduated from Poly High School in 1943 and Whittier College in 1950.

He is survived by his wife, Carolyn; a daughter, Kathleen; two sons, James and George, his mother, Letha Morris, and an aunt, Thelma Broussard.

made of filmy black and white material.

The bulky, but fully clothed body of Drankhan flopped off the circular bed and spilled its blood in a bizarre, crimson mosaic on the carpeted floor.

Sure, the two-level apartment house where the Kirschkes lived is still painted a garish pink — another family lives on the bottom floor where the bodies were found — and the dark water still slaps the walls of the canal outside.

Sure, the music of ice cube on glass still provides background for the cocktail hour and muffled voices can still be heard across the waterways.

But, la dolce vita isn't quite so dolce — two years haven't erased the horror . . .

"Even now, hardly a week goes by that somebody doesn't mention the murders, or begin to talk about the Kirschke case," the pert blonde said, with a hint of distaste in her voice.

Speaking was attractive Mrs. Patricia Katz, former neighbor and close friend of the Kirschkes, who along with Elaine and a couple of other companions was once tagged as a member of the Long Beach Yacht Club's "Jolly Girls."

TODAY, the remaining Jolly Girls — Elaine is dead — are still around — "We'll probably always be the Jolly Girls," Mrs. Katz said — but things aren't the same.

Two of the "girls" are divorced, two have moved, one has changed her name, and another has struggled with her own family problems.

"But we still manage to get together about every week . . . . to play bridge, have a toddy or two . . . or just to talk. I'd say the Jolly Girls are still around," Mrs. Katz said.

Mrs. Katz and Mrs. Marma Virginia Herfter have both been divorced since that fatal night Elaine and Bill were slain. Mrs. Katz changed her name and moved away from Rivo Alto Canal, but Marma still lives — with her pets — in her Vista del Golfo home.

Former Priest Preaches a New Sermon

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

As Don Quixote once charged full tilt at solidly grounded windmills, so self-defrocked Msgr. Ivan Illich today seeks to overturn an equally well-entrenched "educational establishment."

But Illich — unlike the legendary Spaniard, whose name now is given to fighters for lost or noble causes — has a thought-out attack plan. Plus high intelligence.

Whether this "independent thinker," as he chooses to label himself, will be more successful than other quixotic types in his efforts to totally renovate education remains uncertain.

The former priest — a onetime papal chamberlain and monsignor — came last week to California State College, Long Beach from his mountaintop think-tank overlooking Cuernavaca, Mexico. Twice he met with students and faculty in Global Village seminars, chatted informally before and after with the more deeply interested.

While students — many presumably from the school of education — scribbled notes, the 42-year-old Austrian national but naturalized U.S. citizen expounded with vigorous charm a doctrine perhaps a majority of educators will find heretical:

"School is a craze, a modern church with highly stylized ritual . . . it's too expensive for most of the world . . . we must find a logical alternative to it. . . ."

Illich repeatedly averred that his reform concepts are geared specifically to Latin America where, he said, ". . . an enormous amount of public funds (spent) does not anywhere

THE KIRSCHKE CASE:

TWO YEARS LATER

By Mary Neiswender
Staff Writer

Jack Kirschke, a "model" deputy district attorney working his way slowly-but-surely to a judgeship, did two things the day his wife was buried.

He cried.

And he danced on the tables of the lush Long Beach Yacht Club in a pair of tight jeans with a sexy blonde date.

—Staff Photo

As a "model" attorney, yachtsman, husband and father, he could have done one or the other.

But not both.

He was either faking when he cried, or faking when he danced.

POLICE OFFICIALS investigated, decided it was the former and he was indicted by the County Grand Jury for the cold-blooded murder of his wife, Elaine, and her lover, Orville "Bill" Drankhan. He was subsequently convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Although his appeal is still pending, the 45-year-old legal expert again is a "model."

"He's a model prisoner," his superiors at the California Institute for Men at Chino, admit, "and one of the best fingerprint men we've ever had."

And he's been a "model" for more than a year — from the day he arrived at the minimum security facility.

But Jack Kirschke has always been a "model."

He was a "model" attorney — although a bit unconventional, his lawyer-friends admit.

He was a "model" father — although he rarely wrote to or saw his children, they admit.

He was a "model" husband — although he chased around and rarely came home, his wife admitted to friends.

. . . and, of course, he killed her, a jury of 12 decided.

But the old Kirschke is gone. Although he doesn't live-it-up any longer in the free-swinging atmosphere of the yacht club crowd, probably because of jail bars and a high prison wall, his entire demeanor has changed.

His quick movements and staccato speech — trademarks from the time of his arrest on a lonely road between Long Beach and Las Vegas to the day he snapped at a jury "free me or kill me" — have mellowed.

EVEN HIS ANGULAR facial features have rounded — with the addition of weight.

Three things about the former attorney haven't changed:

He still keeps physically fit — by playing handball every night.

He still has one of the best criminal attorneys in the state working for him.

And he still maintains his innocence.

"He's amazingly well adjusted," attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, says of his client.

Ramsey, one of the few people allowed to visit the ex-district attorney in prison, took up Kirschke's cause the day he was returned to Long Beach following his arrest in Victorville. And, despite the entrance and exit in the case of two high-powered legal firms — F. Lee Bailey of Boston and George Davis of San Francisco — Kirschke's fate still hinges on the legal know-how of Ramsey, the man he dubbed "the silver fox."

It is Ramsey who is handling Kirschke's appeal — the appeal he filed himself.

"Kirschke," the Long Beach attorney says, "has always felt that technical errors occurred during the trial — as we all did — but he had become so engrossed in his daily life in prison that his appeal became a manana deal."

When Ramsey, as a friend, visited Kirschke, the greying convicted murderer asked him to re-enter the case.

"It was no big deal," says Ramsey candidly. "We're associated for the appeal. It gives Jack access to certain technical books and papers he probably wouldn't be able to get otherwise."

AND IT GIVES Ramsey a "four to five feet high" stack of transcripts to go through, looking for errors that may have occured during the sensational trial.

"I've just asked for another 60 day extension on the appeal," Ramsey admits, adding that since the Kirschke case there have been two cases ruled on by the State Supreme Court which ruled that decedant's declarations are illegal. Both cases were reversed.

Elaine Kirschke's statements — made to friends — were admitted into court and detailed her "fear" of her husband and her divorce plans.

Ramsey — and Kirschke — are hinging their hopes on this.

But Ramsey is going one step farther.

"We're working on a writ of habeus corpus based on the fact that we believe the conviction relied upon false testimony for its basis."

DRANKHAN

ELAINE

What the false testimony was or who it was that gave it, the attorney won't say. But, he says, if it "checks out, as we believe it will" the writ will be filed in San Bernardino County Superior Court — Kirschke's now-permanent address.

Ramsey, however, isn't the only one who still remembers Kirschke and the double-murder.

FOUR PEOPLE HAVE come into the Ramsey law office to offer information as to the "real killer" — the latest only last week.

"It was a person who heard someone confess to the killings," Ramsey says. "And two or three weeks ago I got a call from Boston, confessing to have killed the two."

And Kirschke gets mail and calls too.

But jail officials are making it easy on Kirschke. All telephone callers are summarily dismissed without the prisoner knowing about the call, and all unsolicited mail is returned to the sender.

. . . all except Jack's little touch with the past.

As a life member of the Long Beach Yacht Club, he still receives notices of parties . . . and dinners . . . and luaus . . . and cruises . . .

. . . and one of his girl friends always visits him in jail.

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

I DON'T want to spoil anybody's Sunday morning, but on this threshold of the state income tax filing deadline it seems proper to mention a li'l thing that's happening in Sacramento.

Our legislators have a bill in the well-oiled works that will raise their pay again.

This measure would kick up the wage of each Senator and Assemblyman from $16,000 to $19,200, effective Jan. 4, 1971. That's 20 per cent, and will cost taxpayers another $576,000 annually.

At $16,000, our legislators are already the best paid in the country. But we must keep out ahead in all things.

THE LAWMAKERS' wage boost is based on a "cost-of-living" factor.

How come? Well, in 1966 the people voted a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to set its own pay. Added was a cleverly-designed little provision that after 1967, cost-of-living adjustments must not exceed 5 per cent per year.

The 1966 wage provisions were buried in a measure that included a number of unrelated items. They never became a real issue in the campaign and got little mention, especially by legislators.

At that time the foresighted Legislature had already passed a bill which, upon adoption of the amendment, increased legislative pay from $6000 to $16,000.

The 1966 amendment doesn't require that wages be kicked up 5 per cent on a cost-of-living factor, but the authorization is there and it's a cinch the lawmakers wouldn't overlook such a chance.

There was a little flimflammery, but the people can only blame themselves. Many say they didn't know it was in there, but they opened the way with that 1966 vote.

NOW THE Legislature doesn't have to pass the new wage boost and at a time when the state is struggling with financial problems and the taxpayers are hard pressed. But do you need more than one guess as to what will happen?

B-2 LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, SUNDAY, APRIL 13, 1969

A warning to unions from CORE

"OUR ORGANIZATION calls upon you to endorse legislation which would release unwilling citizens from the captivity and tyranny of forced union membership for the privilege of earning a living."

Upon first glance at this memorandum to California state legislators, the reader naturally suspects some front for the Republican candidates of 1958, who went down to overwhelming defeat after their advocacy of the so-called right to work proposition. The latter, a constitutional amendment, was rejected by a majority of 990,000 out of 5.15 million votes cast. The proposal would have outlawed union shop labor contracts.

ACTUALLY, THIS latest attempt to revive an old issue appears on the letterhead of the Congress of Racial Equality, a pioneer and sometimes radical civil rights organization. It is signed by Ben Howard, chairman of Los Angeles CORE and vice chairman of the Western Region. Region.

The preamble to an accompanying resolution sets forth that "unions have failed to take affirmative action in the fight for equality between black and white."

It adds: ". . . in most labor organizations black people are merely captive members, forced to pay dues to organizations which offer only token (if any) opposition to the forces of bigotry, hatred and discrimination."

Unhappily, these charges hit too close to the facts to be conveniently shrugged aside by union leadership. They err in failing to note such honorable and outstanding exceptions as the United Auto Workers within the orbit of Walter Reuther. Perhaps they are overstated.

It is undeniable, though, that many union members, both officers and rank and file, have left themselves wide open to this form of flank attack. Their attitudes are such, subtle but unmistakable, that many black people hesitate to apply for membership in unions that are technically open to them.

CALIFORNIA SHOULD not have to go through another divisive conflict over a proposed right to work law. Such a fight would divert attention from much more needful issues, among them a legislative guaranty of more state support for local school systems. Besides, California is not one of those states where the backward Bourbon philosophy toward the labor peasantry still prevails.

But the unions, whether they like it or not, may get another right to work contest unless they reform their own practices to remove the last traces of bias toward minorities.

New try on gun control is welcome

STATE SEN. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, is making another effort to tighten California's gun-control laws. The cause is worth reviving, even though its prospect for success appears dim.

Shock waves set off by the two Kennedy assassinations and that of Dr. King should not be permitted to vanish without the practical memorial of tougher gun laws.

DEUKMEJIAN'S proposal is not as rigorous as this newspaper would like to see enacted. It requires no registration of guns for quick tracing of ownership. This is a reasonable control measure, but its omission may persuade a few timorous legislators to support the bill.

According to the Long Beach senator, the tighter regulations reflect recommendations of leading law enforcement officials. Two of the changes most likely to draw opposition of the powerful gun lobby would (a) prohibit mail-order sale of guns within the state and (b) lengthen the waiting period between purchase and delivery of concealable firearms from five days to 10 days.

Both of these proposals were explicitly endorsed last year by the California Peace Officers Association and the District Attorneys Association. Both were rejected earlier in 1968 by a Legislature oriented toward the defenders of an ancient past when guns were an essential item in frontier life.

THE DEUKMEJIAN bill also includes authority for peace officers to search for dangerous weapons on the person or in the auto of any person whom the officers have legal cause to detain or arrest. Because it is needed for the protection of officers — and the public — we support this grant of power; and if it is abused, the courts may be counted upon to restrain overzealous searches.

Even if the new attempt proves futile, California's legislators should have to record their votes on gun control every year until the law is firmly buttressed against the spread of violent crime.

Let's help jobless soon as possible

THE U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is urging the states to submit plans and ideas immediately for reducing welfare rolls by teaching dependents how to fill waiting jobs.

HEW has a right to make such a demand. Of the $5.7 billion spent in 1968 on aid to families with dependent children and aid to the disabled, blind and aged, 53 per cent came from federal programs.

BUT THE very names of those programs indicate the limited potential of job training for welfare recipients. Only 20,000 to 25,000 were removed from the rolls last year by this means, according to Mary E. Switzer, administrator of HEW's social and rehabilitation service.

It must be hoped that neither the federal government nor the states intend to lavish prodigal sums on trying to prepare — and pressure — mothers of dependent children, or the disabled, blind and aged to work full time. In these categories each individual is a separate case, to be appraised on the basis of individual circumstances and abilities.

"I really look to rehabilitation to be fruitful in breaking the cycle of dependency," Miss Switzer said. "A lot of people could be taken off welfare this way."

Reagan hands critics more ammunition

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Reagan's almost lemming-like predilection for providing his critics with ammunition has never been more apparent than during the past few weeks.

First there was his political test that is not a test for present and prospective members of the university and state college faculties.

And then there was his tax reform plan, which gives all the appearances of having been thrown together hastily and carelessly, and belies the probable fact that long, long hours were spent assessing various proposals and assembling the document legislators received Tuesday.

The governor said one of the objectives he hoped to attain through the proposal was the establishment of "a simplified, equitable and balanced tax system."

HAVING SAID that, he subsequently provided the following example of how his proposal simplifies the tax system.

When an employer prepares a paycheck, he would have to determine if the employe wishes his state income tax (A) withheld and sent immediately to the state; (B) withheld and placed in an account maintained by the employer until taxes are due, or (C) not withheld at all, with the employe retaining the responsibility of paying his state tax either quarterly, twice a year, or once a year, whichever he chooses.

In addition, the employer would have to determine if the employe falls into the category of those in their first year of employment in California, for whom per-paycheck withholding would be mandatory under the plan.

So despite the governor's contention that his proposal makes for a "simplified" tax system, it's going to mean considerable work for employers.

To ease their burden, Reagan suggests that the state give an employer saddled with this chore a tax credit,"to make up for the cost of the employer's added accounting expenses."

JUST WHAT the cost to the state might be for this tax credit, the governor isn't prepared to say.

He also isn't prepared to say how federal, state, and local government agencies are going to pay for this added accounting cost. A report prepared by the State Departments of Employment and Industrial Relations says that of the 7.7 million people employed in California, 1.4 million are employed by the various units of government, not including the military. And these units, of course, pay no taxes and so can receive no credit.

Gov. Reagan suggests that an essential element of "true tax reform" is the elimination of "a great many of the existing inconsistencies and loopholes," but here again, upon being asked specifically how he plans to accomplish this, the answer is ". . . there are some details of this kind to be worked out."

There will also be peace in Vietnam, as soon as some of the details can be worked out.

SOMETIMES, it seems as if Reagan doesn't appreciate just how much he is looked to for answers by the people he governs.

As a further example, in the same Wednesday press conference at which he attempted to explain his tax reform proposal, the governor responded to questions about the political balance of the university and college faculties.

He said his contention that there was an imbalance was "upheld, I see, by a number of educators, including Dr. Hayakawa, who said yes, this is true, and he said that there are a number of leftist groups in faculties that are seeking those of the same philosophy to join them, but he knows of no leftist groups in any of the faculties."

This reporter suggested that the governor had given the statement substance by repeating it, and by so doing had tarred every faculty on every campus in the state. He was asked to be specific.

Gov. Reagan said he had not attempted to "blanket-indict or name all faculty," that "some of our institutions . . . have no problem of the kind that have been besetting others," and that "I could name from personal experience departments in some of our campuses . . . that are not subject to this." He did not name any specific schools.

WHAT REAGAN does not understand, and should, is that if a parent about to send a teen-ager off to college reads the governor's statement that there are "leftist groups" in college faculties, that parent is naturally going to be concerned about the possibility his child might come under the influence of such a group.

It's not going to help the parent when the governor says the "leftist groups," with all that term implies, exist in some faculties but not in others, and doesn't name the schools where those contaminated faculties are located.

If the governor has knowledge that there are dangers of infection present in certain places, he should pinpoint where those places are. He does little good simply complaining about the lack of a counter-infection.

Time to take risk for peace

WE NOW have a chance to lead the world out of the darkness of nuclear terror into a brighter day of reason and restraint. What an opportunity for leadership. Let's seize it.

The key is the antiballistic missile (ABM) which introduces a new element into the balance of nuclear deterrence between the U.S. and the USSR. The ABM could trigger an increase in Soviet offensive strength and stimulate the production and deployment of a variety of new nuclear weapons.

President Nixon says the ABM will help the United States negotiate from a position of strength. I do not accept this view. Deployment of the ABM would only encourage the Russians, in an atmosphere of fear, to strengthen their offensive weapons systems. I believe the uncertainty in the strategic balance likely to result from deployment of the ABM would make arms control negotiations more difficult.

WE MUST also keep in mind that in the Soviet Union, as in our own country, there are men who must make estimates of enemy military power. The Soviet analysts, like our own, must make recommendations based on what they believe to be the enemy's maximum strength, not the minimum.

There is reason to believe that the Russians are developing an advanced ABM system which they have not yet deployed, in addition to the more rudimentary system now around Moscow. If we deploy our advanced safeguard system, we may give the Soviet hardliners the excuse they have been waiting for to deploy their new ABM system and manufacture other new offensive weapons.

The resulting spiral in the arms race would drain many more billions of dollars away from the world's critical human needs. Thus the ABM is symptomatic of the strategic nuclear arms race that has been underway in the world for the past 20 years.

In these years we have done what we had to do: We have stayed ahead in an arms race we tried very hard to avoid.

But "staying ahead" in the nuclear race is a highly relative concept in the late sixties. The fundamental political fact is that both sides now possess the means to inflict "unacceptable damage" on the other.

I BELIEVE a growing number of Americans are no longer willing to accept a spiraling arms race as the primary basis for our national security. In this nuclear age, true national security is not found in military weaponry alone, but rather in the sum of our political, social, economic, and military strength.

Now is the time to reassess our priorities. We simply have to face up to our urgent needs at home. We can't put if off any longer.

If we are going to continue spending more and more on arms, then we are going to have to raise taxes. We must rebuild our cities. Housing for the poor in our land is an outrage. We must provide better housing, better educational opportunity, better health care. We must alleviate the tragedy of hunger and malnutrition in this land of plenty. We have to make some hard choices. Even in rich America we must have priorities. There just isn't enough for all the "guns and all the butter."

We have the military strength needed to deter a nuclear attack — today and for the foreseeable future. Now we ought to make a determined and valiant effort to stop the arms race — first to slow it down, and then reverse it. This is the most urgent business of statesmanship in this century.

IF WE DON'T act decisively — now — we are going to find ourselves with weapons to defend our nation against external aggression while we are being destroyed from within by the social dynamite exploding under our own feet.

The ABM will not give us the safety and security we seek. It can only delude us into thinking we are safe when we ought to be working at the basic causes of unrest in the world.

As Pope John said, "In a world of constant want, there is no peace."

Each year the nations of the world spend over $150 billion for weapons. We spend over half of it. Add that up, year after year, and ask yourself what could have been done if only an extra $25 billion of it had been invested in underdeveloped nationas — or in our cities.

Let's take a risk for peace. It's really not so much a risk as the first step off a dangerous road.

Better divorce laws

EDITOR:

A new divorce bill has been passed by the California Senate and soon it will appear on the agenda of the State Assembly.

Let us hope this bill is passed and will become law. Our present divorce laws impose untold suffering on thousands of people, create hate and misery. No other law ever was more cruel, more undignified.

Most important item of the present divorce law is the one-year waiting period. It chains thousands of people that should be free, makes them remember bad things and forget good ones about their marriages, makes hell on earth of every single day. It reconciliates some couples to be sure, but the percentage is very small as the files of any Reconciliation Court will tell you. If one gets a divorce after 4 months instead of one year and love still exists, there is nothing to stop such a couple from getting married again.

Let't hope thousands of miserable people will gain freedom at last and breed happiness instead of hate.

Tax plan aids rich

EDITOR:

For the life of me I could never make sense out of Reagan's double talk press reports on tax savings. If all his promises come true, we will be living in a tax-free state. All civil service workers will be working for free also. This is wonderful, like in Cuba, there is no use for money, transportation is free, telephones are free, plenty of everything. This I know is not a Reagan ultra-conservative way of life.

The catch is, he has his IOUs for his supporters, big business. This is shown by taking 26 million from veterans tax exemption and transferring it to big business. That bogus 50 per cent property tax cut will be more than made up by the taxes he is proposing on gas, electric, etc. (working man's essentials). Where does he tax his big business supporters? Very deftly he robs Peter (tax payers) and pays Paul (big business).

A warning to unions from CORE

"OUR ORGANIZATION calls upon you to endorse legislation which would release unwilling citizens from the captivity and tyranny of forced union membership for the privilege of earning a living."

Upon first glance at this memorandum to California state legislators, the reader naturally suspects some front for the Republican candidates of 1958, who went down to overwhelming defeat after their advocacy of the so-called right to work proposition. The latter, a constitutional amendment, was rejected by a majority of 990,000 out of 5.15 million votes cast. The proposal would have outlawed union shop labor contracts.

ACTUALLY, THIS latest attempt to revive an old issue appears on the letterhead of the Congress of Racial Equality, a pioneer and sometimes radical civil rights organization. It is signed by Ben Howard, chairman of Los Angeles CORE and vice chairman of the Western Region. Region.

The preamble to an accompanying resolution sets forth that "unions have failed to take affirmative action in the fight for equality between black and white."

It adds: ". . . in most labor organizations black people are merely captive members, forced to pay dues to organizations which offer only token (if any) opposition to the forces of bigotry, hatred and discrimination."

Unhappily, these charges hit too close to the facts to be conveniently shrugged aside by union leadership. They err in failing to note such honorable and outstanding exceptions as the United Auto Workers within the orbit of Walter Reuther. Perhaps they are overstated.

It is undeniable, though, that many union members, both officers and rank and file, have left themselves wide open to this form of flank attack. Their attitudes are such, subtle but unmistakable, that many black people hesitate to apply for membership in unions that are technically open to them.

CALIFORNIA SHOULD not have to go through another divisive conflict over a proposed right to work law. Such a fight would divert attention from much more needful issues, among them a legislative guaranty of more state support for local school systems. Besides, California is not one of those states where the backward Bourbon philosophy toward the labor peasantry still prevails.

But the unions, whether they like it or not, may get another right to work contest unless they reform their own practices to remove the last traces of bias toward minorities.

New try on gun control is welcome

STATE SEN. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, is making another effort to tighten California's gun-control laws. The cause is worth reviving, even though its prospect for success appears dim.

Shock waves set off by the two Kennedy assassinations and that of Dr. King should not be permitted to vanish without the practical memorial of tougher gun laws.

DEUKMEJIAN'S proposal is not as rigorous as this newspaper would like to see enacted. It requires no registration of guns for quick tracing of ownership. This is a reasonable control measure, but its omission may persuade a few timorous legislators to support the bill.

According to the Long Beach senator, the tighter regulations reflect recommendations of leading law enforcement officials. Two of the changes most likely to draw opposition of the powerful gun lobby would (a) prohibit mail-order sale of guns within the state and (b) lengthen the waiting period between purchase and delivery of concealable firearms from five days to 10 days.

Both of these proposals were explicitly endorsed last year by the California Peace Officers Association and the District Attorneys Association. Both were rejected earlier in 1968 by a Legislature oriented toward the defenders of an ancient past when guns were an essential item in frontier life.

THE DEUKMEJIAN bill also includes authority for peace officers to search for dangerous weapons on the person or in the auto of any person whom the officers have legal cause to detain or arrest. Because it is needed for the protection of officers — and the public — we support this grant of power; and if it is abused, the courts may be counted upon to restrain overzealous searches.

Even if the new attempt proves futile, California's legislators should have to record their votes on gun control every year until the law is firmly buttressed against the spread of violent crime.

Let's help jobless soon as possible

THE U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is urging the states to submit plans and ideas immediately for reducing welfare rolls by teaching dependents how to fill waiting jobs.

HEW has a right to make such a demand. Of the $5.7 billion spent in 1968 on aid to families with dependent children and aid to the disabled, blind and aged, 53 per cent came from federal programs.

BUT THE very names of those programs indicate the limited potential of job training for welfare recipients. Only 20,000 to 25,000 were removed from the rolls last year by this means, according to Mary E. Switzer, administrator of HEW's social and rehabilitation service.

It must be hoped that neither the federal government nor the states intend to lavish prodigal sums on trying to prepare — and pressure — mothers of dependent children, or the disabled, blind and aged to work full time. In these categories each individual is a separate case, to be appraised on the basis of individual circumstances and abilities.

"I really look to rehabilitation to be fruitful in breaking the cycle of dependency," Miss Switzer said. "A lot of people could be taken off welfare this way."

Reagan hands critics more ammunition

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Reagan's almost lemming-like predilection for providing his critics with ammunition has never been more apparent than during the past few weeks.

First there was his political test that is not a test for present and prospective members of the university and state college faculties.

And then there was his tax reform plan, which gives all the appearances of having been thrown together hastily and carelessly, and belies the probable fact that long, long hours were spent assessing various proposals and assembling the document legislators received Tuesday.

The governor said one of the objectives he hoped to attain through the proposal was the establishment of "a simplified, equitable and balanced tax system."

HAVING SAID that, he subsequently provided the following example of how his proposal simplifies the tax system.

When an employer prepares a paycheck, he would have to determine if the employe wishes his state income tax (A) withheld and sent immediately to the state; (B) withheld and placed in an account maintained by the employer until taxes are due, or (C) not withheld at all, with the employe retaining the responsibility of paying his state tax either quarterly, twice a year, or once a year, whichever he chooses.

In addition, the employer would have to determine if the employe falls into the category of those in their first year of employment in California, for whom per-paycheck withholding would be mandatory under the plan.

So despite the governor's contention that his proposal makes for a "simplified" tax system, it's going to mean considerable work for employers.

To ease their burden, Reagan suggests that the state give an employer saddled with this chore a tax credit,"to make up for the cost of the employer's added accounting expenses."

JUST WHAT the cost to the state might be for this tax credit, the governor isn't prepared to say.

He also isn't prepared to say how federal, state, and local government agencies are going to pay for this added accounting cost. A report prepared by the State Departments of Employment and Industrial Relations says that of the 7.7 million people employed in California, 1.4 million are employed by the various units of government, not including the military. And these units, of course, pay no taxes and so can receive no credit.

Gov. Reagan suggests that an essential element of "true tax reform" is the elimination of "a great many of the existing inconsistencies and loopholes," but here again, upon being asked specifically how he plans to accomplish this, the answer is ". . . there are some details of this kind to be worked out."

There will also be peace in Vietnam, as soon as some of the details can be worked out.

SOMETIMES, it seems as if Reagan doesn't appreciate just how much he is looked to for answers by the people he governs.

As a further example, in the same Wednesday press conference at which he attempted to explain his tax reform proposal, the governor responded to questions about the political balance of the university and college faculties.

He said his contention that there was an imbalance was "upheld, I see, by a number of educators, including Dr. Hayakawa, who said yes, this is true, and he said that there are a number of leftist groups in faculties that are seeking those of the same philosophy to join them, but he knows of no leftist groups in any of the faculties."

This reporter suggested that the governor had given the statement substance by repeating it, and by so doing had tarred every faculty on every campus in the state. He was asked to be specific.

Gov. Reagan said he had not attempted to "blanket-indict or name all faculty," that "some of our institutions . . . have no problem of the kind that have been besetting others," and that "I could name from personal experience departments in some of our campuses . . . that are not subject to this." He did not name any specific schools.

WHAT REAGAN does not understand, and should, is that if a parent about to send a teen-ager off to college reads the governor's statement that there are "leftist groups" in college faculties, that parent is naturally going to be concerned about the possibility his child might come under the influence of such a group.

It's not going to help the parent when the governor says the "leftist groups," with all that term implies, exist in some faculties but not in others, and doesn't name the schools where those contaminated faculties are located.

If the governor has knowledge that there are dangers of infection present in certain places, he should pinpoint where those places are. He does little good simply complaining about the lack of a counter-infection.

Time to take risk for peace

WE NOW have a chance to lead the world out of the darkness of nuclear terror into a brighter day of reason and restraint. What an opportunity for leadership. Let's seize it.

The key is the antiballistic missile (ABM) which introduces a new element into the balance of nuclear deterrence between the U.S. and the USSR. The ABM could trigger an increase in Soviet offensive strength and stimulate the production and deployment of a variety of new nuclear weapons.

President Nixon says the ABM will help the United States negotiate from a position of strength. I do not accept this view. Deployment of the ABM would only encourage the Russians, in an atmosphere of fear, to strengthen their offensive weapons systems. I believe the uncertainty in the strategic balance likely to result from deployment of the ABM would make arms control negotiations more difficult.

WE MUST also keep in mind that in the Soviet Union, as in our own country, there are men who must make estimates of enemy military power. The Soviet analysts, like our own, must make recommendations based on what they believe to be the enemy's maximum strength, not the minimum.

There is reason to believe that the Russians are developing an advanced ABM system which they have not yet deployed, in addition to the more rudimentary system now around Moscow. If we deploy our advanced safeguard system, we may give the Soviet hardliners the excuse they have been waiting for to deploy their new ABM system and manufacture other new offensive weapons.

The resulting spiral in the arms race would drain many more billions of dollars away from the world's critical human needs. Thus the ABM is symptomatic of the strategic nuclear arms race that has been underway in the world for the past 20 years.

In these years we have done what we had to do: We have stayed ahead in an arms race we tried very hard to avoid.

But "staying ahead" in the nuclear race is a highly relative concept in the late sixties. The fundamental political fact is that both sides now possess the means to inflict "unacceptable damage" on the other.

L. A. C. SAYS

Going in circles

By L.A. COLLINS Sr.

ONE OF THE great problems in dealing with politics, bond issues and law enforcement is that so many people have fixed ideas which they refuse to subject to change regardless of the arguments given pro and con. In many cases our ideas are really prejudices we have carried with us throughout our adult lives. In the rapidly changing economic and social system we are experiencing we need to know what the other fellow is thinking. We can only find out by subjecting ourselves to the kind of information the other fellow depends on to justify himself in his attitudes. If we read some of what he reads and listen to the commentators he listens to we may find he has more right on his side than we have on ours. But we can only do this by going outside our regular circle of friends — who believe as do we. This is something few of us do. I am repeating an example of how so many of us fail to do this.

Many of us have the idea we are well informed because we know many people and do considerable reading, when actually we move in very narrow circles. If the average individual would count up the number of other individuals with whom he discusses important issues he would find it totals very few. If he analyzed his reading and TV habits he would find he reads those papers, magazines and writers with whom he agrees. This same principle can be applied to radio and television programs and commentators.

THE AVERAGE businessman gets up in the morning, reads his favorite paper and columns, drives to the office, sees the same people at lunch, plays golf with the same group, goes out to social functions with the same people, day after day. Because he has been busy and talked to a number of people he is apt to believe he has the pulse of public opinion. Many workers go through much the same routine. They go to lodge once a week or attend a union meeting. The result is most of them have been on a merry-go-round and rarely get off of it.

We all live under such stress in this country we find it hard to be objective in our thinking. Everyone is busy with making a living, social events, or promoting their union, business, church or club. We fall into ruts, which most of us never get out of during our lifetime. As we grow older we become more set in our ways and less tolerant of the views of others. This condition is also found among many younger people. But the younger they awaken, the more useful life they will lead.

There is only one way to get out of such a rut. That is to subject yourself to the thinking of those with whom you disagree. To accomplish a useful result you must open your mind and give careful consideration to the other side of the subject. That means reading writers you do not like. If you do not know what they are saying, how do you know how they are influencing other people? This goes for radio and television commentators and speakers representing political views opposite to your own.

MANY OF US have ideas about our young people which are quickly changed if we attend a few functions in our high schools where the leadership is in operation. We may condemn labor unions because of the disclosure that some labor leaders are racketeers. But many such critics have never sat in a union meeting or in negotiations with union leaders. They refuse to analyze what unions have done for the working people.

Much the same attitude is taken toward religions and racial groups which do not conform to those to which we belong. Certainly it applies to any person who can see no good in the other political party and no wrong in his own party. We are likely to regiment our minds and forget there are other forces stronger than any we possess which would enrich us if we made an effort to learn something about them. We are all helped by analyzing ourselves to see if we are on a mental merry-go-round.

Special welfare needs issue boils up

(First of Three Parts)

WHEN COUNTY Welfare Director Ellis P. Murphy attended a state welfare hearing in Sacramento recently, he missed an important date in Long Beach with 35 welfare mothers.

Murphy apparently had every intention of attending the local meeting, but he was forced to cancel out at the last hour because of the hearing up north.

Which may have been just as well for the welfare chief.

Certainly an appearance before a panel of state officials must be an easier chore than confronting 35 aggrieved mothers on relief. As it was, Murphy was represented at the meeting by his assistant, Leonard Panish, and three other officials. Had he been there, though, the welfare director would not only have had to listen to a lengthy recital of hardship cases, but to some angry words as well.

THE ANGER came out in bits and pieces during the meeting, but it was perhaps best summed up in a statement scribbled on some sheets of yellow legal paper by Mrs. Jean Rasmussen, a welfare mother of three and chairman of the Carmelitos Welfare Rights Organization.

"The Long Beach district (of the welfare department)," Mrs. Rasmussen had written, "has turned down many legitimate requests for special needs. They have been slow in getting these requests investigated, and on getting checks to recipients.

"Our needs are urgent," she added, "and we think the Department of Public Social Services is giving recipients lousy service and cheating them of their rights to these items.

"Social workers who have said they think we can use the broken-down refrigerators and mattresses we have now, don't have to use things like this. Would Pat Murphy like his 10 children sleeping on couches or eating spoiled food?"

For months now, welfare rights groups, assisted by the Legal Aid Foundation, have gone to bat for scores and possibly hundreds of clients whose requests for household items under special conditions of need have been felt to merit the prompt and sympathetic attention of the welfare department.

AND FOR MONTHS, say the rights people, many of the requests have been ignored, rejected or stalled in the bureaucratic pipeline. A survey last year by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Social Workers Union disclosed, for example, that it was seven times harder to get a refrigerator or stove in Long Beach than it was in South-Central Los Angeles.

Welfare officials dismissed the report as unscientific and biased, and said the Long Beach office was holding up its end of the welfare operation as well as the myriad rules and regulations allowed it to. But the rights groups — there are four in the district — continued to cry injustice.

On Feb. 6, they mounted a special needs campaign to dramatize the plight of many families, and to prod the administration into action. They filed 23 requests for badly needed household items — beds, stoves, refrigerators — in a single action. Many children on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, they asserted, were sleeping on floors. Others were getting insufficient food. Meat was rotting in old and broken-down refrigerators.

This came about, they said, because basic welfare grants were too low to meet a minimal standard of decent living, and special requests for supplementary items, which are perfrectly legitimate under the welfare code, were being held up by bureaucratic callousness or insensitivity.

THE RIGHTS PEOPLE felt the Long Beach district was being unduly stingy and tight-fisted when it came to special needs requests. Other districts, they maintained, were more liberal and humane.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By CHARLES SUTTON

And, indeed, there is reason to believe that the Long Beach district may have placed such an extraordinary emphasis on administrative tidiness that it neglected to meet some of the pressing human needs of its clients.

Moreover, according to observers, a number of local administrators and supervisors seemed so obsessed with fighting unionism in the office, and with furthering their own ambitions, that services suffered on those accounts, too.

When Panish suggested recently that in-service training be instituted in Long Beach, he put his finger on what some observers feel has been another weakness in the district.

The turnover in personnel is so high in the Department of Public Social Services, and the regulations so complex, that many workers — a lot of them new to the job — are not as conversant with the welfare code as they might be. As a result, many clients have been shortchanged not because of deliberate unconcern, but because of understandable ignorance.

Some social workers also talk of the military-type chain of command through which requests must be taken before they're approved — a procedure that not only indicates a lack of trust in the worker, but one that tends to discourage personal initiative as well.

Kris Ockershauser, a staff member of the Legal Aid Foundation, says many workers often approved requests for special needs, only to have them turned down at a higher level of administration. In time, many of the workers just stopped trying, she says.

ONE THING seems particularly evident in the case of Long Beach: the district, more than most, reflected the hard, punitive attitude toward welfare clients that one often finds in the public at large.

Whatever factors were responsible for Long Beach's restrictive practices, though, the fact is, changes are now taking place. The first was the recent transfer of Gordon Johnson, local director, to an administrative position in Los Angeles. Welfare officials insist that Johnson had "a long-standing reputation as a systems and procedures man," and that his transfer, therefore, was "a bona fide promotion."

Welfare rights people, along with a number of social workers and a few concerned community leaders, are not inclined to argue the point publicly. A number of them found the man personally likable. And a few of them believe it was not he who was responsible for Long Beach's unhappy reputation, but the supervisors under him.

Whatever the case, the critics are privately grateful for his promotion and feel that it marks the first step toward a reformation of the Long Beach office, and perhaps a more humane policy toward welfare clients here.

Brezhnev may be next for Kremlin ax

WASHINGTON — Leonid Brezhnev, the top Soviet communist, has come under harsh attack by some of his most influential comrades and may be losing his grip on the Kremlin. At one point last year, according to reliable intelligence, the Red Army marshals boldly demanded his resignation.

Intelligence reports depict Brezhnev as a bull-headed, unimaginative official who still has the mentality of a district leader.

His military intervention in Czechoslovakia last year, for example, was intended to appease his Red Army critics. Instead, it stirred up such hostility in the West that the alarmed marshals found themselves caught between two menaces — the bellicose Red Chinese on the East and the stiffening NATO nations on the West.

The Soviets have always had an obsession against becoming engaged on two fronts at the same time. Result: The Politburo, overruling Brezhnev, immediately sought to reduce tensions in the West.

INTELLIGENCE dispatches, incidentally, contain a fascinating sidelight on the Czech crisis. Ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who was ousted by Brezhnev, suddenly turned up at the Kremlin and demanded to see his successor. Khrushchev loudly warned that the Czech invasion could turn into a disaster unless Soviet troops were pulled out at once or a totally subservient, pro-Soviet government was installed in Czechoslovakia.

DREW PEARSON

Brezhnev gruffly refused to see Khrushchev and ignored the advice that his predecessor insisted be relayed to him. Instead, the Kremlin boss tried to bulldoze the Czech leaders with bluster, but in the end took only halfway measures.

Brezhnev is furious at the Czechs, according to intelligence reports, but even more furious at East Germany's Walter Ulbricht, who talked him into the move against Czechoslovakia. Ulbricht had warned that the liberalization of the Czech government posed a dangerous threat for all other Communist governments.

There is a growing possibility, meanwhile, that Brezhnev may soon follow Khrushchev into retirement.

BIGGEST boondoggle in Washington is the Oliver Wendell Holmes project to write a history of the Supreme Court. The justices of the court have nothing to do with the boondoggle. They are merely the innocent victims. Dr. Paul Freund of the Harvard Law School is the chief boondoggler.

What happened is that Justice Holmes, when he died at the age of 93, left all his fortune (about $250,000) to the United States government. Nothing was done with the money for some time, and interest accumulated.

Finally Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, then the Republican Senator from Holmes' native state of Massachusetts, decided that Holmes' gift had been ignored too long and helped pass a law allocating the money to write a history of the Supreme Court.

Justice Felix Frankfurter, also from Massachusetts, was consulted, and maneuvered to make his friend, Dr. Freund, editor-in-chief. Freund picked eight law professors, who were paid $12,000 each to write different periods of the court's history. This was 14 years ago and only one of them, the late Prof. Carl Swisher of Johns Hopkins, produced a final manuscript. He wrote on the Taney period from 1836 to 1865.

L. A. C. SAYS

Going in circles

By L.A. COLLINS Sr.

ONE OF THE great problems in dealing with politics, bond issues and law enforcement is that so many people have fixed ideas which they refuse to subject to change regardless of the arguments given pro and con. In many cases our ideas are really prejudices we have carried with us throughout our adult lives. In the rapidly changing economic and social system we are experiencing we need to know what the other fellow is thinking. We can only find out by subjecting ourselves to the kind of information the other fellow depends on to justify himself in his attitudes. If we read some of what he reads and listen to the commentators he listens to we may find he has more right on his side than we have on ours. But we can only do this by going outside our regular circle of friends — who believe as do we. This is something few of us do. I am repeating an example of how so many of us fail to do this.

Many of us have the idea we are well informed because we know many people and do considerable reading, when actually we move in very narrow circles. If the average individual would count up the number of other individuals with whom he discusses important issues he would find it totals very few. If he analyzed his reading and TV habits he would find he reads those papers, magazines and writers with whom he agrees. This same principle can be applied to radio and television programs and commentators.

THE AVERAGE businessman gets up in the morning, reads his favorite paper and columns, drives to the office, sees the same people at lunch, plays golf with the same group, goes out to social functions with the same people, day after day. Because he has been busy and talked to a number of people he is apt to believe he has the pulse of public opinion. Many workers go through much the same routine. They go to lodge once a week or attend a union meeting. The result is most of them have been on a merry-go-round and rarely get off of it.

We all live under such stress in this country we find it hard to be objective in our thinking. Everyone is busy with making a living, social events or promoting their union, business, church or club. We fall into ruts, which most of us never get out of during our lifetime. As we grow older we become more set in our ways and less tolerant of the views of others. This condition is also found among many younger people. But the younger they awaken, the more useful life they will lead.

There is only one way to get out of such a rut. That is to subject yourself to the thinking of those with whom you disagree. To accomplish a useful result you must open your mind and give careful consideration to the other side of the subject. That means reading writers you do not like. If you do not know what they are saying, how do you know how they are influencing other people? This goes for radio and television commentators and speakers representing political views opposite to your own.

MANY OF US have ideas about our young people which are quickly changed if we attend a few functions in our high schools where the leadership is in operation. We may condemn labor unions because of the disclosure that some labor leaders are racketeers. But many such critics have never sat in a union meeting or in negotiations with union leaders. They refuse to analyze what unions have done for the working people.

Much the same attitude is taken toward religions and racial groups which do not conform to those to which we belong. Certainly it applies to any person who can see no good in the other political party and no wrong in his own party. We are likely to regiment our minds and forget there are other forces stronger than any we possess which would enrich us if we made an effort to learn something about them. We are all helped by analyzing ourselves to see if we are on a mental merry-go-round.

Special welfare needs issue boils up

(First of Three Parts)

WHEN COUNTY Welfare Director Ellis P. Murphy attended a state welfare hearing in Sacramento recently, he missed an important date in Long Beach with 35 welfare mothers.

Murphy apparently had every intention of attending the local meeting, but he was forced to cancel out at the last hour because of the hearing up north.

Which may have been just as well for the welfare chief.

Certainly an appearance before a panel of state officials must be an easier chore than confronting 35 aggrieved mothers on relief. As it was, Murphy was represented at the meeting by his assistant, Leonard Panish, and three other officials. Had he been there, though, the welfare director would not only have had to listen to a lengthy recital of hardship cases, but to some angry words as well.

THE ANGER came out in bits and pieces during the meeting, but it was perhaps best summed up in a statement scribbled on some sheets of yellow legal paper by Mrs. Jean Rasmussen, a welfare mother of three and chairman of the Carmelitos Welfare Rights Organization.

"The Long Beach district (of the welfare department)," Mrs. Rasmussen had written, "has turned down many legitimate requests for special needs. They have been slow in getting these requests investigated, and on getting checks to recipients.

"Our needs are urgent," she added, "and we think the Department of Public Social Services is giving recipients lousy service and cheating them of their rights to these items.

"Social workers who have said they think we can use the broken-down refrigerators and mattresses we have now, don't have to use things like this. Would Pat Murphy like his 10 children sleeping on couches or eating spoiled food?"

For months now, welfare rights groups, assisted by the Legal Aid Foundation, have gone to bat for scores and possibly hundreds of clients whose requests for household items under special conditions of need have been felt to merit the prompt and sympathetic attention of the welfare department.

AND FOR MONTHS, say the rights people, many of the requests have been ignored, rejected or stalled in the bureaucratic pipeline. A survey last year by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Social Workers Union disclosed, for example, that it was seven times harder to get a refrigerator or stove in Long Beach than it was in South-Central Los Angeles.

Welfare officials dismissed the report as unscientific and biased, and said the Long Beach office was holding up its end of the welfare operation as well as the myriad rules and regulations allowed it to. But the rights groups — there are four in the district — continued to cry injustice.

On Feb. 6, they mounted a special needs campaign to dramatize the plight of many families, and to prod the administration into action. They filed 23 requests for badly needed household items — beds, stoves, refrigerators — in a single action. Many children on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, they asserted, were sleeping on floors. Others were getting insufficient food. Meat was rotting in old and broken-down refrigerators.

This came about, they said, because basic welfare grants were too low to meet a minimal standard of decent living, and special requests for supplementary items, which are perfectly legitimate under the welfare code, were being held up by bureaucratic callousness or insensitivity.

THE RIGHTS PEOPLE felt the Long Beach district was being unduly stingy and tight-fisted when it came to special needs requests. Other districts, they maintained, were more liberal and humane.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By CHARLES SUTTON

And, indeed, there is reason to believe that the Long Beach district may have placed such an extraordinary emphasis on administrative tidiness that it neglected to meet some of the pressing human needs of its clients.

Moreover, according to observers, a number of local administrators and supervisors seemed so obsessed with fighting unionism in the office, and with furthering their own ambitions, that services suffered on those accounts, too.

When Panish suggested recently that in-service training be instituted in Long Beach, he put his finger on what some observers feel has been another weakness in the district.

The turnover in personnel is so high in the Department of Public Social Services, and the regulations so complex, that many workers — a lot of them new to the job — are not as conversant with the welfare code as they might be. As a result, many clients have been short-changed not because of deliberate unconcern, but because of understandable ignorance.

Some social workers also talk of the military-type chain of command through which requests must be taken before they're approved — a procedure that not only indicates a lack of trust in the worker, but one that tends to discourage personal initiative as well.

Kris Ockershauser, a staff member of the Legal Aid Foundation, says many workers often approved requests for special needs, only to have them turned down at a higher level of administration. In time, many of the workers just stopped trying, she says.

ONE THING seems particularly evident in the case of Long Beach: the district, more than most, reflected the hard, punitive attitude toward welfare clients that one often finds in the public at large.

Whatever factors were responsible for Long Beach's restrictive practices, though, the fact is, changes are now taking place. The first was the recent transfer of Gordon Johnson, local director, to an administrative position in Los Angeles. Welfare officials insist that Johnson had "a long-standing reputation as a systems and procedures man," and that his transfer, therefore, was "a bona fide promotion."

Welfare rights people, along with a number of social workers and a few concerned community leaders, are not inclined to argue the point publicly. A number of them found the man personally likable. And a few of them believe it was not he who was responsible for Long Beach's unhappy reputation, but the supervisors under him.

Whatever the case, the critics are privately grateful for his promotion and feel that it marks the first step toward a reformation of the Long Beach office, and perhaps a more humane policy toward welfare clients here.

Brezhnev may be next for Kremlin ax

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Leonid Brezhnev, the top Soviet communist, has come under harsh attack by some of his most influential comrades and may be losing his grip on the Kremlin. At one point last year, according to reliable intelligence, the Red Army marshals boldly demanded his resignation.

Intelligence reports depict Brezhnev as a bull-headed, unimaginative official who still has the mentality of a district leader.

His military intervention in Czechoslovakia last year, for example, was intended to appease his Red Army critics. Instead, it stirred up such hostility in the West that the alarmed marshals found themselves caught between two menaces — the bellicose Red Chinese on the East and the stiffening NATO nations on the West.

The Soviets have always had an obsession against becoming engaged on two fronts at the same time. Result: The Politburo, overruling Brezhnev, immediately sought to reduce tensions in the West.

INTELLIGENCE dispatches, incidentally, contain a fascinating sidelight on the Czech crisis. Ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who was ousted by Brezhnev, suddenly turned up at the Kremlin and demanded to see his successor. Khrushchev loudly warned that the Czech invasion could turn into a disaster unless Soviet troops were pulled out at once or a totally subservient, pro-Soviet government was installed in Czechoslovakia.

Brezhnev gruffly refused to see Khrushchev and ignored the advice that his predecessor insisted be relayed to him. Instead, the Kremlin boss tried to bulldoze the Czech leaders with bluster, but in the end took only halfway measures.

Brezhnev is furious at the Czechs, according to intelligence reports, but even more furious at East Germany's Walter Ulbricht, who talked him into the move against Czechoslovakia. Ulbricht had warned that the liberalization of the Czech government posed a dangerous threat for all other Communist governments.

There is a growing possibility, meanwhile, that Brezhnev may soon follow Khrushchev into retirement.

BIGGEST boondoggle in Washington is the Oliver Wendell Holmes project to write a history of the Supreme Court. The justices of the court have nothing to do with the boondoggle. They are merely the innocent victims. Dr. Paul Freund of the Harvard Law School is the chief boondoggler.

What happened is that Justice Holmes, when he died at the age of 93, left all his fortune (about $250,000) to the United States government. Nothing was done with the money for some time, and interest accumulated.

Finally Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, then the Republican Senator from Holmes' native state of Massachusetts, decided that Holmes' gift had been ignored too long and helped pass a law allocating the money to write a history of the Supreme Court.

Justice Felix Frankfurter, also from Massachusetts, was consulted, and maneuvered to make his friend, Dr. Freund, editor-in-chief. Freund picked eight law professors, who were paid $12,000 each to write different periods of the court's history. This was 14 years ago and only one of them, the late Prof. Carl Swisher of Johns Hopkins, produced a final manuscript. He wrote on the Taney period from 1836 to 1865.

'Miss Welcome' Chosen

By TONY CILLO
Staff Writer

"Omigosh, yes!"

The question had been: Are you happy?

"I don't think that's a good enough word," said blonde, green-eyed Gayle Kovaly: "Ecstatic would be more like it."

Miss Kovaly was happy indeed. It was Saturday and the 2½-hour final judging was over.

Gayle Kovaly is the new "Miss Welcome to Long Beach."

Her selection as the new "Miss" climaxed the 1969 Miss Welcome to Long Beach Beauty Pageant, held in the Long Beach Concert Hall, and cohosted by the Mayor, the City Council and the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selected as runners-up to Miss Kovaly were Betty Beadon, first, and Jeri Pierce, second.

For the new Miss Welcome to Long Beach, what is expected to be a busy reign as the city's pert and pretty representative will begin quickly. She is to attend a reception for executives of a major company Tuesday.

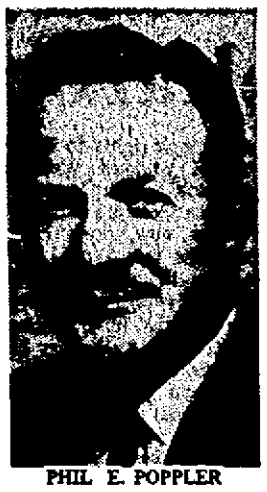

Miss Kovaly, 20, will represent Long Beach at the International Beauty Pageant in Tokyo Sept. 12-13.

After her victory, talking of the days which went before the final moment, Miss Kovaly said, "I've met more friends at this contest than all my years at school. This was really outstanding."

The new Miss Welcome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. Kovaly, plans to enroll at Long Beach City College and then USC. At the moment, she's undecided about a major course of study but, ". . . maybe education."

The 5-foot-8 Miss Welcome, a 1967 Jordan High School graduate, was active in student government. "I love all sports," she said and added she enjoys sewing.

She was with a modeling agency when the contest was mentioned. She said she thought, "Well, I'll try it."

PHIL E. POPPLER

OIL CONTRACTS QUESTIONED

Poppler Opens City Attorney Drive

Phil E. Poppler launched his campaign for Long Beach city attorney Saturday by posing the threat of a billion-dollar loss of public income chargeable to the city's oil contract.

If elected, Poppler said, he would "take a new and hard look" at the oil contract with THUMS, the contractor operating the tidelands oil fields for the city of Long Beach.

He charged that oil experts consulted by the Long Beach Civic League have advised that the artifically depressed price paid by the major oil companis to the city and state "will cost the taxpayers over a billion dollars in loss of public income due to the terms of the contract drawn by the city."

Said Poppler, "My concept of the duties of the city attorney would seem to differ considerably from those of the incumbent. It is my feeling that the city attorney should feel primarily responsible to the public instead of to the City Council.

"He is hired to represent the people, which sometimes may differ from advising the council. By that I mean that I feel the city attorney should assume an active role instead of a passive one. My opponent is content to do the work assigned to him by the council. I feel it should also be his duty to have an aggressive viewpoint toward the city's problems, and this viewpoint should include making suggestions and proposals to better solve the problems of the city."

POPPLER SAID the present city attorney was in large measure responsible for the present THUMS oil contract, adding, "I am very critical of it, as have been Congressman Craig Hosmer and others, for the reason that there is implicit in the contract a severe conflict of interest by reason of the fact the oil companies which buy our oil also set the price for it."

Poppler was born in 1916 in Grand Forks, N.D. He anticipated a career in public service with a five-year undergraduate course that included majors in accounting and municipal government, followed by additional degrees in civil engineering and law. He has practiced law for 20 years in Long Beach since World War II, when he served as a Coast Guard officer and later a Marine Corps fighter pilot.

Married to the former Barbara Jean Finnerty of Long Beach, he is the father of four sons and a daughter. His activities with young people include eight years coaching in the Kids Baseball Association, YMCA Indian Guides leader, Cubmaster, Scoutmaster and Explorer Post adviser. Claiming an expertise in survival training, he has guided groups to the top of Mount Whitney and has rafted the rapids of the Colorado River.

His sports affiliations include the Century Club and he is president of the Long Beach Junior Football League with over 400 youths involved. He has served on Gov. Brown's Special Commission on Narcotics and was active in the establishment of the California Rehabilitation Center, which he notes has been widely praised for pinneering new and more effective treatment methods. He is a member of the Mayor's Special Action Committee on Narcotics and Youth and is chairman of the Long Beach Bar Committee on Narcotics.

* * * *

POPPLER cited his espousal of the problems of the late Fred Wilson, the bearded bicyclist who "wintered" at Long Beach until he was incarcerated in Camrillo State Hospital after a jaywalking charge, as evidence of his concern for the welfare of the aged.

He is an active member of the Sierra Club, Los Altos YMCA, American Legion, Moose Lodge, Long Beach Civic League and is past commander of Flyers Post 765, and past district judge-advocate. Other affiliations include Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Phi, Sigma Delta Chi, Marine Corps League, Boy Scout Century Club and Civil Air Patrol.

In addition to holding an unlimited commercial pilot's license with airline ratings, Poppler was a three-year letterman in college football.

JOLLY GIRLS -- IT'S CHANGED

want to talk about it," Mrs. Herfter said, in response to questions about the Kirschke case.

Mrs. Norma McIntire, another companion, has moved from her sprawling, beautiful home on Nalu Circle in Huntington Harbor, and is now living in a nearby luxury apartment while she and her husband, John, await completion of their new, 5,400 square-foot home on Wandered Lane, on something known as the Fourth Island.

THE COUPLE recently purchased the Baruna, a 72-foot racing yawl widely known in boating circles, which is occupying much of their free time. McIntire, president of McIntire and Quiros Inc., a subsidiary of Gange Industries, has the Baruna — Goddess of the Sea in Balinese — moored in Long Beach Marina while he plots entering the sleek racing yacht in this year's TransPac contest.

"We still see Norma, and she's — as far as I know — still trying to contact her son, who left school shortly after the Kirschke thing," Mrs. Katz said.

The Jolly Girls, as Elaine Kirschke and her three constant companions came to be known, were the product of a gag, some volunteer work and a few drinking parties at the Yacht Club.

The group gained a sort of instant noteriety during the Kirschke murder investigation through rumors — mostly unfounded — about their booze and bedroom prowess — a sort of bar and boudoir hopscotch.

But the manager of the Yatch Club tells a different tale.

"They weren't a bad lot. They'd all get together down here to do volunteer work — mailing out notices and bills — and save the club a lot of money.

"Then, when this big old private club was almost empty, maybe they'd all get together in the bar for a drink or two," Everett Boyette said.

"They laughed and giggled a lot, so Ralph, the bartender started calling them the 'Jolly Girls' . . . because they were jollier than most.

"The name just sorta stuck. And then, after a trip to Hawaii a few years ago, the gals all got together and sent home one of those do-it-yourself newspaper headlines . . . where you punch out what you want to say and a machine prints the words . . . and sent it back to the club.

"Well, the headline said, 'JOLLY GIRLS HAVE ARRIVED IN HONOLULU' and the name Jolly Girls became permanent. But it didn't mean all everyone implied," Boyette added.

DESPITE what everyone thought at the time, publicity about the Jolly Girls didn't hurt the Yatch Club.

"In fact," Boyette said, "we had a big waiting list of people who wanted to join after the Jolly Girl thing."

At least for Pat Katz, the glamor of the Jolly Girls heyday has dimmed, the sparkle has tarnished and the sweet life has soured a bit.

"Well, since then I've become a mother-in-law which takes up some of my time and of course there's been the divorce. We went to court the morning after Elaine's body was found . . . the murders didn't really have anything to do with it all," she said

FORMERLY a professional dancer, Pat now teaches dancing in a converted family room to supplement her income. She moved away from her Rivo Alto home towards the end of last October.

The aftermath of the Kirschke slayings didn't end when the Jolly Girls appeared as witnesses, first before a Grand Jury, and then at the double murder trial of handsome 45-year-old Jack Kirschke, suspended Los Angeles County deputy district attorney, later convicted on two counts of first-degree murder.

"I began getting telephone threats, from a couple of women," Mrs. Katz said.

"Earlier, there were the calls from Jack while he was in jail. That sure didn't make things easier," she added.

Investigation revealed that Kirschke — from his cellblock in Los Angeles County jail — called Mrs. Katz and other prospective witnessses in an attempt to discourage their appearances at his murder trial.

KIRSCHKE'S attempts proved futile — he lost telephone privileges — the former prosecutor was convicted Dec. 19, 1967, on two murder counts and sentenced to die in California's lethal gas chamber at San Quentin.

Superior Court Judge Kathleen Parker later set aside the death penalty and sentenced Kirschke to life in prison. He is currently serving time at the state correctional facility at Chino, while awating action on a pending appeal.

"I know it's all supposed to be over, but I'm still afraid, and a little hesitant about opening my front door or having visitors," Mrs. Katz said, "even though I've changed my name and moved."

La dolce vita has changed — permanently — and it will never be the same.

"The moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on;
Nor all your piety nor wit,
Shall bring it back to cancel half a line;
Not all your tears erase one word of it.

buy more than 5th-grade educations for only one-third of the children."

Later, clarifying and amplifying in an over-the-coffee-cups interview, he left little doubt that North America is his ultimate target.

"It's more effective to talk only about another society — like Latin America," he dryly noted. "So come with me 'through the looking glass' to Latin America and, hopefully, you'll be able to look more penetratingly at the United States."

As for Illich, ordained a priest in 1951, holder of a doctorate in history, erstwhile Irish-Puerto Rican parish priest in New York City, former vice-chancellor of a Puerto Rican university:

"I meticulously abstained from all priestly duties once I realized I did not have the confidence of my ecclesiastical superiors. My only vows are now reading the holy office and remaining celibate."

A SEEMINGLY Russian name comes from a Dalmatian father, a native of that heavily Slavic province of the now-defunct Austro-Hungarian empire. Illich was born in Vienna in 1926, of an American mother.

Education in the Universities of Salzburg and Munich, Germany, Florence, Italy, and in the Gregorian University at Rome turned his thinking toward pedagogy. He remains —"technically, I think"—a Fordham University faculty member although now living and working in Mexico.

After leaving Puerto Rico—"I was thrown out for making fun of the bishops"—Illich and several like-minded colleagues founded what has been called a "secular monastery" on the Cuernavaca mountaintop. Their CIDOC, Centro Intercultural de Documentacion, seemingly is a cross between the Institute for Advanced Studies, RAND Corp. and a progressive social science-language school.

FROM THIS continuing thought process, done in large measure in seminars with other interested thinkers, emerge the views expressed in Long Beach. His personal views, he says, have been deeply colored by the modern French Christian-humanist Jacques Maritain, and by philosopher-writer Ernst Bloch.

Illich's opposition toward organized education stems from three basic points:

—"Two-thirds of the world's population (outside the U.S.) cannot be afforded education at present unit costs." In this country, he questions the growing expense of education.

—"The school system fails in its attempts to educate most lower-class students. Most (around the world) drop out before they become literate."

—There is a further failure, he says, to truly educate middle-class students beyond giving them "access to power, status and careers."

Illich views schools as "mass babysitters" that socially "grade and shade" young people, functions "not worth the cost."

Proposed as a possible alternative is a plan by which "anyone could be a teacher." In this idealized world a parent, friend, or even stranger who teaches a child a specific skill at a given level would be paid by the state. And the child who teaches himself would receive money and a chance for more learning.

'Miss Welcome' Chosen

By TONY CILLO
Staff Writer

"Omigosh, yes!"

The question had been: Are you happy?

"I don't think that's a good enough word," said blonde, green-eyed Gayle Kovaly. "Ecstatic would be more like it."

Miss Kovaly was happy indeed. It was Saturday and the 2½-hour final judging was over.

Gayle Kovaly is the new "Miss Welcome to Long Beach."

Her selection as the new "Miss" climaxed the 1969 Miss Welcome to Long Beach Beauty Pageant, held in the Long Beach Concert Hall, and cohosted by the Mayor, the City Council and the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selected as runners-up to Miss Kovaly were Betty Beadon, first, and Jeri Pierce, second.

For the new Miss Welcome to Long Beach, what is expected to be a busy reign as the city's pert and pretty representative will begin quickly. She is to attend a reception for executives of a major company Tuesday.

Miss Kovaly, 20, will represent Long Beach at the International Beauty Pageant in Tokyo Sept. 12-13.

After her victory, talking of the days which went before the final moment, Miss Kovaly said, "I've met more friends at this contest than all my years at school. This was really outstanding."

The new Miss Welcome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. Kovaly, plans to enroll at Long Beach City College and then USC. At the moment, she's undecided about a major course of study but, ". . . maybe education."

The 5-foot-8 Miss Welcome, a 1967 Jordan High School graduate, was active in student government. "I love all sports," she said and added she enjoys sewing.

She was with a modeling agency when the contest was mentioned. She said she thought, "Well, I'll try it."

PHIL E. POPPLER

OIL CONTRACTS QUESTIONED

Poppler Opens City Attorney Drive

Phil E. Poppler launched his campaign for Long Beach city attorney Saturday by posing the threat of a billion-dollar loss of public income chargeable to the city's oil contract.

If elected, Poppler said, he would "take a new and hard look" at the oil contract with THUMS, the contractor operating the tidelands oil fields for the city of Long Beach.

He charged that oil experts consulted by the Long Beach Civic League have advised that the artifically depressed price paid by the major oil companis to the city and state "will cost the taxpayers over a billion dollars in loss of public income due to the terms of the contract drawn by the city."

Said Poppler, "My concept of the duties of the city attorney would seem to differ considerably from those of the incumbent. It is my feeling that the city attorney should feel primarily responsible to the public instead of to the City Council.

"He is hired to represent the people, which sometimes may differ from advising the council. By that I mean that I feel the city attorney should assume an active role instead of a passive one. My opponent is content to do the work assigned to him by the council. I feel it should also be his duty to have an aggressive viewpoint toward the city's problems, and this viewpoint should include making suggestions and proposals to better solve the problems of the city."

POPPLER SAID the present city attorney was in large measure responsible for the present THUMS oil contract, adding, "I am very critical of it, as have been Congressman Craig Hosmer and others, for the reason that there is implicit in the contract a severe conflict of interest by reason of the fact the oil companies which buy our oil also set the price for it."

Poppler was born in 1916 in Grand Forks, N.D. He anticipated a career in public service with a five-year undergraduate course that included majors in accounting and municipal government, followed by additional degrees in civil engineering and law. He has practiced law for 20 years in Long Beach since World War II, when he served as a Coast Guard officer and later a Marine Corps fighter pilot.

Married to the former Barbara Jean Finnerty of Long Beach, he is the father of four sons and a daughter. His activities with young people include eight years coaching in the Kids Baseball Association, YMCA Indian Guides leader, Cubmaster, Scoutmaster and Explorer Post adviser. Claiming an expertise in survival training, he has guided groups to the top of Mount Whitney and has rafted the rapids of the Colorado River.

His sports affiliations include the Century Club and he is president of the Long Beach Junior Football League with over 400 youths involved. He has served on Gov. Brown's Special Commission on Narcotics and was active in the establishment of the California Rehabilitation Center, which he notes has been widely praised for pioneering new and more effective treatment methods. He is a member of the Mayor's Special Action Committee on Narcotics and Youth and is chairman of the Long Beach Bar Committee on Narcotics.

* * * *

POPPLER cited his espousal of the problems of the late Fred Wilson, the bearded bicyclist who "wintered" at Long Beach until he was incarcerated in Camrillo State Hospital after a jaywalking charge, as evidence of his concern for the welfare of the aged.

He is an active member of the Sierra Club, Los Altos YMCA, American Legion, Moose Lodge, Long Beach Civic League and is past commander of Flyers Post 765, and past district judge-advocate. Other affiliations include Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Phi, Sigma Delta Chi, Marine Corps League, Boy Scout Century Club and Civil Air Patrol.

In addition to holding an unlimited commercial pilot's license with airline ratings, Poppler was a three-year letterman in college football.

JOLLY GIRLS -- IT'S CHANGED

want to talk about it," Mrs. Herfter said, in response to questions about the Kirschke case.

Mrs. Norma McIntire, another companion, has moved from her sprawling, beautiful home on Nalu Circle in Huntington Harbor, and is now living in a nearby luxury apartment while she and her husband, John, await completion of their new, 5,400 square-foot home on Wandered Lane, on something known as the Fourth Island.

THE COUPLE recently purchased the Baruna, a 72-foot racing yawl widely known in boating circles, which is occupying much of their free time. McIntire, president of McIntire and Quiros Inc., a subsidiary of Gange Industries, has the Baruna — Goddess of the Sea in Balinese — moored in Long Beach Marina while he plots entering the sleek racing yacht in this year's TransPac contest.

"We still see Norma, and she's — as far as I know — still trying to contact her son, who left school shortly after the Kirschke thing," Mrs. Katz said.

The Jolly Girls, as Elaine Kirschke and her three constant companions came to be known, were the product of a gag, some volunteer work and a few drinking parties at the Yacht Club.

The group gained a sort of instant notericty during the Kirschke murder investigation through rumors — mostly unfounded — about their booze and bedroom prowess — a sort of bar and boudoir hopscotch.

But the manager of the Yatch Club tells a different tale.

"They weren't a bad lot. They'd all get together down here to do volunteer work — mailing out notices and bills — and save the club a lot of money.

"Then, when this big old private club was almost empty, maybe they'd all get together in the bar for a drink or two," Everett Boyette said.

"They laughed and giggled a lot, so Ralph, the bartender started calling them the 'Jolly Girls' . . . because they were jollier than most.

"The name just sorta stuck. And then, after a trip to Hawaii a few years ago, the gals all got together and sent home one of those do-it-yourself newspaper headlines . . . where you punch out what you want to say and a machine prints the words . . . and sent it back to the club.

"Well, the headline said, 'JOLLY GIRLS HAVE ARRIVED IN HONOLULU' and the name Jolly Girls became permanent. But it didn't mean all everyone implied," Boyette added.

DESPITE what everyone thought at the time, publicity about the Jolly Girls didn't hurt the Yatch Club.

"In fact," Boyette said, "we had a big waiting list of people who wanted to join after the Jolly Girl thing."

At least for Pat Katz, the glamor of the Jolly Girls heyday has dimmed, the sparkle has tarnished and the sweet life has soured a bit.

"Well, since then I've become a mother-in-law which takes up some of my time and of course there's been the divorce. We went to court the morning after Elaine's body was found . . . the murders didn't really have anything to do with it all," she said

FORMERLY a professional dancer, Pat now teaches dancing in a converted family room to supplement her income. She moved away from her Rivo Alto home towards the end of last October.

The aftermath of the Kirschke slayings didn't end when the Jolly Girls appeared as witnesses, first before a Grand Jury, and then at the double murder trial of handsome 45-year-old Jack Kirschke, suspended Los Angeles County deputy district attorney, later convicted on two counts of first-degree murder.

"I began getting telephone threats, from a couple of women," Mrs. Katz said.

"Earlier, there were the calls from Jack while he was in jail. That sure didn't make things easier," she added.

Investigation revealed that Kirschke — from his cellblock in Los Angeles County jail — called Mrs. Katz and other prospective witnessses in an attempt to discourage their appearances at his murder trial.

KIRSCHKE'S attempts proved futile — he lost telephone privileges — the former prosecutor was convicted Dec. 19, 1967, on two murder counts and sentenced to die in California's lethal gas chamber at San Quentin.

Superior Court Judge Kathleen Parker later set aside the death penalty and sentenced Kirschke to life in prison. He is currently serving time at the state correctional facility at Chino, while awating action on a pending appeal.

"I know it's all supposed to be over, but I'm still afraid, and a little hesitant about opening my front door or having visitors," Mrs. Katz said, "even though I've changed my name and moved."

La dolce vita has changed — permanently — and it will never be the same.

"The moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on;
Nor all your piety nor wit,
Shall bring it back to cancel half a line;
Not all your tears erase one word of it.
Omar Khayyam from "The Rubaiyat"

buy more than 5th-grade educations for only one-third of the children."

Later, clarifying and amplifying in an over-the-coffee-cups interview, he left little doubt that North America is his ultimate target.

"It's more effective to talk only about another society — like Latin America," he dryly noted. "So come with me 'through the looking glass' to Latin America and, hopefully, you'll be able to look more penetratingly at the United States."

As for Illich, ordained a priest in 1951, holder of a doctorate in history, erstwhile Irish-Puerto Rican parish priest in New York City, former vice-chancellor of a Puerto Rican university:

"I meticulously abstained from all priestly duties once I realized I did not have the confidence of my ecclesiastical superiors. My only vows are now reading the holy office and remaining celibate."

A SEEMINGLY Russian name comes from a Dalmatian father, a native of that heavily Slavic province of the now-defunct Austro-Hungarian empire. Illich was born in Vienna in 1926, of an American mother.

Education in the Universities of Salzburg and Munich, Germany, Florence, Italy, and in the Gregorian University at Rome turned his thinking toward pedagogy. He remains —"technically, I think"—a Fordham University faculty member although now living and working in Mexico.

After leaving Puerto Rico—"I was thrown out for making fun of the bishops"—Illich and several like-minded colleagues founded what has been called a "secular monastery" on the Cuernavaca mountaintop. Their CIDOC, Centro Intercultural de Documentacion, seemingly is a cross between the Institute for Advanced Studies, RAND Corp. and a progressive social science-language school.

FROM THIS continuing thought process, done in large measure in seminars with other interested thinkers, emerge the views expressed in Long Beach. His personal views, he says, have been deeply colored by the modern French Christian-humanist Jacques Maritain, and by philosopher-writer Ernst Bloch.

Illich's opposition toward organized education stems from three basic points:

—"Two-thirds of the world's population (outside the U.S.) cannot be afforded education at present unit costs." In this country he questions the growing expense of education.

—"The school system fails in its attempts to educate most lower-class students. Most (around the world) drop out before they become literate."

—There is a further failure, he says, to truly educate middle-class students beyond giving them "access to power, status and careers."

Illich views schools as "mass babysitters" that socially "grade and shade" young people, functions "not worth the cost."

Proposed as a possible alternative is a plan by which "anyone could be a teacher." In this idealized world a parent, friend, or even stranger who teaches a child a specific skill at a given level would be paid by the state. And the child who teaches himself would receive money and a chance for more learning.

WEEK IN REVIEW

NATO Ministers Eye Russ Talks

United Press International

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) celebrated its 20th anniversary this week against a background of Soviet reaction that mingled hostility with guarded overtures for a European settlement.

President Nixon, addressing Nato foreign and defense ministers at a formal anniversary ceremony Thursday, said the alliance should be ready to extend the hand of friendship to the Soviet bloc if a genuine settlement appeared possible.

He learned, however, that it would be unwise to relax NATO's vigilance until it is clear that proposals for a settlement have the genuine political content that would prevent detente from becoming delusion."

AS NIXON SPOKE, officials of the alliance were considering a hint from the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, that the United States would not be automatically excluded from an all-European security conference proposed by the Warsaw Pact (Soviet-bloc) alliance.

Balanced against this implication of amity was the news that seven Soviet warships had entered the Mediterranean to reinforce the 30-ship Russian fleet already on station there.

And on Wednesday, the Soviet government published a statement that denounced NATO as the main threat to world peace and accused it of "inspiring counter-revolutionary coup attempts" in Communist nations.

THERE WAS NOTHING NEW in the Soviet talk about all-European security talks. Previous proposals for such a conference, however, had stipulated that the United States must be excluded.

This time, U.S. sources said, Dobrynin indicated Russia would not object to U.S. participation, provided it was proposed by the European nations concerned.

AROUND THE WORLD:

SAIGON — A decline in battlefield activity last week reduced combat losses on both sides to the lowest level since this year's Communist offensive began. Official figures list 222 Americans, 246 South Vietnamese and 3,200 enemy soldiers killed.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously that reading or viewing obscene material in the privacy of the home is not unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON — Jordan's King Hussein, speaking with the "personal authority" of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, offered Israel a pledge of free navigation through the Suez Canal. This offer, advanced for the first time, was part of a six-point peace package proposed by Hussein.

HOUSTON — Haskell Karp, the first man ever to have an artificial heart implanted in his body, died of kidney failure and pneumonia soon after the plastic device which had kept him alive for 63 hours was replaced by a transplanted heart.

NOME, Alaska — Three Republican senators withdrew from an investigating party led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, charging that the Massachusetts Democrat was using the tour to gain personal publicity at the taxpayers' expense. The Republicans, George Murphy of California, Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma and William B. Saxbe of Ohio, were members of a subcommittee investigating the education of Alaska's Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts.

He learned, however, that it would be unwise to relax NATO's vigilance until it is clear that proposals for a settlement have the genuine political content that would prevent detente from becoming delusion."

AS NIXON SPOKE, officials of the alliance were considering a hint from the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, that the United States would not be automatically excluded from an all-European security conference proposed by the Warsaw Pact (Soviet-bloc) alliance.

Balanced against this implication of amity was the news that seven Soviet warships had entered the Mediterranean to reinforce the 30-ship Russian fleet already on station there.

And on Wednesday, the Soviet government published a statement that denounced NATO as the main threat to world peace and accused it of "inspiring counter-revolutionary coup attempts" in Communist nations.

THERE WAS NOTHING NEW in the Soviet talk about all-European security talks. Previous proposals for such a conference, however, had stipulated that the United States must be excluded.

This time, U.S. sources said, Dobrynin indicated Russia would not object to U.S. participation, provided it was proposed by the European nations concerned.

AROUND THE WORLD:

SAIGON — A decline in battlefield activity last week reduced combat losses on both sides to the lowest level since this year's Communist offensive began. Official figures list 222 Americans, 246 South Vietnamese and 3,200 enemy soldiers killed.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously that reading or viewing obscene material in the privacy of the home is not unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON — Jordan's King Hussein, speaking with the "personal authority" of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, offered Israel a pledge of free navigation through the Suez Canal. This offer, advanced for the first time, was part of a six-point peace package proposed by Hussein.

HOUSTON — Haskell Karp, the first man ever to have an artificial heart implanted in his body, died of kidney failure and pneumonia soon after the plastic device which had kept him alive for 63 hours was replaced by a transplanted heart.

NOME, Alaska — Three Republican senators withdrew from an investigating party led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, charging that the Massachusetts Democrat was using the tour to gain personal publicity at the taxpayers' expense. The Republicans, George Murphy of California, Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma and William B. Saxbe of Ohio, were members of a subcommittee investigating the education of Alaska's Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts.

Mozart Concerto Elegantly Played

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

After hearing the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a large and outdoorsy gymnasium Thursday, it was good to hear it in a real auditorium again, the following evening.

And it was a delight to hear pianist Alfred Brendel play with the orchestra again — his last Southland visit was in the fall of 1966 — at this closing event in the orchestra's 25th Long Beach season, Friday night in Municipal Auditorium's Concert Hall.

Brendel's portion of the program encompassed Mozart's C Major Piano Concerto, K. 503, and proved to be, in more than one way, the focal point of the evening.

Which is not to say the orchestra did its best playing at this point — quite the contrary — but, between the elegantly understated playing of the Austrian pianist, and the ebullient, aristocratic work itself, Mozart, and joy, reigned.

Still, we ought, for the record, to list three minor reservations about this reading of 503. First, the instrument Brendel was given to play, a Steinway to be sure, but an unsympathetic, edgy-toned one.

Then, the rough and desultory accompaniment provided by guest conductor Antal Dorati, whose salutory manner toward the piece became the model for the orchestra's haphazard playing. Finally, the patchwork, overbusy cadenza written by Brendel himself, a ghastly cadenza, easily the least appropriate one, among several others available, we have heard to this work.

Experienceing condutor Dorati's own First Symphony for the second time in 26 hours, I did not change my mind about the piece's overall merits. But, I found new evidences on which to base my earlier assessment.

For a work written in 1957, for example, this one is already rank with age. However, if it were not a "serious" piece, if it were, say, movie background music from around 1944 (and it could be that without the 'change of a single note), it might be the work of, say, the pre-"Spellbound" Rozsa — that is, if Rozsa were suddenly deprived of his melodic gifts. If one thinks of these, and other, things while hearing Dorati's mixed-styles Symphony, it can seem quite pleasant and bearable.

Dorati opened the program with the Prelude and Good Friday Spell from Wagner's "Parsifal." The orchestra began somewhat raggedly, later tightened its own reins — Friday, as Thursday, the conductor's thoughts seemed to be elsewhere than on business — and, by the end of the evening (and our season!), was playing like it can.

Ex-Queen of Spain Lapses Into a Coma

LUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — Former Queen Victoria-Eugenie of Spain, last surviving granddaughter of England's Queen Victoria, lapsed into a coma Saturday. It was feared she would not recover.

The former queen, 82, has been seriously ill for several weeks. She is the great aunt of Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret.

Psychiatrist Famed for Hess Study Dies

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. John Rawlings Rees, the psychiatrist who examined Rudolph Hess, Hitler's deputy in World War II, died Friday night. Rees was 78.

Rees was a consultant psychiatrist to the British army when Hess parachuted into Scotland on what he called a mission of peace and was captured.

EARL WILSON

Caine Upset by Oriental Floozies

OLANGAPO, Philippines — Here in a smallish city where there are an estimated 10,000 "housetitutes," I discovered Michael Caine sadly contemplating a beer at the outdoor commissary for the picture, "Too Late the Hero," while deploring the troubles he has with girls of the Orient.

Over in Hong Kong, they'd been blasting Michael for supposedly observing that Chinese girls have good legs but are flat-chested.

"How would I know about their chests?" demanded Michael, denying he'd ever said it. "I couldn't even get a dinner date with one of them.

"I got the impression that Chinese parents don't like their daughters being seen with a Caucasian. Put their mothers say, 'But I wouldn't want my daughter to marry one.' The girls hinted that if they went out with me, they would get a bad name and no Chinese man would marry them after that."

* * * *

MICHAEL HAS Characterized the alleged remarks about Chinese girls being flat-chested as "a tempest in a C-Cup."

"A friend interceded for me to get me a dinner date with a Chinese girl," Michael said. "The girl said, 'Mr. Caine would have to ring up my mother.' I decided I'd rather eat alone than ring up a bunch of mothers, so that was the end of that."

From what he's seen of the Filipino girls, while doing a war film for Bob Aldrich and ABC Pictures Corp., Michael finds them beautiful with long legs and "fabulous skins."

"They're so pretty it's a pity," he says, "that so many of them around Olangapo get involved with the wrong people" and wind up soliciting servicemen in doorways of this city, which at night looks like Sin City — blazing neons, countless bars, like Cicero used to be long ago.

* * * *

FOR THAT and other reasons, Michael is determined to do no more films "out here in the tulies."

"I'm fed up sitting it out in the tulies," he said. "I've done seven films in the tulies. You chase girls you wouldn't normally look at, and you don't even catch them. When there are seven girls and 110 men, there's no such thing as an ugly girl, and the first one to realize that is an ugly girl . . ."

Caine had his 36th birthday here. "I hope to get married again sometime," he said. "My daughter Monique, who's 12, is liable to be a mother before I'm a father again."

With no girls and no amusements of other kinds in the tulies, Michael said, "Do you know what you do in the tulies? You do nothing. Somebody said it is a very quick way to become an alcoholic, and I'm not even a drinker." He paused. "Could we have another beer?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: John C. Bruno described a B'way character: "He's so two-faced he could give himself mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The corkscrew opens the bottle, and the bottle opens the man."

EARL'S PEARLS: A man told his teen-age son, "I'll make a deal with you. You can start using my car once a week if you start using my razor once a week."

Murray Kouvant read that President Nixon's N.Y. apartment is for sale, and said, "It's the usual story — the owner gets a new job in another city . . ." That's earl, brother.

Mozart Concerto Elegantly Played

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

After hearing the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a large and outdoorsy gymnasium Thursday, it was good to hear it in a real auditorium again, the following evening.

And it was a delight to hear pianist Alfred Brendel play with the orchestra again — his last Southland visit was in the fall of 1966 — at this closing event in the orchestra's 25th Long Beach season, Friday night in Municipal Auditorium's Concert Hall.

Brendel's portion of the program encompassed Mozart's C Major Piano Concerto, K. 503, and proved to be, in more than one way, the focal point of the evening.

Which is not to say the orchestra did its best playing at this point — quite the contrary — but, between the elegantly understated playing of the Austrian pianist, and the ebullient, aristocratic work itself, Mozart, and joy, reigned.

Still, we ought, for the record, to list three minor reservations about this reading of 503. First, the instrument Brendel was given to play, a Steinway to be sure, but an unsympathetic, edgy-toned one.

Then, the rough and desultory accompaniment provided by guest conductor Antal Dorati, whose salutory manner toward the piece became the model for the orchestra's haphazard playing. Finally, the patchwork, overbusy cadenza written by Brendel himself, a ghastly cadenza, easily the least appropriate one, among several others available, we have heard to this work.

Experienceing condutor Dorati's own First Symphony for the second time in 26 hours, I did not change my mind about the piece's overall merits. But, I found new evidences on which to base my earlier assessment.

For a work written in 1957, for example, this one is already rank with age. However, if it were not a "serious" piece, if it were, say, movie background music from around 1944 (and it could be that without the change of a single note), it might be the work of, say, the pre-"Spellbound" Rozsa — that is, if Rozsa were suddenly deprived of his melodic gifts. If one thinks of these, and other, things while hearing Dorati's mixed-styles Symphony, it can seem quite pleasant and bearable.

Doratie opened the program with the Prelude and Good Friday Spell from Wagner's "Parsifal." The orchestra began somewhat raggedly, later tightened its own reins — Friday, as Thursday, the conductor's thoughts seemed to be elsewhere than on business — and, by the end of the evening (and our season!), was playing like it can.

Ex-Queen of Spain Lapses Into a Coma

LUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — Former Queen Victoria-Eugenie of Spain, last surviving granddaughter of England's Queen Victoria, lapsed into a coma Saturday. It was feared she would not recover.

The former queen, 82, has been seriously ill for several weeks. She is the great aunt of Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret.

Psychiatrist Famed for Hess Study Dies

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. John Rawlings Rees, the psychiatrist who examined Rudolph Hess, Hitler's deputy in World War II, died Friday night. Rees was 78.

Rees was a consultant psychiatrist to the British army when Hess parachuted into Scotland on what he called a mission of peace and was captured.

EARL WILSON

Caine Upset by Oriental Floozies

OLANGAPO, Philippines — Here in a smallish city where there are an estimated 10,000 "housetitutes," I discovered Michael Caine sadly contemplating a beer at the outdoor commissary for the picture, "Too Late the Hero," while deploring the troubles he has with girls of the Orient.

Over in Hong Kong, they'd been blasting Michael for supposedly observing that Chinese girls have good legs but are flat-chested.

"How would I know about their chests?" demanded Michael, denying he'd ever said it. "I couldn't even get a dinner date with one of them.

"I got the impression that Chinese parents don't like their daughters being seen with a Caucasian. I'm their mothers say, 'But I wouldn't want my daughter to marry one.' The girls hinted that if they went out with me, they would get a bad name and no Chinese man would marry them after that."

* * * *

MICHAEL HAS Characterized the alleged remarks about Chinese girls being flat-chested as "a tempest in a C-Cup."

"A friend interceded for me to get me a dinner date with a Chinese girl," Michael said. "The girl said, 'Mr. Caine would have to ring up my mother.' I decided I'd rather eat alone than ring up a bunch of mothers, so that was the end of that."

From what he's seen of the Filipino girls, while doing a war film for Bob Aldrich and ABC Pictures Corp., Michael finds them beautiful with long legs and "fabulous skins."

"They're so pretty it's a pity," he says, "that so many of them around Olangapo get involved with the wrong people" and wind up soliciting servicemen in doorways of this city, which at night looks like Sin City — blazing neons, countless bars, like Cicero used to be long ago.

* * * *

FOR THAT and other reasons, Michael is determined to do no more films "out here in the tulies."

"I'm fed up sitting it out in the tulies," he said. "I've done seven films in the tulies. You chase girls you wouldn't normally look at, and you don't even catch them. When there are seven girls and 110 men, there's no such thing as an ugly girl, and the first one to realize that is an ugly girl . . ."

Caine had his 36th birthday here. "I hope to get married again sometime," he said. "My daughter Monique, who's 12, is liable to be a mother before I'm a father again."

With no girls and no amusements of other kinds in the tulies, Michael said, "Do you know what you do in the tulies? You do nothing. Somebody said it is a very quick way to become an alcoholic, and I'm not even a drinker." He paused. "Could we have another beer?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: John C. Bruno described a B'way character: "He's so two-faced he could give himself mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The corkscrew opens the bottle, and the bottle opens the man."

EARL'S PEARLS: A man told his teen-age son, "I'll make a deal with you. You can start using my car once a week if you start using my razor once a week."

Murray Kouvant read that President Nixon's N.Y. apartment is for sale, and said, "It's the usual story — the owner gets a new job in another city . . ." That's earl, brother.

ABOARD USS SOMERS

Warship's Officers Change

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Cmdr. Randall W. Young will long remember his change of command on the missile destroyer USS Somers.

Immediately after Cmdr. Hugh L. Webster assumed the responsibility for the Somers, Cmdr. Young became Capt. Young.

And moored next to the Somers on Pier E Friday was the missile frigate USS England where the new captain previously served as executive officer.

To the England's right was the world's largest supply ship, USS Camden, where Capt. Young will become commanding officer on May 15.

Rear Adm. Lloyd R. Vasey, Long Beach Cruiser-Destroyer Group commander, lauded Capt. Young for his and his ship's outstanding work in getting ready for deployment.

CAPT. R. W. YOUNG

CMDR. H. L. WEBSTER

The Somers is the sixth ship to bear the name of Lt. Richard Somers, hero of the Tripoli Wars, and was reconverted 14 months ago as a missile destroyer from a conventional one.

The ship holds several Tartar missile accuracy records on Pacific range.

This is Cmdr. Webster's third tour in Long Beach, having served on the destroyer USS Brown and as executive officer of the Edson.

An interested guest from Los Altos Hills, Calif., was Capt. Hugh P. Webster (ret.), engineering officer on the fourth Somers in 1928-29, and Cmdr. Webster's father.

Layout, Copy Clinic is Set for Tuesday

A national advertising expert will conduct a clinic on copy and layout for merchants and the Independent, Press-Telegram retail advertising staff Tuesday at the Lafeyette Hotel.

The clinic will be conducted by James P. Healy Jr., retail sales promotion manager of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publisher's Association.

Healy will cover topics such as creative advertising, making ad space count and building a recognizable ad style.

Further information can be obtained by contacting this newspaper's retail advertising department.

Hospital Babies Die

MANCHESTER, Eng. (UPI) — A "very deadly" strain of gastroenteritis has killed 15 babies since Jan. 1 at a children's hospital here, medical officials reported Saturday.

JAMES P. HEALY JR.

Pacific Fleet Chief to Talk

Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander-in-chief Pacific (CINCPAC), will address Town Hall of California Tuesday noon in Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel.

He will speak on "The Pacific and National Power" after conducting a news conference at 10:30 a.m. This is his first West Coast appearance since taking over as CINCPAC on July 31, 1968, from Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp.

CITIES SEWER SYSTEM VOTE SET FOR JULY 8

Citizens in Long Beach and four nearby cities will vote July 8 on whether to build a $5-million sewer system with cash or borrowed money.

Engineers reported the work is necessary, and the officers of County Sanitation District 19 approved a resolution Wednesday to call the election.

* * * *

THE OFFICERS are the mayors of Long Beach, Cerritos, Artesia, Hawaiian Gardens and Lakewood. Supervisor Burton Chace represents the interests of unincorporated territories in the district.

John D. Parkhurst, chief engineer for all county sanitation districts, said a bond issue could reduce property tax bills by 16 cents. The item currently is 50 cents per 100 dollars of assessed valuation.

"All this assumes a 5 per cent interest figure," Parkhurst said.

And moored next to the Somers on Pier E Friday was the missile frigate USS England where the new captain previously served as executive officer.

To the England's right was the world's largest supply ship, USS Camden, where Capt. Young will become commanding officer on May 15.

Rear Adm. Lloyd R. Vasey, Long Beach Cruiser-Destroyer Group commander, lauded Capt. Young for his and his ship's outstanding work in getting ready for deployment.

CAPT. R. W. YOUNG

CMDR. H. L. WEBSTER

The Somers is the sixth ship to bear the name of Lt. Richard Somers, hero of the Tripoli Wars, and was reconverted 14 months ago as a missile destroyer from a conventional one.

The ship holds several Tartar missile accuracy records on Pacific range.

This is Cmdr. Webster's third tour in Long Beach, having served on the destroyer USS Brown and as executive officer of the Edson.

An interested guest from Los Altos Hills, Calif., was Capt. Hugh P. Webster (ret.), engineering officer on the fourth Somers in 1928-29, and Cmdr. Webster's father.

JAMES P. HEALY JR.

Pacific Fleet Chief to Talk

Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander-in-chief Pacific (CINCPAC), will address Town Hall of California Tuesday noon in Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel.

CITIES SEWER SYSTEM VOTE SET FOR JULY 8

Citizens in Long Beach and four nearby cities will vote July 8 on whether to build a $5-million sewer system with cash or borrowed money.

Engineers reported the work is necessary, and the officers of County Sanitation District 19 approved a resolution Wednesday to call the election.

* * * *

THE OFFICERS are the mayors of Long Beach, Cerritos, Artesia, Hawaiian Gardens and Lakewood. Supervisor Burton Chace represents the interests of unincorporated territories in the district.

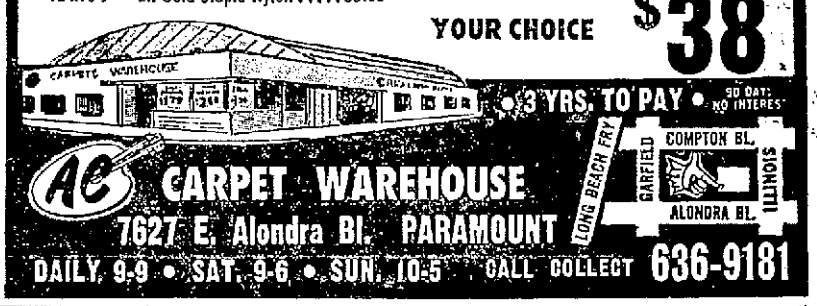

John D. Parkhurst, chief engineer for all county sanitation districts, said a bond issue could reduce property tax bills by 16 cents. The item currently is 50 cents per 100 dollars of assessed valuation.

"All this assumes a 5 per cent interest figure," Parkhurst said.

U.S. Congressmen on Yugoslavia Visit

BELGRADE (UPI) — Eleven U.S. congressmen visited Yugoslavia for nine hours Saturday during a short tour of Eastern Europe.

"We have made some very firm friendships with Yugoslavia and its people in the past. We hope this visit will perpetuate that tradition," said Sen. John A. Sparkman, D-Ala., upon arrival in a U.S. Air Force plane from Vienna.

Your Horoscope by Jeane Dixon

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

Your birthday today: You find yourself at home in the coming year. Bothersome relationships with neighbors and fellow workers calm down; follow your intuition. There may be separations and departures where the paths people follow through life diverge. Today's natives are watchful, wary people who go their own ways at all costs. Many are in law enforcement.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Go it alone whenever you can manage today. Responsibility for other people is all too easy to enter, difficult to leave behind. Be sure of what you are about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Young people are likely to provide surprises today. Your own feelings are more volatile than usual. Emotional ties become stronger today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is another day when you are tempted to try to have your cake and eat it too. Either cut it your regular day or take the day off. Romantic interests are strongly favored later in the day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Haste in business matters, particularly if you hurry because of family interference, causes much inconvenience later. A few relatives are uncooperative today — avoid squabbling. Sentimental journeys, romantic ideals promised this evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your scholarly interests bring recognition. Children rather pleasantly take up your time. If circumstances permit, take a bit of sightseeing travel, even if not far.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If lengthy discussions of financial matters are avoided, family plans run smoother now. Joint ventures are better left as they are for the moment. Seek romantic fulfillment this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Aside from some added expense for protection of your health and a temporary balk from some associates, today promises to be happy. Emotional ties deepen as you share experience with people you care for.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Today brings changes of situation, new circumstances, reward for strong and dramatic self-expression. Young people offer many chances for fresh inspiration. Home situations are abruptly somewhat more rewarding, more complete. Any legal controversy seems more amenable to solution of the moment by direct action. Sports and pastimes, particularly with a loved one, provide pleasure this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now your imagination works overtime, your creative expression expands. The temptation is to spend impulsively, needlessly. Romance is on the upswing this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Now your imagination works overtime, your creative expression expands. The temptation is to spend impulsively, needlessly. Romance is on the upswing this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Care in travel is essential today. Expect intended relatives to be less sympathetic and more to be disagreeable. Speculative and sentimental matters provide escape this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Settle any legal matter today if possible. Some object coming from a faraway place is apt to provide you with great pleasure. Entertainments if active in art. Home situations improve although relatives are not in accord.

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

PAUL DE PIETRO

Born and educated in British Columbia, Canada, 1913. Attended Los Angeles Technical Schools in 1937. Brought his skis along, met and represented the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce at various ski tournaments from California to Utah. Established a Class 'B' jumping record of 243 feet at Big Pines. In 1940,with the assistance of the good members of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce group, he entered the United States for American citizenship and continued to participate at many ski meets until 1941.

After the war in 1946, he established his own business in Signal Hill, and married a wonderful girl named Elleanor. In 1965 he sold out and decided to study real estate and received his license in 1957. Being always ambitious, he passed the state brokers' exams and opened his own office at 5892 Orange Avenue known as A-A Realty. The new main office is soon to be erected at 6060 Orange Avenue.

He has actively served on the Realty Board Grievance, Multiple Listing, Taxation, and Legislative Committees. Presently serving on the "Business and Professions" and "Real Estate Loans Committee."

He is a Director of the North Long Beach Business Men's "Commercial Club," and recently was elected as a Director of the Long Beach and Southern Cities Apartment House Association, serving on the committee Task-Force, concerning the "City newly proposed zoning and planning" ordinances.

Every week two classes at Long Beach City College are a 'must' towards his A&A Degree in Real Estate.

Mr. De Pietro has always believed in the practice of benevolence and was actively engaged in many organizations including Boy Scouts, Foresters, Masonic Order; also quite active in civic and political affairs to the point of being a candidate for office at one time. He enjoys life by helping others.

His sales people are "pledged to observe the Realtors Code of Ethics, and act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule."

Mr. De Pietro says:

"It is therefore my desire and pleasure as agent and consultant to help and guide my clients in their real estate transactions." The 'motto' of A-A Realty is: "Pleasing You — Pleases Me."

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

PAUL DE PIETRO

Born and educated in British Columbia, Canada, 1913. Attended Los Angeles Technical Schools in 1937. Brought his skis along, met and represented the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce at various ski tournaments from California to Utah. Established a Class 'B' jumping record of 243 feet at Big Pines. In 1940,with the assistance of the good members of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce group, he entered the United States for American citizenship and continued to participate at many ski meets until 1941.

After the war in 1946, he established his own business in Signal Hill, and married a wonderful girl named Elleanor. In 1965 he sold out and decided to study real estate and received his license in 1957. Being always ambitious, he passed the state brokers' exams and opened his own office at 5892 Orange Avenue known as A-A Realty. The new main office is soon to be erected at 6060 Orange Avenue.

He has actively served on the Realty Board Grievance, Multiple Listing, Taxation, and Legislative Committees. Presently serving on the "Business and Professions" and "Real Estate Loans Committee."

He is a Director of the North Long Beach Business Men's "Commercial Club," and recently was elected as a Director of the Long Beach and Southern Cities Apartment House Association, serving on the committee Task-Force, concerning the "City newly proposed zoning and planning" ordinances.

Every week two classes at Long Beach City College are a 'must' towards his A&A Degree in Real Estate.

Mr. De Pietro has always believed in the practice of benevolence and was actively engaged in many organizations including Boy Scouts, Foresters, Masonic Order; also quite active in civic and political affairs to the point of being a candidate for office at one time. He enjoys life by helping others.

His sales people are "pledged to observe the Realtors Code of Ethics, and act fairly towards all in the spirit of the Golden Rule."

Mr. De Pietro says:

"It is therefore my desire and pleasure as agent and consultant to help and guide my clients in their real estate transactions." The 'motto' of A-A Realty is: "Pleasing You — Pleases Me."

ARCHER TRAILS MASTERS BY ONE

Casper on Title Threshold

New York Times Service

AUGUSTA, Ga. — They are still trying to find a way to overtake Billy Casper in the Masters golf tournament. Scoring his third sub par round, the allergy-conscious professional from Apple Valley, Calif., Saturday put together a 71 over the Augusta National Golf Course for a 54-hole aggregate of 208.

It placed the 38-year-old Casper on the threshold of winning a major championship he said was a goal he set for himself this year.

Although he had been tied after two rounds with Bruce Devlin, of Australia, it was George Archer, a former ranch hand, from Gilroy, Calif., who assumed the challenger's cloak Saturday night.

Archer snared two birdies and an eagle on the last six holes for an incoming 32 that gave him a 69 and 209. "I still think there are 10 who can win, especially if we have rain and the greens get slower," Archer said.

But it was clear and sunny Saturday and the big crowd selected sites back of the greens or joined the huge galleries that lined the fairways.

There was a brief stir by Jack Nicklaus who went out in 34 but his eventual 72, as he failed repeatedly to sink birdie putts, resulted in a 215.

Then Arnold Palmer, just within the qualifying limit Friday, scored a 70, but the principal question of the day centered on a ruling that changed a 7 to a 5 after he hit the sand in a bunker while the ball remained in the hazard.

Palmer admitted his usual procedure came from a "bit of anger." He had failed to recover from the bunker on his first effort but did knock the ball forward in the same hazard. To the amazement of the onlookers, he stood in the same spot and whacked once at the sand.

Jack Tuthill, tournament director of the pro tour, was asked by Palmer if he had incurred a two-stroke penalty. Tuthill replied "I would say you did."

Later, Palmer asked another official for a review. The scoreboards carried a 7 for Palmer and spectators believed he had been penalized. After a rules committee session Palmer was advised at the 15th that there had been no rules infringement so a 5 became his officially acknowledged score for the hole.

However, Palmer's aggregate of 218 left him 10 back of the keen-putting Casper.

Miller Barber was around in 68, without a bogey for 210. Barber is a part-owner of a course in his home state of Texas.

Barber has had an infected left thumb and is taking pills daily on advice of his physician. "I don't know if it's the gout or an infection. Last week I thought my chances were only 50-50 of playing here," he said. But Barber had seven one-putt greens and now finds himself in an enviable position.

Tom Weiskopf and a former Air Force Lieutenant, Charles Coody, were only three back of Casper after each recorded a 69 for 211.

Weiskopf, who had left his putter at home, bought one at the pro shop. However, just before tee-off time, his wife arrived and

Angels Win Third in Row

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The Angels have the fultters and manager BillReigney couldn't be happier.

The "flutters" are Eddie Fisher and Hoyt Wilhelm. They toss that dreaded of all pitches, the knuckleball. The butterfly ball is a better description.

When the Angels' bullpen went flat last year, Rigney set out do do something about it. And he did. He picked up Fisher and Wilhelm right quick and the bullpen hasn't looked better in years.

It's so good Marv Grisson, the Angels pitching coach, says it just might be the best anywhere.

The 10609 who showed at Anaheim Stadium Saturday night saw the pen click to perfection.

Firt Fisher lumbered to the mound for the seventh and eighth innings and then Wilhelm for the ninth.

Between them they allowed a walk and a harmless single and nursed a one-run lead into a 4-3 victory, the Angels' third in a row and the Minnesota Twins' fourth consecutive reversal without a win.

People augh when Fisher or Wilhelm flip their knuckler toward the plate and the batter takes a wild cut and misses. The batter isn't laughin nor is the rival skipper.

Fisher and Wilehlm have been doing this for years. And in the Big A they've put together 10 scoreless innings in which they've been "touched" for the grand total of two base hits.

For the third night in a row the Angels had to come from behind. They spotted the Twins a 2-0 lead when George Mitterwald socked his second h omer in as many days to open the second and Tony Oliva drove in his second run of the season in the third.

But the Angels got even in the third. And it took help from a broken bat, too.

Bill Voss, the surprise flash of the Angels' spring season, all of a sudden got a call to play leftfield when starter Rick Reichard twas bounced in the first inning. Rick was called out on strikes and when he slammed his bat to the ground, breaking the club in half, he got the thumb.

Voss, who truned in two outstanding defensive plays, then got his chance at the plate. He lined a drive to straightaway center with two runners aboard in the third. The drive eleded Cesar Tovar and rolled to the fence, Voss winding up with a triple that scored Jim Fregosi and Jay Johnstone.

ARMY HASN'T DESERTED ARNIE YET
Although Arnold Palmer is 10 strokes off pace, his army is still with him during third-round play in Masters tournament. All available seats in gallery section are filled around second green. Palmer finished day with 70.

Lakewood Girls Shatter American Swim Records

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

Saturday was Lakewood Night at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

As the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships zipped through the next to last night of competition, two events stood out as clearly as a 500pwatt bulb.

—Kimla Brecht, 17, Lakewood Aquatic Club, won the women's 200-yard breaststroke in American record time.

—Susie Atwood, 15, Lakewood Aquatic Club, won the women's 100-yard backstroke in American record time.

Take a bow—take two bows, coach Jim Montrella.

Miss Brecht, student, guitarist, swimmer, won a smashing doubleheader. She set a record, and beat the best.

Kimla was an Olympic Games alternate, but was not selected to complete. Saturday she defeated Mexico City record holder Sharon Wichman, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Miss Brecht trailed Miss Wichman by about one foot until the final strokes. She almost got up and ran over the sparkling water to win by a hair—or perhaps a little less.

Her time was 2:24.44, Sharon's 2:24.49. Kim's preliminary time was even swifter—2:24.3—and it will go in the books as a national pinnacle, replacing Catie Ball's 2:25.0.

"My preliminary time was five seconds faster than I've ever gone before," Kim pointed out with a smile that would have made a Jack-o-lantern envious. "I was really surprised. Third was my previous high in a national meet. Now I'm going to try to keep going until the 1972 Olympics."

The backstroke was almost a replay.

Kaye Hall, world record holder, Olympic gold medalist, established a tempo that almost steamed the water. Yet she was able to construct an advantage of only a few inches over Miss Atwood and tough Jane Swagerly.

Off the final turn Susie drew even with Kaye, and they flailed furiously over the last 25 yards to earpiercing shrieks from a crowd of 2,000.

Susie was judged the winner—by a fly's eyelash—one hundredth of one second. Miss Atwood was clocked at 58.90, Miss Hall 58.91. Kaye's former American standard was 59.3.

"I just tried to hang with Kaye because I knew she'd be ahead at the 50," explained Susie after a cool-off. "I couldn't go out any faster. I was looking at her out of the corner of my eye. I had to pull harder on my turns because Kaye always comes out of them three or four inches ahead of me. I was pleased with everything except my finish."

Fred Haywood, Stanford, established a meet mark in the 100 backstroke, winning in 52.26. Former record was 52.5 by Thompson Mann, North Carolina AC.

Brian Job, Santa Clara High senior, won the men's 200 breaststroke well in hand in 2:07.34.

Today's Schedule

10 a.m. — Men's and women's swimming preliminaries 100-yard freestyle, 200 individual medley, 400 freestyle relay, 1,650 freestyle.
7 p.m. — Finals, all events.

WATCH-ING AND WAITING
Army of official timers and judges line Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool during National AAU Short Course championships. Records continued to fall Saturday as top swimmers picked up where Olympics left off.

There's a New Parker, Folks

By FRED CLAIRE
Staff Writer

HOUSTON—The Dodgers' Wes Parker is such a graceful athlete he even looks good striking out.

His every move reflects smoothness.

They talk a lot about Wes Parker's poise and his fielding; because these have been his most impressive qualities on the field.

Well, friends, let it be known there's a new Wes Parker.

He's still a super fielder, but he's thinking more about hitting than he ever has before. And he's more aggressive at bat than ever.

Parker's two-run single in the first inning got the Dodgers off and running Saturday night as they defeated Houston, 5-1.

It was Parker's only hit of the night, but even when he was making outs the aggressive spirit of the Dodger first baseman was obvious.

After taking a called third strike in the third inning, Parker took a swing at the Astro-Turf with his bat. Returning to the Dodger dugout, Parker slammed his bat into the rack, threw his batting helmet to the ground and then picked up a towel and gave it a heave.

This is the Wes Parker of 1969. He's tired of all of the talk being about his hitting. "I can hit and I'm going to prove it," said Wes, who is a 4-for-10 this season.

"I've never seen Wes more aggressive at the plate," said manager Walt Alston. "He looked real good in the spring. I don't think he's ever made better contact with the ball."

"I'm just thinking more about hitting," says the 29-year-old Parker, who is starting his sixth season as the Dodger's No. 1 first baseman.

"Dixie Walker worked with me quite a bit this spring, and I think I got in more batting practice than ever before. It's time I proved I can hit and that's what I'm going to do."

After Parker's two-run single in the first, the Dodgers picked up another run in the fourth on Ted Sizemore's single and they

For Swim Records, 'Czech' Long Beach

Czechoslovakia's Milena Duchkova to the contrary, a gentleman named Jimmy Counsilman thinks that Long Beach's Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool is just about the finest swimming tank in the world.

As reported here a few days ago, the Czech Olympic diving champion thought the Belmont Pool was "good . . . but we have better indoor and outdoor ones in my country."

The statement was a bit difficult to swallow, considering that Milena's country is in the Iron Curtain zone, but Counsilman had an answer.

"Something might have been lost in the translation," smiled the man who has set up the University of Indiana as this nation's No. 1 collegiate swimming and diving power. "I can find no fault with this Long Beach pool and I've been around a few of them in my lifetime. It's simply beautiful and, more important, extremely practical.

"I'll rest my case on what took place here Thursday night. Four national records were broken. Four during one evening is hard to believe, but it happened. I have not only to give credit to our fine young swimmers, but also to the superbness of the pool."

Of particular satisfaction to this community was the fact that two Long Beach swimmers set records and another from nearby Rancho Alamitos High School established a third.

As previously chronicled, the fantastic Cal State Long Beach merman from West Germany, Hans Fassnacht, bagged the 500-yard freestyle race in 4:33, cutting the pending record by two-tenths and the existing mark by four seconds.

Then, the lass from Millikan High School, Susie Atwood, was clocked at 2:07.50, a half-second below the pending American record and 2½ under the recognized standard for the 200-yard backstroke.

Gary Hall, the Rancho Alamitos prep, really slashed the men's 200-yard backstroke record when he completed the long haul in 1:52.0. The book record is 1:54.4.

The fourth record-breaker Thursday night was Santa Clara Swim Club's Brian Job, whose 58.1 time in the 100-yard breaststroke wiped out the pending mark of 58.3.

DOC COUNSILMAN was lavish in his praise of Fassnacht, who didn't cut too much of a swath in water circles until he enrolled at Cal State Long Beach and came under the tutelage of Don Gambril.

"I guess I goofed on that boy," laughed the great recruiter from Bloomington, Ind. "I didn't even try to recruit him.

"But what he has done since he became established in this country is absolutely phenomenal. We got a big hint of his ability during the NCAA championships right in our own backyard. Imagine an outsider busting American records (the 400-yard individual medley and the 1650-yard freestyle) in MY pool! I'd better concentrate a little more on recruiting, I guess."

Recruiting is the least of Counsilman's worries. His biggest problem is not whether his Indiana team will win, but who to place on the 18-man squad allowed for championship meets.

Sports Illustrated quoted one Indiana fan: "Having this Hoosier swimming team is like having an atomic bomb while everyone else just has a water gun."

THE INDIANA COACH couldn't stop talking about Fassnacht.

"As long as I've been around I doubt that I've seen two better matches than the pair between Hans and Mark Spitz, who I understand had aspirations of attending Long Beach State College," bubbled the Doc, obviously with his tongue-in-cheek. For the uninformed, Spitz chucked CSLB at the 11th hour to attend Counsilman U.

"Those two boys really put up a race in the 500 heat and finals of the NCAA affair," continued Counsilman. "There wasn't a fingernail's difference between the two in either race. I was happy to see Fassnacht set that record Thursday and I'll be very eager to see him win two more in the 400-yard individual medley and the 1650 freestyle here."

That 1650 race here should be something. UCLA's Mike Burton, whom Hans nipped in setting his Thursday evening freestyle record, broke the 16-minute barrier just one year ago. Swimming buffs figured the mark would be around for a while. Not so. Fassnacht swam the 1650-yard race at Indiana in 15:54.2, shaving more than five seconds off the Uclan's standard. Mike and Hans wage war again today . . . and a war it should be.

ONE HAS TO REACH the conclusion that Millikan High has a corner on the women's swimming and diving market. In addition to Susie Atwood, the Rams can boast of 18-year-old Debbie Lipman.

Debbie led qualifiers in the women's three-meter springboard diving here in the AAU Championships and managed a second place in the one-meter diving competition.

The girls have similar goals — the 1972 Olympics at Munich. If old age — the swimmers and divers rarely extend their careers beyond teenage — doesn't catch up with them, Susie and Debbie appear good bets today to represent the U.S. three years hence in Germany.

Anyway, Milena, we've got a fair country pool here. For further information, check Jimmy Counsilman.

Porsche Sits Pole

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) — Jo Siffert of Switzerland, in a German Porsche prototype, flashed around the Brands Hatch circuit at a record 107.43 miles an hour in practice Saturday and gained the pole in Sunday's BOAC 500-auto race.

Defense Will Decide Lakers' Fate

You can talk about strategy and match-ups and scoring duels, but when all is said and done, something else will decide if the Lakers win the NBA championship.

That something is defense, a word the Lakers have discovered only in recent weeks. They've played it before, but never with such zeal, such dedication. And never with such success.

"For 12 years Boston has emphasized defense and won 10 titles," said one Laker. "You would think others would get the message, but they don't. I can't think of one team which works harder on defense over offense."

At least for the last five games, the Lakers have been the exception. The result has been five wins.

"I have no kicks about our defense," says coach Bill van Breda Kolff, who rarely praises anything. Having allowed only 90.8 points since the second game of the playoffs, the Lakers must be considered faultless.

Good defense against Atlanta, the Lakers' foe tonight (7 p.m.) at the Forum, is paramount. The Hawks dedicate themselves to obtaining the good percentage shot and only tenacious defense foils their game plan.

Coach Richie Guerin says if Zelmo Beaty gets his shots, the Hawks will win. But Guerin knows Wilt Chamberlain can prevent Beaty from getting open too often.

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Guerin also knows he must free Lou Hudson. The sharpshooting forward (21.9) couldn't shake Bill Hewitt last Friday and took only 14 shots in 43 minutes. The Hawks are in trouble at that pace.

"Hewitt doesn't surprise me," states Guerin. "We will have to make a few adjustments."

If defense can win for the Lakers, it can win for Atlanta, too. At least Guerin thinks so.

"We must double-team West (Jerry) but not be lax in getting back to pick up Egan (Johnny)," appraises Guerin, who called Egan's 13-point second period Friday "highly significant."

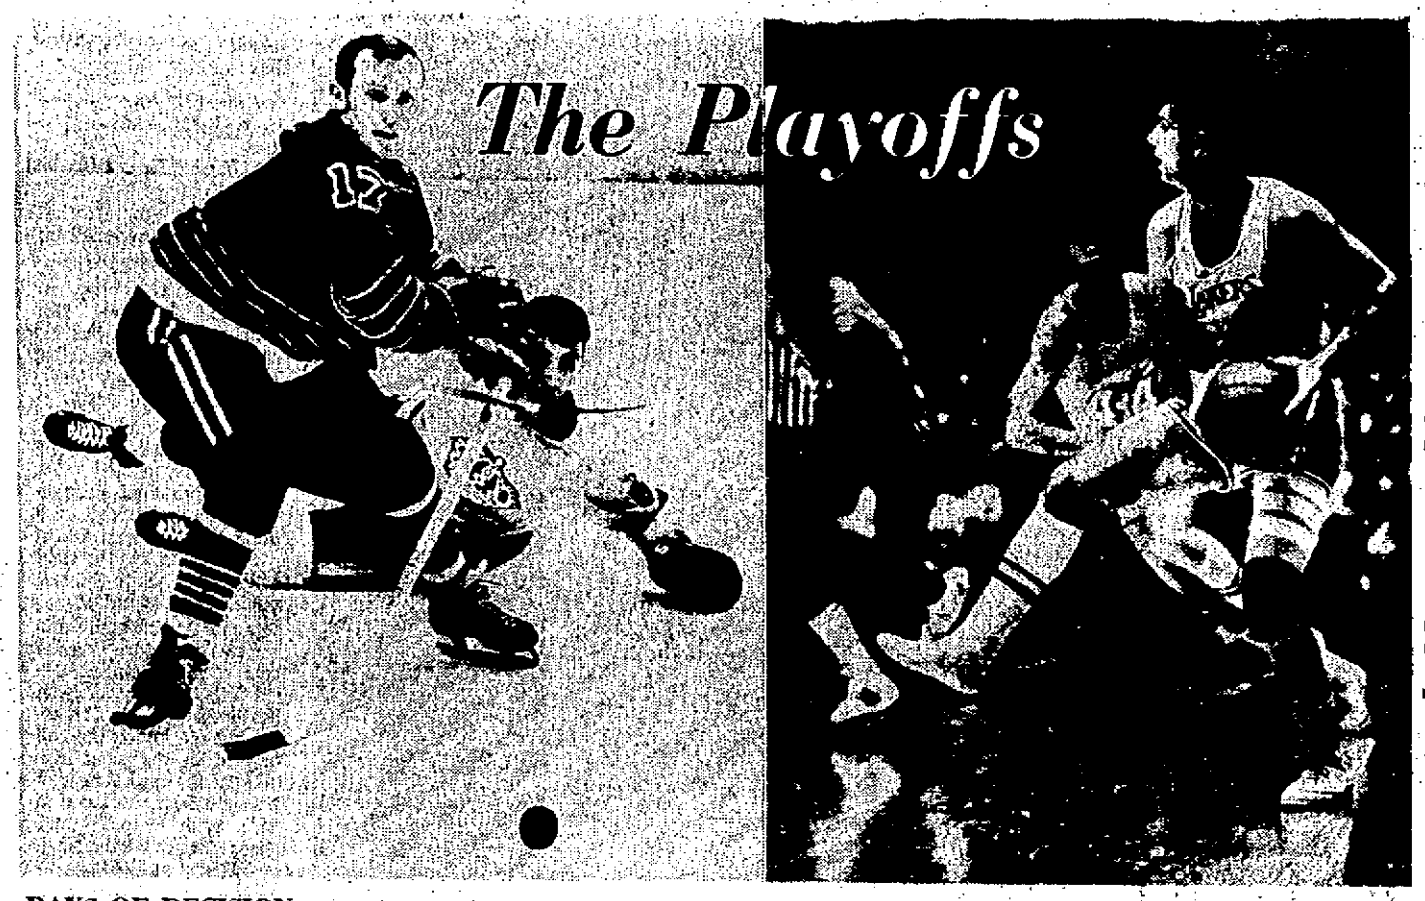

Joe Caldwell is the key Hawk. He guards West as well as anyone in the league, but he exerts so much energy in doing it, he is ineffective on offense.

Still, Atlanta feels the sacrifice is necessary. The Hawks are convinced if they slow down West they can outshoot the rest of the Lakers. If they get good percentage shots, they probably can.

THE BEST-OF-SEVEN series for the Western Division title shifts to Atlanta Tuesday and Thursday, and a 2-up advantage would loom mighty big at this stage.

Can the Lakers earn a sweep at home? Defense will decide.

Floridians Draw Even with Pipers

Associated Press

Skip Thorne blocked seven shots and muscled his way to 26 rebounds as the Miami Floridians clipped the Minnesota Pipers, 116-109, Saturday night.

The victory evened the American Basketball Assn. Eastern Division best-of-7 semi-final playoff series at two games each, going into tonight's fifth game at Miami.

Thoren, who played with an injured leg in the last two games which the Floridians lost, also contributed 16 points.

Dallas went cold in the final three minutes to let New Orleans sneak in for a 114-107 victory.

The win gives New Orleans a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven Western Division series with the fifth game slated in New Orleans Monday night.

Rookie Warren Armstrong scored 34 points, grabbed off 14 rebounds and keyed Oakland's devastating fast break to lead the Oaks to a 128-118 Western Division semifinal victory over Denver. The win gave the Oaks a 3-2 advantage.

7TH-GAME SHOWDOWN TONIGHT

Kings Ready With 'Best Team'

OAKLAND — The Kings go into the decisive game of their Stanley Cup quarterfinal tonight with "the best team we've had all year."

So says Larry Regan, general manager and vice-president in charge of boundless optimism.

Regan is the fellow who predicted two weeks ago that the Kings would erase the Seals in "four games — five at the most."

Then, when the series was knotted at 2-and-2, he conceded, "Maybe I'd better make that six games — or seven, just to be sure."

This time there is more reason than usual for his optimism. Watching from his seat high in a corner of the Forum as the Kings fought back from the brink to win 4-3 Thursday, Regan said, "I had the feeling that we had developed into a National Hockey League club. Right now we have the best team we've had all year. Earlier you could see weak spots, but now I think you could say we're solid at every position."

The Kings should be a better club than the one the Minnesota North Stars ran out of the Forum, 9-4, in the seventh game of last year's quarterfinal.

"I think this club skates better and has more poise," Regan says.

A year's seasoning in the NHL may have done the trick. The Seals have improved more, but they had farther to go. The playoff pressure that crushed the Kings in the last two playoff games before could cripple the Seals now.

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

"Last year we just fell apart," Regan admits.

He doesn't think it will happen tonight, due largely to the presence of three men — defenseman Hank Cahan, goaltender Gerry Desjardins and winger Bryan Capbell.

"Last year we had a bunch of young guys that were nervous and went through the season doing three times as well as anybody expected them to. So this year a lot of them thought they had it made. When players think that way, they can slide back very easily.

"That's the biggest reason for our inconsistency. Now they realize this and a lot of the guys are trying to atone for bad years."

Cahan, the 35-year-old NHL retread obtained from the Seals via Montreal, admitted as much after another strong playoff game a week ago.

"Cahan has helped a lot in the playoffs," Regan says. "He's been through it before and knows what it takes. The defense men have to hit.

"I think our defense is playing well. Too many of the mistakes are being blamed on them, when really it's the forwards who are at fault. Before a defenseman can commit himself and take a guy out, he has to know that the forwards are coming back to help. Otherwise, you have two guys on the other defenseman.

"One of our most consistent defensemen has been Brent Hughes, because he's playing it rough and tough, the only way he can play it. He's improved all season."

The last line of defense is the goaltender. Last year King coach Red Kelly gambled on Terry Sawchuk in the seventh game, hoping the veteran had one more big playoff game in him. Sawchuk was bombed.

"It was about then that we made up or minds we needed another goaltender," Regan says.

They swapped some draft rights to Montreal for Gerry Desjardins, who will be in the nets tonight.

"Imagine," Regan shudders, "with (Wayne) Rutledge hurt all season, where we would have been without Gerry."

Rutledge was called upon for three games when Desjardins suffered a minor leg injury in the playoff opener.

"But it's not fair to criticize Rut," Regan says. "There's no way any goalie could be ready for the playoffs, playing only 17 games all season."

Campbell was recalled from Springfield for the playoffs but didn't get into a game until Bob Wall injured his back when Oakland goalie Gary Smith tripped him into the boards in the fifth game at Oakland.

Back at the Forum the next night, Campbell scored a goal and played a strong checking game.

Kelly said, "I think Campbell gives us a little more sharpness around the net."

"Soupy thought he had it made, too," Regan says, "but the second time we sent him down was the crusher. He knew then that he'd always be a minor leaguer — or he'd fight his way back.

"I think for the period he was down there he had the best scoring average in the American League. Johnny Wilson (Springfield coach) told me, 'If you don't call this guy up, he'll be hearbroken.'"

When Kelly needed a replacement for Wall, he didn't have to ask Campbell twice.

"It looks a lot easier from upstairs," Soupily said. "But it sure felt good to be on that ice again."

Tonight's winners will be on St. Louis ice 48 hours later. The losers get five months off.

CANADIENS AIM FOR COMMANDING LEAD

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens, still unbeaten in the playoffs and for the last 19 games at home, aim for a commanding 2-0 lead today when they tangle again with Boston in their National Hockey League East Division final series.

The Canadiens, who swept the New York Rangers in four games in the semifinals, feel they have still more going for them entering today's nationally televised contest (Ch. 2, 11 a.m.), having won Thursday's opener, 3-2, in overtime after trailing 2-0 with seven minutes left.

"This series is far from over," said Serge Savard, who assisted on all three Montreal goals, "but that goal could mean the Stanley Cup. The win gave us a terrific lift and losing that way must have hurt the Bruins."

AGE BIG FACTOR

Celts Need Rest, Havlicek Admits

BOSTON (AP)—"With two days off I think we'll be all right," said John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics, with an eye on the NBA Eastern Division finals that resume here today against New York.

"We're a much better team when we have a day off between games," he added. "I'm sure the Knicks can recover a little faster than we can when we play back-to-back games because they are a younger team.

"They also were a hungrier team than we were on Thursday night because their backs were to the wall."

Boston lost to the Knicks 101-91 Thursday at New York.

HAVLICEK AND his Celtics colleagues held another workout Saturday in preparation for the New York game in a best-of-seven series the Celtics lead 2-1.

Havlicek, who was held to only eight points in the Thursday game, said, "I just wasn't getting the shots. I had a few good chances but missed."

Player-coach Bill Russell said, "our defense was okay, but we had our problems on offense."

The Knicks tightened their defenses for the game, particularly Bill Bradley who scored 18 points for New York in addition to a defensive job on Havlicek.

SWAN SONG IN BELMONT POOL TODAY

The Kick's Just Not There for Claudia Anymore

"I don't think I've missed too much, because swimming's been a life in itself. I still enjoy it . . . but I can't imagine going through a whole summer again, swimming."
—Claudia Kolb.

If she took count, Claudia Kolb would have more medals than freckles. And that's a lot.

At Mexico City, she won almost as many gold medals as Debbie Meyer — two, then announced her retirement. Called by her coach, George Haines, "the world's greatest all-round swimmer," she had been around it and claimed two records for it, but she had had it. She was 19.

Claudia hasn't been swimming all her life. It just seems that way.

"I started swimming when I was 2," she says. "Then I started taking lessons when I was 4. When I was 7 I started to race."

When Claudia was 10, her father was transferred from San Leandro to Santa Clara, "which was lucky for me," she adds. It united her with Haines, coach of the Santa Clara Swim Club. For nearly 10 years now, Haines and the SCSC have been getting her up in the morning and putting her to bed at night. It isn't easy to leave it all behind.

So this week Claudia has been down at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool striving once again for alma mater and good ol' George in the National AAU Short Course Swimming and Diving Championships.

"This is one meet we have to win," she says, "for George. I'm not in good shape, but good enough for relays, just to give us points.

* * * *

IN LAST FALL'S Olympics, she won the 200- and 400-meter individual medleys, races which combine butterfly, backstroke, breaststroke and freestyle. She will swim the 200 today if Santa Clara needs the points. Otherwise, it will just be the 400 freestyle relay.

If it weren't for Haines, Claudia's heart wouldn't be in it at all.

"When I was 10, 11 and 12 I didn't do much of anything and I was about ready to quit," she says. "But apparently George, from what he says now, saw something in me."

In the club's annual awards banquet, Haines gave Claudia a special trophy for "hard work and determination."

"That kept me swimming," Claudia says, and the records tell the story from there. At 14 she won a silver medal in 200 breaststroke at the Tokyo Olympics, then went on to world records in the 200 and 400 IMs and finally the golds at Mexico City.

After 12 years of pressure, she plans to enroll at the University of Santa Clara next fall but also admits to girlish thoughts of getting married and having babies.

"Yeah, I do," she says, her green eyes sparkling, "but people are always asking me what I'm going to do, so I decided I should think of something good to say. I'd love to teach kindergarten. I like little kids. I think it'd be kind of fun to be a coach."

* * * *

SHE IS TOTALLY and unashamedly devoted to her own coach.

"It's awful, it's terrible, so nerve-wracking. You see them and they're really nervous. We get nervous and then they're nervous for us, and they've got all of us to worry about.

"I resp- . . . , I, you know, I just . . . I love George . . . I guess you could say like a father, 'cause it's been so long that I've been with him. Well, I just think he's the greatest."

Claudia took her two gold medals home to Santa Clara to her parents, eight sisters and one brother. Only one other member of the family, a 12-year-old sister, swims competitively.

"Lately I've found that girls have more of a competitive spirt than boys. People ask, 'How can you devote so much time to swimming?' but it doesn't bother me. I guess I don't have time to do the things the average kid does, but I enjoy it.

"I wanted to swim. A lot of kids don't, and it's important for their parents not to push them. Mine didn't. They were enthusiastic, but they never pushed me when I didn't want to swim."

All of Claudia's push came from within.

"I don't find it difficult to psych myself up. I remember at the Olympic Trials being nervous . . . so nervous I cried. But it was different at the Olympics. It was awful. It was terrible. All the years and all the work and miles you've put in, and this is it.

"It's for your country, but I think you more or less do it for yourself . . . and for your coach. Especially if you're expected to win, it's worse. You have everything to lose. I think a person could have a nervous breakdown."

* * * *

CLAUDIA HAS VISITED most countries that count.

"I love to travel," she says. "It's really funny. You're supposed to dislike the Russians, but when you meet 'em they're just like you. Everyone's the same."

But after the Olympics she went to Peru to teach swimming at a private club for three months. She was home in six weeks.

"I was the only one (American) down there and I was homesick," she says.

One day she'll be able to tell her grandchildren all about it ..... all about everything except the 200 at the Olympics.

"I don't remember warming up, I don't remember walking out there or even diving in. I don't remember the race; I don't remember if it hurt. I just don't remember anything.

"I only know on the last lap I was smiling. And then when I received my gold medal I was so happy. You know, everyone gets so emtolonal about this. I was just so glad it was over."

SUSIE, KIM SET RECORDS—

He bettered the American record in afternoon preliminaries, scoring in 2:06.1. Record was 2:07.9.

Mexico's Olympic hero, Felipe Munoz, was last among the six finalists in 2:13.06. "I have had no training in the short indoor pools," said Felipe. "I cannot swimm all the turns as well as the others."MORE MORE MORE

Jim Henry, Indiana U., won the diving high point trophy, but lost the platform title in a shocker.

He generated the shock with an upside down belly flop.

Henry, winner of the one-meter, second in the three-meter, attempted a running reverse, two and one-half somersault, but landed with a t-h-u-m-p that threatened the windows. He scored only two and three, instead of his usual seven-eight points.

Dick Rydze, U. of Michigan, outscored Henry by 40 points in that round. Rydze totalled 549.39 points, Henry 544.11.

Ellie Daniel, Elkins Park, Pa., was a wire-to-wire winner in the women's 200-yard butterfly. There was open water between Daniel and Olympian Toni Hewitt, Newport Beach, at 75 yards, and it slowly increased to almost a two-length advantage at the touch plate.

Miss Daniel, winner of a gold, silver and bronze at Mexico City, was clocked at 2:06.65, Miss Hewitt at 2:08.52. The national record of 2:06.6 had a close shave.

Ross Wales, Princeton U., used similar strategy in the men's 200 fly — but it didn't work. Mike Burton, UCLA, caught, then conquered the rabbit in the final strokes. Burton's time was 1:52.63, Wales' 1:52.68.

Andrew Strenk, USC, was third at 1:53.32, Hans Fassnacht, Cal State Long Beach and Phillips 66 Swim Club, fourth in 1:53.46.

In today's feature Burton tackles Fassnacht and Gary Hall, Rancho Alamitos High, in the 1,650 freestyle. "I don't think Hans can go faster than he did two weeks ago (15:54.2)," said Burton, "but I'm shooting for the 40s (15:40)."

85 Out for First UCLA Spring Drill

The UCLA Bruins opened their spring football practice with "a lot of hitting" and organization of coach Tom Prothro's new offense and defense.

Eighty-five players including 32 lettermen turned out and went through a 90-minute workout, which included body contact.

Prothro's new offense will bring his two top ground gainers from last year into the backfield at the same time. Mickey Cureton played behind Greg Jones in 1968.

The quarterback's joh is wide open with five likely contenders, including lettermen Bill Bolden and Jim Nader. The others are Ed Moore, a transfer from the Air Force Academy; Dennis Dummit, from Long Beach City College, and Scott Henderson, up from the Brubabes.

O. J.'s Heir in Explosive Debut

Clarence Davis, junior college all-America from East Los Angeles, ran 80 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball Saturday in USC's opening spring football scrimmage.

"It was a rather auspicious beginning," commented coach John McKay.

Davis' touchdown was the only one scored in the 70-minute scrimmage.

Davis, who broke several of O. J. Simpson's junior college records last fall, was the leading rusher with 94 yards in seven carries.

Mike Berry had 33 yards in six attempts.

LEADING RECEIVERS were Gary Orcutt with three receptions for 68 yards and Terry DeKraai with four catches and 43 yards.

Greg Briner, freshman from Gardena, was the top passer with four completions in seven attempts for 66 yards.

ARCHER TRAILS MASTERS BY ONE

Casper on Title Threshold

New York Times Service

AUGUSTA, Ga. — They are still trying to find a way to overtake Billy Casper in the Masters golf tournament. Scoring his third sub par round, the allergy-conscious professional from Apple Valley, Calif., Saturday put together a 71 over the Augusta National Golf Course for a 54-hole aggregate of 208.

It placed the 38-year-old Casper on the threshold of winning a major championship he said was a goal he set for himself this year.

Although he had been tied after two rounds with Bruce Devlin, of Australia, it was George Archer, a former ranch hand, from Gilroy, Calif., who assumed the challenger's cloak Saturday night.

Archer snared two birdies and an eagle on the last six holes for an incoming 32 that gave him a 69 and 209. "I still think there are 10 who can win, especially if we have rain and the greens get slower," Archer said.

But it was clear and sunny Saturday and the big crowd selected sites back of the greens or joined the huge galleries that lined the fairways.

There was a brief stir by Jack Nicklaus who went out in 34 but his eventual 72, as he failed repeatedly to sink birdie putts, resulted in a 215.

Then Arnold Palmer, just within the qualifying limit Friday, scored a 70, but the principal question of the day centered on a ruling that changed a 7 to a 5 after he hit the sand in a bunker while the ball remained in the hazard.

Palmer admitted his usual procedure came from a "bit of anger." He had failed to recover from the bunker on his first effort but did knock the ball forward in the same hazard. To the amazement of the onlookers, he stood in the same spot and whacked once at the sand.

Jack Tuthill, tournament director of the pro tour, was asked by Palmer if he had incurred a two-stroke penalty. Tuthill replied "I would say you did."

Later, Palmer asked another official for a review. The scoreboards carried a 7 for Palmer and spectators believed he had been penalized. After a rules committee session Palmer was advised at the 15th that there had been no rules infringement so a 5 became his officially acknowledged score for the hole.

However, Palmer's aggregate of 218 left him 10 back of the keen-putting Casper.

Miller Barber was around in 68, without a bogey for 210. Barber is a part-owner of a course in his home state of Texas.

Barber has had an infected left thumb and is taking pills daily on advice of his physician. "I don't know if it's the gout or an infection. Last week I thought my chances were only 50-50 of playing here," he said. But Barber had seven one-putt greens and now finds himself in an enviable position.

Tom Weiskopf and a former Air Force Lieutenant, Charles Coody, were only three back of Casper after each recorded a 69 for 211.

Weiskopf, who had left his putter at home, bought one at the pro shop. However, just before tee-off time, his wife arrived and

Angels Win Third in Row

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The Angels have the fultters and manager BillReigney couldn't be happier.

The "flutters" are Eddie Fisher and Hoyt Wilhelm. They toss that dreaded of all pitches, the knuckleball. The butterfly ball is a better description.

When the Angels' bullpen went flat last year, Rigney set out do do something about it. And he did. He picked up Fisher and Wilhelm right quick and the bullpen hasn't looked better in years.

It's so good Marv Grisson, the Angels pitching coach, says it just might be the best anywhere.

The 10609 who showed at Anaheim Stadium Saturday night saw the pen click to perfection.

Firt Fisher lumbered to the mound for the seventh and eighth innings and then Wilhelm for the ninth.

Between them they allowed a walk and a harmless single and nursed a one-run lead into a 4-3 victory, the Angels' third in a row and the Minnesota Twins' fourth consecutive reversal without a win.

People augh when Fisher or Willhelm flip their knuckler toward the plate and the batter takes a wild cut and misses. The batter isn't laughin nor is the rival skipper.

Fisher and Wilehlm have been doing this for years. And in the Big A they've put together 10 scoreless innings in which they've been "touched" for the grand total of two base hits.

For the third night in a row the Angels had to come from behind .They spotted the Twins a 2-0 lead when George Mitterwald socked his second h omer in as many days to open the second and Tony Oliva drove in his second run of the season in the third.

But the Angels got even in the third. And it took help from a broken bat, too.

Bill Voss, the surprise flash of the Angels' spring season, all of a sudden got a call to play leftfield when starter Rick Reichard twas bounced in the first inning. Rick was called out on strikes and when he slammed his bat to the ground, breaking the club in half, he got the thumb.

Voss, who trumed in two outstanding defensive plays, then got his chance at the plate. He lined a drive to straightaway center with two runners aboard in the third. The drive eleded Cesar Tovar and rolled to the fence, Voss winding up with a triple that scored Jim Fregosi and Jay Johnstone.

ARMY HASN'T DESERTED ARNIE YET

Lakewood Girls Shatter American Swim Records

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

Saturday was Lakewood Night at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

As the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships zipped through the next to last night of competition, two events stood out as clearly as a 500pwatt bulb.

—Kimla Brecht, 17, Lakewood Aquatic Club, won the women's 200-yard breaststroke in American record time.

—Susie Atwood, 15, Lakewood Aquatic Club, won the women's 100-yard backstroke in American record time.

Take a bow—take two bows, coach Jim Montrella.

Miss Brecht, student, guitarist, swimmer, won a smashing doubleheader. She set a record, and beat the best.

Kimla was an Olympic Games alternate, but was not selected to complete. Saturday she defeated Mexico City record holder Sharon Wichman, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Miss Brecht trailed Miss Wichman by about one foot until the final strokes. She almost got up and ran over the sparkling water to win by a hair—or perhaps a little less.

Her time was 2:24.44, Sharon's 2:24.49. Kim's preliminary time was even swifter—2:24.3—and it will go in the books as a national pinnacle, replacing Catie Ball's 2:25.0.

"My preliminary time was five seconds faster than I've ever gone before," Kim pointed out with a smile that would have made a Jack-o-lantern envious. "I was really surprised. Third was my previous high in a national meet. Now I'm going to try to keep going until the 1972 Olympics."

The backstroke was almost a replay.

Kaye Hall, world record holder, Olympic gold medalist, established a tempo that almost steamed the water. Yet she was able to construct an advantage of only a few inches over Miss Atwood and tough Jane Swagerty.

Off the final turn Susie drew even with Kaye, and they flailed furiously over the last 25 yards to ear-piercing shrieks from a crowd of 2,000.

Susie was judged the winner—by a fly's eyelash—one hundredth of one second. Miss Atwood was clocked at 58.90, Miss Hall 58.91. Kaye's former American standard was 59.3.

"I just tried to hang with Kaye because I knew she'd be ahead at the 50," explained Susie after a cool-off. "I couldn't go out any faster. I was looking at her out of the corner of my eye. I had to pull harder on my turns because Kaye always comes out of them three or four inches ahead of me. I was pleased with everything except my finish."

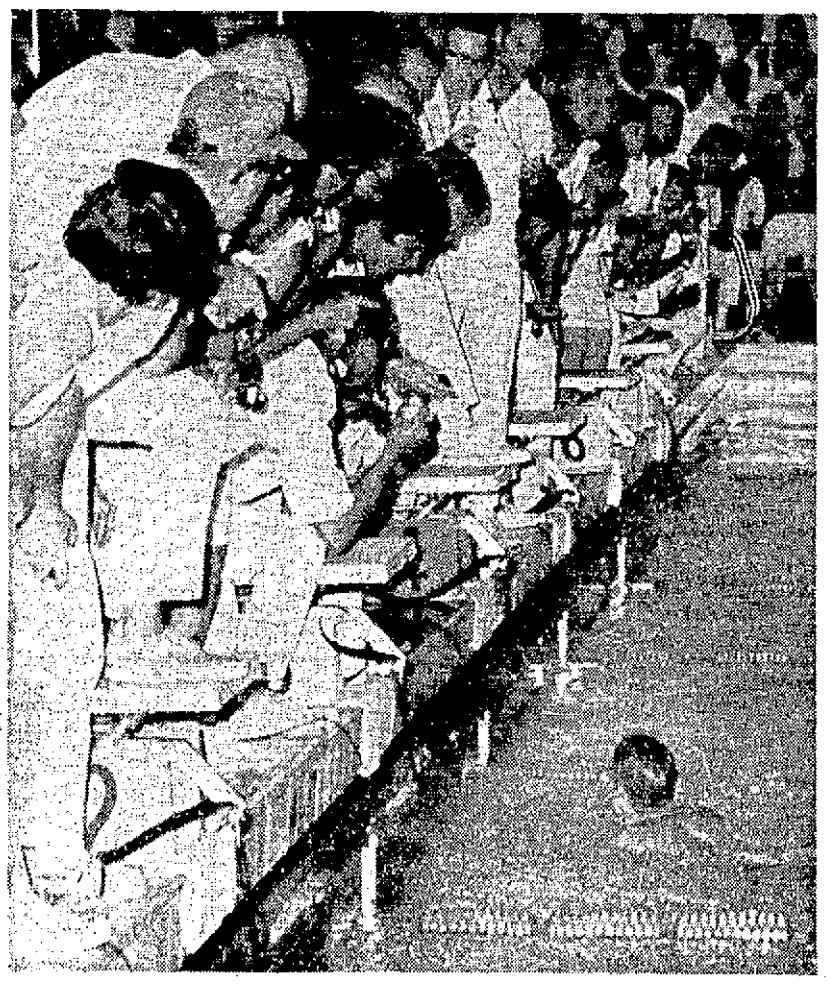

Fred Haywood, Stanford, established a meet mark in the 100 backstroke, winning in 52.26. Former record was 52.5 by Thompson Mann, North Carolina AC.

Brian Job, Santa Clara High senior, won the men's 200 breaststroke well in hand in 2:07.34.

There's a New Parker, Folks

By FRED CLAIRE
Staff Writer

HOUSTON—The Dodgers' Wes Parker is such a graceful athlete he even looks good striking out.

His every move reflects smoothness.

They talk a lot about Wes Parker's poise and his fielding, because these have been his most impressive qualities on the field.

Well, friends, let it be known there's a new Wes Parker.

He's still a super fielder, but he's thinking more about hitting than he ever has before. And he's more aggressive at bat than ever.

Parker's two-run single in the first inning got the Dodgers off and running Saturday night as they defeated Houston, 5-1.

It was Parker's only hit of the night, but even when he was making outs the aggressive spirit of the Dodger first baseman was obvious.

After taking a called third strike in the third inning, Parker took a swing at the Astro-Turf with his bat. Returning to the Dodger dugout, Parker slammed his bat into the rack, threw his batting helmet to the ground and then picked up a towel and gave it a heave.

This is the Wes Parker of 1969. He's tired of all of the talk being about his hitting. "I can hit and I'm going to prove it," said Wes, who is a 4-for-10 this season.

"I've never seen Wes more aggressive at the plate," said manager Walt Alston. "He looked real good in the spring. I don't think he's ever made better contact with the ball."

"I'm just thinking more about hitting," says the 29-year-old Parker, who is starting his sixth season as the Dodger's No. 1 first baseman.

"Dixie Walker worked with me quite a bit this spring, and I think I got in more batting practice than ever before. It's time I proved I can hit and that's what I'm going to do."

After Parker's two-run single in the first, the Dodgers picked up another run in the fourth on Ted Sizemore's single and they

BI-LINGUAL BASEBALL

Au Jeu!

MONTREAL (AP)—Au Jeu. Play Ball!

In two languages that's the word from baseball's new frontier here in Canada, where for the first time Monday the Montreal Expos take the field against the St. Louis Cardinals in the first regular season major league game ever played outside the United States.

And, despite difficult weather conditions that threatened to force a delay in the Expos' home debut, all but the last-minute touches remain to be applied before the start of the big test that will determine whether baseball can find a home among the predominantly French-Canadian populace.

The first major hurdle, refurbishing of tiny Jarry Stadium into a 28,450-seat ball park that will house the Expos temporarily, is near completion.

Workmen continued to push ahead Saturday, working primarily on the condition of the playing surface with the first signs of green just beginning to show in the grass after some 10 days of weather in the 45-55 degree range.

The ball park is ready for the sellout crowd — actually the opener was oversold and tickets had to be refunded to the fans coming in from as far away as Seven Islands, Quebec, some 700 air miles to the north of Montreal.

"There's excitement among the fans," explained an official of the Expos. "There's even excitement among those people who had been negative, who wondered whether we would draw. Now you meet them, and they seem to know everything that's happening about the club."

(Play Ball)

One reason for that is that the Expos' games are being telecast throughout the country by the Canadian Broadcasting System on 56 station, 44 in English and 12 in French—from St. John's, Newfoundland to Vancouver, B.C., and from Windsor, Ont., to White Horse, Yukon.

From the "bon jour" that greets telephone callers to the flags that will be flying on opening day — Canadian, United States, Quebec and Montreal—the operation has been aimed at appealing to both English and French-speaking fans.

For the big question mark in Montreal's ability to support major league baseball revolves around the sport's attractiveness to the emotional French-Canadians, who are more naturally attuned to hockey, their national pasttime.

That question will start to be answered Monday, weather permitting.

Old Minor Loop Back in Action

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Baseball's minor leagues, the generally forgotten but clearly indispensible foundation for the major leagues, swing into action next week — and not one baseball fan in a thousand is aware of what their alignment is.

Expansion of the majors, along with franchies during the last 16 years, have created a period of instability and confusion that has deepened public indifference.

But now, for the first time since the 1950s, there was a nucleus of order in a new set-up which may have a chance to grow.

The American Association is back. Driven out of business a few years ago after a half century of distinguished life as one of the top three minor leagues, it is now a six-team circuit containing Denver, Indianapolis, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Omaha and Des Moines

The Pacific Coast League, which operated as a 12-team league with six-team divisions with remnants of the old American Association thrown in, is an eight-team circuit again with a reasonable relation to its title. It contains Hawaii, Spokane and Tacoma in Washington; Portland and Eugene in Oregon, Phoenix and Tucson in Arizona, and Vancouver in Canada.

MAYS HANGS TEN ON BASE PATH

Willie Mays puts on brakes as San Diego Padre third baseman Ed Spiezio fires to catcher Chris Cannizzaro during third-inning rundown. Mays made it back to third safely only to find teammate Ron Hunt there. Hunt was declared out.

McCovey's Big Bat Helps Juan Stymie Padres

SAN DIEGO — Willie McCovey slammed out his second home run of the young season along with a pair of doubles to drive in three runs; powering the San Francisco Giants to a 5-1 win over the San Diego Padres Saturday.

McCovey's heft bat enabled Juan Marichal, the National League's top winner in 1968, to go the distance and pickup his initial victory as 20,356 looked on.

McCovey's homer; a 340-foot clout just inside the right field foul pole, came with a runner aboard in the eighth to pad a slim 2-1 lead held by the Giants at the time.

Jack Bladschun then took over for McBean and gave up a four-bagger to Jim Davenport after two were out in the same inning to account for San Francisco's fifth and final run.

San Diego scored its lone run in the seventh on successive singles by Tony Gonzalez; Bill Davis and Clarence Gaston.

Expos Get 7-3 Victory by Mudcat

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim (Mudcat) Grant retired the first 16 batters he faced, but needed ninth inning relief help from Carroll Sembera as the Montreal Expos trimmed the Chicago Cubs, 7-3, Saturday.

Backed by the hitting of Don Bosch, Maury Wills and Rusty Staub, Grant had a perfect game going until rookie Don Young lashed a one-out single in the single in the sixth inning.

The Expos jumped on Ferguson Jenkins, a 20-game winner in each of the last two seasons, for five runs in the first three innings.

Singles by Bosch and Wills and a double by Staub brought in two runs in the first and a run-scoring single by Bosch provided another in the second.

Four consecutive Cub singles ruined Grant's shutout bid in the ninth before Sembera came on to quell the none-out rally.

BATS, BLANK METS, 1-0

Giusti Now a Card for Sure

NEW YORK (UPI)— Dave Giusti didn't know whether he was coming or going this winter but after Saturday's performance against the New York Mets, it looks as if the 29-year-old right-hander is in St. Louis to stay.

Giusti, who was acquired by the Cardinals twice during the off season, hurled a six-hitter and scored the only run of the game after leading off the third inning with a double Saturday as St. Louis edged the Mets 1-0.

On Oct. 11, Cardinal general manager Bing Devine dealt four players, including catcher Johnny Edwards, to Houston for Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh. Three days later Giusti was taken by San Diego on the first round of the expansion draft but on Dec. 3 the Cardinals re-acquired Giusti from the Padres, giving up reserves Ed Spiezio and Ron Davis and two minor league players.

"I'm just glad to be here," Giusti said after blanking the Mets. "I had no idea the Cardinals would try to get me back.

YANKS ALSO HANDLE McLAIN, 4-0

Stottlemyre One-Hits Tigers

DETROIT (UPI) — Jim Northrup would like to welcome Mel Stottlemyre to his club.

It's an exclusive group. Stottlemyre is now the third member, and all share one thing in common — Northrup has gotten the only hit off them in a game.

Twice last season the Detroit Tiger outfielder singled to shatter the thoughts of no-hit glory two pitchers had, and Saturday Northrup did it again.

On April 24, Steve Hargan of Cleveland hurled a 2-0 one-hitter against Detroit and on May 6 at Baltimore Dave Leonhard had the same experience in a 4-0 win. Now you can add Stottlemyre's 4-0 victory to that list.

"I threw only a few bad pitches," said the sinkerballing New York righthander. "I threw two or three to Willie Horton but finally got him to strike out. But other than that, I can't really say I threw any bad pitches."

The first 14 Detroit batters were retired in order before Northrup hit the first pitch solidly to left for an opposite field double.

The only other Detroit runners to reach base were Cash and Mickey Stanley. Cash was safe with two out in the seventh when Horace Clarke bobbled his ground ball and Bobby Murcer was charged with an error with two out in the ninth when he mishandled Stanley's grounder to third.

DODGERS TOP ASTROS—

added two more runs in the seventh when Willie Crawford doubled.

Sizemore, who had two singles in three official at-bats, was struck in the left wrist by a Dooley Womack pitch in the ninth inning and had to be removed from the game. Dodger trainer Bill Buhler said Sizemore's wrist was badly bruised and X-rays will be taken today.

If Sizemore's injury is serious, it could open up new Dodger talks in a bid for Montreal's Maury Wills.

"We are always interested in a player of Wills' ability," Dodger director of player personnel Al Campanis said in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon. "But we will not destroy our existing team in order to get him.

"We know that he is 36 years old but we also feel that he has at least one or two good years remaining. The important thing is that he still can run."

Campanis said he hadn't spoken to Montreal general manager Jim Fanning "in more than a week."

"We definitely will not trade away any of our bright young prospects—a Bill Russell or a Ted Sizemore or any of the top kids in our farm system," said Campanis.

Bill Singer, making his first start of the season,

DODGER OF DAY

BILL SINGER, who pitched Dodgers to 5-1 win over Houston Astros thanks to ninth inning relief help from Jim Brewer.

was working on a five-hit shutout entering the ninth inning when the Astros scored a run with no outs on consecutive singles by Curt Blefary, Norm Miller and Denis Menke.

Relief ace Jim Brewer arrived on the scene and destroyed the Astro rally in a hurry. Brewer struck out John Edwards and then got pinch-hitter Hector Torres to hit into a game-ending double play.

While the Dodgers moved into second place in the early going of the West Division race with a 3-1 record, the winless Astros lost their fifth game of the season.

Manager Harry Walker's team has scored only five runs in five games with 23 hits—an average of 4.6 per game. And the Astros' first three losses were to San Diego.

The Dodgers have suddenly come alive in the Astrodome, winning four in a row this year including two exhibitions. In those four games the Dodgers have scored 31 runs and pounded out 43 hits.

Singer revealed Parker had come up to him before Saturday night's game and said "We'll get you five runs.

"I don't know how he knew that but I was glad to have the runs," said the Dodger righthander.

Parker never has been one for making predictions, but if all of his forecasts for this season come true, you'll find his name among the leading batters on the Dodger team.

DODGER NOTES: Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale (1-0) makes his second start of the season today, facing Houston's Don Wilson (0-1). The game will be televised by channell 11, beginning at noon . . . Dodger centerfielder Willie Davis, who suffered a broken bone in his palm during spring training and was placed on the disabled list, has been given the OK to run in practice when the Dodgers return home to face San Diego Tuesday night. Tom Haller is the only Dodger to hit in all four games. Wes Parker and Bill Russell have hit safely in the three games they have come to bat. Last season Haller and Parker opened with four-game hitting streaks. The Dodgers may be in "uniform" when they're off the field. The club is considering buying blazers and slacks for the players . . . The Dodgers finally have found the Astrodome to their liking after losing three in a row and five of their last six here last season. Houston won 8 of its last 11 games, going the Dodgers last season. The Dodgers had been 1-3 after their first four games of last season and had scored one run. It took the Dodgers six games to score nine runs last season. They matched that figure in Thursday night's game . . . Drysdale blanked the Astros twice last season, both shutouts coming in his streak of 58 2/3 scoreless

Former A's In Royal Show, 9-3

OAKLAND (AP)—Joe Keough smacked two doubles and a single, driving in one run and scoring another Saturday as Kansas City whipped Oakland 9-3.

It was the third victory in four games for the expansion Royals.

Keough, who went from Oakland to Kansas City in the American League expansion draft, drove in a run in the fifth when the Royals broke it open with four runs.

Jack Hernandez got the Royals off in front when he singled two runs across in the third inning. Then the Royals added another in the fourth on a double by Jim Campanis and Juan Rios' single.

The victory went to lefty Steve Jones, who gave up a bases empty homer to Jim Pagliaroni in the third and held the A's hitless from the fourth through the eighth until weakening in the ninth.

A triple by Danny Cater, a double by Dick Green, a single by Pagliaroni and a double by Ted Kubiak scord Oakland's final two runs in the ninth and brought on Dave Wickersham, who retired the next two batters.

For Swim Records, 'Czech' Long Beach

Czechoslovakia's Milena Duchkova to the contrary, a gentleman named Jimmy Counsilman thinks that Long Beach's Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool is just about the finest swimming tank in the world.

As reported here a few days ago, the Czech Olympic diving champion thought the Belmont Pool was "good . . . but we have better indoor and outdoor ones in my country."

The statement was a bit difficult to swallow, considering that Milena's country is in the Iron Curtain zone, but Counsilman had an answer.

"Something might have been lost in the translation," smiled the man who has set up the University of Indiana as this nation's No. 1 collegiate swimming and diving power. "I can find no fault with this Long Beach pool and I've been around a few of them in my lifetime. It's simply beautiful and, more important, extremely practical.

"I'll rest my case on what took place here Thursday night. Four national records were broken. Four during one evening is hard to believe, but it happened. I have not only to give credit to our fine young swimmers, but also to the superbness of the pool."

Of particular satisfaction to this community was the fact that two Long Beach swimmers set records and another from nearby Rancho Alamitos High School established a third.

As previously chronicled, the fantastic Cal State Long Beach merman from West Germany, Hans Fassnacht, bagged the 500-yard freestyle race in 4:33, cutting the pending record by two-tenths and the existing mark by four seconds.

Then, the lass from Millikan High School, Susie Atwood, was clocked at 2:07.50, a half-second below the pending American record and 2½ under the recognized standard for the 200-yard backstroke.

Gary Hall, the Rancho Alamitos prep, really slashed the men's 200-yard backstroke record when he completed the long haul in 1:52.0. The book record is 1:54.4.

The fourth record-breaker Thursday night was Santa Clara Swim Club's Brian Job, whose 58.1 time in the 100-yard breaststroke wiped out the pending mark of 58.3.

DOC COUNSILMAN was lavish in his praise of Fassnacht, who didn't cut too much of a swath in water circles until he enrolled at Cal State Long Beach and came under the tutelage of Don Gambril.

"I guess I goofed on that boy," laughed the great recruiter from Bloomington, Ind. "I didn't even try to recruit him.

"But what he has done since he became established in this country is absolutely phenomenal. We got a big hint of his ability during the NCAA championships right in our own backyard. Imagine an outsider busting American records (the 400-yard individual medley and the 1650-yard freestyle) in MY pool! I'd better concentrate a little more on recruiting, I guess."

Recruiting is the least of Counsilman's worries. His biggest problem is not whether his Indiana team will win, but who to place on the 18-man squad allowed for championship meets.

Sports Illustrated quoted one Indiana fan: "Having this Hoosier swimming team is like having an atomic bomb while everyone else just has a water gun."

THE INDIANA COACH couldn't stop talking about Fassnacht.

"As long as I've been around I doubt that I've seen two better matches than the pair between Hans and Mark Spitz, who I understand had aspirations of attending Long Beach State College," bubbled the Doc, obviously with his tongue-in-cheek. For the uninformed, Spitz chucked CSLB at the 11th hour to attend Counsilman U.

"Those two boys really put up a race in the 500 heat and finals of the NCAA affair," continued Counsilman. "There wasn't a fingernail's difference between the two in either race. I was happy to see Fassnacht set that record Thursday and I'll be very eager to see him win two more in the 400-yard individual medley and the 1650 freestyle here."

That 1650 race here should be something. UCLA's Mike Burton, whom Hans nipped in setting his Thursday evening freestyle record, broke the 16-minute barrier just one year ago. Swimming buffs figured the mark would be around for a while. Not so. Fassnacht swam the 1650-yard race at Indiana in 15:54.2, shaving more than five seconds off the Uclan's standard. Mike and Hans wage war again today . . . and a war it should be.

ONE HAS TO REACH the conclusion that Millikan High has a corner on the women's swimming and diving market. In addition to Susie Atwood, the Rams can boast of 18-year-old Debbie Lipman.

Debbie led qualifiers in the women's three-meter springboard diving here in the AAU Championships and managed a second place in the one-meter diving competition.

The girls have similar goals — the 1972 Olympics at Munich. If old age — the swimmers and divers rarely extend their careers beyond teenage — doesn't catch up with them, Susie and Debbie appear good bets today to represent the U.S. three years hence in Germany.

Anyway, Milena, we've got a fair country pool here. For further information, check Jimmy Counsilman.

Defense Will Decide Lakers' Fate

You can talk about strategy and match-ups and scoring duels, but when all is said and done, something else will decide if the Lakers win the NBA championship.

That something is defense, a word the Lakers have discovered only in recent weeks. They've played it before, but never with such zeal, such dedication. And never with such success.

"For 12 years Boston has emphasized defense and won 10 titles," said one Laker. "You would think others would get the message, but they don't. I can't think of one team which works harder on defense over offense."

At least for the last five games, the Lakers have been the exception. The result has been five wins.

"I have no kicks about our defense," says coach Bill van Breda Kolff, who rarely praises anything. Having allowed only 90.8 points since the second game of the playoffs, the Lakers must be considered faultless.

Good defense against Atlanta, the Lakers' foe tonight (7 p.m.) at the Forum, is paramount. The Hawks dedicate themselves to obtaining the good percentage shot and only tenacious defense foils their game plan.

Coach Richie Guerin says if Zelmo Beaty gets his shots, the Hawks will win. But Guerin knows Wilt

By DOUG IVES

Chamberlain can prevent Beaty from getting open too often.

Guerin also knows he must free Lou Hudson. The sharpshooting forward (21.9) couldn't shake Bill Hewitt last Friday and took only 14 shots in 43 minutes. The Hawks are in trouble at that pace.

"Hewitt doesn't surprise me," states Guerin. "We will have to make a few adjustments."

If defense can win for the Lakers, it can win for Atlanta, too. At least Guerin thinks so.

"We must double-team West (Jerry) but not be lax in getting back to pick up Egan (Johnny)," appraises Guerin, who called Egan's 13-point second period Friday "highly significant."

Joe Caldwell is the key Hawk. He guards West as well as anyone in the league, but he exerts so much energy in doing it, he is ineffective on offense.

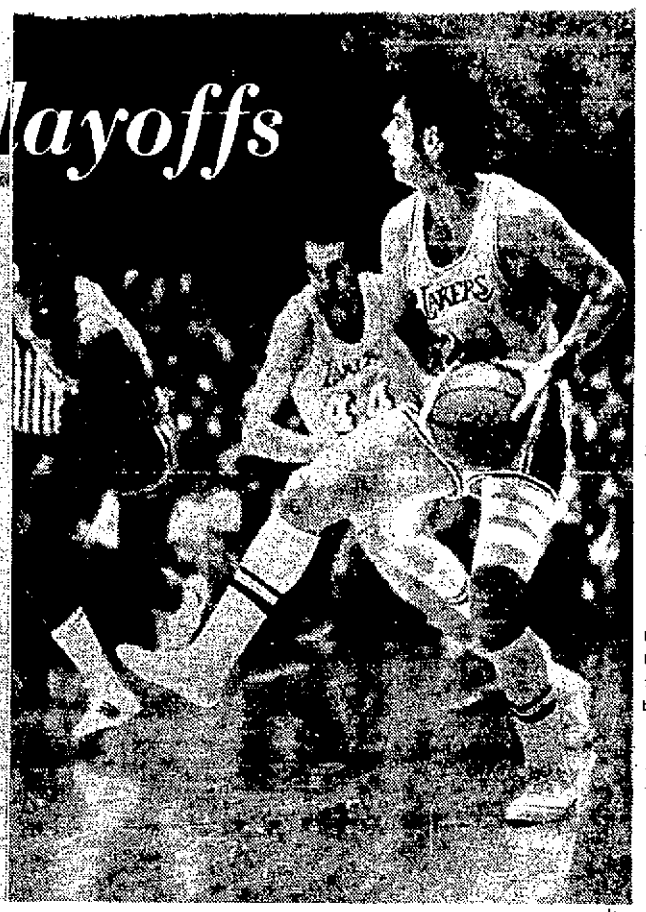

Still, Atlanta feels the sacrifice is necessary. The Hawks are convinced if they slow down West they can outshoot the rest of the Lakers. If they get good percentage shots, they probably can.

THE BEST-OF-SEVEN series for the Western Division title shifts to Atlanta Tuesday and Thursday, and a 2-up advantage would loom mighty big at this stage.

Floridians Draw Even with Pipers

Associated Press

Skip Thorne blocked seven shots and muscled his way to 26 rebounds as the Miami Floridians clipped the Minnesota Pipers, 116-109, Saturday night.

The victory evened the American Basketball Assn. Eastern Division best-of-7 semi-final playoff series at two games each, going into tonight's fifth game at Miami.

Thoren, who played with an injured leg in the last two games which the Floridians lost, also contributed 16 points.

Dallas went cold in the final three minutes to let New Orleans sneak in for a 114-107 victory.

The win gives New Orleans a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven Western Division series with the fifth game slated in New Orleans Monday night.

Rookie Warren Armstrong scored 34 points, grabbed off 14 rebounds and keyed Oakland's devastating fast break to lead the Oaks to a 128-118 Western Division semifinal victory over Denver. The win gave the Oaks a 3-2 advantage.

7TH-GAME SHOWDOWN TONIGHT

Kings Ready With 'Best Team'

OAKLAND — The Kings go into the decisive game of their Stanley Cup quarterfinal tonight with "the best team we've had all year."

So says Larry Regan, general manager and vice-president in charge of boundless optimism.

Regan is the fellow who predicted two weeks ago that the Kings would erase the Seals in "four games — five at the most."

Then, when the series was knotted at 2-and-2, he conceded, "Maybe I'd better make that six games — or seven, just to be sure."

This time there is more reason than usual for his optimism. Watching from his seat high in a corner of the Forum as the Kings fought back from the brink to win 4-3 Thursday, Regan said, "I had the feeling that we had developed into a National Hockey League club. Right now we have the best team we've had all year. Earlier you could see weak spots, but now I think you could say we're solid at every position."

The Kings should be a better club than the one the Minnesota North Stars ran out of the Forum, 9-4, in the seventh game of last year's quarterfinal.

"I think this club skates better and has more poise," Regan says.

A year's seasoning in the NHL may have done the trick. The Seals have improved more, but they had farther to go. The playoff pressure that crushed the Kings in the last two playoff games before could cripple the Seals now.

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

"Last year we just fell apart," Regan admits.

He doesn't think it will happen tonight, due largely to the presence of three men — defenseman Hank Cahan, goaltender Gerry Desjardins and winger Bryan Capbell.

"Last year we had a bunch of young guys that were nervous and went through the season doing three times as well as anybody expected them to. So this year a lot of them thought they had it made. When players think that way, they can slide back very easily.

"That's the biggest reason for our inconsistency. Now they realize this and a lot of the guys are trying to atone for bad years."

Cahan, the 35-year-old NHL retread obtained from the Seals via Montreal, admitted as much after another strong playoff game a week ago.

"Cahan has helped a lot in the playoffs," Regan says. "He's been through it before and knows what it takes. The defense men have to hit.

"I think our defense is playing well. Too many of the mistakes are being blamed on them, when really it's the forwards who are at fault. Before a defenseman can commit himself and take a guy out, he has to know that the forwards are coming back to help. Otherwise, you have two guys on the other defenseman.

"One of our most consistent defensemen has been Brent Hughes, because he's playing it rough and tough, the only way he can play it. He's improved all season."

Ch. 5, 7 p.m.

The last line of defense is the goaltender. Last year King coach Red Kelly gambled on Terry Sawchuk in the seventh game, hoping the veteran had one more big playoff game in him. Sawchuk was bombed.

"It was about then that we made up or minds we needed another goaltender," Regan says.

They swapped some draft rights to Montreal for Gerry Desjardins, who will be in the nets tonight.

"Imagine," Regan shudders, "with (Wayne) Rutledge hurt all season, where we would have been without Gerry."

Rutledge was called upon for three games when Desjardins suffered a minor leg injury in the playoff opener.

"But it's not fair to criticize Rut," Regan says. "There's no way any goalie could be ready for the playoffs, playing only 17 games all season."

Campbell was recalled from Springfield for the playoffs but didn't get into a game until Bob Wall injured his back when Oakland goalie Gary Smith tripped him into the boards in the fifth game at Oakland.

Back at the Forum the next night, Campbell scored a goal and played a strong checking game.

Kelly said, "I think Campbell gives us a little more sharpness around the net."

"Soupy thought he had it made, too," Regan says, "but the second time we sent him down was the crusher. He knew then that he'd always be a minor leaguer — or he'd fight his way back.

"I think for the period he was down there he had the best scoring average in the American League. Johnny Wilson (Springfield coach) told me, 'If you don't call this guy up, he'll be hearbroken.'"

When Kelly needed a replacement for Wall, he didn't have to ask Campbell twice.

"It looks a lot easier from upstairs," Souply said. "But it sure felt good to be on that ice again."

Tonight's winners will be on St. Louis ice 48 hours later. The losers get five months off.

CANADIENS AIM FOR COMMANDING LEAD

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens, still unbeaten in the playoffs and for the last 19 games at home, aim for a commanding 2-0 lead today when they tangle again with Boston in their National Hockey League East Division final series.

The Canadiens, who swept the New York Rangers in four games in the semifinals, feel they have still more going for them entering today's nationally televised contest (Ch. 2, 11 a.m.), having won Thursday's opener, 3-2, in overtime after trailing 2-0 with seven minutes left.

"This series is far from over," said Serge Savard, who assisted on all three Montreal goals, "but that goal could mean the Stanley Cup. The win gave us a terrific lift and losing that way must have hurt the Bruins."

AGE BIG FACTOR

Celts Need Rest, Havlicek Admits

BOSTON (AP)—"With two days off I think we'll be all right," said John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics, with an eye on the NBA Eastern Division finals that resume here today against New York.

"We're a much better team when we have a day off between games," he added. "I'm sure the Knicks can recover a little faster than we can when we play back-to-back games because they are a younger team.

"They also were a hungrier team than we were on Thursday night because their backs were to the wall."

Boston lost to the Knicks 101-91 Thursday at New York.

HAVLICEK AND his Celtics colleagues held another workout Saturday in preparation for the New York game in a best-of-seven series the Celtics lead 2-1.

Havlicek, who was held to only eight points in the Thursday game, said, "I just wasn't getting the shots. I had a few good chances but missed."

Player-coach Bill Russell said, "our defense was okay, but we had our problems on offense."

The Knicks tightened their defenses for the game, particularly Bill Bradley who scored 18 points for New York in addition to a defensive job on Havlicek.

Swimming's Future Out of Sight

DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

It seems every time you look at the result of a swimming meet like the National AAU championships at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool, records are established. Where will it end? What is the ultimate in each event?

"Swimmers still have a long way to go to reach the ultimate," says James E. (Doc) Counsilman, veteran coach of Indiana University's NCAA championship team and one of the most respected mentors in the world.

"However," he adds, "there is no way of predicting an ultimate time in each event. A projection of a record today might be drastically different five years from now.

"This is due to many factors. For one thing, we are getting more kids now with talent and the physical ability. And they are better prepared psychologically because they are setting tougher and tougher goals for themselves.

"Each year coaches devise techniques to improve swimmers and it's a tribute to them when a record falls. The caliber of coaching today is the greatest it ever has been and will be even better in the future," Counsilman stresses. "We have some outstanding young men in the profession who are dedicated and experimentally minded.

"They aren't afraid to try something new and, as a result, they are in the process of developing methods to improve conditioning and stroke mechanics. This will be noticeable in the results each new year."

The Indiana coach declares that "perhaps the biggest area for improvement is in our conditioning programs. We are in an experimental stage right now. We are learning more and more about it all the time."

"WHEN ONE SWIMMER IS SUCCESSFUL with a certain training routine, just about everyone will try to copy that for awhile until something new comes along. But there are no set procedures. We still don't know if we are working a kid too hard or not hard enough, too long or not long enough," the veteran coach said.

"But with the conditioning programs we have, we still are turning out the toughest bunch of kids in the world. I always get a bit upset when I hear that our young men are going to pot in this age of easy living. That simply isn't true.

"You can't beat our competitive society for producing physically and mentally tough kids. They're getting tougher because they are being conditioned under the tremendous stress of competition.

Asked to look into the future and forecast what the ultimate might be, Counsilman said, "The record for the 100-meter freestyle probably will go under 50 seconds within the next 10 years, but just how far is impossible to say at this time.

"Mike Wenden of Australia lowered it to 52.2 seconds in the Olympic Games at Mexico City last fall despite a weak turn. Some swimmer will be able to get close to 50 seconds on just the start and turn alone.

"The 200-meter free style is now down to 1:54.4, a reduction of nearly 14 seconds in the last 16 or 17 years," Counsilman went on, "and I think it will go under 1:50 in the near future.

"The 400-meter freestyle record is now 4:06.4, nearly 20 seconds better than it was 20 years ago, and I look for it to go under four minutes within two or three years."

THE LONGER AN EVENT IS, the better chance there is of lowering the record more quickly because of improved techniques and conditioning.

However, the toughest freestyle record of all to break in the next few years is Mike Burton's sensational 16:08.5 for the 1500 meters — the metric mile.

"Usually, you'll see big drops in a record at first. Then the drops will get smaller the closer the swimmers get to the ultimate, whatever it might be," Counsilman points out.

He apparently feels Burton's mark is the closest to the ultimate than those in the other events. "The story of the 1500 is amazing. They didn't break 19 minutes until after World War II.

"Now look what it is. Burton broke the old mark by 19.6 seconds in the Olympic Trials in your Long Beach pool last summer in a fantastic effort.

"His 16:08.5 is a truly great record. In fact, I'd say it was several years ahead of the timetable . . . and it may take 10 to 15 years to knock off another eight and one-half seconds to break the 16-minute barrier."

WHAT EVENT PRODUCES the outstanding swimmers? "Without a doubt, the 400-meter individual medley. It's the greatest event in swimming . . . the supreme test because you must use all four strokes. You can get by in the 200 medley on speed alone, but in the 400 you need endurance along with speed," Counsilman said.

"I regard Indiana's Charley Hickcox to be the greatest swimmer of all-time. But I don't know how long I'll be able to say that.

"Charley won the 400-meter individual medley in the Olympics in the record time of 4:39, but Gary Hall, who was second, is the most complete swimmer in the world today. He's still a bit deficient in his breaststroke, but he won't be for long. He's working hard on it.

"It's a coincidence you asked because Gary and I were just talking about when the record will go under 4:30. And I don't think it will be very long.

"One of my Indiana swimmers, Ted Stickel, was the first to break five minutes. That was only eight years ago in 1961. I believe Hall will do at least 4:35 this summer and 4:30 is within reach in two or three years.

"Gary has a great future," Counsilman says of the senior at Rancho Alamitos High in Garden Grove.

PROS STILL RICHER

Ashe Snagged in Rules

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Arthur Ashe wants to organize non-contract tennis "Professionals," he has the blessings of George MacCall, president of the National Tennis League. Ashe, winner of the first U.S. Open tournament at Forest Hills last September, contends he and others like him, who now play under the relaxed rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, are entitled to the same open tournament expenses and guarantees afforded MacCall's league and its rival, World Champion Tennis.

ASHE

The former Army lieutenant has been playing for prize money in U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. tournaments. Ashe has talked informally with other tennis stars who have not joined the two touring groups.

Ashe, in winning the Caribe Hilton tournament in San Juan recently, earned $500, plus expenses. The week before, as the defeated finalist in the Madison Square Garden Open, he had picked up a check for more than $3,000.

"It is not fair that the 16 contract professionals hold up all the money in major tournaments," Ashe said. "They get prize money, plus expenses, but the rest of us who go for the purse can wind up with nothing. In a draw of 128 players, why should 16 guys get all the money?"

"If it's money Arthur is talking about, and apparently he is," MacCall said, "National Tennis League and World Championship Tennis players spent 71 days in open tournaments in 1968 and won about $85,000. In 63 days of strictly pro tournaments, the players split up $208,000."

If Arthur wants to get in on that kind of money, the leagues would be willing to have him risk his reputation on the regular tournament schedule of the professionals, "where he would be paid what he is worth, not on the name he may have earned in non-pro efforts," MacCall said.

"Tennis isn't run on a welfare basis."

New USLTA regulations which permit a player to compete for money without endangering his appearances against amateurs in any tournament, including the Davis Cup, created Ashe's position.

He is also free to endorse products — even a racquet, a shoe, or a court which bears a different label than that given the seal of the USLTA.

FINNISH GYMNASTICS STAR IN L.B. MEET

Mauro Nissenen, a Finnish student at the University of Washington who last week proved himself the finest all-around collegiate gymnast in America, Saturday accepted an invitation to represent Finland in the first annual Invitational World Cup April 26 at Long Beach Arena.

Nissenen won the all-around competition in the recent National Collegiate Athletic Assn. meet, the gymnastics equivalent of the decathlon.

The Invitational World Cup, co-sponsored by Modern Gymnast magazine and the United States Gymnastics Federation, will be held in conjunction with the annual USGF nationals April 25 in Long Beach.

Billie Jean Slams to African Crown

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, defeated Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, Saturday to capture the ladies singles title of the South African tennis championships.

Mrs. King needed just 70 minutes to oust Miss Richey, who had fought off a bout with the flu earlier in the week.

For Mrs. King, it was her third South African crown in the past four years. Margaret Court of Australia won last year.

It was an absorbing match of contrasting styles and began with a strangley subdued Mrs. King being pegged to the baseline by the Texan's piercing ground strokes.

Mrs. King allowed herself to be drawn into lengthy backcourt duels in the first set, which she took despite determined retrieving by Miss Richey.

Gaining in confidence, the Californian adopted a more aggressive approach in the second set, rushing to the net to put away fierce smashes and volleys.

Superb widely-angled smashes when Miss Richey was forced to lob short under pressure paved the way for Mrs. King's deciding break in the ninth game of the second set.

In the last game she was down 15-40, but fought back to deuce and allowed Miss Richey to escape one match point before clinching victory with a smash.

AGING Pancho Gonzales of the U.S. and South Africa's self-styled hippie, Ray Moore, took the men's doubles title. They beat former Wimbledon champions Bob Hewitt and Fred MacMillan of South Africa 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Their victory was acclaimed by the fans at Ellis Park who had cheered the sixth-seeded pair throughout their preliminary games.

Gonzales and Moore had a decided edge over the South African Davis Cup pair in fierce volleying exchanges at the net.

The mixed-doubles crown went to Tom Okker of Holland, who won the singles title last year, and South African Annette Du Plooy. They beat Bob Maud of South Africa and Britain's Virginia Wade, 8-6, 5-7, 6-4, in a match that had to be completed under floodlights.

The Kick's Just Not There for Claudia Anymore

"I don't think I've missed too much, because swimming's been a life in itself. I still enjoy it . . . but I can't imagine going through a whole summer again, swimming."
—Claudia Kolb.

If she took count, Claudia Kolb would have more medals than freckles. And that's a lot.

At Mexico City, she won almost as many gold medals as Debbie Meyer — two, then announced her retirement. Called by her coach, George Haines, "the world's greatest all-round swimmer," she had been around it and claimed two records for it, but she had had it. She was 19.

Claudia hasn't been swimming all her life. It just seems that way.

"I started swimming when I was 2," she says. "Then I started taking lessons when I was 4. When I was 7 I started to race."

When Claudia was 10, her father was transferred from San Leandro to Santa Clara, "which was lucky for me," she adds. It united her with Haines, coach of the Santa Clara Swim Club. For nearly 10 years now, Haines and the SCSC have been getting her up in the morning and putting her to bed at night. It isn't easy to leave it all behind.

So this week Claudia has been down at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool striving once again for alma mater and good ol' George in the National AAU Short Course Swimming and Diving Championships.

"This is one meet we have to win," she says, "for George. I'm not in good shape, but good enough for relays, just to give us points.

* * * *

IN LAST FALL'S Olympics, she won the 200- and 400-meter individual medleys, races which combine butterfly, backstroke, breaststroke and freestyle. She will swim the 200 today if Santa Clara needs the points. Otherwise, it will just be the 400 freestyle relay.

If it weren't for Haines, Claudia's heart wouldn't be in it at all.

"When I was 10, 11 and 12 I didn't do much of anything and I was about ready to quit," she says. "But apparently George, from what he says now, saw something in me."

In the club's annual awards banquet, Haines gave Claudia a special trophy for "hard work and determination."

"That kept me swimming," Claudia says, and the records tell the story from there. At 14 she won a silver medal in 200 breaststroke at the Tokyo Olympics, then went on to world records in the 200 and 400 IMs and finally the golds at Mexico City.

After 12 years of pressure, she plans to enroll at the University of Santa Clara next fall but also admits to girlish thoughts of getting married and having babies.

"Yeah, I do," she says, her green eyes sparkling, "but people are always asking me what I'm going to do, so I decided I should think of something good to say. I'd love to teach kindergarten. I like little kids. I think it'd be kind of fun to be a coach."

* * * *

SHE IS TOTALLY and unashamedly devoted to her own coach.

"It's awful, it's terrible, so nerve-wracking. You see them and they're really nervous. We get nervous and then they're nervous for us, and they've got all of us to worry about.

"I resp- . . . , I, you know, I just . . . I love George . . . I guess you could say like a father, 'cause it's been so long that I've been with him. Well, I just think he's the greatest."

Claudia took her two gold medals home to Santa Clara to her parents, eight sisters and one brother. Only one other member of the family, a 12-year-old sister, swims competitively.

"Lately I've found that girls have more of a competitive spirt than boys. People ask, 'How can you devote so much time to swimming?' but it doesn't bother me. I guess I don't have time to do the things the average kid does, but I enjoy it.

"I wanted to swim. A lot of kids don't, and it's important for their parents not to push them. Mine didn't. They were enthusiastic, but they never pushed me when I didn't want to swim."

All of Claudia's push came from within.

"I don't find it difficult to psych myself up. I remember at the Olympic Trials being nervous . . . so nervous I cried. But it was different at the Olympics. It was awful. It was terrible. All the years and all the work and miles you've put in, and this is it.

"It's for your country, but I think you more or less do it for yourself . . . and for your coach. Especially if you're expected to win, it's worse. You have everything to lose. I think a person could have a nervous breakdown."

* * * *

CLAUDIA HAS VISITED most countries that count.

"I love to travel," she says. "It's really funny. You're supposed to dislike the Russians, but when you meet 'em they're just like you. Everyone's the same."

But after the Olympics she went to Peru to teach swimming at a private club for three months. She was home in six weeks.

"I was the only one (American) down there and I was homesick," she says.

One day she'll be able to tell her grandchildren all about it ..... all about everything except the 200 at the Olympics.

"I don't remember warming up, I don't remember walking out there or even diving in. I don't remember the race; I don't remember if it hurt. I just don't remember anything.

"I only know on the last lap I was smiling. And then when I received my gold medal I was so happy. You know, everyone gets so emtoional about this. I was just so glad it was over."

SUSIE, KIM SET RECORDS---

He bettered the American record in afternoon preliminaries, scoring in 2:06.1. Record was 2:07.9.

Mexico's Olympic hero, Felipe Munoz, was last among the six finalists in 2:13.06. "I have had no training in the short indnor pools," said Felipe. "I cannot swimm all the turns as well as the others."MORE MORE MORE

Jim Henry, Indiana U., won the diving high point trophy, but lost the platform title in a shocker.

He generated the shock with an upside down belly flop.

Henry, winner of the one-meter, second in the three-meter, attempted a running reverse, two and one-half somersault, but landed with a t-h-u-m-p that threatened the windows. He scored only two and three, instead of his usual seven-eight points.

Dick Rydze, U. of Michigan, outscored Henry by 40 points in that round. Rydze totalled 549.39 points, Henry 544.11.

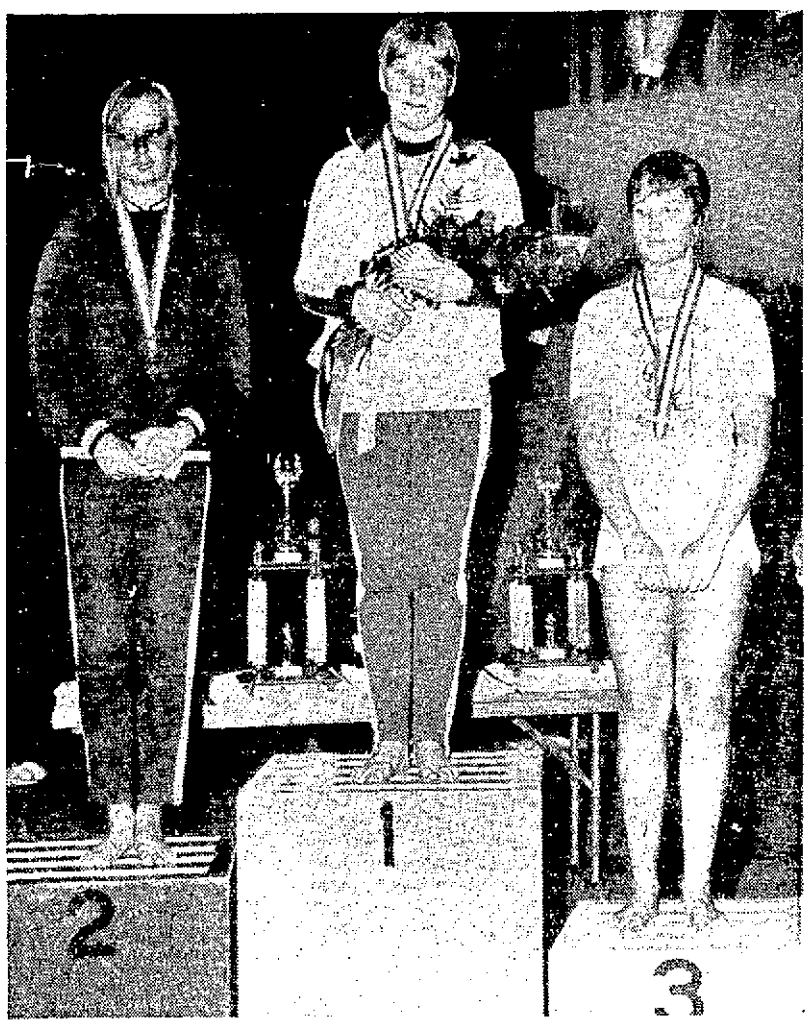

Ellie Daniel, Elkins Park, Pa., was a wire-to-wire winner in the women's 200-yard butterfly. There was open water between Daniel and Olympian Toni Hewitt, Newport Beach, at 75 yards, and it slowly increased to almost a two-length advantage at the touch plate.

Miss Daniel, winner of a gold, silver and bronze at Mexico City, was clocked at 2:06.65. Miss Hewitt at 2:08.52. The national record of 2:06.6 had a close shave.

Ross Wales, Princeton U., used similar strategy in the men's 200 fly — but it didn't work. Mike Burton, UCLA, caught, then conquered the rabbit in the final strokes. Burton's time was 1:52.63, Wales' 1:52.68.

Andrew Strenk, USC, was third at 1:53.32, Hans Fassnacht, Cal State Long Beach and Phillips 66 Swim Club, fourth in 1:53.46.

In today's feature Burton tackles Fassnacht and Gary Hall, Rancho Alamitos High, in the 1,650 freestyle. "I don't think Hans can go faster than he did two weeks ago (15:54.2)," said Burton, "but I'm shooting for the 40s (15:40)."

85 Out for First UCLA Spring Drill

The UCLA Bruins opened their spring football practice with "a lot of hitting" and organization of coach Tom Prothro's new offense and defense.

Eighty-five players including 32 lettermen turned out and went through a 90-minute workout, which included body contact.

Prothro's new offense will bring his two top ground gainers from last year into the backfield at the same time. Mickey Cureton played behind Greg Jones in 1968.

The quarterback's job is wide open with five likely contenders, including lettermen Bill Bolden and Jim Nader. The others are Ed Moore, a transfer from the Air Force Academy; Dennis Dummit, from Long Beach City College, and Scott Henderson, up from the Brubabes.

O. J.'s Heir in Explosive Debut

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

Clarence Davis, junior college all-America from East Los Angeles, ran 80 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball Saturday in USC's opening spring football scrimmage.

"It was a rather auspicious beginning," commented coach John McKay.

Davis' touchdown was the only one scored in the 70-minute scrimmage.

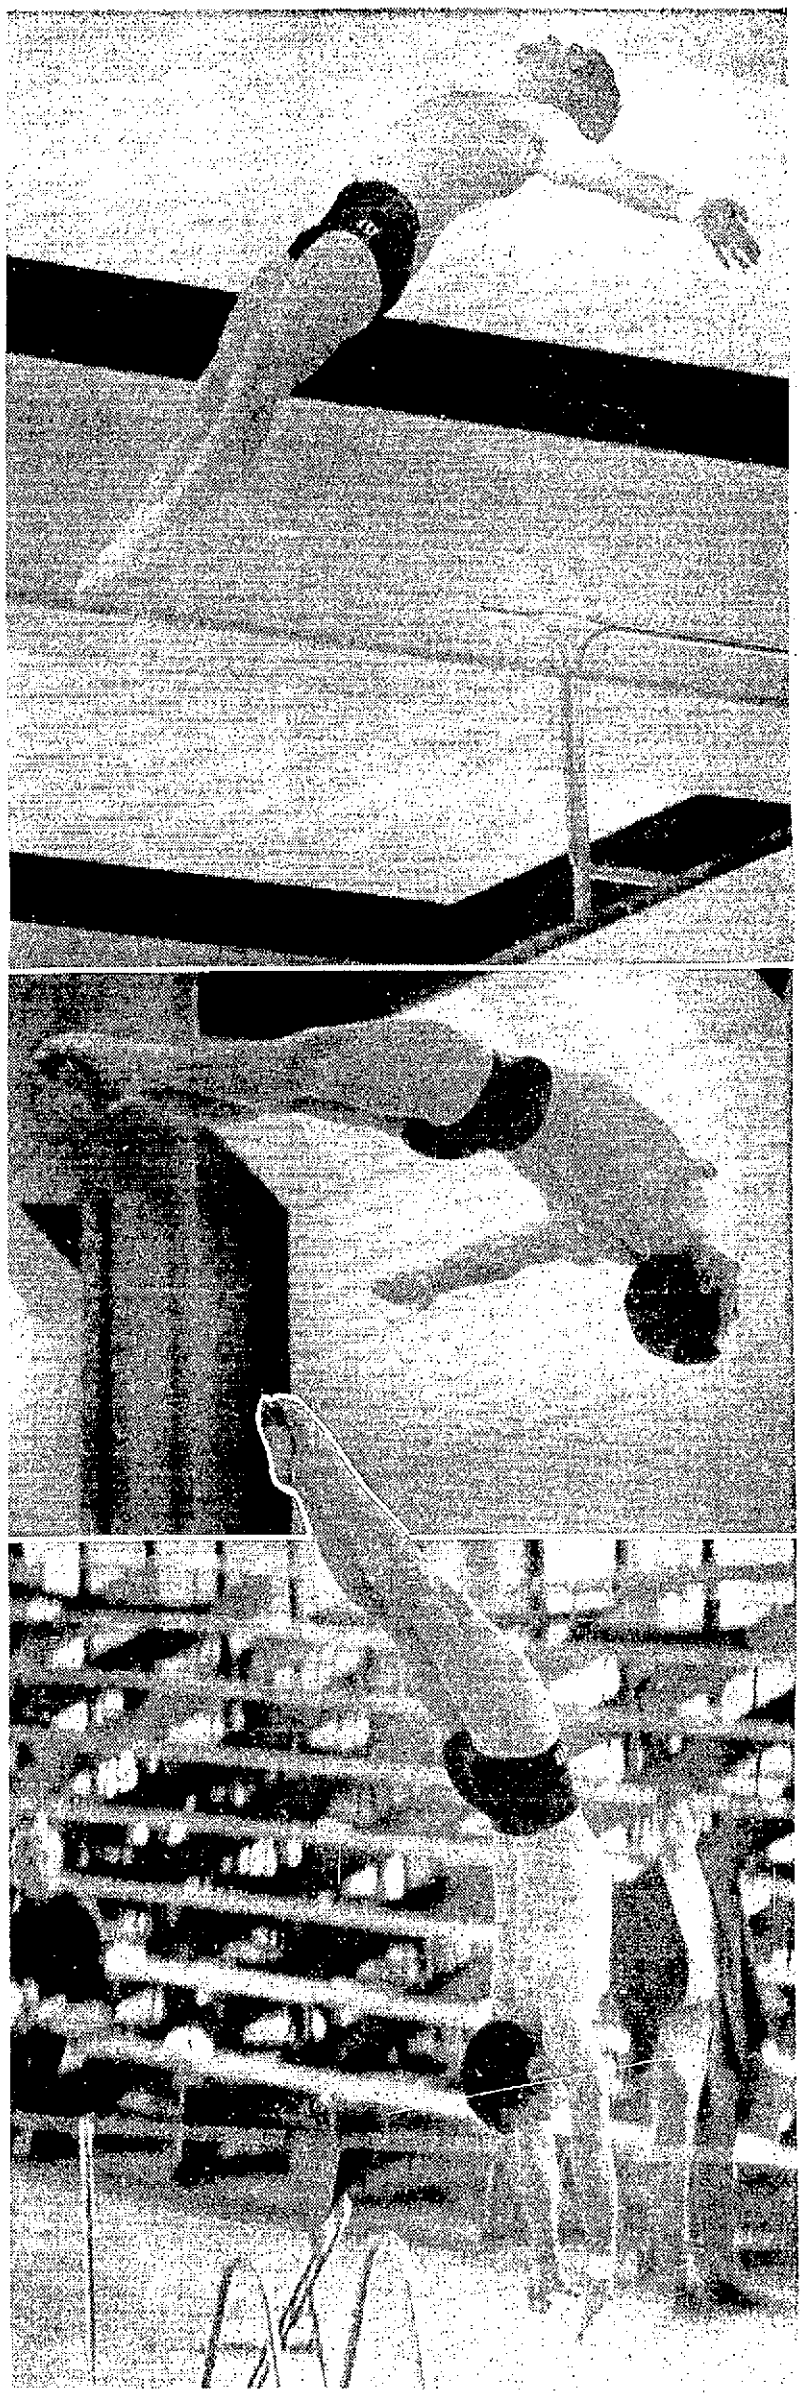

Davis, who broke several of O. J. Simpson's junior college records last fall, was the leading rusher with 94 yards in seven carries.

Mike Berry had 33 yards in six attempts.

LEADING RECEIVERS were Gary Orcutt with three receptions for 68 yards and Terry DeKraai with four catches and 43 yards.

Greg Briner, freshman from Gardena, was the top passer with four completions in seven attempts for 66 yards.

FORTUNES AND MISFORTUNES ON MASTERS' GREENS

George Knudson of Toronto birdied the eighth, ninth and 10th on the way to a 69. Lionel Hebert joined him at 212, even though he had to borrow a driver to do so. Hebert's driver came apart after his tee shot at the second and he sent back to the clubhouse for a replacement.

Then he holed a four-footer for a birdie after second, after bagging one also at the first. Hebert's 18-hole score was 70, two under par, over the 6,980-yard course.

No estimate or official attendance was announced but observers unofficially placed the total at between 30,000 and 35,000.

Devlin described his performance as disappointing, for his 76 dropped him back to 213 along with Dan Sikes. He had a 38 on each side but on the back nine he hit into the water at two holes. He escaped with a 5 at the 11th, birdied the 13th but then stumbled into a double bogey 5 at the 16th where his No. 5 iron tee shot fluttered into the pond.

Abbott, originally from Amarillo, Tex., and a former Tulsa University golfer, had an eagle, six birdies and one bogey in.

'AS CORNY AS IT MAY SOUND, I PRAY FOR HEALTH AND GUIDANCE'

Casper Prays Today, but Not to Win Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — One of the things Billy Casper will do when he gets up this morning will be to pray.

One of the things he won't do will be to pray he wins the Masters, which he leads by one stroke.

"As corny as it may sound," says Casper, "I pray morning and night. I pray for health, strength and guidance. I pray that I may be an example to others."

Casper is an elder in the Mormon church but he is not a religious fanatic. The 37-year-old precisionist from Apple Valley, Calif., doesn't let anything upset him and goes out of his way to make friends of most everyone he meets.

"Isn't there someone you don't like?" Someone tried to pin him down.

Casper simply smiled.

"No one that I know of," he answered. "I suppose there used to be but I can't think of anyone I actually dislike now. I think most people are friendly and that's the same way I try to be with them. If they are unfriendly and wish to go their own way, naturally, you have to let them."

Casper's attitude toward life and toward people is no overnight put-on. He believes in what he says and, what's more, he practices what he says every opportunity he has.

Most of the golfers on the tour get ruffled and show their emotions when their scores soar. Not Casper. He's pleasant, amiable and accessible whether he's over par or under it.

His game excites others but not him. When he was asked how he felt about his showing here so far after three rounds in which his 208 total is eight shots under par, he said simply:

"I am very happy to shoot three rounds under par."

The truth is Casper played poorly Saturday over the first nine holes and much better over the final nine. His putter saved him going out and he salvaged an even par 36. Then after nabbing his only birdie on the 10th, he parred the rest of the way in for a 35.

"It was like night and day," he said, about the way he played the front nine and the back nine. "I was in the dark on the front nine and suddenly I saw daylight on the back nine. I suppose if there was a turning point it had to be the 10th hole. The four wood I hit on my second shot I'd say was my finest of the day. The ball stopped 12 feet from the hole."

Casper knocked in that putt and although he missed what he called "makeable" putts of 6, 8, 8 and 12 feet on the final four holes, he refused to grumble about them.

"I see no point in it," he explained. "I've made so many putts this week that missing those few at the end didn't make that much difference."

The third-round leader traditionally gets little sleep before that final 18 and one of the interviewers wanted to know whether Casper was going to do some reflecting now about his narrow lead.

The question merely made him smile again.

"Once I leave the golf course, I don't think about it," he said.

Hackett Hero of 49er Sweep

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Cal State Long Beach, which has had trouble getting key plays this season, got two from Bill Hackett Saturday and it unlocked the door to a California Collegiate Athletic Assn. sweep of Fresno State.

Hackett whacked a two-out single in the eighth inning of the opening game at Blair Field Saturday to score Steve Brown with the winning run in a 5-4 triumph and then walked with the bases loaded to force in Ed Curtis and give Long Beach a 4-3 decision in the nightcap.

"Any time you take three from that club," 49er coach Bob Wuesthoff smiled, "it's something." The 49ers won the series opener Friday, 15-2.

To get the sweep, evening their CCAA record at 3-3 and their season log at 12-12, the 49ers had to win the first game and have Fresno give them the second.

The usually stable Bulldogs were leading, 3-0, going into the final (seventh) inning of the second game when Dale Duncan and Jim Seida got things going with successive singles.

That chased starter John Ballinger and called for reliefer Ray Strable, the loser of Friday's game.

Strable promptly walked Charlie Beech and pinch-hitter Ed Curtis to force in a run. Strable's defense then failed him as first baseman Moe Dibuduo fielded Brown's grounder and threw the ball into left field attempting to start a double play. Seida and Beech scored to tie the game.

Wuesthoff then had Harry Munoz bunt the ball and three Bulldogs surrounded the ball but all failed to make a play on it, giving Harry a single and loading the bases for Hackett.

The senior shortstop, who had singled and walked in his first three trips in the game, walked on five pitches to score Curtis.

Brown Goes on Rampage to Put LBCC Past 'Gades

BAKERSFIELD — Ray Brown went on the warpath Saturday and pitched Long Beach City College to a 5-3 Metropolitan Conference win over Bakersfield.

Brown, who is part Indian, struck out nine Renegades in pitching his second complete game of the year. He retired 18 batters in a row at one point.

The Vikings broke open a tight game in the seventh inning with a three-run burst that spanned a walk to Brown and singles by Ray Colin, Glenn Berberet and old-timer Doug Smallwood.

Colin collected two hits as did third baseman Buddy Arnold and catcher Jim Gmur.

The righthander was in serious trouble only in the ninth when he walked the first two batters he faced and then committed a balk to put runners at second and third. Bakersfield followed with a line drive single and an infield hit to score a run before LBCC pulled off a double play and the last batter grounded out.

The win puts the Vikings in second place at the end of the second round of Metro action with a 9-5 record. Coach Joe Hicks takes his team to leader Cerritos Tuesday to begin the third and final round of play.

Mickey at Mike: Hit, No Errors

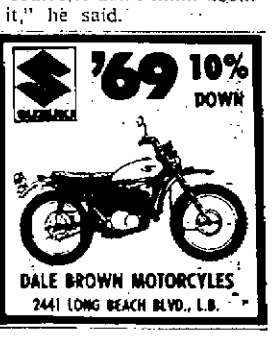

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mickey Mantle made his debut as a baseball television commentator Saturday, and the retired slugger of the New York Yankees said it was easier than hitting big league pitching.

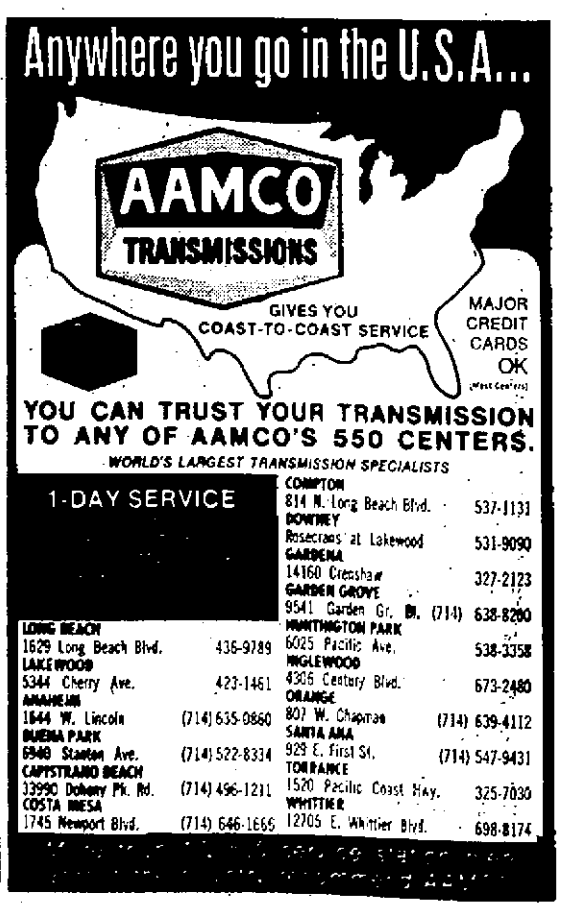

"Maybe I should make a comeback," Mantle said before the San Francisco-at-San Diego game which was nationally televised over the National Broadcasting Co. network. "The game looks easy from up here."

Mantle seemed to be at ease when he taped a pre-game show with Tony Kubek, his former Yankee teammate, for the NBC Game of the Week. The tape was shown before the game started.

"I was a little nervous, but this still is easier than playing baseball," said Mantle, who was signed by NBC for part-time appearances on the Game of the Week.

He will be on an estimated 10 to 12 pre-game programs with Kubek.

BI-LINGUAL BASEBALL

Au Jeu!

MONTREAL (AP)—Au Jeu. Play Ball!

In two languages that's the word from baseball's new frontier here in Canada, where for the first time Monday the Montreal Expos take the field against the St. Louis Cardinals in the first regular season major league game ever played outside the United States.

And, despite difficult weather conditions that threatened to force a delay in the Expos' home debut, all but the last-minute touches remain to be applied before the start of the big test that will determine whether baseball can find a home among the predominantly French-Canadian populace.

The first major hurdle, refurbishing of tiny Jarry Stadium into a 28,450-seat ball park that will house the Expos temporarily, is near completion.

Workmen continued to push ahead Saturday, working primarily on the condition of the playing surface with the first signs of green just beginning to show in the grass after some 10 days of weather in the 45-55 degree range.

The ball park is ready for the sellout crowd — actually the opener was oversold and tickets had to be refunded to the fans coming in from as far away as Seven Islands, Quebec, some 700 air miles to the north of Montreal.

"There's excitement among the fans," explained an official of the Expos. "There's even excitement among those people who had been negative, who wondered whether we would draw. Now you meet them, and they seem to know everything that's happening about the club."

(Play Ball)

One reason for that is that the Expos' games are being telecast throughout the country by the Canadian Broadcasting System on 56 station, 44 in English and 12 in French—from St. John's, Newfoundland to Vancouver, B.C., and from Windsor, Ont., to White Horse, Yukon.

From the "bon jour" that greets telephone callers to the flags that will be flying on opening day — Canadian, United States, Quebec and Montreal—the operation has been aimed at appealing to both English and French-speaking fans.

For the big question mark in Montreal's ability to support major league baseball revolves around the sport's attractiveness to the emotional French-Canadians, who are more naturally attuned to hockey, their national pasttime.

That question will start to be answered Monday, weather permitting.

Old Minor Loop Back in Action

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Baseball's minor leagues, the generally forgotten but clearly indispensible foundation for the major leagues, swing into action next week — and not one baseball fan in a thousand is aware of what their alignment is.

Expansion of the majors, along with franchies during the last 16 years, have created a period of instability and confusion that has deepened public indifference.

But now, for the first time since the 1950s, there was a nucleus of order in a new set-up which may have a chance to grow.

The American Association is back. Driven out of business a few years ago after a half century of distinguished life as one of the top three minor leagues, it is now a six-team circuit containing Denver, Indianapolis, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Omaha and Des Moines

The Pacific Coast League, which operated as a 12-team league with six-team divisions with remnants of the old American Association thrown in, is an eight-team circuit again with a reasonable relation to its title. It contains Hawaii, Spokane and Tacoma in Washington; Portland and Eugene in Oregon, Phoenix and Tucson in Arizona, and Vancouver in Canada.

McCovey's Big Bat Helps Juan Stymie Padres

SAN DIEGO — Willie McCovey slammed out his second home run of the young season along with a pair of doubles to drive in three runs; powering the San Francisco Giants to a 5-1 win over the San Diego Padres Saturday.

McCovey's heft bat enabled Juan Marichal, the National League's top winner in 1968, to go the distance and pickup his initial victory as 20,356 looked on.

McCovey's homer; a 340-foot clout just inside the right field foul pole, came with a runner aboard in the eighth to pad a slim 2-1 lead held by the Giants at the time.

Jack Bladschun then took over for McBean and gave up a four-bagger to Jim Davenport after two were out in the same inning to account for San Francisco's fifth and final run.

San Diego scored its lone run in the seventh on successive singles by Tony Gonzalez; Bill Davis and Clarence Gaston.

Expos Get 7-3 Victory by Mudcat

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim (Mudcat) Grant retired the first 16 batters he faced, but needed ninth inning relief help from Carroll Sembera as the Montreal Expos trimmed the Chicago Cubs, 7-3, Saturday.

Backed by the hitting of Don Bosch, Maury Wills and Rusty Staub, Grant had a perfect game going until rookie Don Young lashed a one-out single in the single in the sixth inning.

The Expos jumped on Ferguson Jenkins, a 20-game winner in each of the last two seasons, for five runs in the first three innings.

Singles by Bosch and Wills and a double by Staub brought in two runs in the first and a run-scoring single by Bosch provided another in the second.

Four consecutive Cub singles ruined Grant's shutout bid in the ninth before Sembera came on to quell the none-out rally.

YANKS ALSO HANDLE McLAIN, 4-0

Stottlemyre One-Hits Tigers

DETROIT (UPI) — Jim Northrup would like to welcome Mel Stottlemyre to his club.

It's an exclusive group. Stottlemyre is now the third member, and all share one thing in common — Northrup has gotten the only hit off them in a game.

Twice last season the Detroit Tiger outfielder singled to shatter the thoughts of no-hit glory two pitchers had, and Saturday Northrup did it again

On April 24, Steve Hargan of Cleveland hurled a 2-0 one-hitter against Detroit and on May 6 at Baltimore Dave Leonhard had the same experience in a 4-0 win. Now you can add Stottlemyre's 4-0 victory to that list.

"I threw only a few bad pitches," said the sinker-balling New York right-hander. "I threw two or three to Willie Horton but finally got him to strike out. But other than that, I can't really say I threw any bad pitches."

The first 14 Detroit batters were retired in order before Northrup hit the first pitch solidly to left for an opposite field double.

The only other Detroit runners to reach base were Cash and Mickey Stanley. Cash was safe with two out in the seventh when Horace Clarke bobbled his ground ball and Bobby Murcer was charged with an error with two out in the ninth when he mishandled Stanley's grounder to third.

DODGERS TOP ASTROS—

added two more runs in the seventh when Willie Crawford doubled.

Sizemore, who had two singles in three official at-bats, was struck in the left wrist by a Dooley Womack pitch in the ninth inning and had to be removed from the game. Dodger trainer Bill Buhler said Sizemore's wrist was badly bruised and X-rays will be taken today.

If Sizemore's injury is serious, it could open up new Dodger talks in a bid for Montreal's Maury Wills.

"We are always interested in a player of Wills' ability," Dodger director of player personnel Al Campanis said in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon. "But we will not destroy our existing team in order to get him.

"We know that he is 36 years old but we also feel that he has at least one or two good years remaining. The important thing is that he still can run."

Campanis said he hadn't spoken to Montreal general manager Jim Fanning "in more than a week."

"We definitely will not trade away any of our bright young prospects—a Bill Russell or a Ted Sizemore or any of the top kids in our farm system," said Campanis.

Bill Singer, making his first start of the season,

DODGER OF DAY

BILL SINGER, who pitched Dodgers to 5-1 win over Houston Astros thanks to ninth inning relief help from Jim Brewer.

was working on a five-hit shutout entering the ninth inning when the Astros scored a run with no outs on consecutive singles by Curt Blefary, Norm Miller and Denis Menke.

Relief ace Jim Brewer arrived on the scene and destroyed the Astro rally in a hurry. Brewer struck out John Edwards and then got pinch-hitter Hector Torres to hit into a game-ending double play.

While the Dodgers moved intn second place in the early going of the West Division race with a 3-1 record, the winless Astros lost their fifth game of the season.

Manager Harry Walker's team has scored only five runs in five games with 23 hits—an average of 4.6 per game. And the Astros' first three losses were to San Diego.

The Dodgers have suddenly come alive in the Astrodome, winning four in a row this year including two exhibitions. In those four games the Dodgers have scored 31 runs and pounded out 43 hits.

Singer revealed Parker had come up to him before Saturday night's game and said "We'll get you five runs.

"I don't know how he knew that but I was glad to have the runs," said the Dodger righthander.

Parker never has been one for making predictions, but if all of his forecasts for this season come true, you'll find his name among the leading batters on the Dodger team.

DODGER NOTES: Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale (1-0) makes his second start of the season today, facing Houston's Don Wilson (0-1). The game will be televised by channell 11, beginning at noon . . . Dodger centerfielder Willie Davis, who suffered a broken bone in his arm during spring training and was placed on the disabled list, has been given the OK to run in practice when the Dodgers return home to face San Diego Tuesday night . . . Tom Haller is the only Dodger to hit in all four games. Wes Parker and Bill Russell have hit safely in the three games they have come to bat. Last season Haller and Parker opened with four-game hitting streaks . . . The Dodgers may be in "hot water" when they're off the field. The club is considering buying blazers and slacks for the players . . . The Dodgers finally have found the Astrodome to their liking after losing three in a row and five of their last six here last season. Houston won seven of its first 10 games against the Dodgers last season. . . . The Dodgers had been 1-3 after their first four games of last season and had scored one run. It took the Dodgers six games to score nine runs last season. They matched that figure Thursday night's game . . . Drysdale blanked the Astros twice last season, both shutouts coming in his streak of 58 2/3 scoreless

Giusti Now a Card for Sure

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dave Giusti didn't know whether he was coming or going this winter but after Saturday's performance against the New York Mets, it looks as if the 29-year-old right-hander is in St. Louis to stay.

Giusti, who was acquired by the Cardinals twice during the off season, hurled a six-hitter and scored the only run of the game after leading off the third inning with a double Saturday as St. Louis edged the Mets 1-0.

On Oct. 11, Cardinal general manager Bing Devine dealt four players, including catcher Johnny Edwards, to Houston for Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh. Three days later Giusti was taken by San Diego on the first round of the expansion draft but on Dec. 3 the Cardinals re-acquired Giusti from the Padres, giving up reserves Ed Spiezio and Ron Davis and two minor league players.

"I'm just glad to be here," Giusti said after blanking the Mets. "I had no idea the Cardinals would try to get me back.

Former A's In Royal Show, 9-3

OAKLAND (AP)—Joe Keough smacked two doubles and a single, driving in one run and scoring another Saturday as Kansas City whipped Oakland 9-3.

It was the third victory in four games for the expansion Royals.

Keough, who went from Oakland to Kansas City in the American League expansion draft, drove in a run in the fifth when the Royals broke it open with four runs.

Jack Hernandez got the Royals off in front when he singled two runs across in the third inning. Then the Royals added another in the fourth on a double by Jim Campanis and Juan Rios' single.

The victory went to lefty Steve Jones, who gave up a bases empty homer to Jim Pagliaroni in the third and held the A's hitless from the fourth through the eighth until weakening in the ninth.

A triple by Danny Cater, a double by Dick Green, a single by Pagliaroni and a double by Ted Kubiak scord Oakland's final two runs in the ninth and brought on Dave Wickersham, who retired the next two batters.

49er Runners Prove Advantage No Myth

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

Perhaps a "home field advantage" is more than mythology.

Cal State Long Beach's track team will not win the national collegiate championship this year, but there's not a school in America with a better record — at home.

The 49ers remained unbeaten, untied in four home meets Saturday by vanquishing San Fernando Valley State and Fullerton.

Long Beach ran up 96 points, San Fernando 69, Fullerton only 19.

In addition to the home court, Long Beach had an edge in speed. The 49ers will need all the speed they can muster to maintain the unbeaten record next Saturday when they entertain the national indoor champions, the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach.

Saturday was a day for iron men.

The fellow with the most steel in his soul was Alfredo Deza of San Fernando, a recruit from Lima, Peru, majoring in business administration; hurdles and relay.

Deza defeated Mike Edelstein of Long Beach by inches in the 120 hurdles as both clocked 14.6. Deza defeated Edelstein by inches in the 440 hurdles as both were credited with a meet record 54.3. Deza defeated Edelstein by five feet in the mile relay; clocking 49.0 to Mike's 49.3. Edelstein defeated Deza in the 440 relay; Long Beach winning by four yards in 42.7.

Al Carlson of Long Beach also looked like four guys. He won the 220 in 22.2, the 440 in a meet record 48.3, and ran on the 440 and mile (49.3) baton squads.

Lenny Jay of Long Beach ran only twice — but he won the mile by three yards in 4:20.4, the two-mile by 15 in a meet record 9:09.5.

The afternoon didn't hold promise of any victory ceremonies for Jay. "Before the mile I had stomach pains; and in the two-mile I thought he (teammate Roger Seymour) might have me for awhile; but I worked loose."

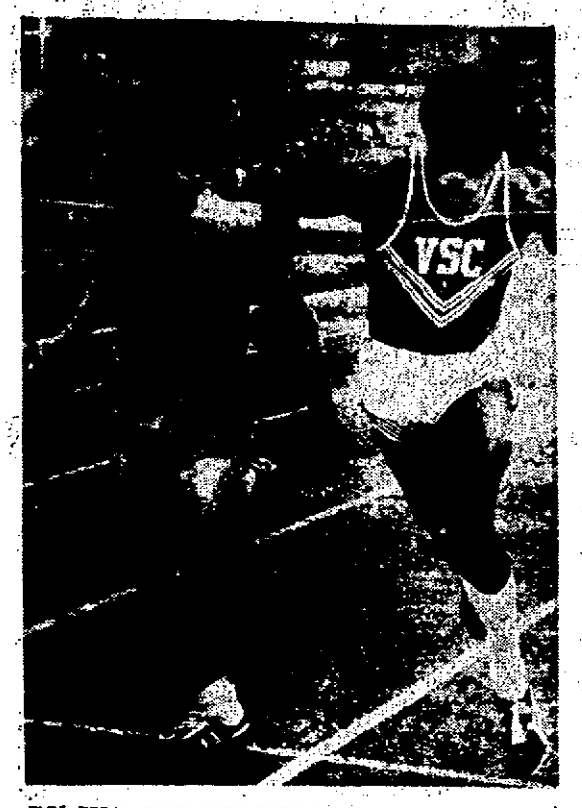

Chris Nixon established a personal high and meet record of 15 feet in the pole vault; and fellow 49er Andy Smith raised his career best from 6-2 to 6-5 in winning the high jump.

Ed Ricke of the 49ers continued to regain form. He won the half-mile with a foot to spare in 1:53.4

"I was glad when that finish line came up," he gasped. "I have the speed, but not the endurance. I need more distance work."

Rolf Hoppe of San Fernando also established a meet record, flying the javelin 224 feet, 6 inches.

SPRING DRILLS OPEN

Happiness Is 49er Football

By JIM McCormack
Staff Writer

After watching Jim Stangeland pursue his responsibilities as head football coach at Cal State Long Beach, it is obvious why he was in charge of the offensive backs (i.e., O. J. Simpson) at USC.

Simpson is the only person around who can keep up with him.

In his four months at Long Beach, Stangeland has become justifiably more elusive. It is impossible to put a football program on a parity with San Diego State's while sitting down.

"There is always something that has to be done," Stangeland said while putting the finishing touches on plans for spring practice, which begins Monday.

Stangeland's program has some obstacles to overcome in the next few months and he hopes he can handle them with happiness and experience.

"I want my coaches happy," Stangeland explains. "I think that is a big key to a successful program. I want my assistants working in areas that they enjoy.

"That's why Tom (Morgan) will work with the defensive backs, Ernie (Johnson) with the defensive line, Chuck (Boyle) with the offensive backs and Bill (Miller) with the offensive line. That's what they all wanted to do."

That solves one problem, but how does the team overcome the newness of all the athletes?

"It will take a while to adjust to each other," Stangeland admits. "But we feel we recruited some very fine athletes. The junior college transfers have 20 games under their belts, so you can't really say they are inexperienced.

"We simply have to take advantage of that experience. We want everyone possible to be playing the same, or nearly the same, position that he did in junior college."

Are there any positions on the team already set?

"Yes," Stangeland quickly smiles, "one. I think we've pretty well decided on our split end."

That would be senior Billy Parks, already an all-America, who has caught 147 passes for 2,525 yards and 20 touchdowns in two years at Long Beach.

"The other 21 positions, however, are still open," Stangeland adds.

That can be good and bad.

"I'm sure spring practice will be very interesting and highly competitive," Stangeland promises. "But we want to find our starters and our best athletes quickly.

"We don't have much time to fool around. Our first game next fall (UC Santa Barbara) will be one of the toughest on the schedule. That is a very good reason why we want to find our best people as quickly as possible."

JIM STANGELAND
Putting It Together

Stangeland has issued uniforms to 80 athletes who will participate for the next five weeks on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The last four Saturdays the team will hold intrasquad games, the first three beginning at 1:30, open to the public. Spring practice will culminate Saturday, May 17, with the spring game, beginning at 8 p.m., Veterans Stadium.

Texas Relays to Rice; Toomy Has Field Day

Combined News Services

Rice's double victories in the 440 and mile relays brought it the team championship in the 42nd Texas Relays Saturday, but Kansas State's Ken Swenson stole the individual thunder.

Rice narrowly missed relays records with times of 40.3 and 3:07.1.

Swenson anchored the Wildcats to a record in the two-mile relay in a thrilling photo finish. Swenson, who ran his leg in 1:48.4, just nipped Chris Fisher of Texas-El Paso as both lunged for the tape.

Although Jim Ryun could not catch Swenson and Fisher, he ran a sizzling anchor of 1:47.4.

Olympic decathlon champ Bill Toomey won three events and placed third in another as the Southern Cal Striders defeated Oakland's Athens Club, 96-44. Toomey won the 100 in 9.9, the 220 in 21.4 and long jump at 24-3. He was third in the high jump, 6-6.

Erkki Mustakari, a Finnish national, cleared 17-4 for the best collegiate pole vault in the nation this year to pace Fresno State to a 92-62 victory over U. of Pacific.

Oregon State, with high jumper Dick Fosbury sidelined because of a blister on his foot, beat Washington State, 86-68. John Van Reenen of the Cougars set a meet and field record in the discus with a toss of 207.

JIM FRASER of Cal jumped 24-2½ to erase a 35-year-old meet record as the Bears beat Washington, 99-54. Cal's John Hubbell of Long Beach won the shotput at 59-6¼.

COMPTON'S HOLLYFIELD WINS ALL-AMERICA HONOR

Compton High's Larry Hollyfield is the only Southern California player on the 40-man 1969 Scholastic magazine all-America high school basketball team announced today.

Hollyfield paced the Tarbabes to their second successive CIF championship this past season. Other California players selected were Mike Fink of Redding and Warren Morse of Hayward.

Boyce Upset as Indians Fall to UCLA

UCLA's Cary Ross equalled his career ceiling of 6 feet, 10 inches to upset Stanford's Peter Boyce in the high jump and Dick Railsback pole vaulted 17 feet as the Bruins won a Pacific-8 track meet Saturday, 88-66.

Boyce, an Australian with an all-time top effort of 7-3, finished second.

Railback's competition did not include teammate Jon Vaughn, last year's NCAA champion who missed the meet because of a heel injury.

Len Van Hofwegen of UCLA upset teammate Wayne Collett in the 440 dash in 46.9.

The Bruins' Russ Hodge, American record holder in the decathlon, finished second in the shotput and collected third places in the 100 and discus.

OREGON EDGED IN LAST EVENT

Franklin, Miller Lead Troy

Southern California ran its fastest time of the year to win the mile relay and the meet against University of Oregon, 81½-72½ Saturday at the Coliseum.

The Trojans were one point shy of clinching the Pacific 8 dual meet going into the final event, the mile relay. Montgomery Turner gave the Trojans the lead with his opening leg, and Rich Joyce, Lennox Miller and Carl Trentadue kept it as the Trojans ran 3:11.2. Oregon was clocked at 3:12.5.

It was the only meet record.

Each team took first in nine events. Miller was a double winner for the Trojans, running the 100 in 9.6 and the 220 in 21.0. He also anchored the 440 relay team which won in 40.1.

Oregon dominated the distances, led by Arne Kvalheim's 13:23.2 in the three mile event and Hal Jackson's 8:57.4 in the steeplechase. Roscoe Divine led a sweep in the mile in 4:07.3 and Gary Lineburg won a hectic 880 in 1:50.8.

Swimming's Future Out of Sight

DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

It seems every time you look at the result of a swimming meet like the National AAU championships at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool, records are established. Where will it end? What is the ultimate in each event?

"Swimmers still have a long way to go to reach the ultimate," says James E. (Doc) Counsilman, veteran coach of Indiana University's NCAA championship team and one of the most respected mentors in the world.

"However," he adds, "there is no way of predicting an ultimate time in each event. A projection of a record today might be drastically different five years from now.

"This is due to many factors. For one thing, we are getting more kids now with talent and the physical ability. And they are better prepared psychologically because they are setting tougher and tougher goals for themselves.

"Each year coaches devise techniques to improve swimmers and it's a tribute to them when a record falls. The caliber of coaching today is the greatest it ever has been and will be even better in the future," Counsilman stresses. "We have some outstanding young men in the profession who are dedicated and experimentally minded.

"They aren't afraid to try something new and, as a result, they are in the process of developing methods to improve conditioning and stroke mechanics. This will be noticeable in the results each new year."

The Indiana coach declares that "perhaps the biggest area for improvement is in our conditioning programs. We are in an experimental stage right now. We are learning more and more about it all the time."

"WHEN ONE SWIMMER IS SUCCESSFUL with a certain training routine, just about everyone will try to copy that for awhile until something new comes along. But there are no set procedures. We still don't know if we are working a kid too hard or not hard enough, too long or not long enough," the veteran coach said.

"But with the conditioning programs we have, we still are turning out the toughest bunch of kids in the world. I always get a bit upset when I hear that our young men are going to pot in this age of easy living. That simply isn't true.

"You can't beat our competitive society for producing physically and mentally tough kids. They're getting tougher because they are being conditioned under the tremendous stress of competition.

Asked to look into the future and forecast what the ultimate might be, Counsilman said, "The record for the 100-meter freestyle probably will go under 50 seconds within the next 10 years, but just how far is impossible to say at this time.

"Mike Wenden of Australia lowered it to 52.2 seconds in the Olympic Games at Mexico City last fall despite a weak turn. Some swimmer will be able to get close to 50 seconds on just the start and turn alone.

"The 200-meter free style is now down to 1:54.4, a reduction of nearly 14 seconds in the last 16 or 17 years," Counsilman went on, "and I think it will go under 1:50 in the near future.

"The 400-meter freestyle record is now 4:06.4, nearly 20 seconds better than it was 20 years ago, and I look for it to go under four minutes within two or three years."

THE LONGER AN EVENT IS, the better chance there is of lowering the record more quickly because of improved techniques and conditioning.

However, the toughest freestyle record of all to break in the next few years is Mike Burton's sensational 16:08.5 for the 1500 meters — the metric mile.

"Usually, you'll see big drops in a record at first. Then the drops will get smaller the closer the swimmers get to the ultimate, whatever it might be," Counsilman points out.

He apparently feels Burton's mark is the closest to the ultimate than those in the other events. "The story of the 1500 is amazing. They didn't break 19 minutes until after World War II.

"Now look what it is. Burton broke the old mark by 19.6 seconds in the Olympic Trials in your Long Beach pool last summer in a fantastic effort.

"His 16:08.5 is a truly great record. In fact, I'd say it was several years ahead of the timetable ... and it may take 10 to 15 years to knock off another eight and one-half seconds to break the 16-minute barrier."

WHAT EVENT PRODUCES the outstanding swimmers? "Without a doubt, the 400-meter individual medley. It's the greatest event in swimming ... the supreme test because you must use all four strokes. You can get by in the 200 medley on speed alone, but in the 400 you need endurance along with speed," Counsilman said.

"I regard Indiana's Charley Hickcox to be the greatest swimmer of all-time. But I don't know how long I'll be able to say that.

"Charley won the 400-meter individual medley in the Olympics in the record time of 4:39, but Gary Hall, who was second, is the most complete swimmer in the world today. He's still a bit deficient in his breaststroke, but he won't be for long. He's working hard on it.

"It's a coincidence you asked because Gary and I were just talking about when the record will go under 4:30. And I don't think it will be very long.

"One of my Indiana swimmers, Ted Stickel, was the first to break five minutes. That was only eight years ago in 1961. I believe Hall will do at least 4:35 this summer and 4:30 is within reach in two or three years.

"Gary has a great future," Counsilman says of the senior at Rancho Alamitos High in Garden Grove.

HALL'S RECORD FORM

PROS STILL RICHER

Ashe Snagged in Rules

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Arthur Ashe wants to organize non-contract tennis "Professionals," he has the blessings of George MacCall, president of the National Tennis League. Ashe, winner of the first U.S. Open tournament at Forest Hills last September, contends he and others like him, who now play under the relaxed rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, are entitled to the same open tournament expenses and guarantees afforded MacCall's league and its rival, World Championship Tennis.

ASHE

The former Army lieutenant has been playing for prize money in U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. tournaments. Ashe has talked informally with other tennis stars who have not joined the two touring groups.

Ashe, in winning the Caribe Hilton tournament in San Juan recently, earned $500, plus expenses. The week before, as the defeated finalist in the Madison Square Garden Open, he had picked up a check for more than $3,000.

"It is not fair that the 16 contract professinnals hold up all the money in major tournaments," Ashe said. "They get prize money, plus expenses, but the rest of us who go for the purse can wind up with nothing. In a draw of 128 players, why should 16 guys get all the money?"

"If it's money Arthur is talking about, and apparently he is," MacCall said, "National Tennis League and World Championship Tennis players spent 71 days in open tournaments in 1968 and won about $85,000. In 63 days of strictly pro tournaments, the players split up $208,000."

If Arthur wants to get in on that kind of money, the leagues would be willing to have him risk his reputation on the regular tournament schedule of the professionals, "where he would be paid what he is worth, not on the name he may have earned in non-pro efforts," MacCall said.

"Tennis isn't run on a welfare basis."

New USLTA regulations which permit a player to compete for money without endangering his appearances against amateurs in any tournament, including the Davis Cup, created Ashe's position.

He is also free to endorse products — even a racquet, a shoe, or a court which bears a different label than that given the seal of the USLTA.

The Invitational World Cup, co-sponsored by Modern Gymnast magazine and the United States Gymnastics Federation, will be held in conjunction with the annual USGF nationals April 25 in Long Beach.

Billie Jean Slams to African Crown

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, defeated Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, Saturday to capture the ladies singles title of the South African tennis championships.

Mrs. King needed just 70 minutes to oust Miss Richey, who had fought off a bout with the flu earlier in the week.

For Mrs. King, it was her third South African crown in the past four years. Margaret Court of Australia won last year.

It was an absorbing match of contrasting styles and began with a strangley subdued Mrs. King being pegged to the baseline by the Texan's piercing ground strokes.

Mrs. King allowed herself to be drawn into lengthy backcourt duels in the first set, which she took despite determined retrieving by Miss Richey.

Gaining in confidence, the Californian adopted a more aggressive approach in the second set, rushing to the net to put away fierce smashes and volleys.

Superb widely-angled smashes when Miss Richey was forced to lob short under pressure paved the way for Mrs. King's deciding break in the ninth game of the second set.

In the last game she was down 15-40, but fought back to deuce and allowed Miss Richey to escape one match point before clinching victory with a smash.

AGING Pancho Gonzales of the U.S. and South Africa's self-styled hippie, Ray Moore, took the men's doubles title. They beat former Wimbledon champions Bob Hewitt and Fred MacMillan of South Africa 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Their victory was acclaimed by the fans at Ellis Park who had cheered the sixth-seeded pair throughout their preliminary games.

Gonzales and Moore had a decided edge over the South African Davis Cup pair in fierce volleying exchanges at the net.

The mixed-doubles crown went to Tom Okker of Holland, who won the singles title last year, and South African Annette Du Plooy. They beat Bob Maud of South Africa and Britain's Virginia Wade, 8-6, 5-7, 6-4, in a match that had to be completed under floodlights.

DONNELL CULPEPPER

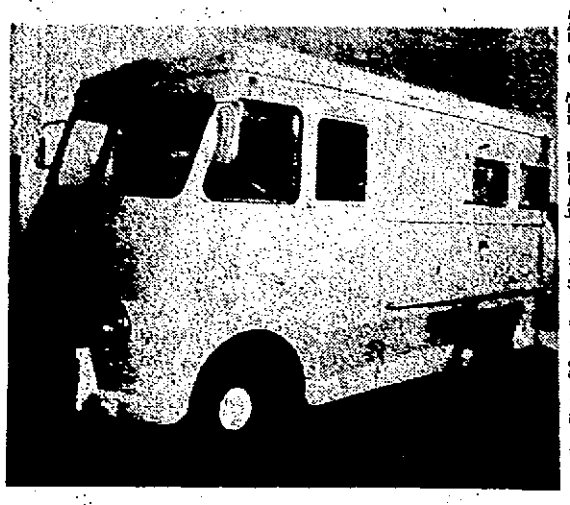

A Home on Wheels to Call Your Own

By LEW ALLISON

Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper

If you're one of those who hears the call of the wild and longs for wheels to get you there, you're going to be interested in a little notice from Uncle Sam, who's got spare wheels. He's offering for sale some vehicles he doesn't need any more, as is and where is.

The ones being disposed of by the Long Beach post office are at the garage at 601 Golden Ave., and are available for inspection any time from Monday until April 29, when they'll be sold to the highest bidders. They are described as Dodge trucks, ¾ and 1 ton, six-cyliner walk-in vans.

This Camper Used to Be a Mail Truck

They can be converted into great little campers. The one in the illustration was bought last year and has been put to much use. A little do-it-yourself initiative and the interior becomes home.

The cars will be sold by sealed bid.

Last year the purchases ranged from $260 to $390, according to B. E. Lanning, superintendent of vehicle maintenance. All cars are in good operating condition and can be driven away by their purchasers.

Santa Ana post office also has some for bidders at its garage at 2201 N. Grand Ave.

IF YOU HAD that camper in operation, today would be a fine one to be at Black Meadow or one of those Colorado River landings near Havasu, where the spring is beautiful and the bass at last report were emerging from the deep water and hunting the shallows for water dogs and a half-dozen worm and stream lures that bass consider edible.

Catches have been running from four or five to limits, and crappie also are rewarding the river anglers well.

Most of the Southland lakes are reporting slow going, while the Sierra is great.— for skiers. Fishing through the ice is legal in California this year. And ice is what you find when you head for the Sierra. It is possible there will be clear water at Crowley and the lower Bridgeport Lake by trout season opening May 3.

How warm is your sleeping bag?

YOU PEOPLE WHO HAVE had a weather eye cocked for salmon might note that a 15-pound silver was landed last week off Salt Creek. Robert Brown, Santa Ana, took the beauty on a half-day boat.

Those silvers should be good fishing for a while this early season, and it would pay you anglers with smoke pots to try the outer side of the breakwater once in a while just to see what's doing. The breakwater is producing some fine perch, and bass fishing should be good mornings and evenings.

The half-day boats have been reaping some good halibut catches, good bags of barely legal barracuda, some bass and lots of bonito. Each day should bring a better report — and fish or no fish, there's hardly a better way to spend a half a day than basking in the sun on the sea.

Halibut aren't usually thought of among the game fish of the area, because ordinarily they don't provide a lot of sport for the experts who like to match their skill against fast fighting species. But right now halibut offer a challenge to the fisherman who wants to get out of doors and find something delectable for the table.

For eating, you can't beat a halibut. Filet it and fry it, steam it, stuff it and bake it, cook it with rice or spaghetti, french fry it as sticks or whatever you like — it's white, flaky, sweet and delicious.

Maybe it won't grab your bait and head for Catalina Island, or seize a surface plug and sound, but I've seen a lot of fishermen who disdain the halibut dangle a hook in vain until one bites and then yank up empty-handed. They're smarter than most of us.

And they're here, there and about. A number of anglers found them on Belmont and Seal Beach piers in fair numbers — O. T. Yarborough had one on Belmont that weighed 4 pounds, 6 ounces. The barges, too, are producing a good number, and the half-day boats are counting 30-40 a day, mostly fly-swatter size.

But if you really want to test your skill, try fishing halibut in the surf. That's where they are — if you fish them on a half-day boat, you'll be drifting into the swimming area. A number of the surf casters are trying with torpedo sinkers trailing a big grab hook, and occasionally they score.

There's something about scoring in the surf that beats any other kind of fishing — an excitement that breaks into a really perfect way of relaxation, baiting and casting and watching the waves roll in — preferably under a bright moon.

And that's the name of the game.

UPSETS TELL, FLEET KIRSCH

Big Red Ryder Claims Debonaire

Unbeaten Big Red Ryder made it four in a row Saturday with an upset victory over rival 3-year-olds in the $26,800 Debonair Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Lightly weighted at 114 pounds, the California colt came with a rush in the stretch to win by a head over the pace-setting Fleet Kirsch, with the favorite Tell third.

Big Red Ryder, sired by Nashville, was the second longest shot on the board and paid $19.40, $5.40 and $2.80.

Fleet Kirsch, who shared high weight at 121 with Tell, returned $4.20 and $2.80. Tell paid $2.60 to show.

The time for the six furlongs on a fast track was 1:09. John Sellers rode the winner.

Big Mouth Sam and Capacitator were late morning scratches and only five went to the post under grey skies before a crowd of 44,000. It was the first Saturday card of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Big Red Ryder's previous victories were over less impressive runners and this was his first victory in a stakes. He was bred by Desi Arnaz and races in the silks of Stanley Weiner.

Mrs. Howard B. Keck's Tell, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, was the big favorite. Right Cross, the only colt to gave an argument this year to unbeaten Majestic Prince, was the second betting choice. Right Cross carried only 112 but was never much of a threat and finished last.

T. V. Doubletalk, 115, owned and bred by Fred W. Cooper and ridden by Jerry Lambert, was fourth after trailing most of the way.

Jockey Don Pierce sent Fleet Kirsch flying at the start, with Big Red Ryder in close pursuit. Shoemaker kept Tell off the pace in third place and as it turned out, never improved his position.

Tell, who finished 1¼ lengths behind the first two, had been the favorite because of his recent trimph in the Baldwin Stakes at Santa Anita.

Hibernian 'Noses' Gulfstream Stakes

Combined News Services

English-bred Hibernian held off Irish Rebellion by a nose Saturday to win the $62,600 Pan American Turf Handicap at Gulfstream, last stakes race of the Florida horse racing season.

Hibernian, a four-year-old gelding by Hethersett-Hibernia, was the popular favorite of the crowd of 16,205, and paid $4.40, $3.20 and $2.20 across the board. Irish Rebellion returned $5.20 and $3.60. Needles Stitch paid $4.60.

Diane Crump, the girl jockey involved in a three-way spill in the fourth race at Gulfstream Park on Friday, was riding again.

Miss Crump cancelled her mounts on Saturday's card, but she galloped horses in the morning workouts. She is scheduled to compete again on Monday.

San Roque charged out of sixth place with only a furlong to go in the $57,400 Excelsior Handicap at Aqueduct and romped home by three lengths.

There was a terrific battle for runnerup honors in the 61st running of the 1⅛ mile stake with Tropic King II gaining the honor by a head over Juvenile John.

Double Delta, guided by jockey C. J. Marquez, threaded a narrow gap on the rail in the turn and scored by two lengths over the favored Nutty Donut in the $30,100 Ashland Stakes at Keeneland.

Held neatly in third position for a half mile, Double Delta, carrying 115 pounds, made a swift move when Nutty Donut left just enough room for horse and rider as the field of eight entered the strength.

American Native, a 4-5 favorite, won the $30,000 Inaugural Handicap before an all-time Chicago Sportsman's Park crowd of 31,159.

Box Man was second and Prairie Jet third in the nine-horse field.

Process Shot, the champion 2-year-old filly of 1968, launched her sophomore campaign at Pimlico Saturday by winning the $28,100 Flirtation Stakes.

Deluxe Dancer finished four lengths ahead of Georgie Mai to win the six-furlong Del Rey Purse at Caliente.

UCLA Outrows 3 49er Crews

The powerful UCLA crews swept all three races from Cal State Long Beach against strong winds and tides Saturday at Marina del Rey.

The junior varsity won 7:21.0 to 7:44.05 and the Bruin frosh beat the Cal State lightweight team, 7:27.5 to 7:42.2.

Next week Cal State will face UC Irvine, whose varsity and junior varsity squads upset California Saturday.

handed him his regular putter.

George Knudson of Toronto birdied the eighth, ninth and 10th on the way to a 69. Lionel Hebert joined him at 212, even though he had to borrow a driver to do so. Hebert's driver came apart after his tee shot at the second and he sent back to the clubhouse for a replacement.

Then he holed a four-footer for a birdie after second, after bagging one also at the first. Hebert's 18-hole score was 70, two under par, over the 6,980-yard course.

No estimate or official attendance was announced but observers unofficially placed the total at between 30,000 and 35,000.

Devlin described his performance as disappointing, for his 76 dropped him back to 213 along with Dan Sikes. He had a 38 on each side but on the back nine he hit into the water at two holes. He escaped with a 5 at the 11th, birdied the 13th but then stumbled into a double bogey 5 at the 16th where his No. 5 iron tee shot fluttered into the pond.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — One of the things Billy Casper will do when he gets up this morning will be to pray.

One of the things he won't do will be to pray he wins the Masters, which he leads by one stroke.

"As corny as it may sound," says Casper, "I pray morning and night. I pray for health, strength and guidance. I pray that I may be an example to others."

Casper is an elder in the Mormon church but he is not a religious fanatic. The 37-year-old precisionist from Apple Valley, Calif., doesn't let anything upset him and goes out of his way to make friends of most everyone he meets.

"Isn't there someone you don't like?" Someone tried to pin him down.

Casper simply smiled.

"No one that I know of," he answered. "I suppose there used to be but I can't think of anyone I actually dislike now. I think most people are friendly and that's the same way I try to be with them. If they are unfriendly and wish to go their own way, naturally, you have to let them."

Casper's attitude toward life and toward people is no overnight put-on. He believes in what he says and, what's more, he practices what he says every opportunity he has.

Most of the golfers on the tour get ruffled and show their emotions when their scores soar. Not Casper. He's pleasant, amiable and accessible whether he's over par or under it.

His game excites others but not him. When he was asked how he felt about his showing here so far after three rounds in which his 208 total is eight shots under par, he said simply:

"I am very happy to shoot three rounds under par."

The truth is Casper played poorly Saturday over the first nine holes and much better over the final nine. His putter saved him going out and he salvaged an even par 36. Then after nabbing his only birdie on the 10th, he parred the rest of the way in for a 35.

"It was like night and day," he said, about the way he played the front nine and the back nine. "I was in the dark on the front nine and suddenly I saw daylight on the back nine. I suppose if there was a turning point it had to be the 10th hole. The four wood I hit on my second shot I'd say was my finest of the day. The ball stopped 12 feet from the hole."

Casper knocked in that putt and although he missed what he called "makeable" putts of 6, 8, 8 and 12 feet on the final four holes, he refused to grumble about them.

"I see no point in it," he explained. "I've made so many putts this week that missing those few at the end didn't make that much difference."

The third-round leader traditionally gets little sleep before that final 18 and one of the interviewers wanted to know whether Casper was going to do some reflecting now about his narrow lead.

The question merely made him smile again.

"Once I leave the golf course, I don't think about it," he said.

Hawks' Sarno Holds Sub Flot to Three Hits

By CHUCK MEDICK

SAN DIEGO — Don Sarno hurled a three-hit shutout and Hal Martinez' triple drove in two runs as the Long Beach Nitehawks downed San Diego Sub Flot No. 1 here Saturday night, 3-0, in the first game of a doubleheader.

It was the second night in a row that Hawk pitching had turned in a shutout performance against the Navy team in a Western Softball Congress game.

Martinez' triple came in the fourth inning and drove in Duane Duncan and Dick Murrane who had hits to reach base.

Hackett Hero of 49er Sweep

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Cal State Long Beach, which has had trouble getting key plays this season, got two from Bill Hackett Saturday and it unlocked the door to a California Collegiate Athletic Assn. sweep of Fresno State.

Hackett whacked a two-out single in the eighth inning of the opening game at Blair Field Saturday to score Steve Brown with the winning run in a 5-4 triumph and then walked with the bases loaded to force in Ed Curtis and give Long Beach a 4-3 decision in the nightcap.

"Any time you take three from that club," 49er coach Bob Wuesthoff smiled, "it's something." The 49ers won the series opener Friday, 15-2.

To get the sweep, evening their CCAA record at 3-3 and their season log at 12-12, the 49ers had to win the first game and have Fresno give them the second.

The usually stable Bulldogs were leading, 3-0, going into the final (seventh) inning of the second game when Dale Duncan and Jim Seida got things going with successive singles.

That chased starter John Ballinger and called for reliefer Ray Strable, the loser of Friday's game.

Strable promptly walked Charlie Beech and pinch-hitter Ed Curtis to force in a run. Strable's defense then failed him as first baseman Moe Dibuduo fielded Brown's grounder and threw the ball into left field attempting to start a double play. Seida and Beech scored to tie the game.

Wuesthoff then had Harry Munoz bunt the ball and three Bulldogs surrounded the ball but all failed to make a play on it, giving Harry a single and loading the bases for Hackett.

The senior shortstop, who had singled and walked in his first three trips in the game, walked on five pitches to score Curtis.

RETIRES 18 IN ROW

Brown Goes on Rampage to Put LBCC Past 'Gades

BAKERSFIELD — Ray Brown went on the warpath Saturday and pitched Long Beach City College to a 5-3 Metropolitan Conference win over Bakersfield.

Brown, who is part Indian, struck out nine Renegades in pitching his second complete game of the year. He retired 18 batters in a row at one point.

The Vikings broke open a tight game in the seventh inning with a three-run burst that spanned a walk to Brown and singles by Ray Colin, Glenn Berberet and old-timer Doug Smallwood.

Colin collected two hits as did third baseman Buddy Arnold and catcher Jim Gmur.

The righthander was in serious trouble only in the ninth when he walked the first two batters he faced and then committed a balk to put runners at second and third. Bakersfield followed with a line drive single and an infield hit to score a run before LBCC pulled off a double play and the last batter grounded out.

The win puts the Vikings in second place at the end of the second round of Metro action with a 9-5 record. Coach Joe Hicks takes his team to leader Cerritos Tuesday to begin the third and final round of play.

Mickey at Mike: Hit, No Errors

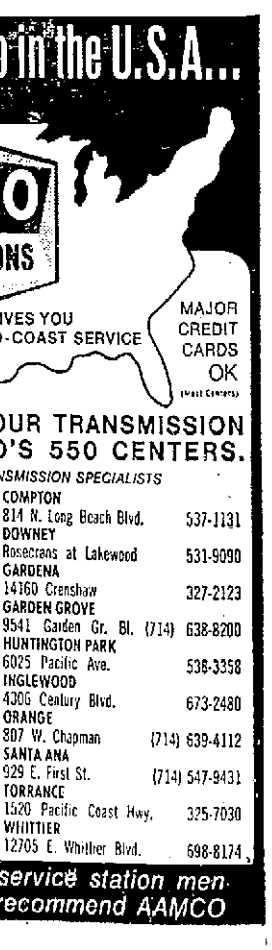

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mickey Mantle made his debut as a baseball television commentator Saturday, and the retired slugger of the New York Yankees said it was easier than hitting big league pitching.

"Maybe I should make a comeback," Mantle said before the San Francisco-at-San Diego game which was nationally televised over the National Broadcasting Co. network. "The game looks easy from up here."

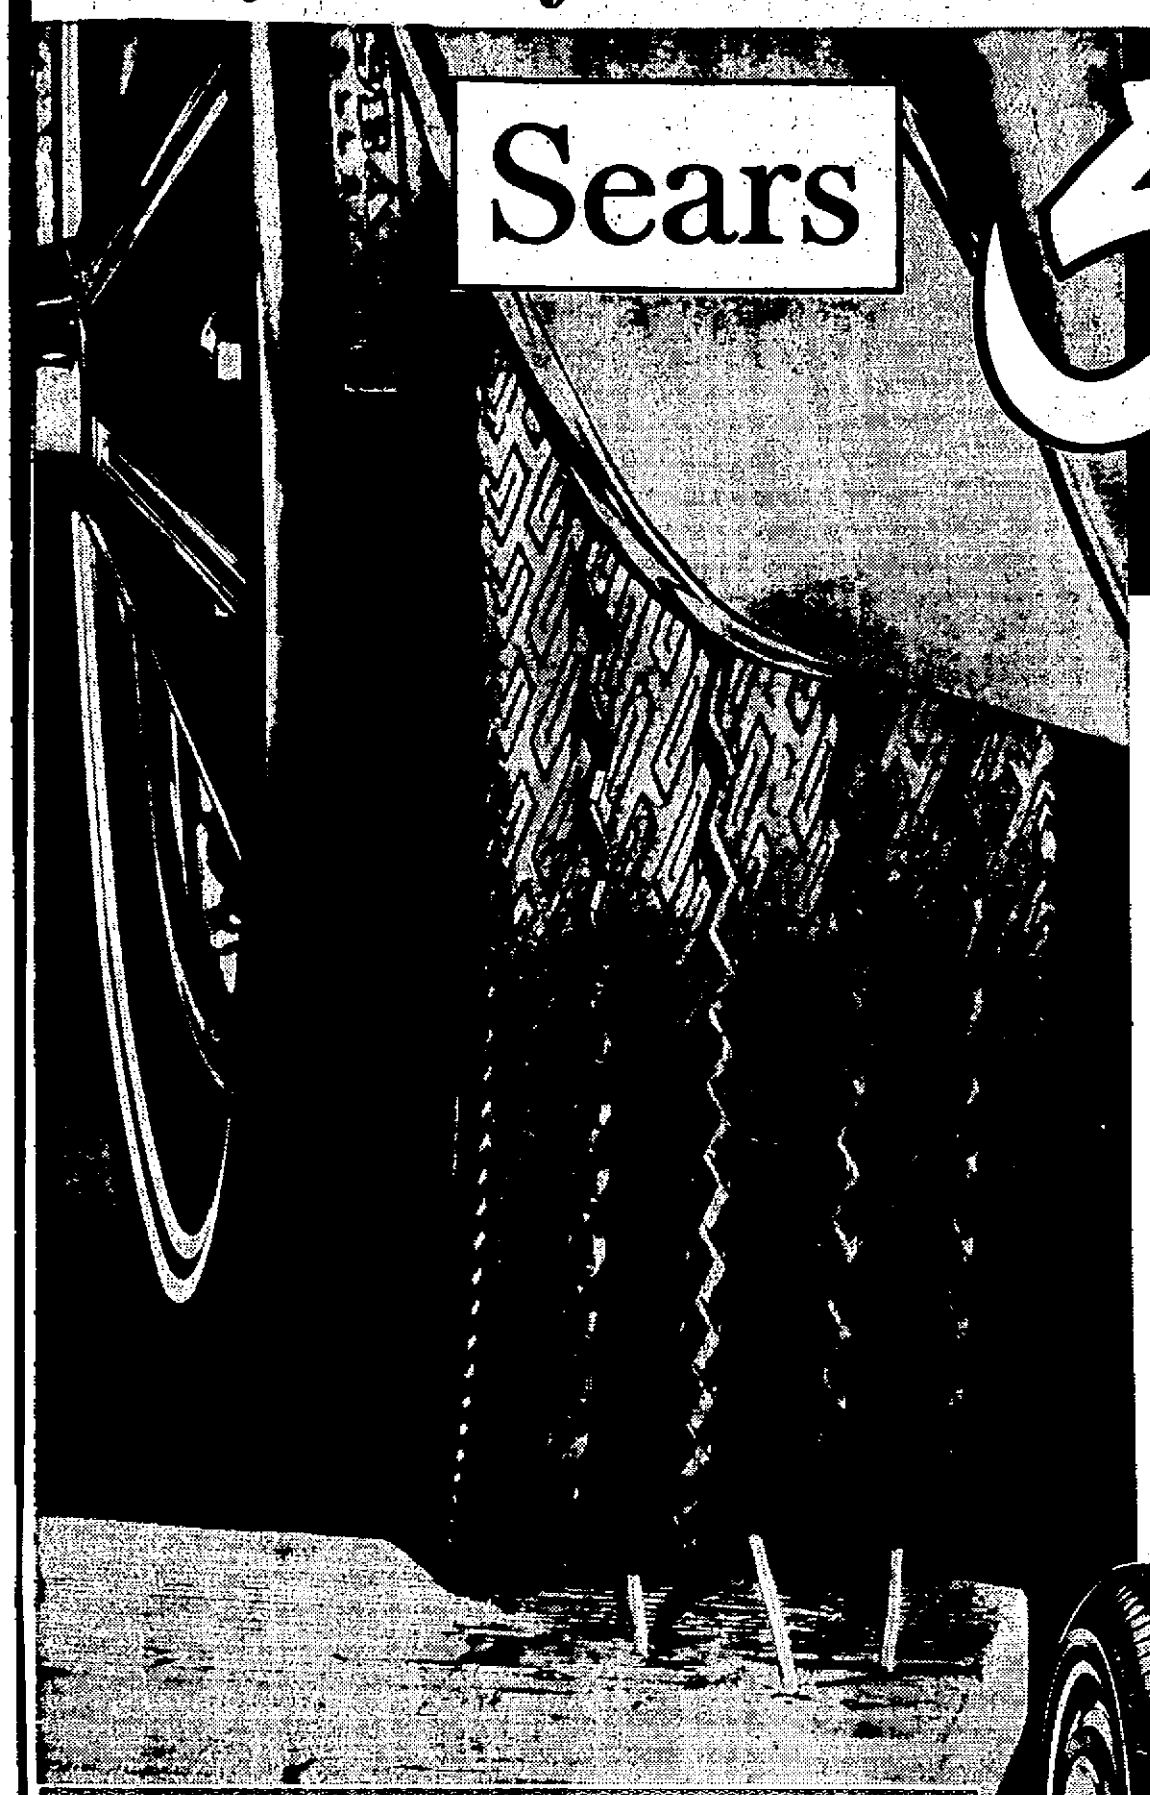

Mantle seemed to be at ease when he taped a pre-game show with Tony Kubek, his former Yankee teammate, for the NBC Game of the Week. The tape was shown before the game started.

"I was a little nervous, but this still is easier than playing baseball," said Mantle, who was signed by NBC for part-time appearances on the Game of the Week.

He will be on an estimated 10 to 12 pre-game programs with Kubek.

49er Runners Prove Advantage No Myth

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

Perhaps a "home field advantage" is more than mythology.

Cal State Long Beach's track team will not win the national collegiate championship this year; but there's not a school in America with a better record — at home.

The 49ers remained unbeaten, untied in four home meets Saturday by vanquishing San Fernando Valley State and Fullerton.

Long Beach ran up 96 points, San Fernando 69, Fullerton only 19.

In addition to the home court, Long Beach had an edge in speed. The 49ers will need all the speed they can muster to maintain the unbeaten record next Saturday when they entertain the national indoor champions, the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach.

Saturday was a day for iron men.

The fellow with the most steel in his soul was Alfredo Deza of San Fernando, a recruit from Lima, Peru, majoring in business administration; hurdles and relay.

Deza defeated Mike Edelstein of Long Beach by inches in the 120 hurdles as both clocked 14.6. Deza defeated Edelstein by inches in the 440 hurdles as both were credited with a meet record 54.3. Deza defeated Edelstein by five feet in the mile relay; clocking 49.0 to Mike's 49.3. Edelstein defeated Deza in the 440 relay; Long Beach winning by four yards in 42.7.

Al Carlson of Long Beach also looked like four guys. He won the 220 in 22.2, the 440 in a meet record 48.3, and ran on the 440 and mile (49.3) baton squads.

Lenny Jay of Long Beach ran only twice — but he won the mile by three yards in 4:20.4, the two-mile by 15 in a meet record 9:09.5.

The afternoon didn't hold promise of any victory ceremonies for Jay. "Before the mile I had stomach pains; and in the two-mile I thought he (teammate Roger Seymour) might have me for awhile; but I worked loose."

Chris Nixon established a personal high and meet record of 15 feet in the pole vault; and fellow 49er Andy Smith raised his career best from 6-2 to 6-5 in winning the high jump.

Ed Ricke of the 49ers continued to regain form. He won the half-mile with a foot to spare in 1:53.4

"I was glad when that finish line came up," he gasped. "I have the speed, but not the endurance. I need more distance work."

Rolf Hoppe of San Fernando also established a meet record, flying the javelin 224 feet, 6 inches.

100—Hester (WF) 10.2, Landers (LB) 10.2, Smith (Full) 10.3, Nelson (LB) 10.6.

SPRING DRILLS OPEN

Happiness Is 49er Football

By JIM McCormack
Staff Writer

After watching Jim Stangeland pursue his responsibilities as head football coach at Cal State Long Beach, it is obvious why he was in charge of the offensive backs (i.e., O. J. Simpson) at USC.

Simpson is the only person around who can keep up with him.

In his four months at Long Beach, Stangeland has become justifiably more elusive. It is impossible to put a football program on a parity with San Diego State's while sitting down.

"There is always something that has to be done," Stangeland said while putting the finishing touches on plans for spring practice, which begins Monday.

Stangeland's program has some obstacles to overcome in the next few months and he hopes he can handle them with happiness and experience.

"I want my coaches happy," Stangeland explains. "I think that is a big key to a successful program. I want my assistants working in areas that they enjoy.

"That's why Tom (Morgan) will work with the defensive backs, Ernie (Johnson) with the defensive line, Chuck (Boyle) with the offensive backs and Bill (Miller) with the offensive line. That's what they all wanted to do."

That solves one problem, but how does the team overcome the newness of all the athletes?

"It will take a while to adjust to each other," Stangeland admits. "But we feel we recruited some very fine athletes. The junior college transfers have 20 games under their belts, so you can't really say they are inexperienced.

"We simply have to take advantage of that experience. We want everyone possible to be playing the same, or nearly the same, position that he did in junior college."

Are there any positions on the team already set?

"Yes," Stangeland quickly smiles, "one. I think we've pretty well decided on our split end."

That would be senior Billy Parks, already an all-America, who has caught 147 passes for 2,525 yards and 20 touchdowns in two years at Long Beach.

"The other 21 positions, however, are still open," Stangeland adds.

That can be good and bad.

"I'm sure spring practice will be very interesting and highly competitive," Stangeland promises. "But we want to find our starters and our best athletes quickly.

"We don't have much time to fool around. Our first game next fall (UC Santa Barbara) will be one of the toughest on the schedule. That is a very good reason why we want to find our best people as quickly as possible."

JIM STANGELAND
Putting It Together

Stangeland has issued uniforms to 80 athletes who will participate for the next five weeks on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The last four Saturdays the team will hold intrasquad games, the first three beginning at 1:30, open to the public. Spring practice will culminate Saturday, May 17, with the spring game, beginning at 8 p.m., Veterans Stadium.

Texas Relays to Rice; Toomy Has Field Day

Combined News Services

Rice's double victories in the 440 and mile relays brought it the team championship in the 42nd Texas Relays Saturday, but Kansas State's Ken Swenson stole the individual thunder.

Rice narrowly missed relays records with times of 40.3 and 3:07.1.

Swenson anchored the Wildcats to a record in the two-mile relay in a thrilling photo finish. Swenson, who ran his leg in 1:48.4, just nipped Chris Fisher of Texas-El Paso as both lunged for the tape.

Although Jim Ryun could not catch Swenson and Fisher, he ran a sizzling anchor of 1:47.4.

Olympic decathlon champ Bill Toomey won three events and placed third in another as the Southern Cal Striders defeated Oakland's Athens Club, 96-44. Toomey won the 100 in 9.9, the 220 in 21.4 and long jump at 24-3. He was third in the high jump, 6-6.

Erkki Mustakari, a Finnish national, cleared 17-4 for the best collegiate pole vault in the nation this year to pace Fresno State to a 92-62 victory over U. of Pacific.

Oregon State, with high jumper Dick Foshury sidelined because of a blister on his foot, beat Washington State, 86-68. John Van Reenen of the Cougars set a meet and field record in the discus with a toss of 207.

* * * *

JIM FRASER of Cal jumped 24-2½ to erase a 35-year-old meet record as the Bears beat Washington, 99-54. Cal's John Hubbell of Long Beach won the shotput at 59-6¼.

COMPTON'S HOLLYFIELD WINS ALL-AMERICA HONOR

Compton High's Larry Hollyfield is the only Southern California player on the 40-man 1969 Scholastic magazine all-America high school basketball team announced today.

Hollyfield paced the Tarbabes to their second successive CIF championship this past season. Other California players selected were Mike Fink of Redding and Warren Morse of Hayward.

Boyce Upset as Indians Fall to UCLA

UCLA's Cary Ross equalled his career ceiling of 6 feet, 10 inches to upset Stanford's Peter Boyce in the high jump and Dick Railsback pole vaulted 17 feet as the Bruins won a Pacific-8 track meet Saturday, 88-66.

Boyce, an Australian with an all-time top effort of 7-3, finished second.

Railback's competition did not include teammate Jon Vaughn, last year's NCAA champion who missed the meet because of a heel injury.

Len Van Hofwegen of UCLA upset teammate Wayne Collett in the 440 dash in 46.9.

The Bruins' Russ Hodge, American record holder in the decathlon, finished second in the shotput and collected third places in the 100 and discus.

OREGON EDGED IN LAST EVENT

Franklin, Miller Lead Troy

Southern California ran its fastest time of the year to win the mile relay and the meet against University of Oregon, 81½-72½ Saturday at the Coliseum.

The Trojans were one point shy of clinching the Pacific 8 dual meet going into the final event, the mile relay. Montgomery Turner gave the Trojans the lead with his opening leg, and Rich Joyce, Lennox Miller and Carl Trentadue kept it as the Trojans ran 3:11.2. Oregon was clocked at 3:12.5.

It was the only meet record.

Each team took first in nine events. Miller was a double winner for the Trojans, running the 100 in 9.6 and the 220 in 21.0. He also anchored the 440 relay team which won in 40.1.

Oregon dominated the distances, led by Arne Kvalheim's 13:23.2 in the three mile event and Hal Jackson's 8:57.4 in the steeplechase. Roscoe Divine led a sweep in the mile in 4:07.3 and Gary Lineburg won a hectic 880 in 1:50.8.

Hurdlers Gary Knoke of Oregon and Herman Franklin of USC traded victories. Franklin edged Knoke in the 120 highs, 14.1 to 14.2. Knoke, an Australian, made up four yards in the 40 yards from the last hurdle to the tape to nip Franklin in the intermediates. Both were timed at 51.7.

Franklin, a transfer from Harbor Junior College, also placed second in the triple jump and third in the long jump.

Trojan freshman Edsel Garrison, running unattached in the 440, ran a lifetime best in 46.1, only a tenth off Rex Cawley's school record.

DONNELL CULPEPPER

A Home on Wheels to Call Your Own

By LEW ALLISON

Fishin' Around for Donnell Culpepper

If you're one of those who hears the call of the wild and longs for wheels to get you there, you're going to be interested in a little notice from Uncle Sam, who's got spare wheels. He's offering for sale some vehicles he doesn't need any more, as is and where is.

The ones being disposed of by the Long Beach post office are at the garage at 601 Golden Ave., and are available for inspection any time from Monday until April 29, when they'll be sold to the highest bidders. They are described as Dodge trucks, ¾ and 1 ton, six-cyliner walk-in vans.

This Camper Used to Be a Mail Truck

They can be converted into great little campers. The one in the illustration was bought last year and has been put to much use. A little do-it-yourself initiative and the interior becomes home.

The cars will be sold by sealed bid.

Last year the purchases ranged from $260 to $390, according to R. E. Lanning, superintendent of vehicle maintenance. All cars are in good operating condition and can be driven away by their purchasers.

Santa Ana post office also has some for bidders at its garage at 2201 N. Grand Ave.

IF YOU HAD that camper in operation, today would be a fine one to be at Black Meadow or one of those Colorado River landings near Havasu, where the spring is beautiful and the bass at last report were emerging from the deep water and hunting the shallows for water dogs and a half-dozen worm and stream lures that bass consider edible.

Catches have been running from four or five to limits, and crappie also are rewarding the river anglers well.

Most of the Southland lakes are reporting slow going, while the Sierra is great — for skiers. Fishing through the ice is legal in California this year. And ice is what you find when you head for the Sierra. It is possible there will be clear water at Crowley and the lower Bridgeport Lake by trout season opening May 3.

How warm is your sleeping bag?

YOU PEOPLE WHO HAVE had a weather eye cocked for salmon might note that a 15-pound silver was landed last week off Salt Creek. Robert Brown, Santa Ana, took the beauty on a half-day boat.

Those silvers should be good fishing for a while this early season, and it would pay you anglers with smoke pots to try the outer side of the breakwater once in a while just to see what's doing. The breakwater is producing some fine perch, and bass fishing should be good mornings and evenings.

The half-day boats have been reaping some good halibut catches, good bags of barely legal barracuda, some bass and lots of bonito. Each day should bring a better report — and fish or no fish, there's hardly a better way to spend a half a day than basking in the sun on the sea.

Halibut aren't usually thought of among the game fish of the area, because ordinarily they don't provide a lot of sport for the experts who like to match their skill against fast fighting species. But right now halibut offer a challenge to the fisherman who wants to get out of doors and find something delectable for the table.

For eating, you can't beat a halibut. Filet it and fry it, steam it, stuff it and bake it, cook it with rice or spaghetti, french fry it as sticks or whatever you like — it's white, flaky, sweet and delicious.

Maybe it won't grab your bait and head for Catalina Island, or seize a surface plug and sound, but I've seen a lot of fishermen who disdain the halibut dangle a hook in vain until one bites and then yank up empty-handed. They're smarter than most of us.

And they're here, there and about. A number of anglers found them on Belmont and Seal Beach piers in fair numbers — O. T. Yarborough had one on Belmont that weighed 4 pounds, 6 ounces. The barges, too, are producing a good number, and the half-day boats are counting 30-40 a day, mostly fly-swatter size.

But if you really want to test your skill, try fishing halibut in the surf. That's where they are — if you fish them on a half-day boat, you'll be drifting into the swimming area. A number of the surf casters are trying with torpedo sinkers trailing a big grab hook, and occasionally they score.

There's something about scoring in the surf that beats any other kind of fishing — an excitement that breaks into a really perfect way of relaxation, baiting and casting and watching the waves roll in — preferably under a bright moon.

And that's the name of the game.

UPSETS TELL, FLEET KIRSCH

Big Red Ryder Claims Debonaire

Unbeaten Big Red Ryder made it four in a row Saturday with an upset victory over rival 3-year-olds in the $26,800 Debonair Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Lightly weighted at 114 pounds, the California colt came with a rush in the stretch to win by a head over the pace-setting Fleet Kirsch, with the favorite Tell third.

Big Red Ryder, sired by Nashville, was the second longest shot on the board and paid $19.40, $5.40 and $2.80.

Fleet Kirsch, who shared high weight at 121 with Tell, returned $4.20 and $2.80. Tell paid $2.60 to show.

The time for the six furlongs on a fast track was 1:09. John Sellers rode the winner.

Big Mouth Sam and Capacitator were late morning scratches and only five went to the post under grey skies before a crowd of 44,000. It was the first Saturday card of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Big Red Ryder's previous victories were over less impressive runners and this was his first victory in a stakes. He was bred by Desi Arnaz and races in the silks of Stanley Weiner.

Mrs. Howard B. Keck's Tell, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, was the big favorite. Right Cross, the only colt to gave an argument this year to unbeaten Majestic Prince, was the second betting choice. Right Cross carried only 112 but was never much of a threat and finished last.

T. V. Doubletalk, 115, owned and bred by Fred W. Cooper and ridden by Jerry Lambert, was fourth after trailing most of the way.

Jockey Don Pierce sent Fleet Kirsch flying at the start, with Big Red Ryder in close pursuit. Shoemaker kept Tell off the pace in third place and as it turned out, never improved his position.

Tell, who finished 1¼ lengths behind the first two, had been the favorite because of his recent trimph in the Baldwin Stakes at Santa Anita.

Hibernian 'Noses' Gulfstream Stakes

Combined News Services

English-bred Hibernian held off Irish Rebellion by a nose Saturday to win the $62,600 Pan American Turf Handicap at Gulfstream, last stakes race of the Florida horse racing season.

Hibernian, a four-year-old gelding by Hethersett-Hibernia, was the popular favorite of the crowd of 16,205, and paid $4.40, $3.20 and $2.20 across the board. Irish Rebellion returned $5.20 and $3.60. Needles Stitch paid $4.60.

Diane Crump, the girl jockey involved in a three-way spill in the fourth race at Gulfstream Park on Friday, was riding again.

Miss Crump cancelled her mounts on Saturday's card, but she galloped horses in the morning workouts. She is scheduled to compete again on Monday.

San Roque charged out of sixth place with only a furlong to go in the $57,400 Excelsior Handicap at Aqueduct and romped home by three lengths.

There was a terrific battle for runnerup honors in the 61st running of the 1⅛ mile stake with Tropic King II gaining the honor by a head over Juvenile John.

Double Delta, guided by jockey C. J. Marquez, threaded a narrow gap on the rail in the turn and scored by two lengths over the favored Nutty Donut in the $30,100 Ashland Stakes at Keeneland.

Held neatly in third position for a half mile, Double Delta, carrying 115 pounds, made a swift move when Nutty Donut left just enough room for horse and rider as the field of eight entered the strength.

American Native, a 4-5 favorite, won the $30,000 Inaugural Handicap before an all-time Chicago Sportsman's Park crowd of 31,159.

Box Man was second and Prairie Jet third in the nine-horse field.

Process Shot, the champion 2-year-old filly of 1968, launched her sophomore campaign at Pimlico Saturday by winning the $28,100 Flirtation Stakes.

Deluxe Dancer finished four lengths ahead of Georgie Mai to win the six-furlong Del Rey Purse at Caliente.

Military, Shipyard Diesels in New Life

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

The name of an 11-year-old Long Beach firm has become a byword from the Long Beach Naval Shipyard to France.

Diesel Service Center, Inc., 1555 W. Anaheim St., rebuilds diesel engines and supplies replacement parts.

The Navy earlier this year issued to the diesel center one of the largest contracts ever awarded for diesel engine rebuilding.

The figure: about $1,700,000 and could range upward to $4 million on a cost-plus basis.

The contract calls for the refurbishing of 1,500 engines — and Diesel Service Center already has dispatched the first shipment of like-new engines back to the Navy.

The firm was founded in Temple City in 1958, mainly as a supplier of surplus diesel engine parts.

SALES CLIMBED STEADILY and soon were hampered by lack of operating space.

In 1961, Richard R. Davidson, now president, joined the company as a partner and a year later DSC moved to its Long Beach location.

Additional space was obtained until, today, DSC has 43,000 square feet in four buildings and operates five divisions.

General sales manager William M. Burbank said DSC's larger customers for replacement parts include, in addition to the shipyard in Long Beach, Marine Corps stations at Camp Pendleton and El Toro, March Air Force Base and the U.S. Naval Supply Center San Diego.

Naval missions for Argentina, Brazil, Chile and France also are steady customers.

ENGINE REBUILDING is accomplished for Bethlehem Steel, Todd Shipyard, Norfolk Shipbuilding, Fellows & Steward, National Metal & Steel and Craig Shipyard.

The employe list at DSC has passed the 60 mark, Burbank said.

The firm's sales volume has jumped from $365,000 in 1962 to more than $2 million for the fiscal year just concluded.

Says Burbank: "Our forecast indicates a volume of $5 million by 1972."

SHE'S HAPPY, ANYWAY

Dutch Girl Changes Jobs; Finds She Still Works for PT&T

Holland's loss has been Long Beach's gain.

It's in the person of Mrs. Willy Greenley, an attractive blonde toll operator in Pacific Telephone's facility at 456 Elm St.

The 23-year-old Mrs. Greenley, whose husband attends Cal State-Long Beach, also was a telephone operator in Holland.

"I first came here with my family in 1960," Willy recalls, "and I attended high school in Lodi.

"School was hard at first, because I didn't know the language. I sat in the classes but I didn't understand. And I hadn't been in a school with boys before — I was afraid to speak to them.

* * * *

"BUT I got over both problems pretty quickly," she laughs.

"We moved back to Rotterdam late in 1962, but after six months we moved again to Lodi."

During those six months Willy worked for the phone company, which is operated by the federal government, in Holland.

After learning how to handle calls within the country, she was trained on out-of-country calls.

"You had to be able to speak five languages well enough to place calls to the rest of Europe," she explains.

* * * *

"THERE is no direct dialing to other countries there. A customer calls the operator, who takes the needed information. She passes a card with the information on it to another operator, who calls an operator in the city wanted. Then that operator calls the receiving party, and the second operator calls back the originating caller to make the connection."

Willy also notes it takes longer to have a phone installed in Holland, explaining that all the wires are underground and take more time to install.

* * * *

AFTER her family returned to Lodi in 1963, she worked as an operator there and as a service advisor for Pacific at Travis Air Force Base — where she met her husband.

With a wink she adds that the government phone company in Holland is Post Telephone and Telegraph, which has the same initials as one she works for here — PT&T.

SANTA ANA-MADE

Ultrasonic Spy Unveiled

A new non-destruct bond tester which permits quick and penetrating inspection of air and space craft metallic "sandwich" structure to determine inner condition, was announced in Santa Ana last week by the Shurtronics Corporation.

Shurtronics President Frederick W. Rohe said the new tester will help insure greater production and service check-up reliability. This will help to cut production costs by further eliminating the need of building special test panels.

BILL MERRILL OF LONG BEACH . . . Checks Dials

The new tester, operating on a resonate sonic principle, complements a foreign testing device for which Shurtronics is the U.S. agent. Made by Fokker in Holland, it is already widely used in the U.S. aerospace and other industries.

* * * *

HIGHLY accurate in checking the bond strength itself, the Fokker instrument requires viscous coupling to the panel. This is an extra step. The Shurtronics Harmonic tester requires no coupling, allowing for a faster scanning on panels to find voids, unbonded areas and crushed core.

Shurtronics is part of a technological complex headed by Rohe which includes a major producer of aerospace craft fasteners, the Shur-Lok Corporation, and other elements, including a manufacturing plant in Belgium.

Testing of air and space craft structures made of honeycomb for lightness and strength, is vital to in-flight safety, Rohe said. About 75 per cent of the new coming generation of jets, he pointed out, will be of such metallic honeycomb sandwich construction.

Buy Today at Tempo at Old Prices; Hike Due

Today is the last day to take advantage of lower prices at the Larwin Company's two Tempo communities in Cerritos and Cypress.

Because of the astronomical increases in the cost of new home construction due to rising costs of financing, building materials and labor, Larwin Company, the nation's largest privately owned homebuilder was forced to announce an "across the board" increase in all Tempo new home prices.

"But the new prices will not go into effect until Monday April 14," said Barry Brief, assistant to the vice president, marketing. "Now is the time to take advantage of the lower prices at both Tempo communities."

Additional salesmen will be on hand at both communities to serve the buyers who are expected to flock to Tempo in order to take advantage of this offer.

TEMPO homes are designed, built and priced for young budget minded families on the grow. Larwin Company recently won an award for Tempo as the first community built and priced for young families.

The exterior designs are exciting and innovative. Each offers a distinctive and unique look.

There are several models to choose from ranging from two to five bedrooms at each community.

Some of the exclusive features at the Tempo communities include, covered entries, dramatic garden view kitchens with pass-through patio bars, Westinghouse Continental fully automatic timed range and double oven with see-through window, garden view family rooms, large master bedroom suites with walk-in closets, double garage and underground utilities.

FHA Finds Many Home Buyers Can't Await Completion

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

Many home buyers in the Orange County area aren't about to wait for the homes to be completed before making up their minds.

The Santa Ana insuring office of the Federal Housing Administration reports that 330 houses were sold last year before construction had even started.

Richard C. Keyser, director of the office, said of the 442 subdivisions surveyed that the bulk of the preconstruction buyers signed for homes in the $22,500 to $24,999 price range.

A total of 9,829 houses were completed in Orange County last year, the FHA office found.

Of the 9,499 homes built speculatively, 8,804 were sold and only 695 remained unsold as of New Year's Day.

Of the 695 homes unsold, 160 had been completed less than one month, 245 between two and three months, 159 between four and six months, and 131 between seven and 12 months., Keyser said.

The FHA office also reported 488 unsold houses that had been completed prior to 1968.

Interesting is the fact no prospective buyers signed a purchase order for homes-still-to-be-built below a $17,500 price tag.

Of the 105 homes completed last year in the $17,500-to-$19,999 range, 16 were sold from blueprints.

Fifty-five buyers liked what they saw on the plans for 445 homes in the $20,000-to-$22,499 range and put in their early order.

PRODUCTION OF GOODS AND SERVICES (Gross State Product) in California continued to advance in March — reaching $98.30 billion — although some industries suffered declines, the Bank of California reports.

Aerospace employment, especially defense-space contracts, continued to decrease in the first quarter of 1969 and further job losses in the industry as a whole are expected in the coming months.

The bank's Economic Series measures economic activity in its tri-state service area and encompasses production of both goods and services to determine Gross State Product.

Income from nine separate industrial classifications also measures, in balance, spending by persons, government, and by business for fixed investment. The Bank's estimates are seasonally adjusted at an annual rate.

The output of the commodity producing industries, which include manufacturing, construction, agriculture, and mining, totaled $32.52 billion in March, an increase of 4.2 per cent in a year.

The distributing industries (trade and utilities) advanced to $24.65 billion, while the service type industries rose to $26.54 billion. Governmental services expanded 8.3 per cent in a 12-month period to $14.59 billion.

Personal income rose 6.5 per cent in a year to $78.99 billion.

HOUSING STARTS IN CALIFORNIA continued downward in February, according to the latest available statistics compiled by Bank of America economists.

Starts reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 110,000 units in February, some 30 per cent below the average for the final three months of 1968. Bank economists cited adverse weather as largely responsible for the January-February decline in new starts.

Although starts should recover in the immediate future, the bank noted that growing monetary restraint is causing increasing concern that mortgage funds won't be available to support the construction of needed new units.

Unless there is some easing in the availability of mortgage credit by mid-year, the projection of 180,000 new starts for 1969 will have to be scaled down.

A CONTRACT TO DESIGN and build an automatic control system to remotely operate oil and gas production "wells" at ocean-floor depths, has been given the Houston Research Institute, Houston, Texas, by North American Rockwell Corporation (NR).

The contract was announced in Long Beach last week by Ernest Manuel, vice president and general manager of NR's Ocean Systems Operations.

In a joint agreement with Mobil Oil Corporation, NR is designing and building a revolutionary deep ocean oil production system which will use the Houston Research supervisory control system to automate the operation of production stations — called satellites — located on the ocean floor.

It is scheduled for test at an off-shore site early next year.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN WHEN TODAY'S college students enter the business world? Will corporations and business "inherit" the turmoil that college administrators now face?

For the first time on a national scale, college administrators, corporate executives, and student leaders will meet together to discuss these and other questions at a national conference dedicated to understanding the student unrest on campuses — and its implications for business.

The program, designed for educators and business executives, will be presented Monday through Wednesday in St. Louis. Executive Systems, Inc., a management consulting firm of Lawrenceville, Illinois, is sponsoring the conference with the hope that face-to-face dialogue on the issues will help bring understanding of current campus problems.

Among the speakers scheduled are Senator Charles J. Goodell, appointed to the vacancy created by Robert Kennedy's death, and Julian Bond, Georgia legislator and Negro leader who made news during the 1968 Democratic National Convention as leader of the Georgia challenge.

Crude Runs, Auto Output Rising

As all but two of the components made gains in the previous week, the Index rose 0.2 per cent.

Steel output rose 0.1 per cent — the highest level since mid-June's strike-hedge buying. Steel orders continue strong as warm weather increases construction orders.

Auto output gained 0.5 per cent. Auto makers instituted very little overtime as production remains in low gear in an attempt to balance inventories.

Crude oil refinery runs rose 0.1 per cent. Electric power output fell 4.2 per cent, after last week's abnormal high.

Paperboard productions rose 2.3 per cent — an all time high.

14-STATE PROMOTION

Chesterfield Cigarette Firm Joins Premium Coupon Craze

Premium coupons, redeemable in more ways than cigarette coupons from other saving plans, now are available on all Chesterfield cigarettes in 14 Western states, it was announced by Milton E. Harrington, president of Liggett & Myers, Inc.

"The coupon smoker is here!"

That's the way Sam White, vice president, marketing, summed up the current cigarette coupon situation. "More and more smokers are switching brands, not because of the basic product — the cigarette — but because of the extras he receives. Hence the rise in popularity of the cigarette premium coupon."

"PERHAPS it was the supermarket stamp craze that brought the bulk of tobacco companies into the 'giveaway game,' continues White. "Whatever the catalyst, the cigarette premium coupon is an accepted marketing factor that is here to stay."

In addition to staying, the coupon plans are creating a strong competition of their own.

While all cigarette coupons share one element in common — they have a set cash value — some programs make themselves more appealing to the smoker by offering extra coupons with the purchase of a carton and allowing the coupons to be redeemed for cash, or gifts, as well as combined with trading stamps.

MOST recent and most flexible entree to the smoker's selection of coupon plans are Chesterfield LMC (Luxury Merchandise Coupon) coupons.

LMC Coupons offer the smoker a wider variety of redemption methods than any other cigarette coupon plan.

In addition to conventional redemption approaches, such as exchange for catalog merchandise; exchange for cash and redemption in combination with trading stamps (four stamps per coupon), LMC Coupons also feature "speed redemption."

★ ★ ★ ★

THE WIDE variety of coupon redemption methods for the LMC Coupon reflects the sophisticated stage contemporary tobacco coupons have reached since their beginning in the early Thirties.

It was then that one major tobacco company introduced cigarette coupons and made them redeemable for a deck of playing cards. Well received, the offer was expanded to eventually include a catalog of merchandise.

In 1964, after that company had offered its coupon on another brand, a competing firm added a new dimension to coupon redemption by introducing coupons which, in addition to exchange for cash and gifts, could be converted to trading stamps.

WORLD OF WHEELS

More than 300 high school teen-age student mechanics will compete in three regional Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contests in San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego this month, according to Ken Mattson, Los Angeles regional service manager.

The contests are scheduled as follows: San Bernardino, Thursday, April 17, 1:00 p.m., Colton High School, 777 West "I" Street, Colton, California; Los Angeles, Wednesday, April 23, 1:00 p.m., Pioneer High School Football Field, 10800 E. Benavon Street, Whittier, California; San Diego, Friday, April 25; Claremont High School Football Field, 4150 Ute Drive, San Diego, California.

Winning teams in the local contests receive all-expense trips to Indianapolis where the National Shooting finals will be held June 16, 17 and 18.

A total of $125,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies, tools, practice engines and transmission and automotive shop equipment for competing schools is offered according to Ken Mattson, Plymouth's regional service manager.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED THIS YEAR total $34,500 — $18,500 more than last year — and the contest has been expanded to include students in junior and community colleges and vocational technical centers. The winning team in the National Finals in three classes — industrial arts, vocational education and post-high school — each will be offered $4,000 in scholarships.

Another feature in the 1969 program is the active recruitment of Trouble Shooters who participate in local contests to become apprentice mechanics in Plymouth dealerships.

"The boys who compete in these local contests are the top mechanical students in their schools," Mattson said. "Many of them want to work when school ends this spring, and we have a program to help them find work."

PLYMOUTH PROVIDES ALL DEALERS in a local contest area with the names and addresses of all senior boys who make their school Trouble Shooting teams and urges dealers to interview them as potential apprentice mechanics. The boys also receive letter and Trouble Shooter certificates to present to dealers.

Recognizing that a substantial investment in tools is a prerequisite for most automobile mechanics, the program includes a plan for letting apprentice mechanics get tools at reduced cost when paying for them through payroll deductions while they work. A qualified young mechanic can go to work immediately with his own set of tools which retail at $539. His total cost of the tools is slightly more than half, $224, and he can pay for them with no down payment and a small weekly deduction from his wages.

These are the inducements the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest offers to interest talented mechanical students in continuing their education and starting careers in the growing automobile service business.

Casa Dominguez Is 'Master-Planned' Community

Casa Dominguez, a South Bay community within a community, continues to be successful with record sales of new homes.

Casa Dominguez is the latest step that Leadership Homes, a division of Macco Corporation, has taken toward completion of this master planned community in Carson, already populated by more than 3,000 residents. At present, 1200 new homes have been sold.

Located just off the San Diego Freeway at Avalon and Del Amo Boulevards, the close-in community offers two, three, four and five-bedroom homes.

CARPETED MASTER BEDROOM . . . At Casa Dominguez

Nine different floorplans are available in Spanish, Mediterranean or California Ranch exteriors.

Because of their extremely well designed floor plans, these one and two story homes are priced from $22,000.

INCLUDED in the purchase price is an outstanding array of extra features.

Patio kitchens in innovative island design are complete with built-in ovens with hood and exhaust fans, barbecue pit, dishwashers and disposers, large pantries and double sinks. Indoor-outdoor food service is offered via sliding serving windows which lead to a laminated patio bar.

Carpeting and padding are installed in the living room, dining room, master bedroom, stairs and second story hallway. Large bedrooms are equipped with walk-in closets.

In the baths, mirrors and medicine cabinets are in. Pullman counters are of cultured marble and floor tile is vinyl asbestos.

* * * *

THE EXTRAS extend to the outdoors.

Stylish exterior and interior lighting fixtures and decorative wrought iron railings complement double door entries. Exterior doors are weatherstripped and windows and screens are of maintenance free aluminum.

According to plan, downstairs powder rooms, dressing rooms, laundry rooms and entry courtyards are available. Entertaining is easier with a guest closet off entries and large fireplaces equipped with gas log lights.

CONSTRUCTION of the 2½ mile Del Amo Boulevard extension, a four-lane divided highway, was a cooperative effort between Macco Corporation and the County of Los Angeles Road Department.

More than $1 million was expended on the overall project, of which Macco's share was approximately 50 per cent.

Macco furnished the land and was responsible for excavation, grading, subsurface, construction of sidewalks, curbs and gutters, as well as the roadway drainage system. This major highway provides an important east-west artery to a large number of shopping and key industrial centers.

A large storm drain system was constructed by Macco Corporation at a cost of $3,000,000. The mammoth project transformed 796 acres of unusable land into a safe and desirable site for Casa Dominguez, where 3,200 homes will eventually be constructed.

Other current Leadership Homes developments include The Missions at Capistrano Highlands in Southern Orange County; Glenbrook/Brea; Glen Mar West/Huntington Beach; Porter Ridge in Porter Ranch/Northridge; and Sandpointe/Santa Ana.

Military, Shipyard Diesels in New Life

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

The name of an 11-year-old Long Beach firm has become a byword from the Long Beach Naval Shipyard to France.

Diesel Service Center, Inc., 1555 W. Anaheim St., rebuilds diesel engines and supplies replacement parts.

The Navy earlier this year issued to the diesel center one of the largest contracts ever awarded for diesel engine rebuilding.

The figure: about $1,700,000 and could range upward to $4 million on a cost-plus basis.

The contract calls for the refurbishing of 1,500 engines — and Diesel Service Center already has dispatched the first shipment of like-new engines back to the Navy.

The firm was founded in Temple City in 1958, mainly as a supplier of surplus diesel engine parts.

SALES CLIMBED STEADILY and soon were hampered by lack of operating space.

In 1961, Richard R. Davidson, now president, joined the company as a partner and a year later DSC moved to its Long Beach location.

Additional space was obtained until, today, DSC has 43,000 square feet in four buildings and operates five divisions.

General sales manager William M. Burbank said DSC's larger customers for replacement parts include, in addition to the shipyard in Long Beach, Marine Corps stations at Camp Pendleton and El Toro, March Air Force Base and the U.S. Naval Supply Center San Diego.

Naval missions for Argentina, Brazil, Chile and France also are steady customers.

ENGINE REBUILDING is accomplished for Bethlehem Steel, Todd Shipyard, Norfolk Shipbuilding, Fellows & Steward, National Metal & Steel and Craig Shipyard.

The employe list at DSC has passed the 60 mark, Burbank said.

The firm's sales volume has jumped from $365,000 in 1962 to more than $2 million for the fiscal year just concluded.

Says Burbank: "Our forecast indicates a volume of $5 million by 1972."

SHE'S HAPPY, ANYWAY

Dutch Girl Changes Jobs; Finds She Still Works for PT&T

Holland's loss has been Long Beach's gain.

It's in the person of Mrs. Willy Greenley, an attractive blonde toll operator in Pacific Telephone's facility at 456 Elm St.

The 23-year-old Mrs. Greenley, whose husband attends Cal State-Long Beach, also was a telephone operator in Holland.

"I first came here with my family in 1960," Willy recalls, "and I attended high school in Lodi.

"School was hard at first, because I didn't know the language. I sat in the classes but I didn't understand. And I hadn't been in a school with boys before — I was afraid to speak to them.

* * * *

"BUT I got over both problems pretty quickly," she laughs.

"We moved back to Rotterdam late in 1962, but after six months we moved again to Lodi."

During those six months Willy worked for the phone company, which is operated by the federal government, in Holland.

After learning how to handle calls within the country, she was trained on out-of-country calls.

"You had to be able to speak five languages well enough to place calls to the rest of Europe," she explains.

* * * *

"THERE is no direct dialing to other countries there. A customer calls the operator, who takes the needed information. She passes a card with the information on it to another operator, who calls an operator in the city wanted. Then that operator calls the receiving party, and the second operator calls back the originating caller to make the connection."

Willy also notes it takes longer to have a phone installed in Holland, explaining that all the wires are underground and take more time to install.

* * * *

AFTER her family returned to Lodi in 1963, she worked as an operator there and as a service advisor for Pacific at Travis Air Force Base — where she met her husband.

With a wink she adds that the government phone company in Holland is Post Telephone and Telegraph, which has the same initials as one she works for here — PT&T.

SANTA ANA-MADE

Ultrasonic Spy Unveiled

A new non-destruct bond tester which permits quick and penetrating inspection of air and space craft metallic "sandwich" structure to determine inner condition, was announced in Santa Ana last week by the Shurtronics Corporation.

Shurtronics President Frederick W. Rohe said the new tester will help insure greater production and service check-up reliability. This will help to cut production costs by further eliminating the need of building special test panels.

BILL MERRILL OF LONG BEACH . . . Checks Dials

The new tester, operating on a resonate sonic principle, complements a foreign testing device for which Shurtronics is the U.S. agent. Made by Fokker in Holland, it is already widely used in the U.S. aerospace and other industries.

* * * *

HIGHLY accurate in checking the bond strength itself, the Fokker instrument requires viscous coupling to the panel. This is an extra step. The Shurtronics Harmonic tester requires no coupling, allowing for a faster scanning on panels to find voids, unbonded areas and crushed core.

Shurtronics is part of a technological complex headed by Rohe which includes a major producer of aerospace craft fasteners, the Shut-Lok Corporation, and other elements, including a manufacturing plant in Belgium.

Testing of air and space craft structures made of honeycomb for lightness and strength, is vital to in-flight safety, Rohe said. About 75 per cent of the new coming generation of jets, he pointed out, will be of such metallic honeycomb sandwich construction.

Buy Today at Tempo at Old Prices; Hike Due

Today is the last day to take advantage of lower prices at the Larwin Company's two Tempo communities in Cerritos and Cypress.

Because of the astronomical increases in the cost of new home construction due to rising costs of financing, building materials and labor, Larwin Company, the nation's largest privately owned homebuilder was forced to announce an "across the board" increase in all Tempo new home prices.

"But the new prices will not go into effect until Monday April 14," said Barry Brief, assistant to the vice president, marketing. "Now is the time to take advantage of the lower prices at both Tempo communities."

Additional salesmen will be on hand at both communities to serve the buyers who are expected to flock to Tempo in order to take advantage of this offer.

TEMPO homes are designed, built and priced for young budget minded families on the grow. Larwin Company recently won an award for Tempo as the first community built and priced for young families.

The exterior designs are exciting and innovative. Each offers a distinctive and unique look.

There are several models to choose from ranging from two to five bedrooms at each community.

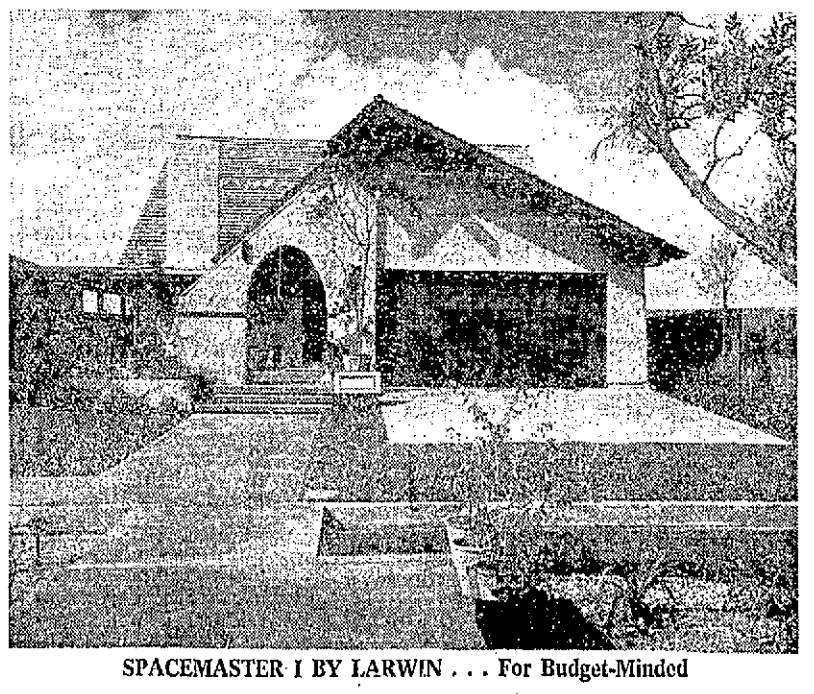

Some of the exclusive features at the Tempo communities include, covered entries, dramatic garden view kitchens with pass-through patio bars, Westinghouse Continental fully automatic timed range and double oven with see-through window, garden view family rooms, large master bedroom suites with walk-in closets, double garage and underground utilities.

* * * *

TEMPO homes in Cerritos are priced from $22,990 and can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the 605 Freeway, south (San Diego Freeway to 605 north) to Artesia Freeway, exit at Norwalk Blvd. south one block to Artesia Boulevard, then left to six fully furnished models.

Tempo homes in Cypress are also priced from $22,990 and can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Valley View exit, proceed south to models.

From the San Diego Freeway and the Garden Grove Freeway take the Valley View exit and proceed north. From Long Beach, take the Long Beach Freeway to Katella, east to Valley View, south a half mile to model homes.

Lafayette Condominium Has Putting Green for Residents

While the 1969 Masters Golf Tournament entertains thousands of Southlanders via television this weekend, residents of the Lafayette Condominium in Long Beach will be brushing up on their own games at the popular putting green located right in their home.

"Our recreational facilities, particularly the putting green, are proving very popular with our residents," Lafayette owner Roberty Campbell said.

The golfing facilities are but one of the many unique features which are drawing hundreds of persons each weekend to attend open houses at the Lafayette, 140 Linden Avenue.

* * * *

THE Lafayette features a wide variety of one, two, and three-bedroom all-electric condominium homes priced from $11,900. Luxury models at $24,950 are also being featured, Campbell said.

"We know of no other condominium in the Southland offering the wide variety of features claimed by the Lafayette," Campbell said.

Open house hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today. A complete staff of sales persons will be on hand, and refreshments will be served.

The Lafayette is located in the heart of downtown Long Beach and is within easy walking distance of the city's leading department stores, restaurants and shops.

Construction Begins on New Facility

William Clark, one of the principals of Woodruff Investment Company, announced construction is well under way on the Woodruff Convalescent Hospital, 17836 Woodruff Ave., Bellflower.

New concepts in design promise to put this among the most modern facilities in Southern California.

Clark, who is also the builder, said a 20-year lease has been signed with Cal Care Western, which will operate the facility. Several more convalescent hospitals are in the planning stage.

Robert Williams of Long Beach, formerly at Robertshaw Controls Company's Grayson Controls Division, has been promoted to controller at firm's Uni-Line Division, Huntington Beach.

Gold Key Suites Fill 'Big Void'

A void in executive office space has been filled with the expansion of Gold Key Suites, the new concept in corporate offices on a one-man budget, according to W. David Joye, project manager of the $5 million Fidelity Federal Plaza, Long Beach.

"Response to the opening of the new unit of 21 Gold Key Suites has been remarkable," Joye said. "Many prospective tenants have commented that they have been looking for this kind of set-up for months."

Joye indicated that surveys of businesses had proven that a group of offices situated around a large, common reception area would provide new or small businesses with more than adequate facilities to begin operations.

* * * *

A CONFERENCE room that will accommodate up to 20 persons is available to all tenants of the high-rise office complex.

Gold Key Suites are available on a one-year lease. Considerations range from $95 per month and up.

Wall Street Briefs

PELHAM MANOR, N.Y. (UPI) — Nytronics, Inc., said it has decided to seek to buy the remaining 27 per cent of the stock of Radio Engineering Products, Ltd., of Montreal over the next three years. Nytronics said it had obtained 70 per cent of the stock from two major shareholders for $4,662 million cash plus 608,000 shares of Nytronics.

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI) — Raytheon Corp. has obtained an $8.7 million Army contract for engineering service on the Hawk missile system.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Marcona Corp., a joint venture of Cyprus Mines Corp. and Utah Construction & Mining Co., will spend $25 million to exploit newly found iron ore deposits in Peru, increasing output to 10.5 million tons from 8.5 million yearly.

NAW YORK (UPI) — American Standard, Inc., is joining Herbert J. Kendall, a New Jersey builder, in a $100 million real estate development project in New Jersey's East Windsor Township. The complex, to be called Twin Rivers, will include 3,000 dwelling units, 238-acres of factory sites, 55-acres of shopping center and 140-acres of parkland.

BURBANK (UPI) — Menasco Manufacturing Co. has obtained contracts totaling $14 million from Lockheed Aircraft Co. for work on the landing gear to the Air Force's C-5 Galaxy transport plane.

DENVER (UPI) — International Nuclear Corp. has started a five-well exploratory oil drilling program on permits totaling 2.6 million acres in Canada's McKenzie River Basin. The company has a half interest in the permits. The first well will be drilled on the Rengling Block 40 miles east of the Arctic Red River.

NEW YORK (UPI) — From a technical standpoint, the market's recent strength could well carry a bit further, Goodbody & Co. says. However, unless tangible results come out of current peace talks, the rally is unlikely to develop into a major advance. The firm is convinced that "fiscal and monetary authorities will go as far as they have to in order to cool down the economy," and that investors would do well "to anticipate the brakes taking hold."

"There is perhaps no other quarter of the year that passes more quickly than the first," Harris, Upham observes. The first quarter of 1969, on balance, saw stock prices decline "within a confused atmosphere," with glamour stocks and conglomerate issues among the poorest performers. The prime question now is whether a solid enough base has been established to support a move upward "of major proportion."

Wright Investors' Service notes that although the market recently has recovered somewhat from its decline earlier this year, there has been no "really strong general advance." The analyst finds it difficult to believe that the market can continue to rise in the face of tighter credit, sharply reduced government expenditures and the extra payments which taxpayers will face April 15 instead of refunds.

The stock market now appears to carry an increased element of risk compared with a couple of weeks ago, according to Shearson, Hammill & Co., and "sudden (even temporary) removal of the peace prop" would shift investor attention back to fundamental considerations. From a technical standpoint, however, the market now has a bit of a cushion against the lows of a few weeks ago, the firm says.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gabriel Industries, Inc., a toy maker, has agreed to buy the Porter line of science toys, including chemistry, biology and geology sets and telescopes and microscopes, from Lionel Corp.

FHA Finds Many Home Buyers Can't Await Completion

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

Many home buyers in the Orange County area aren't about to wait for the homes to be completed before making up their minds.

The Santa Ana insuring office of the Federal Housing Administration reports that 330 houses were sold last year before construction had even started.

Richard C. Keyser, director of the office, said of the 442 subdivisions surveyed that the bulk of the pre-construction buyers signed for homes in the $22,500 to $24,999 price range.

A total of 9,829 houses were completed in Orange County last year, the FHA office found.

Of the 9,499 homes built speculatively, 8,804 were sold and only 695 remained unsold as of New Year's Day.

Of the 695 homes unsold, 160 had been completed less than one month, 245 between two and three months, 159 between four and six months, and 131 between seven and 12 months., Keyser said.

The FHA office also reported 488 unsold houses that had been completed prior to 1968.

Interesting is the fact no prospective buyers signed a purchase order for homes-still-to-be-built below a $17,500 price tag.

Of the 105 homes completed last year in the $17,500-to-$19,999 range, 16 were sold from blueprints.

Fifty-five buyers liked what they saw on the plans for 445 homes in the $20,000-to-$22,499 range and put in their early order.

PRODUCTION OF GOODS AND SERVICES (Gross State Product) in California continued to advance in March — reaching $98.30 billion — although some industries suffered declines, the Bank of California reports.

Aerospace employment, especially defense-space contracts, continued to decrease in the first quarter of 1969 and further job losses in the industry as a whole are expected in the coming months.

The bank's Economic Series measures economic activity in its tri-state service area and encompasses production of both goods and services to determine Gross State Product.

Income from nine separate industrial classifications also measures, in balance, spending by persons, government, and by business for fixed investment. The Bank's estimates are seasonally adjusted at an annual rate.

The output of the commodity producing industries, which include manufacturing, construction, agriculture, and mining, totaled $32.52 billion in March, an increase of 4.2 per cent in a year.

The distributing industries (trade and utilities) advanced to $24.65 billion, while the service type industries rose to $26.54 billion. Governmental services expanded 8.3 per cent in a 12-month period to $14.59 billion.

Personal income rose 6.5 per cent in a year to $78.99 billion.

AS PREDICTED HERE a month ago, Wells Fargo Bank has received approval from the comptroller of the currency to establish a new banking house, its first in Long Beach.

John R. Breeden, executive vice president-Southern California operations, said property negotiations are underway.

HOUSING STARTS IN CALIFORNIA continued downward in February, according to the latest available statistics compiled by Bank of America economists.

Starts reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 118,000 units in February, some 30 per cent below the average for the final three months of 1968. Bank economists cited adverse weather as largely responsible for the January-February decline in new starts.

Although starts should recover in the immediate future, the bank noted that growing monetary restraint is causing increasing concern that mortgage funds won't be available to support the construction of needed new units.

Unless there is some easing in the availability of mortgage credit by mid-year, the projection of 180,000 new starts for 1969 will have to be scaled down.

A CONTRACT TO DESIGN and build an automatic control system to remotely operate oil and gas production "wells" at ocean-floor depths, has been given the Houston Research Institute, Houston, Texas, by North American Rockwell Corporation (NR).

The contract was announced in Long Beach last week by Ernest Manuel, vice president and general manager of NR's Ocean Systems Operations.

In a joint agreement with Mobil Oil Corporation, NR is designing and building a revolutionary deep ocean oil production system which will use the Houston Research supervisory control system to automate the operation of production stations — called satellites — located on the ocean floor.

It is scheduled for test at an off-shore site early next year.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN WHEN TODAY'S college students enter the business world? Will corporations and business "inherit" the turmoil that college administrators now face?

For the first time on a national scale, college administrators, corporate executives, and student leaders will meet together to discuss these and other questions at a national conference dedicated to understanding the student unrest on campuses — and its implications for business.

The program, designed for educators and business executives, will be presented Monday through Wednesday in St. Louis. Executive Systems, Inc., a management consulting firm of Lawrenceville, Illinois, is sponsoring the conference with the hope that face-to-face dialogue on the issues will help bring understanding of current campus problems.

Among the speakers scheduled are Senator Charles J. Goodell, appointed to the vacancy created by Robert Kennedy's death, and Julian Bond, Georgia legislator and Negro leader who made news during the 1968 Democratic National Convention as leader of the Georgia challenge.

14-STATE PROMOTION

Chesterfield Cigarette Firm Joins Premium Coupon Craze

Premium coupons, redeemable in more ways than cigarette coupons from other saving plans, now are available on all Chesterfield cigarettes in 14 Western states, it was announced by Milton E. Harrington, president of Liggett & Myers, Inc.

"The coupon smoker is here!"

That's the way Sam White, vice president, marketing, summed up the current cigarette coupon situation. "More and more smokers are switching brands, not because of the basic product — the cigarette — but because of the extras he receives. Hence the rise in popularity of the cigarette premium coupon."

"PERHAPS it was the supermarket stamp craze that brought the bulk of tobacco companies into the 'giveaway game,' continues White. "Whatever the catalyst, the cigarette premium coupon is an accepted marketing factor that is here to stay."

In addition to staying, the coupon plans are creating a strong competition of their own.

While all cigarette coupons share one element in common — they have a set cash value — some programs make themselves more appealing to the smoker by offering extra coupons with the purchase of a carton and allowing the coupons to be redeemed for cash, or gifts, as well as combined with trading stamps.

MOST recent and most flexible entree to the smoker's selection of coupon plans are Chesterfield LMC (Luxury Merchandise Coupon) coupons.

LMC Coupons offer the smoker a wider variety of redemption methods than any other cigarette coupon plan.

In addition to conventional redemption approaches, such as exchange for catalog merchandise; exchange for cash and redemption in combination with trading stamps (four stamps per coupon), LMC Coupons also feature "speed redemption."

* * * *

THE WIDE variety of coupon redemption methods for the LMC Coupon reflects the sophisticated stage contemporary tobacco coupons have reached since their beginning in the early Thirties.

It was then that one major tobacco company introduced cigarette coupons and made them redeemable for a deck of playing cards. Well received, the offer was expanded to eventually include a catalog of merchandise.

In 1964, after that company had offered its coupon on another brand, a competing firm added a new dimension to coupon redemption by introducing coupons which, in addition to exchange for cash and gifts, could be converted to trading stamps.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN

More than 300 high school teen-age student mechanics will compete in three regional Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contests in San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego this month, according to Ken Mattson, Los Angeles regional service manager.

The contests are scheduled as follows: San Bernardino, Thursday, April 17, 1:00 p.m., Colton High School, 777 West "I" Street, Colton, California; Los Angeles, Wednesday, April 23, 1:00 p.m., Pioneer High School Football Field, 10800 E. Benavon Street, Whittier, California; San Diego, Friday, April 25, Claremont High School Football Field, 4150 Ute Drive, San Diego, California.

Winning teams in the local contests receive all-expense trips to Indianapolis where the National Shooting finals will be held June 16, 17 and 18.

A total of $125,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies, tools, practice engines and transmission and automotive shop equipment for competing schools is offered according to Ken Mattson, Plymouth's regional service manager.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED THIS YEAR total $34,500 — $18,500 more than last year — and the contest has been expanded to include students in junior and community colleges and vocational technical centers. The winning team in the National Finals in three classes — industrial arts, vocational education and post-high school — each will be offered $4,000 in scholarships.

Another feature in the 1969 program is the active recruitment of Trouble Shooters who participate in local contests to become apprentice mechanics in Plymouth dealerships.

"The boys who compete in these local contests are the top mechanical students in their schools," Mattson said. "Many of them want to work when school ends this spring, and we have a program to help them find work."

PLYMOUTH PROVIDES ALL DEALERS in a local contest area with the names and addresses of all senior boys who make their school Trouble Shooting teams and urges dealers to interview them as potential apprentice mechanics. The boys also receive letter and Trouble Shooter certificates to present to dealers.

Recognizing that a substantial investment in tools is a prerequisite for most automobile mechanics, the program includes a plan for letting apprentice mechanics get tools at reduced cost when paying for them through payroll deductions while they work. A qualified young mechanic can go to work immediately with his own set of tools which retail at $539. His total cost of the tools is slightly more than half, $224, and he can pay for them with no down payment and a small weekly deduction from his wages.

These are the inducements the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest offers to interest talented mechanical students in continuing their education and starting careers in the growing automobile service business.

Casa Dominguez Is 'Master-Planned' Community

Casa Dominguez, a South Bay community within a community, continues to be successful with record sales of new homes.

Casa Dominguez is the latest step that Leadership Homes, a division of Macco Corporation, has taken toward completion of this master planned community in Carson, already populated by more than 3,000 residents. At present, 1200 new homes have been sold.

Located just off the San Diego Freeway at Avalon and Del Amo Boulevards, the close-in community offers two, three, four and five-bedroom homes.

Carpeting and padding are installed in the living room, dining room, master bedroom, stairs and second story hallway. Large bedrooms are equipped with walk-in closets.

In the baths, mirrors and medicine cabinets are in. Pullman counters are of cultured marble and floor tile is vinyl asbestos.

THE EXTRAS extend to the outdoors.

Stylish exterior and interior lighting fixtures and decorative wrought iron railings complement double door entries. Exterior doors are weatherstripped and windows and screens are of maintenance free aluminum.

According to plan, downstairs powder rooms, dressing rooms, laundry rooms and entry courtyards are available. Entertaining is easier with a guest closet off entries and large fireplaces equipped with gas log lights.

CONSTRUCTION of the 2½ mile Del Amo Boulevard extension, a four-lane divided highway, was a cooperative effort between Macco Corporation and the County of Los Angeles Road Department.

More than $1 million was expended on the overall project, of which Macco's share was approximately 50 per cent.

Macco furnished the land and was responsible for excavation, grading, subsurface, construction of sidewalks, curbs and gutters, as well as the roadway drainage system. This major highway provides an important east-west artery to a large number of shopping and key industrial centers.

A large storm drain system was constructed by Macco Corporation at a cost of $3,000,000. The mammoth project transformed 796 acres of unusable land into a safe and desirable site for Casa Dominguez, where 3,200 homes will eventually be constructed.

Other current Leadership Homes developments include The Missions at Capistrano Highlands in Southern Orange County; Glenbrook/Brea; Glen Mar West/Huntington Beach; Porter Ridge in Porter Ranch-Northridge; and Sandpointe Santa Ana.

Elegance Noted in College Park Homes

Buyers at College Park indicate a strong desire for a return to elegance as a major factor in their choice of the Westminster community, according to Gerry Dirksen, sales and marketing manager for the development and its builders, S & S Construction Co.

"One of the features which homebuyers find particularly exciting is the unique sunken dining room with custom cut crystal chandelier which one of the models incorporates," Dirksen said.

S & S is a strong leader in the housing field and puts emphasis on providing homes which suit the modern family's need as perfectly as possible.

* * * *

"WE foresaw the trend to more elegance and designed our homes to offer an opportunity for gracious entertaining while still providing huge family rooms for more relaxed family activities," Dirksen continued.

"At College Park the homebuyer doesn't have to choose between luxury and casual comfort for the family, they're both incorporated in every one of the houses," Dirksen concluded.

Increased leisure time and affluence have made the contemporary family more exacting in demands for versatility when choosing a home.

* * * *

S & S maintains its own staff of AIA architects to insure trend-setting design and maximum livability.

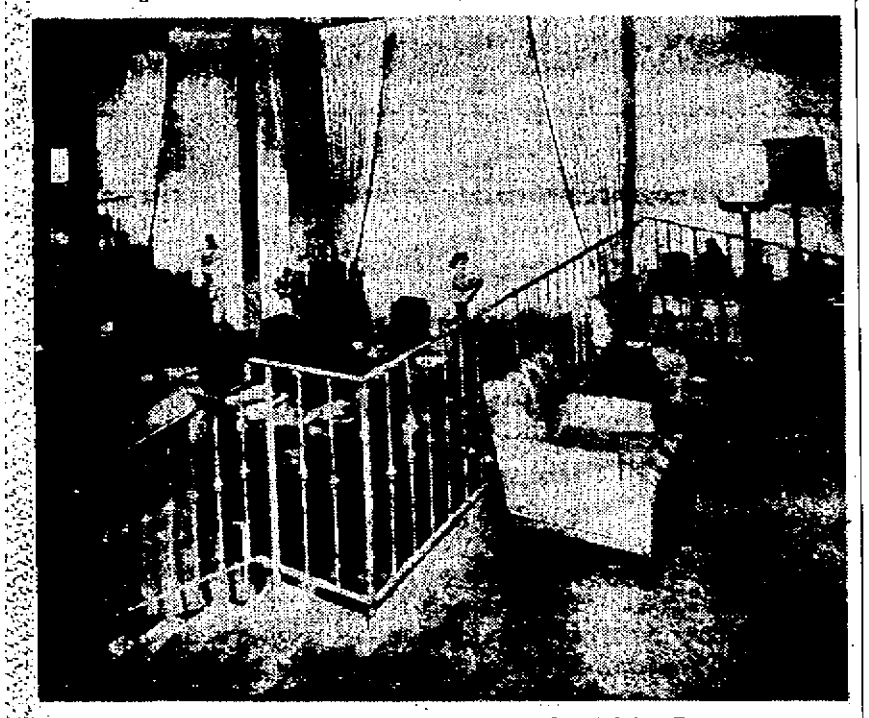

One of the top-quality features at College Park is lath and plaster wall construction, a rare item in homebuilding today.

Also among the standard features at College Park are imported marble entries, cut-crystal chandeliers, luxurious wall to wall carpeting throughout, and fully built-in all-electric kitchens with luminous ceilings and generous use of ceramic tile.

* * * *

THE HOMES, priced from $31,590.00, offer VA, FHA, and conventional financing.

To visit College Park furnished models, take the San Diego or San Gabriel freeway (605) to Garden Grove Freeway; exit at Valley View Street and go north on Valley View to model home area, turning left at Cerulean.

Lafayette Condominium Has Putting Green for Residents

While the 1969 Masters Golf Tournament entertains thousands of Southlanders via television this weekend, residents of the Lafayette Condominium in Long Beach will be brushing up on their own games at the popular putting green located right in their home.

"Our recreational facilities, particularly the putting green, are proving very popular with our residents," Lafayette owner Roberty Campbell said.

The golfing facilities are but one of the many unique features which are drawing hundreds of persons each weekend to attend open houses at the Lafayette, 140 Linden Avenue.

* * * *

THE Lafayette features a wide variety of one, two, and three-bedroom all-electric condominium homes priced from $11,900. Luxury models at $24,950 are also being featured, Campbell said.

"We know of no other condominium in the Southland offering the wide variety of features claimed by the Lafayette," Campbell said.

Open house hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today. A complete staff of sales persons will be on hand, and refreshments will be served.

The Lafayette is located in the heart of downtown Long Beach and is within easy walking distance of the city's leading department stores, restaurants and shops.

Construction Begins on New Facility

William Clark, one of the principals of Woodruff Investment Company, announced construction is well under way on the Woodruff Convalescent Hospital, 17836 Woodruff Ave., Bellflower.

Gold Key Suites Fill 'Big Void'

A void in executive office space has been filled with the expansion of Gold Key Suites, the new concept in corporate offices on a one-man budget, according to W. David Joye, project manager of the $5 million Fidelity Federal Plaza, Long Beach.

"Response to the opening of the new unit of 21 Gold Key Suites has been remarkable," Joye said. "Many prospective tenants have commented that they have been looking for this kind of set-up for months."

Joye indicated that surveys of businesses had proven that a group of offices situated around a large, common reception area would provide new or small businesses with more than adequate facilities to begin operations.

* * * *

A CONFERENCE room that will accommodate up to 20 persons is available to all tenants of the high-rise office complex.

Gold Key Suites are available on a one-year lease. Considerations range from $95 per month and up.

PELHAM MANOR, N.Y. (UPI) — Nytronics, Inc., said it has decided to seek to buy the remaining 27 per cent of the stock of Radio Engineering Products, Ltd., of Montreal over the next three years. Nytronics said it had obtained 70 per cent of the stock from two major shareholders for $4,662 million cash plus 608,000 shares of Nytronics.

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI) — Raytheon Corp. has obtained an $8.7 million Army contract for engineering service on the Hawk missile system.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Marcona Corp., a joint venture of Cyprus Mines Corp. and Utah Construction & Mining Co., will spend $25 million to exploit newly found iron ore deposits in Peru, increasing output to 10.5 million tons from 8.5 million yearly.

NAW YORK (UPI) — American Standard, Inc., is joining Herbert J. Kendall, a New Jersey builder, in a $100 million real estate development project in New Jersey's East Windsor Township. The complex, to be called Twin Rivers, will include 3,000 dwelling units, 238-acres of factory sites, 55-acres of shopping center and 140-acres of parkland.

BURBANK (UPI) — Menasco Manufacturing Co. has obtained contracts totaling $14 million from Lockheed Aircraft Co. for work on the landing gear to the Air Force's C-5 Galaxy transport plane.

DENVER (UPI) — International Nuclear Corp. has started a five-well exploratory oil drilling program on permits totaling 2.6 million acres in Canada's McKenzie River Basin. The company has a half interest in the permits. The first well will be drilled on the Rengling Block 40 miles east of the Arctic Red River.

NEW YORK (UPI) — From a technical standpoint, the market's recent strength could well carry a bit further, Goodbody & Co. says. However, unless tangible results come out of current peace talks, the rally is unlikely to develop into a major advance. The firm is convinced that "fiscal and monetary authorities will go as far as they have to in order to cool down the economy," and that investors would do well "to anticipate the brakes taking hold."

"There is perhaps no other quarter of the year that passes more quickly than the first," Harris, Upham observes. The first quarter of 1969, on balance, saw stock prices decline "within a confused atmosphere," with glamour stocks and conglomerate issues among the poorest performers. The prime question now is whether a solid enough base has been established to support a move upward "of major proportion."

Wright Investors' Service notes that although the market recently has recovered somewhat from its decline earlier this year, there has been no "really strong general advance." The analyst finds it difficult to believe that the market can continue to rise in the face of tighter credit, sharply reduced government expenditures and the extra payments which taxpayers will face April 15 instead of refunds.

The stock market now appears to carry an increased element of risk compared with a couple of weeks ago, according to Shearson, Hammill & Co., and "sudden (even temporary) removal of the peace prop" would shift investor attention back to fundamental considerations. From a technical standpoint, however, the market now has a bit of a cushion against the lows of a few weeks ago, the firm says.

Firm Expands

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gabriel Industries, Inc., a toy maker, has agreed to buy the Porter line of science toys, including chemistry, biology and geology sets and telescopes and microscopes, from Lionel Corp.

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI)—Itek Corp. has sold its Modu-Lab color film and color print processes and high-res glass plate process to Cordell Engineering, Inc., of Everett, Mass., for an undisclosed sum.

Final Close-Out of Sol Vista Homes Set

Final closeout of the few remaining atrium homes in the Huntington Beach tract of Sol Vista Homes is now in progress, announced Al Solomon, builder of the three- and four-bedroom luxury homes.

Designed with many extras, these quality-built custom houses are now selling for $32,525. Solomon indicated that FHA, VA and conventional financing is available to meet the needs of buyers.

Floor-to-ceiling living room fireplaces, fully insulated attics, weather-stripped exterior doors and extra large, extra-light kitchens are among the features of Sol Vista homes, located minutes from beaches and freeways.

* * * *

KITCHEN built-ins include counter-top blender-mixers and counter-top charcoal broilers. Wall-to-wall carpeting and lavishly appointed baths complete the total package of home-comfort features.

Sol Vista has capitalized on the public's current interest in bringing Nature within the home's shelter by developing a lush garden atrium in the center of the home.

Exterior attention has not been neglected at Sol Vista, Solomon said. Fully planted front yards, including sprinkler systems, and completely walled-in rear yards add to the property value as well as privacy.

* * * *

"THE BEST proof of their fine construction is the fact that Sol Vista homes have consistently commanded higher re-sale prices than any other homes in this area," Solomon stated.

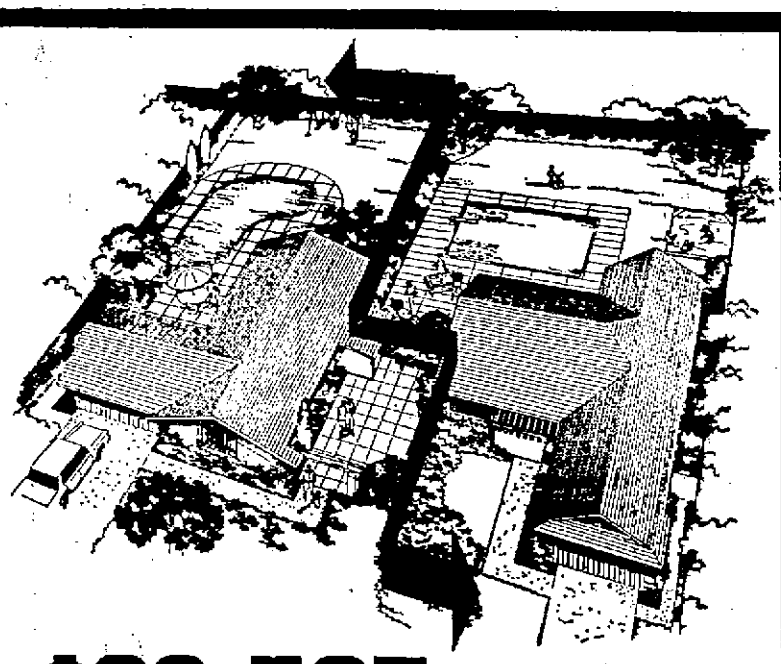

Sol Vista Homes in Huntington Beach are located just two miles south of the San Diego Freeway. To reach the development, take the Beach Blvd. off ramp, go south and follow the signs to the sales office at Slater and Edwards. Sales representatives are on duty from 10 a.m. to dusk daily.

The house with the two-way stretch

Some foundations stretch. The one under a house doesn't, but we figured out a way to give you more room to move around in. First, we stretched the side yards, to give you usable space where you want it, and less yard work where you don't. You can choose a wide, luxurious side-garden entry with an extra-deep back yard . . . or a deep-set front entry with an extra-wide back yard. (What shape do you want to be in?) Then we pre-planned your home so you can re-arrange the space inside, or add more room outside, without an ugly bulge. We'll give you the blueprints when you move in. That way, when your family needs room to grow, you needn't move out to get it. But we didn't stop there. We stretched your buying power, too. If you earn $794 a month, you can qualify; at $870 a month, you can buy the biggest 4-bedroom house we build. If you're a vet, you can move in for $25. If you're not . . . well, you won't find a lower FHA or conventional down payment. Come to 195th and Pioneer, in the bright, new city of Carritos.

DESERT FLOWERS IN BLOOM

Visitors Flooding Borrego Springs

BORREGO SPRINGS — This little San Diego County desert community, modernized with a new shopping center and apartment complex, is bracing itself for an army of visitors expected from now through May to view the thousands of acres of wildflowers just starting to bloom.

Borrego Springs is surrounded by the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park, an immense display of nature's handiwork spread over 478,000 acres and framed by purple-pink mountains, ravines and washes.

The community is the only oasis in this vast desert wonderland, the largest State park in the United States.

* * * *

IT IS ONE of the wildest contrasts ever known, this mixture of wildflower fields, bleak escarpments and wastelands, studded with ocotillo, the fiery-red sentinels of the Anza-Borrego desert, and Borrego Springs, where 1,800 permanent residents are geared to welcome visitors from throughout California with its new $2 million shopping center, $1.5 million Villas Borrego, the apartment complex, and the $3 million Borrego Roadrunner Club, claimed as one of the finest mobile home parks in the world.

To the 1,800 residents, the wildflowers are the product of the recent rains. It rained more in this desert country than many of its oldest residents can remember.

* * * *

THE PEOPLE who live at Borrego Springs are the benefactors of the grandeur of the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park the year around, but park's Rangers say that they anticipate one of the largest crowds to enter the Park this year — 500,000 persons.

The aspect that makes Borrego Springs appeal particularly to San Diego and Orange Counties is not quite the same as that of other desert communities.

At Borrego Springs, it is the desert architecture that blends with the architecture of nature. It isn't a community dizzy with neon tubes, beer bars, pizza places and discount stores.

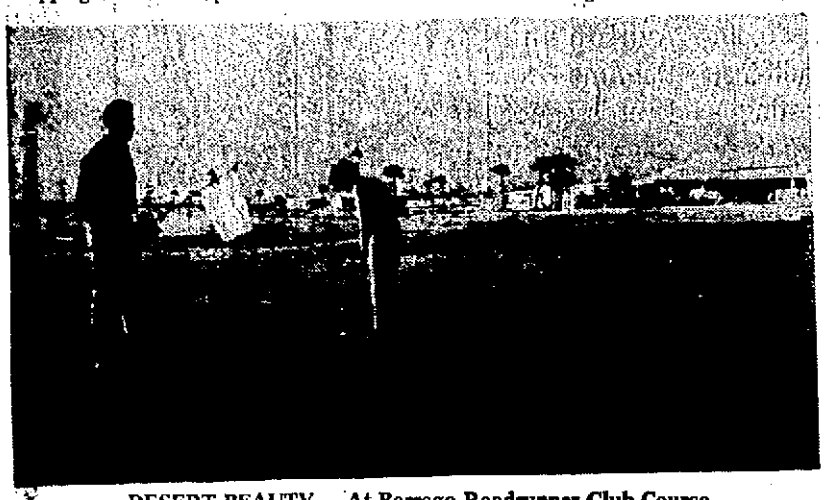

Borrego Springs is composed and meaningful.

Its populace knows that it lives within one of the most beautiful areas of the world, and it prizes this characteristic which other communities have destroyed through polyglot expansion.

* * * *

NOT MANY other desert communities can make the claim that its wildflowers between now and the end of May will draw perhaps 150,000 persons. Realistically, they can't make the claim, for they have obliterated the grounds with asphalt for parking lots and buildings.

Encroachment is the beast of civilization, say the residents of this community. Nobody says it can't happen here, but the walls of the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park and the citizenry of Borrego Springs will demand orderly process, and it is expected that you will see the wildflowers, over 500 varieties of them, thrusting from the dunes or clinging to the wall of a canyon in a myriad of color for centuries to come.

SUNKEN DINING ROOM

Elegance Noted in College Park Homes

Buyers at College Park indicate a strong desire for a return to elegance as a major factor in their choice of the Westminster community, according to Gerry Dirksen, sales and marketing manager for the development and its builders, S & S Construction Co.

"One of the features which homebuyers find particularly exciting is the unique sunken dining room with custom cut crystal chandelier which one of the models incorporates," Dirksen said.

S & S is a strong leader in the housing field and puts emphasis on providing homes which suit the modern family's need as perfectly as possible.

* * * *

"WE foresaw the trend to more elegance and designed our homes to offer an opportunity for gracious entertaining while still providing huge family rooms for more relaxed family activities," Dirksen continued.

"At College Park the homebuyer doesn't have to choose between luxury and casual comfort for the family, they're both incorporated in every one of the houses," Dirksen concluded.

Increased leisure time and affluence have made the contemporary family more exacting in demands for versatility when choosing a home.

* * * *

S & S maintains its own staff of AIA architects to insure trend-setting design and maximum livability.

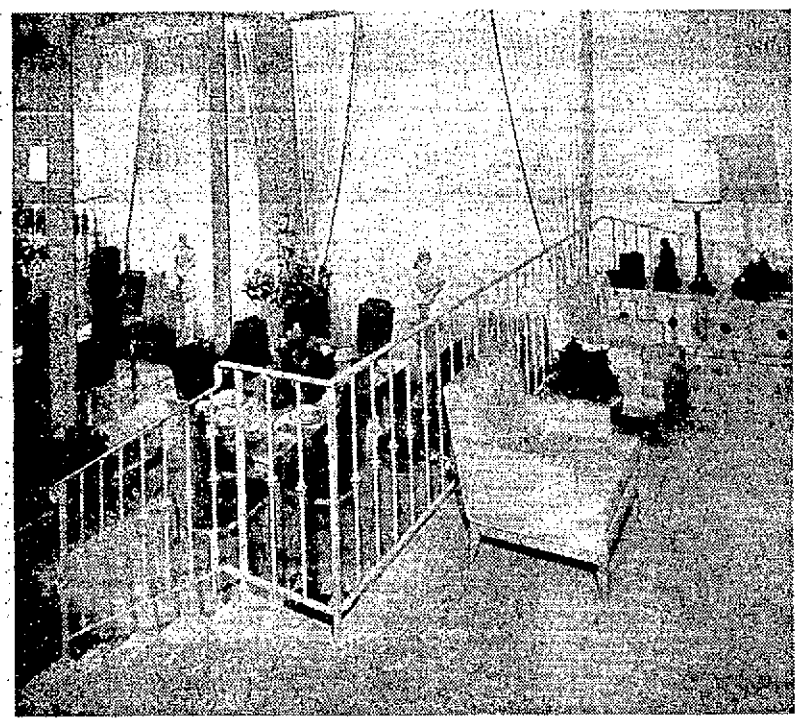

One of the top-quality features at College Park is lath and plaster wall construction, a rare item in homebuilding today.

Also among the standard features at College Park are imported marble entries, cut-crystal chandeliers, luxurious wall to wall carpeting throughout, and fully built-in all-electric kitchens with luminous ceilings and generous use of ceramic tile.

* * * *

THE HOMES, priced from $31,590.00, offer VA, FHA, and conventional financing.

To visit College Park furnished models, take the San Diego or San Gabriel freeway (605) to Garden Grove Freeway; exit at Valley View Street and go north on Valley View to model home area, turning left at Cerulean.

"This management restructuring enables us to carry out a program of expanding our physical facilities, and area of service while insuring the continuity of providing personal service to the greater Long Beach community," Ray Stricklin said.

* * * *

IMPROVEMENT plans already completed include remodeling many of the mortuary's facilities, including major improvements in the chapel.

New concepts in design promise to make this one of the most modern facilities on Southern California. New Ferro-Cement Hulls Could Be Boon to Boating

A new process imported from England and called Seacrete, now provides for the franchise construction of one of the world's safest houseboats, Frank H. Davis, president of Marinecrete Pacific, a licensee of the English-based firm, reported last week.

Davis says Seacrete hull construction is the only ferro-cement process rated by Lloyd's Register of Shipping at 100A1, the highest in the world.

"The popularity of houseboating in the United States continues to rise out of proportion to the production of fiberglass and steel houseboat manufacturers," said Davis, with offices in Los Angeles.

* * * *

A SEACRETE hull is stronger and approximately 5 per cent lighter than either wood or steel. It requires less labor time than normal boat construction and the materials are one-tenth the cost of wood or steel.

"The Seacrete process will put many businessmen and boating enthusiasts in the boatbuilding business since we will help them build and sell, a reason why we are franchising the Mariner-45 houseboat."

He said the Mariner-45, which will sell from $28,000, has 352 square feet of living space. It is the most completely equipped houseboat on the market today.

* * * *

"WE AREN'T particularly looking for conventional boatbuilders to handle the construction of the Mariner-45," said Davis. "Rather, we are looking for businessmen whom we can train and assist in the construction and sale of the houseboats."

Davis said the Seacrete hull becomes stronger the longer it is in the water, and it is impervious to electrolysis, fire and rot.

As one of the safest hulls constructed, Davis reports a Seacrete craft, rammed amidship at 7½ knots by a 3½-ton sloop, was undamaged, but the sloop sank.

* * * *

DAVIS said Seacrete materials and application are exclusive. It is not the much publicized "chicken-wire" technique which many ferro-cement boatbuilders are using today.

The Mariner-45, with inboard V-drive, can have several power plants, either diesel or gasoline, he related.

A franchisee, he said, who builds and sells 12 of the Mariner-45s a year may enjoy a gross profit of $90,000.

* * * *

"SEACRETE is a secret," said Davis. "It is the pivot for an immense franchising program. The Seacrete process is 10 years old and the English firm has built more than 200 commercial and pleasure boats. Aside from the Lloyd's 100A1 rating, it is also recognized officially by the U. K. White Fish Authority."

Davis said his firm recently acquired a plant in the San Pedro Wilmington area, where the first Mariner-45 prototype is under construction. He anticipates launching this craft by mid-May.

Fouad Unit Completed by Tri-Cor

Tri-Cor, Inc., of Long Beach, has completed a $20,000 warehouse facility for Fouad Said Productions at 8600 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles.

The building, measuring 60 feet wide by 100 feet long with an eave height of 16 feet, will be used for the storage of props and sound equipment.

Fouad Said Productions specializes in the rental of movie production equipment.

Tri-Cor is a franchised builder of Pascoe Steel Corp., a nationwide firm in the metal building industry.

PORTS O'PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Figures released by the Long Beach Harbor Department reflect some genuine progress during February.

For the first time in the history of the port the volume of cargo passing through the port during a single month exceeded two million tons.

The last high month was in October 1968 when 1,767,805 tons of cargo moved through the busy port.

February's tonnage figure was 2,124,304 tons.

During the first eight months of the current fiscal year the port has handled 13,771,318 tons of cargo—up 3,764,169 tons compared with the same period a year ago.

The percentage of increase is a respectful 26.9 per cent.

THE LOS ANGELES Board of Harbor Commissioners has agreed to allocate $25,000 to the Junior Chamber of Commerce to help the Jaycees stage a German-American Volksfest in Berlin from July 25 to August 10.

The harbor department's allocation was contingent upon the Board of Airport Commissioners contributing a like amount.

The "folks festival" has been staged by the U. S. Army for the past eight years.

Although the City of Philadelphia sought to be declared the theme city, Los Angeles was the Army's choice.

THE THUMS NAVY FLEET of high-powered crew boats speeds workers to and from the four offshore oil islands, docks at a facility in front of the Reef Restaurant on Pier J.

The arrival and departure of the boats provides an interesting bit of action for the restaurant's visitors — many of them out-of-towners.

The superstructure on the boats are painted a gleaming white. But their hulls are the color of liquid rust.

A recent patron eyeing the boats, turned to this writer and apparently thinking me to be an authority on the subject asked:

"Why is it that while the city of Long Beach has gone to such great lengths and spent so much money to beautify the offshore oil islands, they can't afford to paint those rusty boats?"

The fact is the boats are painted.

They just look rusty!

Coin-Op Laundry Industry Healthy

Although the boom years of the coin-operated laundry industry are over, the industry is healthy and its future outlook favorable.

That's the word from Bank of America in the latest issue of its periodical, The Small Business Reporter.

The growth of coin-op laundries over the next few years will match the growth of the over-all economy, the report predicts.

However, this growth will not be as great as other segments of the service industry, because coin-op laundries "have not been able to benefit substantially from our increased affluence as have other services."

* * * *

THE REPORT notes that location is a prime factor in determining the success of a coin-op laundry. Since profits are built on volume, the store should be located in a densely populated area.

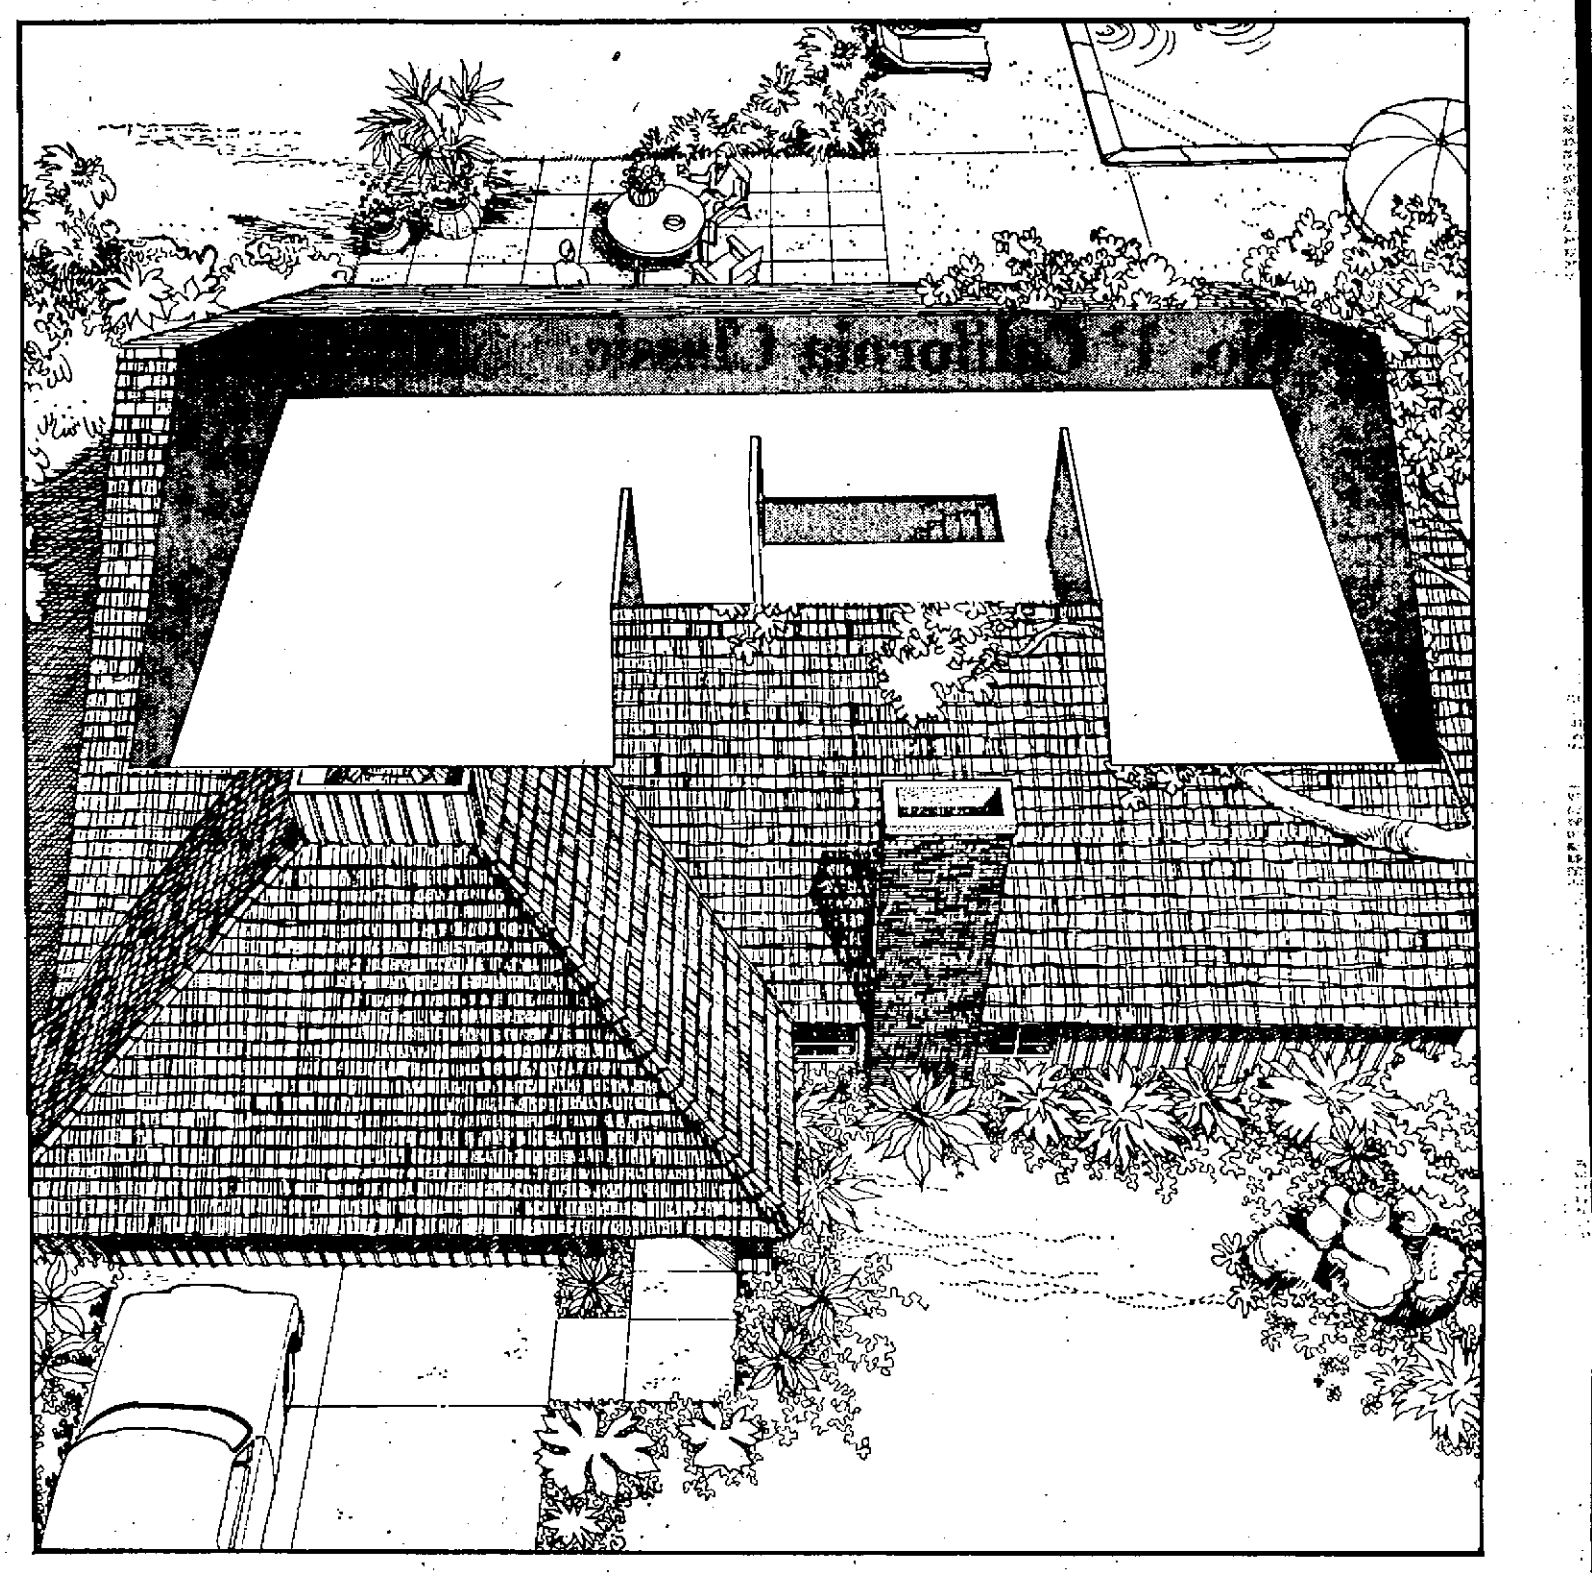

There are now 36,000 coin-op laundries in America and they are better managed than they were a few years ago because most owners now consider the laundry as more of a business than an investment.

The report contains the investment requirements and the monthly profit and loss statement for a hypothetical laundry. It also covers legal requirements, financing, promotion and other aspects of operating a store.

Copies of the report are available through any Bank of America branch.

DESIGNED WITH EXTRAS

Final Close-Out of Sol Vista Homes Set

Final closeout of the few remaining atrium homes in the Huntington Beach tract of Sol Vista Homes is now in progress, announced Al Solomon, builder of the three- and four-bedroom luxury homes.

Designed with many extras, these quality-built custom houses are now selling for $32,525. Solomon indicated that FHA, VA and conventional financing is available to meet the needs of buyers.

Floor-to-ceiling living room fireplaces, fully insulated attics, weather-stripped exterior doors and extra large, extra-light kitchens are among the features of Sol Vista homes, located minutes from beaches and freeways.

* * * *

KITCHEN built-ins include counter-top blender-mixers and counter-top charcoal broilers. Wall-to-wall carpeting and lavishly appointed baths complete the total package of home-comfort features.

Sol Vista has capitalized on the public's current interest in bringing Nature within the home's shelter by developing a lush garden atrium in the center of the home.

Exterior attention has not been neglected at Sol Vista, Solomon said. Fully planted front yards, including sprinkler systems, and completely walled-in rear yards add to the property value as well as privacy.

* * * *

"THE BEST proof of their fine construction is the fact that Sol Vista homes have consistently commanded higher re-sale prices than any other homes in this area," Solomon stated.

Sol Vista Homes in Huntington Beach are located just two miles south of the San Diego Freeway. To reach the development, take the Beach Blvd. off ramp, go south and follow the signs to the sales office at Slater and Edwards. Sales representatives are on duty from 10 a.m. to dusk daily.

$23,495 The house with the two-way stretch

Some foundations stretch. The one under a house doesn't, but we figured out a way to give you more room to move around in. First, we stretched the side yards, to give you usable space where you want it, and less yard work where you don't. You can choose a wide, luxurious side-garden entry with an extra-deep back yard . . . or a deep-set front entry with an extra-wide back yard. (What shape do you want to be in?) Then we pre-planned your home so you can re-arrange the space inside, or add more room outside, without an ugly bulge. We'll give you the blueprints when you move in. That way, when your family needs room to grow, you needn't move out to get it. But we didn't stop there. We stretched your buying power, too. If you earn $794 a month, you can qualify; at $870 a month, you can buy the biggest 4-bedroom house we build. If you're a vet, you can move in for $25. If you're not . . . well, you won't find a lower FHA or conventional down payment. Come to 195th and Pioneer, in the bright, new city of Cerritos.

CALIFORNIA CLASSICS . . . Best-Selling In State

'No. 1' California Classic Homes in Three Plans

Although Builder William Lyon's statewide California Classics home series has achieved the rank of best-selling in the state (over three sales per day at five locations have been averaged for the past 18 months, representing approximately $32 million in gross sales) he is not resting on the laurels.

This weekend he introduces a new addition to the three floor plans now being offered at his California Classics, Huntington Beach series on Springdale, just south of Warner.

To celebrate the new five bedroom home and the series' sales success, the builder is giving a party and serving a huge three-tiered cake, punch, coffee, souvenir balloons and "No. One" buttons to all visitors.

* * * *

WHEN the builder and his staff conceived the idea for the lower-cost home, they were designing for a specific buyer in mind — the young, first-time family which had not yet achieved its maximum earning power.

To compete with glamour type apartment units in which most of these young families would be living, Lyon knew he would have to incorporate some of the flashier architectural features borrowed from the more expensive homes he builds throughout the state.

He achieved this aim and was awarded "House & Home" magazine's "Award of Merit" for outstanding residential design and construction.

* * * *

PERHAPS the most outstanding feature of the homes are their garden-type "Terrace Kitchens."

The conventional solid walls and small window over kitchen sink and counter have been replaced with sliding walls of glass set in gold anodized aluminum. They open to an outside service bar for patio party serving.

Another architectural feature borrowed from more expensive homes is a private bath in all master suites (except one floor plan and it features a separate private entrance from the master beroom into an adjoining bath).

* * * *

THE younger buyer usually has less cash available for all the extras which make a house a "home," so Lyon has incorporated into the purchase price (starting at $22,990 in Huntington Beach), an electric range, double ovens, disposal, dishwasher, wall-to-wall carpeting, custom draperies, fireplace, front yard landscaping, and rear lotline fencing.

The four floor plans start with a two-bedroom, one-bath floor plan and go up to a five-bedroom, two-story version at the Huntington Series.

Penney's March Sales in Climb

J. C. Penney Company, Inc., registered a 13.1 per cent sales gain in March.

Chairman William M. Batten and President C. L. Wright reported the department store chain's volume for the four weeks ended March 29 climbed to $235,686,909 from $208,431,294 for the same 1968 period. The increase amounted to $27,255,615. Both reporting periods had 24 shopping days.

The record March performance enabled the company to achieve six full years of consecutive monthly sales gains.

* * * *

AS EXPECTED, this year's early Easter moved sales forward into March, although unfavorable weather in some areas slowed down the tempo of business. Women's accessories and family shoes were particularly productive.

Children's apparel with easy-care features was well-received by Easter shoppers, and there was interest in sportswear introduced for the new season.

Full-line stores, with their broad assortments of both hard and soft lines of merchandise, fared better in the early weeks of the March period since they are less dependent on apparel sales.

* * * *

SALES for the first two months of the fiscal year which began on Jan 26 amounted to a record $466,415,647 against $408,995,845 last year. Increase for the 9 weeks was $57,419,806 or 14.0 per cent.

Growing 50% in one year presents a slight problem.

The problem of growing 50% the next year. But for us, that problem hasn't been one. We grew 50% in 1968. And that was right on top of a 50% net gain the year before.

Not bad for most companies. But being part of the successful Transamerica Corporation, growth is part of our plan. Growth makes us work harder and more professionally. Growth helps us attract better people and give better service.

It's a vicious circle. Success breeding success. But being a kid from a competitive family, we're not about to stop.

DESERT FLOWERS IN BLOOM

Visitors Flooding Borrego Springs

BORREGO SPRINGS — This little San Diego County desert community, modernized with a new shopping center and apartment complex, is bracing itself for an army of visitors expected from now through May to view the thousands of acres of wildflowers just starting to bloom.

Borrego Springs is surrounded by the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park, an immense display of nature's handiwork spread over 478,000 acres and framed by purple-pink mountains, ravines and washes.

The community is the only oasis in this vast desert wonderland, the largest State park in the United States.

* * * *

IT IS ONE of the wildest contrasts ever known, this mixture of wildflower fields, bleak escarpments and wastelands, studded with ocotillo, the fiery-red sentinels of the Anza-Borrego desert, and Borrego Springs, where 1,800 permanent residents are geared to welcome visitors from throughout California with its new $2 million shopping center, $1.5 million Villas Borrego, the apartment complex, and the $3 million Borrego Roadrunner Club, claimed as one of the finest mobile home parks in the world.

To the 1,800 residents, the wildflowers are the product of the recent rains. It rained more in this desert country than many of its oldest residents can remember.

* * * *

THE PEOPLE who live at Borrego Springs are the benefactors of the grandeur of the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park the year around, but park's Rangers say that they anticipate one of the largest crowds to enter the Park this year — 500,000 persons.

The aspect that makes Borrego Springs appeal particularly to San Diego and Orange Counties is not quite the same as that of other desert communities.

At Borrego Springs, it is the desert architecture that blends with the architecture of nature. It isn't a community dizzy with neon tubes, beer bars, pizza places and discount stores.

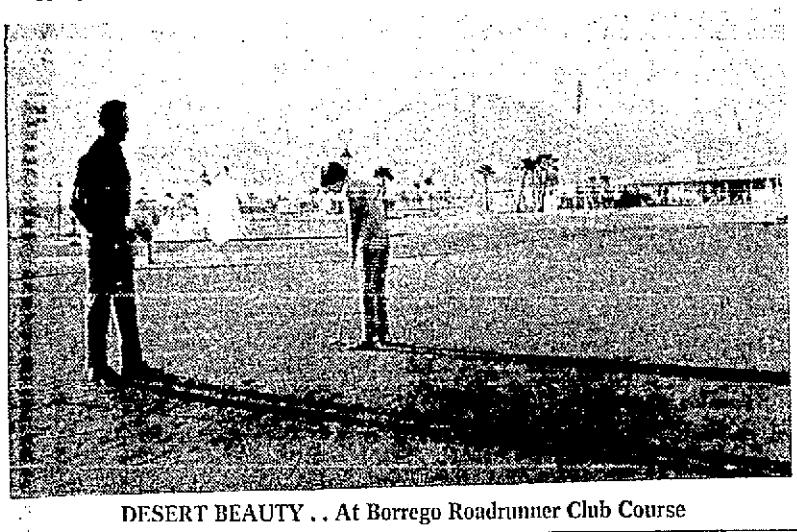

Borrego Springs is composed and meaningful.

Its populace knows that it lives within one of the most beautiful areas of the world, and it prizes this characteristic which other communities have destroyed through polyglot expansion.

* * * *

NOT MANY other desert communities can make the claim that its wildflowers between now and the end of May will draw perhaps 150,000 persons. Realistically, they can't make the claim, for they have obliterated the grounds with asphalt for parking lots and buildings.

Encroachment is the beast of civilization, say the residents of this community. Nobody says it can't happen here, but the walls of the Anza-Borrego Desert State Park and the citizenry of Borrego Springs will demand orderly process, and it is expected that you will see the wildflowers, over 500 varieties of them, thrusting from the dunes or clinging to the wall of a canyon in a myriad of color for centuries to come.

Dimension-70 Visitors Given Tax Guide Book

Prospective homebuyers visiting the popular new home community of Dimension/70 in Cerritos this weekend will receive a complimentary copy of the 280-page income tax guide "Your Income Tax," according to Clyde Wixom, sales manager for the Robert H. Grant and Company development.

"More than 13 million copies of the book have been sold since the book was first issued by Simon and Schuster in 1937," said Wixom, "and we have a large supply to present as gifts to families that visit our new 200-home community."

Frequently called "the homes with the two-way stretch," Dimension /70 homes have sold at the rate of one-per-day since the sales office at 195th and Pioneer opened early this year.

* * * *

THE TWO-WAY stretch description actually refers to an exchange of property between adjoining property owners, called an "easement swap," that permits utilization of at least 50 per cent of the space normally wasted on straight property lines.

Another custom design feature of the moderately priced $21,995 to $24,995 homes is expandability.

Each home includes an approved set of plans for later expansion to permit the home to grow right along with the family.

* * * *

OTHER features of the two, three and four bedroom homes include completely fenced yards, vaulted living room ceilings, concrete driveways, interior service porches, outside barbecue outlets, wood paneled walls and heavy ceiling insulation.

A model home complex that displays these features plus the unusual "easement swap" land plan is now open at the site.

Freeway access to Dimension/70 is via Freeway 605 to Del Amo Boulevard, then east to Pioneer Boulevard and one block north to 195th Street.

Industrial Parks Revealed

Construction of two Southern California industrial parks was announced last week by Dunn Industrial Properties Corporation.

Vernon Monroe, vice president of sales for the Santa Ana-based development company, said one of the developments will be in Santa Fe Springs; the other, in Cerritos.

The Santa Fe Springs project is a continuation of Dunn Properties' existing industrial park development at the intersection of Carmenita and Alondra. Sixteen buildings will comprise the project, ranging in size from 10,000 to 35,000 square feet. The area is served by rail, and dock-high buildings will be included.

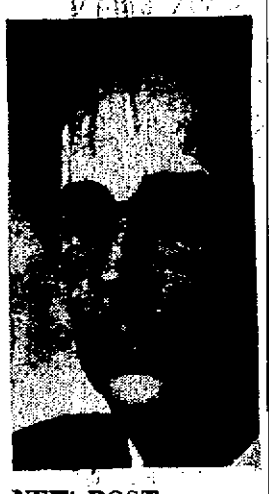

* * * *

THE CERRITOS development is located on 17 acres at the corner of Norwalk and Artesia. Seventeen buildings will be constructed from 10,000 to 35,000 square feet in size.

Monroe said all the buildings will be available for sale or lease with occupancy slated for mid-June of this year.

New Ferro-Cement Hulls Could Be Boon to Boating

A new process imported from England and called Seacrete now provides for the franchise construction of one of the world's safest houseboats, Frank H. Davis, president of Marinecrete Pacific a licensee of the English-based firm, reported last week.

Davis says Seacrete hull construction is the only ferro-cement process rated by Lloyd's Register of Shipping at 100A1, the highest in the world.

"The popularity of houseboating in the United States continues to rise out of proportion to the production of fiberglass and steel houseboat manufacturers," said Davis, with offices in Los Angeles.

* * * *

A SEACRETE hull is stronger and approximately 5 per cent lighter than either wood or steel. It requires less labor time than normal boat construction and the materials are one-tenth the cost of wood or steel.

"The Seacrete process will put many businessmen and boating enthusiasts in the boatbuilding business since we will help them build and sell, a reason why we are franchising the Mariner-45 houseboat."

He said the Mariner-45, which will sell from $28,000, has 352 square feet of living space. It is the most completely equipped houseboat on the market today.

* * * *

"WE AREN'T particularly looking for conventional boatbuilders to handle the construction of the Mariner-45," said Davis. "Rather, we are looking for businessmen whom we can train and assist in the construction and sale of the houseboats."

Davis said the Seacrete hull becomes stronger the longer it is in the water, and it is impervious to electrolysis, fire and rot.

As one of the safest hulls constructed, Davis reports a Seacrete craft, rammed amidship at 7½ knots by a 3½-ton sloop, was undamaged, but the sloop sank.

* * * *

DAVIS said Seacrete materials and application are exclusive. It is not the much publicized "chicken-wire" technique which many ferro-cement boatbuilders are using today.

The Mariner-45, with inboard V-drive, can have several power plants, either diesel or gasoline, he related.

A franchisee, he said, who builds and sells 12 of the Mariner-45s a year may enjoy a gross profit of $90,000.

* * * *

"SEACRETE is a secret," said Davis. "It is the pivot for an immense franchising program. The Seacrete process is 10 years old and the English firm has built more than 200 commercial and pleasure boats. Aside from the Lloyd's 100A1 rating, it is also recognized officially by the U. K. White Fish Authority."

Davis said his firm recently acquired a plant in the San Pedro Wilmington area, where the first Mariner-45 prototype is under construction. He anticipates launching this craft by mid-May.

Fouad Unit Completed by Tri-Cor

Tri-Cor, Inc., of Long Beach, has completed a $20,000 warehouse facility for Fouad Said Productions at 8600 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles.

The building, measuring 60 feet wide by 100 feet long with an eave height of 16 feet, will be used for the storage of props and sound equipment.

Fouad Said Productions specializes in the rental of movie production equipment.

Tri-Cor is a franchised builder of Pascoe Steel Corp., a nationwide firm in the metal building industry.

PORTS O'PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Figures released by the Long Beach Harbor Department reflect some genuine progress during February.

For the first time in the history of the port the volume of cargo passing through the port during a single month exceeded two million tons.

The last high month was in October 1968 when 1,767,805 tons of cargo moved through the busy port.

February's tonnage figure was 2,124,304 tons.

During the first eight months of the current fiscal year the port has handled 13,771,318 tons of cargo—up 3,764,169 tons compared with the same period a year ago.

The percentage of increase is a respectful 26.9 per cent.

THE LOS ANGELES Board of Harbor Commissioners has agreed to allocate $25,000 to the Junior Chamber of Commerce to help the Jaycees stage a German-American Volksfest in Berlin from July 25 to August 10.

The harbor department's allocation was contingent upon the Board of Airport Commissioners contributing a like amount.

The "folks festival" has been staged by the U. S. Army for the past eight years.

Although the City of Philadelphia sought to be declared the theme city, Los Angeles was the Army's choice.

THE THUMS NAVY FLEET of high-powered crew boats speeds workers to and from the four offshore oil islands, docks at a facility in front of the Reef Restaurant on Pier J.

The arrival and departure of the boats provides an interesting bit of action for the restaurant's visitors — many of them out-of-towners.

The superstructure on the boats are painted a gleaming white. But their hulls are the color of liquid rust.

A recent patron eyeing the boats, turned to this writer and apparently thinking me to be an authority on the subject asked:

"Why is it that while the city of Long Beach has gone to such great lengths and spent so much money to beautify the offshore oil islands, they can't afford to paint those rusty boats?"

The fact is the boats are painted.

They just look rusty!

Coin-Op Laundry Industry Healthy

Although the boom years of the coin-operated laundry industry are over, the industry is healthy and its future outlook favorable.

That's the word from Bank of America in the latest issue of its periodical, The Small Business Reporter.

The growth of coin-op laundries over the next few years will match the growth of the over-all economy, the report predicts.

However, this growth will not be as great as other segments of the service industry, because coin-op laundries "have not been able to benefit substantially from our increased affluence as have other services."

* * * *

THE REPORT notes that location is a prime factor in determining the success of a coin-op laundry. Since profits are built on volume, the store should be located in a densely populated area.

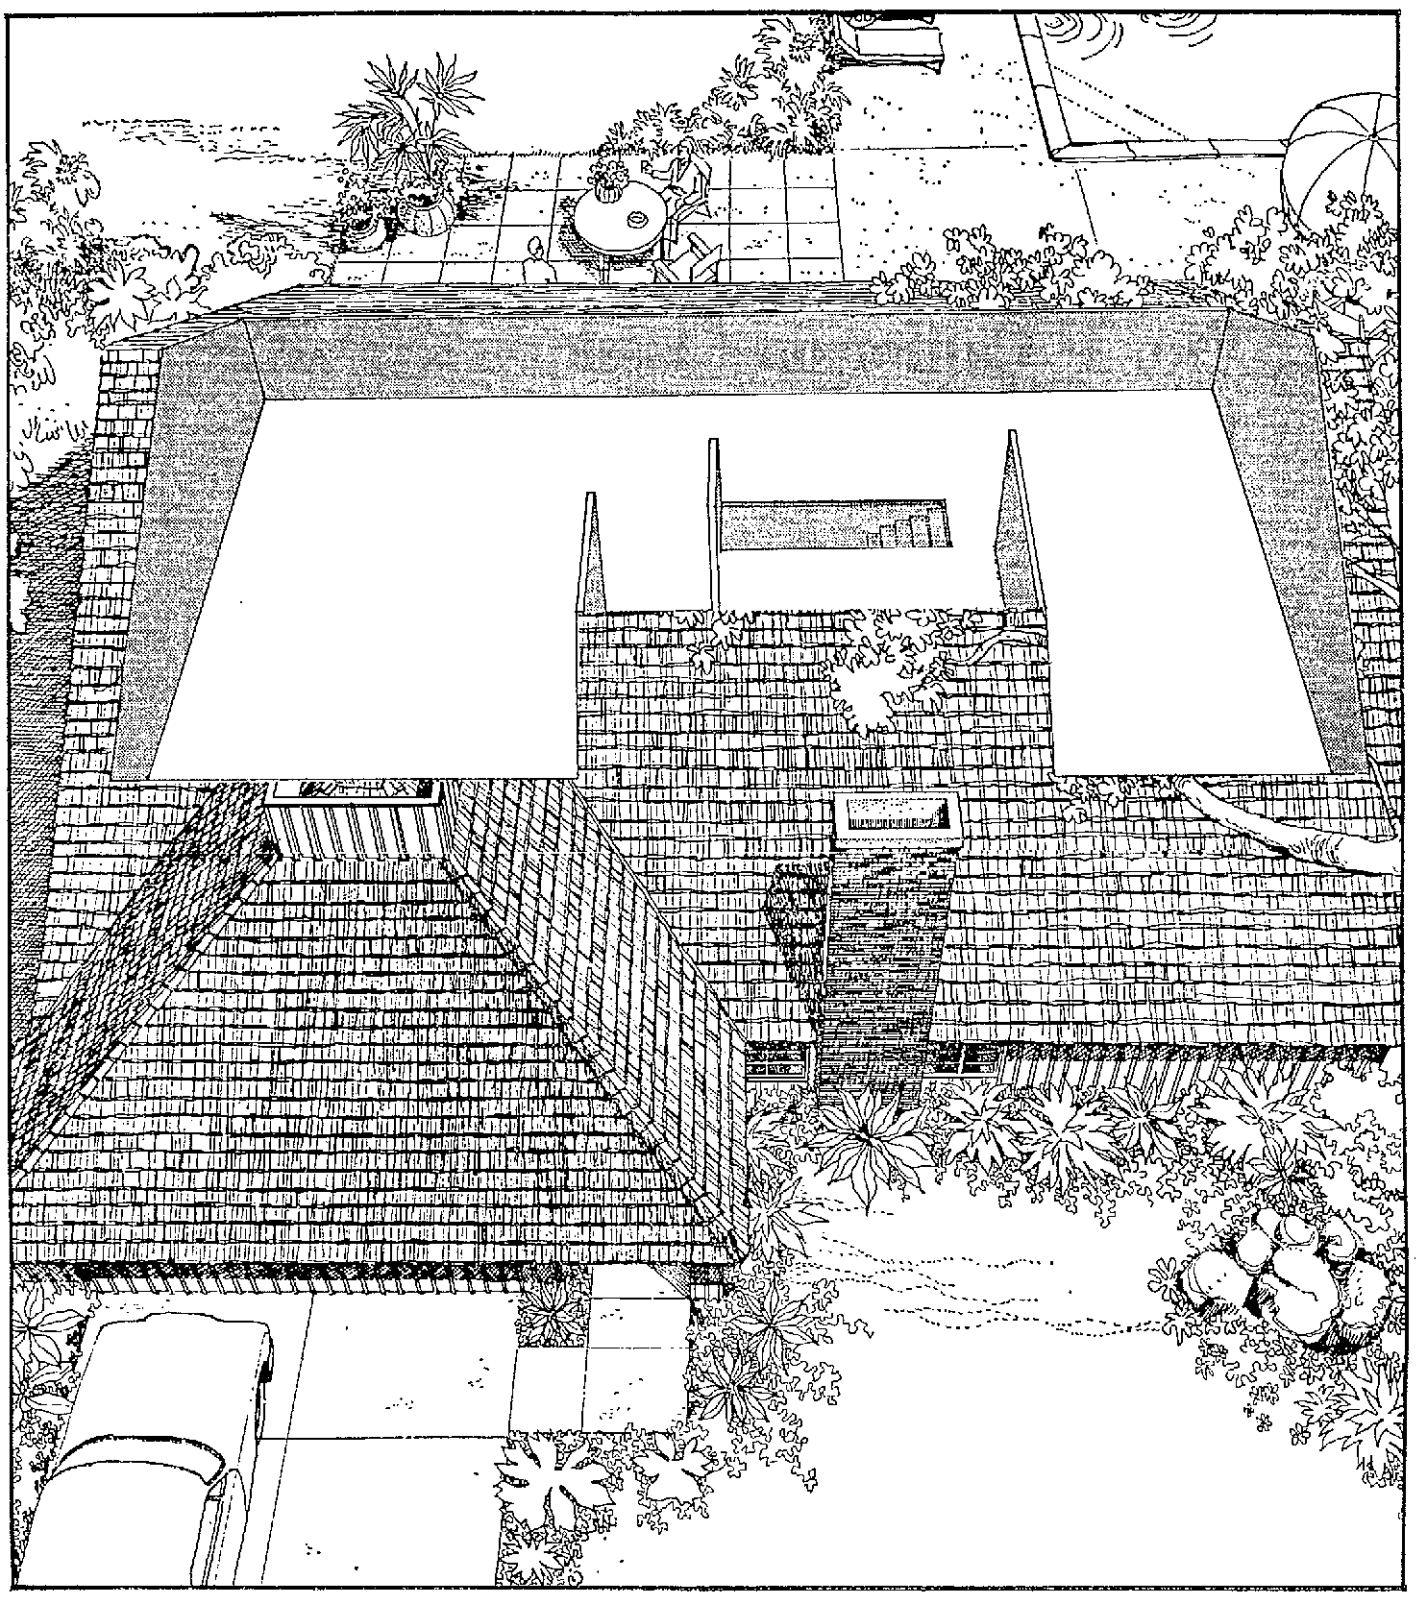

There are now 36,000 coin-op laundries in America and they are better managed than they were a few years ago because most owners now consider the laundry as more of a business than an investment.

The report contains the investment requirements and the monthly profit and loss statement for a hypothetical laundry. It also covers legal requirements, financing, promotion and other aspects of operating a store.

Copies of the report are available through any Bank of America branch.

CALIFORNIA CLASSICS . . . Best-Selling In State

'No. 1' California Classic Homes in Three Plans

Although Builder William Lyon's statewide California Classics home series has achieved the rank of best-selling in the state (over three sales per day at five locations have been averaged for the past 18 months, representing approximately $32 million in gross sales) he is not resting on the laurels.

This weekend he introduces a new addition to the three floor plans now being offered at his California Classics, Huntington Beach series on Springdale, just south of Warner.

To celebrate the new five bedroom home and the series' sales success, the builder is giving a party and serving a huge three-tiered cake, punch, coffee, souvenir balloons and "No. One" buttons to all visitors.

* * * *

WHEN the builder and his staff conceived the idea for the lower-cost home, they were designing for a specific buyer in mind — the young, first-time family which had not yet achieved its maximum earning power.

To compete with glamour type apartment units in which most of these young families would be living, Lyon knew he would have to incorporate some of the flashier architectural features borrowed from the more expensive homes he builds throughout the state.

He achieved this aim and was awarded "House & Home" magazine's "Award of Merit" for outstanding residential design and construction.

* * * *

PERHAPS the most outstanding feature of the homes are their garden-type "Terrace Kitchens."

The conventional solid walls and small window over kitchen sink and counter have been replaced with sliding walls of glass set in gold anodized aluminum. They open to an outside service bar for patio party serving.

Another architectural feature borrowed from more expensive homes is a private bath in all master suites (except one floor plan and it features a separate private entrance from the master beroom into an adjoining bath).

* * * *

THE younger buyer usually has less cash available for all the extras which make a house a "home," so Lyon has incorporated into the purchase price (starting at $22,990 in Huntington Beach), an electric range, double ovens, disposal, dishwasher, wall-to-wall carpeting, custom draperies, fireplace, front yard landscaping, and rear lotline fencing.

The four floor plans start with a two-bedroom, one-bath floor plan and go up to a five-bedroom, two-story version at the Huntington Series.

All the exteriors feature liberal use of attractive textured woods and stucco.

Lyon's company, the real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc. of New York City, has three choices of financing available at all Classics communities: no down payment to veterans, FHA or conventional.

Penney's March Sales in Climb

J. C. Penney Company, Inc., registered a 13.1 per cent sales gain in March.

Chairman William M. Batten and President C. L. Wright reported the department store chain's volume for the four weeks ended March 29 climbed to $235,686,909 from $208,431,294 for the same 1968 period. The increase amounted to $27,255,615. Both reporting periods had 24 shopping days.

The record March performance enabled the company to achieve six full years of consecutive monthly sales gains.

* * * *

AS EXPECTED, this year's early Easter moved sales forward into March, although unfavorable weather in some areas slowed down the tempo of business. Women's accessories and family shoes were particularly productive.

Children's apparel with easy-care features was well-received by Easter shoppers, and there was interest in sportswear introduced for the new season.

Full-line stores, with their broad assortments of both hard and soft lines of merchandise, fared better in the early weeks of the March period since they are less dependent on apparel sales.

* * * *

SALES for the first two months of the fiscal year which began on Jan 26 amounted to a record $466,415,647 against $408,995,845 last year. Increase for the 9 weeks was $57,419,806 or 14.0 per cent.

Penney's had 1,661 stores in operation at the end of the March period, the same total as at the end of February. There were 1,668 stores a year ago.

Growing 50% in one year presents a slight problem.

The problem of growing 50% the next year. But for us, that problem hasn't been one. We grew 50% in 1968. And that was right on top of a 50% net gain the year before.

Not bad for most companies. But being part of the successful Transamerica Corporation, growth is part of our plan. Growth makes us work harder and more professionally. Growth helps us attract better people and give better service.

It's a vicious circle. Success breeding success. But being a kid from a competitive family, we're not about to stop.

Dance -- an art alive

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

That dancing is a lively art will be demonstrated Friday, Saturday and next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. when Long Beach City College presents its annual "Theater of Motion."

From abstract to elaborately staged theater pieces, the numbers are titled "Meander Into 5," "Creation: Prologue," "Gathering," "Don't Leave Your Paintings in a Warm Room," "Wim and Lesley" and "Will You Ever Remember Me?"

Dancers and staff this week will polish the production in intensive rehearsals under the attentive eyes of Mrs. Dawn Steadman Sare and Dan Peterson, dance instructors. Judith Lynn Aston, founder of the dance theater at LBCC, has an advisory role this year.

In addition to works choreographed by Mrs. Sare and Peterson, dances by student choreographers Margaret Cobbs, Pam Halsey, Marcia Morrison, Wanda Roetzel, Doyle Dietrich, Lesley Johnson, Wim Griffith, Vicki Sasseen and Judith Stearns are on the program.

Miss Stearns also composed the music and wrote the poem for the number titled "The Sum of Ergo Cogito."

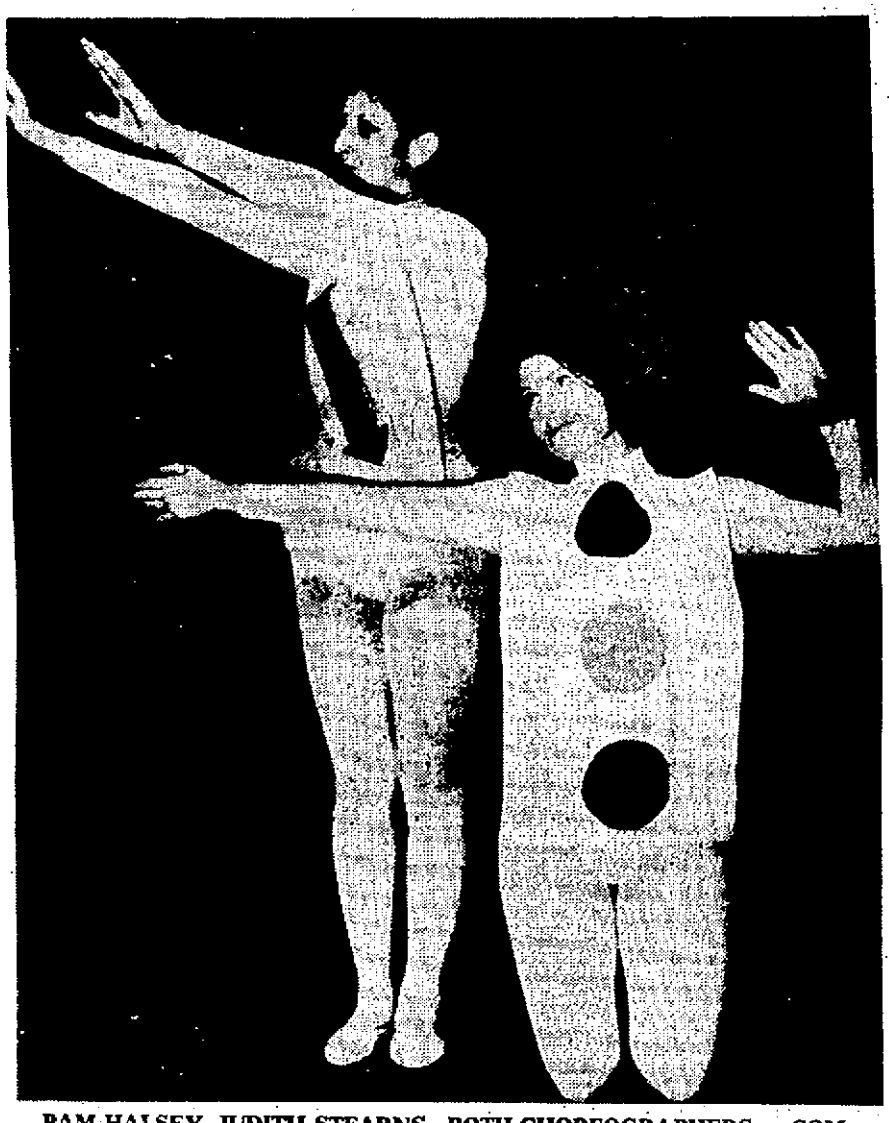

General admission and student tickets for the performances in LBCC Auditorium will be on sale this week at the college banker's office, 4901 E. Carson St. They also will be available at the box office prior to each performance.

'WHAT'S SO GREAT ABOUT YOUTH?'

Fifi D'Orsay laughs at age

"If you have men in your life . . .

and life in your men . . .

life can be beautiful."

KENT HENDERSON

"When I was young, I wanted to set the world on fire, now I'd be content to give it a hot foot."

So said Fifi D'Orsay, the saucy French bombshell who made the silver screen sizzle in the early 1930s.

"It seems like only yesterday that I was the cute little French girl in the 1930 film, 'They Had to See Paris,' but tomorrow I pick up my Medi-Cal card."

Calling herself a sexpot turned sexagenarian, the irrepressible comedienne laughed.

"In those days, I was always ready, willing and able. Now I'm not even willing."

Senior citizen rating or not — Miss D'Orsay appeared in form finer than most women half her age during a speaking engagement at Institute of Lifetime Learning, 215 Long Beach Blvd.

"When I was young, I was obsessed with the fear that someday I would be old. Well, that's one worry I no longer have — it's finally happened.

"AS THE PROTEGEE of Will Rogers, I tried to learn from his philosophy and follow his example. He said he'd never met a man he didn't like . . . for years I felt the same way.

"When he learned how frightened I was of aging, Will Rogers told me: 'Froggie, getting older doesn't mean getting old. Don't hide your years — use them.'"

Continuing her lighthearted banter, she stepped into an audience of contemporaries obviously caught up by her charm and their own memories of Fifi D'Orsay's heyday.

The twice-married actress said in 1958 she resolved to attend church once a day for a year, go back to school and stop the late hours and drinking which go hand-in-hand with nightclub entertaining.

"ATTENDING MASS each day became a habit I've never broken," she said.

"But soon, I had few sins to confess, so I asked the priests if they'd like me to go back a few decades and give them something good to listen to.

"I think everyone should have a book of inspirational sayings to guide them through the adversities we confront each day. The book I can't live without is 'My Daily Bread' by the Jesuit Anthony Paoni.

"I read favorite passages before I go to sleep — these days what I go to bed with is that little book.

"I may live on a diet free of men, but it doesn't stop me from reading the menu. Youth and all its temptations can really do a woman in.

"I wouldn't trade my tranquility and peace of mind for all the glamor, men and money I enjoyed in my youth. I take care of the gifts God gave me and I thank Him for what he's left me."

Dimension-70 Visitors Given Tax Guide Book

Prospective homebuyers visiting the popular new home community of Dimension/70 in Cerritos this weekend will receive a complimentary copy of the 280-page income tax guide "Your Income Tax," according to Clyde Wixom, sales manager for the Robert H. Grant and Company development.

"More than 13 million copies of the book have been sold since the book was first issued by Simon and Schuster in 1937," said Wixom, "and we have a large supply to present as gifts to families that visit our new 200-home community."

Frequently called "the homes with the two-way stretch," Dimension /70 homes have sold at the rate of one-per-day since the sales office at 195th and Pioneer opened early this year.

* * * *

THE TWO-WAY stretch description actually refers to an exchange of property between adjoining property owners, called an "easement swap," that permits utilization of at least 50 per cent of the space normally wasted on straight property lines.

Another custom design feature of the moderately priced $21,995 to $24,995 homes is expandability.

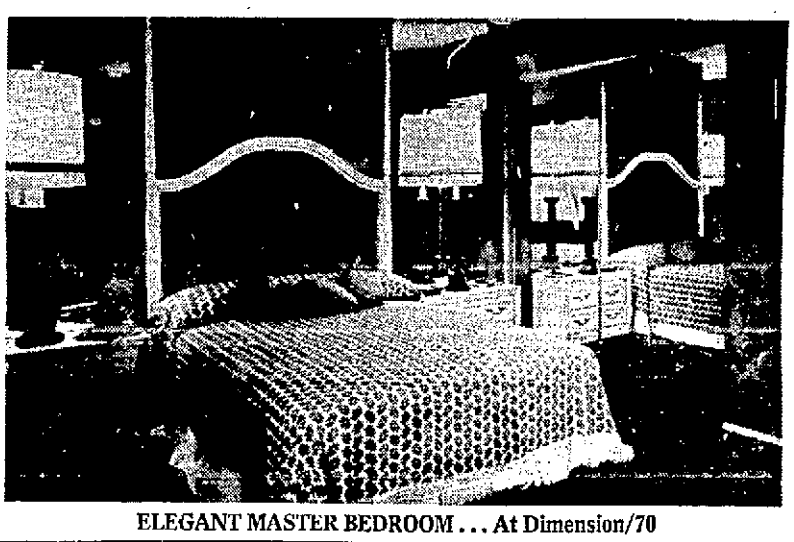

Each home includes an approved set of plans for later expansion to permit the home to grow right along with the family.

* * * *

OTHER features of the two, three and four bedroom homes include completely fenced yards, vaulted living room ceilings, concrete driveways, interior service porches, outside barbecue outlets, wood paneled walls and heavy ceiling insulation.

A model home complex that displays these features plus the unusual "easement swap" land plan is now open at the site.

Freeway access to Dimension/70 is via Freeway 605 to Del Amo Boulevard, then east to Pioneer Boulevard and one block north to 195th Street.

Industrial Parks Revealed

Construction of two Southern California industrial parks was announced last week by Dunn Industrial Properties Corporation.

Vernon Monroe, vice president of sales for the Santa Ana-based development company, said one of the developments will be in Santa Fe Springs; the other, in Cerritos.

The Santa Fe Springs project is a continuation of Dunn Properties' existing industrial park development at the intersection of Carmenita and Alondra. Sixteen buildings will comprise the project, ranging in size from 10,000 to 35,000 square feet. The area is served by rail, and dock-high buildings will be included.

* * * *

THE CERRITOS development is located on 17 acres at the corner of Norwalk and Artesia. Seventeen buildings will be constructed from 10,000 to 35,000 square feet in size.

Monroe said all the buildings will be available for sale or lease with occupancy slated for mid-June of this year.

Camp site is beautiful sight

By MARGARET TUTHILL

The 6,000 square-foot Campfire Girls' structure under way on a seven-acre site at Carson Street and Los Coyotes Diagonal will be a rambling contrast to the girls' former facility, a blocky log cabin at Camp Suanga.

The new facility, comprising offices and a Lodge Hall, will be rustic in a contemporary way, according to Dwight E. Bennett, A.I.A., architect.

Campfire officials hope the structure will be completed by September and that an adjacent day camp area will be ready for use by summer, 1970.

A name will be given the center this month, from suggestions submitted in a contest of the 3,000 Long Beach area Campfire Girls.

The old lodge, built in 1931, was recently torn down to make way for the Artesia Freeway.

A SIMPLE, elemental "feel" will be maintained in the new structure through use of paving-brick floors in some areas, a weathering cedar exterior and open beam ceilings. The facility will have a "ruggedly rambling theme," according to Bennett.

Skylights, semi-enclosed gardens and a courtyard are among features that will lend an airy touch.

The grounds will be contoured to give a rolling topography, Bennett said. Indigenous trees and bushes will be used in landscaping.

The site is leased to the Campfire Girls by the city at $1 annually for 25 years. Funds for development and construction will come from sale of one and one-half acres of the Suanga site to the state for freeway right-of-way, donations and other sources, according to Mrs. Joan Finn, executive director.

Total cost of the structure, day camp and other improvements will be $200,000.

The girls themselves will help by donating plants and other items. Some groups will tend smalll plants during the summer to bring them to ample size for planting at the site.

ON THE SOCIAL SCENE

Things foreign inspire parties

By PAT McDONNELL

SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS on Soutland campuses are keeping Dr. A. J. W. Taylor of Wellington, N.Z., on the run, but he'll take time out today to strictly socialize when his Long Beach hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnson, honor him at a buffet dinner party in their 420 Margo Ave. home.

Down under, Dr. Taylor is president of the New Zealand Mental Health Association and in charge of counseling at Victoria University, where he made acquaintance of the Johnsons two years ago when the Long Beach residents were on a world tour of universities.

When notified of Dr. Taylor's visit to the U.S., The Johnsons invited him to make their home his Southland headquarters. They met him last week in Las Vegas and the New Zealander will be their guest through April.

Considering that today's guest list includes several noted psychologists and criminologists — conversation is likely to center on Dr. Taylor's research projects which have included "Beatlemania" and personality changes that occur to men in Anarctica.

TIME FLIES and mindful of approaching date of Mrs. Walter Barnes' departure on a globe-circuiting trip, friends surprised her with a birthday-bon voyage celebration Friday aboard the SS Princess Louise.

Hostesses, Mrs. Tom Marchese and Mrs. William Babcock, furthered nautical theme by presenting guest-of-honor a birthday cake in the shape of a tug boat.

Among those learning about Mrs. Barnes' forthcoming visit to her native Iran via Thailand, Japan and Hong Kong were Mmes. Walter Scott, Milton Roberts, Van Van Leuven, Donald Lane, Robert Krause, Clarene Reiker, Athena Hall and Martha Bigman.

UNEXPECTED VISITORS always add excitement to a household, but when they're college-age visitors from Latin America, you can be sure the tempo picks up to the tune of a jarful of jumping beans.

That's just about what life has been like this week at the Michael Nelson home, 7945 Ring St.

The Nelsons have a cousin Mark, whose parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jose Dominguez, live in Caracas, Venezuela. Mark lives in Golden, Colo., where he's a senior at Colorado School of Mines.

So when spring vacation started, Mark thought it a grand idea to surprise his Long Beach relatives with a visit. To make the surprise even better, he invited graduate student James Blackburn who hails from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to come along. Naturally, James had to bring along his French bride, Betty.

Traveling in an easy-to-distinguish '54 model station wagon, the cosmopolitan trio made the surprise even more unexpected by arriving late Monday or early Tuesday (take your pick). Since then, they've been touring Southland tourist meccas and surfing — for the first time — in the Pacific Ocean.

DECIDING A 90TH birthday is something to make a fuss about, more than 50 neighborhood friends of Guy Haukenberry, 1053 Hellman St., honored him Wednesday with a birthday dinner.

Guy may be up in years, but he's never felt it prevented him from helping anyone less fortunate.

He's happy to drive handicapped people on errands in his electric cart and do grocery shopping for shutins. An avid fisherman, he often takes these same friends with him to the pier.

Sounds as if party couldn't have happened to a nicer Guy.

GLOBE-TROTTING fever has hit Mrs. E. J. Wightman again and now she's off for Europe via Acapulco, Canal Zone and New York aboard the Swedish-American Line MS Kungsholm. Joining her on the 37-day cruise is Mrs. Walter B. Moore.

Of special interest to Mrs. Wightman will be a visit to the Isle of Wight, a British island from which her husband's forebearers migrated in the early 18th Century.

OPERA STAR Mary Costa entertained a contingent of 30 Long Beach women at tea Thursday in her Beverly Hills home. And what could be more flattering to hostess than fact her guests are members of the Mary Costa group of Long Beach Music Club?

Among those chatting with the renowned singer were group chairman Mrs. Paul Shaub and board members Mmes. Candace Smith, Richard Lerossignol, Ross Lacost, Orlo Rolo and Russell Brougher.

IT'S THE TIME of year when mortar boards begin to appear and thoughts turn back to high school days. Sentimental alums get their heads together and soon reunion plans are abrewing.

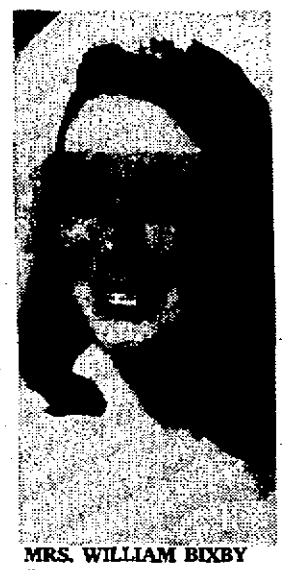

Such an occasion is slated May 31 by Bellflower High School's class of '54 who will mark the 15th date with a dinner dance in Los Coyotes Country Club, La Mirada. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. James (Elaine Reed) Shirley, 3641 Hackett Ave.

A similar event planned by under-30-type alums is the Aug. 27 reunion for 1964 graduates of Huntington Beach High School, Marina campus, in Newporter Inn. Information may be obtained from Donald Kato, 18182 Bushard St., Fountain Valley.

KEEPING A SILVER date today are the Clayton A. Beatons who will mark 25 years of wedded bliss at an open house celebration in their Huntington Beach home.

MRS. WILLIAM BIXBY

Saturday nuptials at St. Pancratius Church united Mary King Dawkins and William L. Bixby.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Dawkins, 2723 Warwood Road, Lakewood, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Bixby, Miraleste.

The bride, wearing a formal gown of Chantilly lace, was attended by Peggy Carter, maid of honor, Rosemary Bastardi and Julie Poole. Julie Jerauld was flower girl.

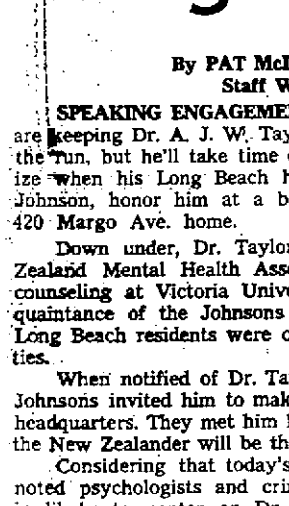

Best man duties were performed by John Pavel. Michael Kelly, William T. Dawkins, Michael Lavia and Robert Dawkins seated guests.

The new Mrs. Bixby is a graduate of Lakewood High School. Her husband, a Wilson High alumnus, graduated from Long Beach City and San Jose State colleges, and now is a graduate student at the University of Southern California.

Following a reception at the Long Beach Petroleum Club, the couple left on a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Lake Tahoe. They will make Long Beach their first home.

The newlyweds both are graduates of Millikan High School and Long Beach City College.

They plan to honeymoon at Big Bear, then establish their permanent home in Milwaukee, Wis.

Dance--an art alive

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

That dancing is a lively art will be demonstrated Friday, Saturday and next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. when Long Beach City College presents its annual "Theater of Motion."

From abstract to elaborately staged theater pieces, the numbers are titled "Meander Into 5," "Creation: Prologue," "Gathering," "Don't Leave Your Paintings in a Warm Room," "Wim and Lesley" and "Will You Ever Remember Me?"

Dancers and staff this week will polish the production in intensive rehearsals under the attentive eyes of Mrs. Dawn Steadman Sare and Dan Peterson, dance instructors. Judith Lynn Aston, founder of the dance theater at LBCC, has an advisory role this year.

In addition to works choreographed by Mrs. Sare and Peterson, dances by student choreographers Margaret Cobbs, Pam Halsey, Marcia Morrison, Wanda Roetzel, Doyle Dietrich, Lesley Johnson, Wim Griffith, Vicki Sasseen and Judith Stearns are on the program.

Miss Stearns also composed the music and wrote the poem for the number titled "The Sum of Ergo Cogito."

General admission and student tickets for the performances in LBCC Auditorium will be on sale this week at the college banker's office, 4901 E. Carson St. They also will be available at the box office prior to each performance.

'WHAT'S SO GREAT ABOUT YOUTH?'

Fifi D'Orsay laughs at age

"If you have men in your life . . .

and life in your men . . .

life can be beautiful."

"When I was young, I wanted to set the world on fire, now I'd be content to give it a hot foot."

So said Fifi D'Orsay, the saucy French bombshell who made the silver screen sizzle in the early 1930s.

"It seems like only yesterday that I was the cute little French girl in the 1930 film, 'They Had to See Paris,' but tomorrow I pick up my Medi-Cal card."

Calling herself a sexpot turned sexagenarian, the irrepressible comedienne laughed.

"In those days, I was always ready, willing and able. Now I'm not even willing."

Senior citizen rating or not — Miss D'Orsay appeared in form finer than most women half her age during a speaking engagement at Institute of Lifetime Learning, 215 Long Beach Blvd.

"When I was young, I was obsessed with the fear that someday I would be old. Well, that's one worry I no longer have — it's finally happened.

"AS THE PROTEGEE of Will Rogers, I tried to learn from his philosophy and follow his example. He said he'd never met a man he didn't like . . . for years I felt the same way.

"When he learned how frightened I was of aging, Will Rogers told me: 'Froggie, getting older doesn't mean getting old. Don't hide your years — use them.'"

Continuing her lighthearted banter, she stepped into an audience of contemporaries obviously caught up by her charm and their own memories of Fifi D'Orsay's heyday.

The twice-married actress said in 1958 she resolved to attend church once a day for a year, go back to school and stop the late hours and drinking which go hand-in-hand with nightclub entertaining.

"ATTENDING MASS each day became a habit I've never broken," she said.

"But soon, I had few sins to confess, so I asked the priests if they'd like me to go back a few decades and give them something good to listen to.

"I think everyone should have a book of inspirational sayings to guide them through the adversities we confront each day. The book I can't live without is 'My Daily Bread' by the Jesuit Anthony Paoni.

"I read favorite passages before I go to sleep — these days what I go to bed with is that little book.

"I may live on a diet free of men, but it doesn't stop me from reading the menu. Youth and all its temptations can really do a woman in.

"I wouldn't trade my tranquility and peace of mind for all the glamor, men and money I enjoyed in my youth. I take care of the gifts God gave me and I thank Him for what he's left me."

Former radio great blasts TV

By ROBIN PAXTON
Staff Writer

Remember "Queen for a Day," "The Romance of Helen Trent," and "Our Gal Sunday?"

Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association reminisced about old-time radio at the Pacific Coast Club Wednesday as veteran producer, actor and radio announcer Gene Baker recounted tales of his radio days.

"I got my first radio announcing job at age 16 in Portland, Ore.," Baker recalled.

"Things were a lot different then. Radio was brand new. We did things that never had been done before — not because we knew how, but because no one had done them, so, why not?"

He told of the historic moment when NBC in Portland had a one-hour broadcast from four different cities at once. So that all listeners could share this momentous occasion, CBS signed off the air so everyone could listen to its competitor.

HIS SMALL Portland station once had a chance to broadcast an hour of dinner music from a local concert hall, but couldn't pay to have the telephone company wire it through.

An ingenious engineer obtained a set of plans for the city sewer system. After careful study, he attached a rubber ball to a wire, dropped it into the sewer and retrieved it as it bobbed under the concert hall. The station had its own underground wiring.

The soap opera era marked the real Golden Age of radio, according to Baker.

"Why, Ma Perkins should be made secretary to the U.S. Treasurer. She's the only person I know who could keep a lumber yard open for 27 years and never sell a single stick of wood!"

People believed what they heard in those days. Listeners wrote requesting appointments with "Young Dr. Malone." And even if Mary Perkins ("Backstage Wife") didn't know where her roving actor husband was, faithful listeners did. And letters poured into the stations filling her in on his latest affair with one of his leading ladies.

"People thought of 'Queen for a Day' as a tear-jerker," Baker chuckled, recalling his 15 years as the program's announcer.

"It wasn't. It was the greatest daytime comedy on the air. You just never knew what those ladies would come out with.

"One lady said she'd like a pair of dentures if elected Queen. I remarked that her teeth looked quite good.

" 'Oh, these are good teeth,' she replied, 'but they're my son-in-law's. I borrowed them for the trip!' "

All of the more than 5,000 "Queens" benefited from the experience, Baker claimed.

"They became different people. They even formed their own Ex-Queens' Club, which now supports a hospital ward and other charities."

FROM AMUSING radio anecdotes, Baker switched abruptly to the more sobering subject of television.

"The programming and commercials on TV today are an insult to our intelligence. TV is sold as an entertainment medium.

"Actually, it's a devious, subtle method of communication that is shaping our environment.

"TV advertising is based on doubt and fear. You are all wrong. You have B.O., bad breath, smoke sissy cigarets and drive the wrong car.

"TV is shaping your lives. If you don't like what's on, DO something. Write to the station. Write to the president of the sponsoring company. Threaten not to buy their products.

"They're scared of you and they'll listen.

"And take the time to commend as well as to condemn. That's your air out there, and you're the most powerful people in the world. Let your feelings be known.

"If you don't, you're entitled to the garbage you watch!"

By MARGARET TUTHILL

The 6,000 square-foot Campfire Girls' structure under way on a seven-acre site at Carson Street and Los Coyotes Diagonal will be a rambling contrast to the girls' former facility, a blocky log cabin at Camp Suanga.

The new facility, comprising offices and a Lodge Hall, will be rustic in a contemporary way, according to Dwight E. Bennett, A.I.A., architect.

Campfire officials hope the structure will be completed by September and that an adjacent day camp area will be ready for use by summer, 1970.

A name will be given the center this month, from suggestions submitted in a contest of the 3,000 Long Beach area Campfire Girls.

The old lodge, built in 1931, was recently torn down to make way for the Artesia Freeway.

A SIMPLE, elemental "feel" will be maintained in the new structure through use of paving-brick floors in some areas, a weathering cedar exterior and open beam ceilings. The facility will have a "ruggedly rambling theme," according to Bennett.

Skylights, semi-enclosed gardens and a courtyard are among features that will lend an airy touch.

The grounds will be contoured to give a rolling topography, Bennett said. Indigenous trees and bushes will be used in landscaping.

The site is leased to the Campfire Girls by the city at $1 annually for 25 years. Funds for development and construction will come from sale of one and one-half acres of the Suanga site to the state for freeway right-of-way, donations and other sources, according to Mrs. Joan Finn, executive director.

Total cost of the structure, day camp and other improvements will be $200,000.

The girls themselves will help by donating plants and other items. Some groups will tend smalll plants during the summer to bring them to ample size for planting at the site.

ON THE SOCIAL SCENE

Things foreign inspire parties

By PAT McDONNELL

SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS on Soutland campuses are keeping Dr. A. J. W. Taylor of Wellington, N.Z., on the run, but he'll take time out today to strictly socialize when his Long Beach hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnson, honor him at a buffet dinner party in their 420 Margo Ave. home.

Down under, Dr. Taylor is president of the New Zealand Mental Health Association and in charge of counseling at Victoria University, where he made acquaintance of the Johnsons two years ago when the Long Beach residents were on a world tour of universities.

When notified of Dr. Taylor's visit to the U.S., The Johnsons invited him to make their home his Southland headquarters. They met him last week in Las Vegas and the New Zealander will be their guest through April.

Considering that today's guest list includes several noted psychologists and criminologists — conversation is likely to center on Dr. Taylor's research projects which have included "Beatlemania" and personality changes that occur to men in Anarctica.

TIME FLIES and mindful of approaching date of Mrs. Walter Barnes' departure on a globe-circuiting trip, friends surprised her with a birthday-bon voyage celebration Friday aboard the SS Princess Louise.

Hostesses, Mrs. Tom Marchese and Mrs. William Babcock, furthered nautical theme by presenting guest-of-honor a birthday cake in the shape of a tug boat.

Among those learning about Mrs. Barnes' forthcoming visit to her native Iran via Thailand, Japan and Hong Kong were Mmes. Walter Scott, Milton Roberts, Van Van Leuven, Donald Lane, Robert Krause, Clarene Reiker, Athena Hall and Martha Bigman.

UNEXPECTED VISITORS always add excitement to a household, but when they're college-age visitors from Latin America, you can be sure the tempo picks up to the tune of a jarful of jumping beans.

That's just about what life has been like this week at the Michael Nelson home, 7945 Ring St.

The Nelsons have a cousin Mark, whose parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jose Dominguez, live in Caracas, Venezuela. Mark lives in Golden, Colo., where he's a senior at Colorado School of Mines.

So when spring vacation started, Mark thought it a grand idea to surprise his Long Beach relatives with a visit. To make the surprise even better, he invited graduate student James Blackburn who hails from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to come along. Naturally, James had to bring along his French bride, Betty.

Traveling in an easy-to-distinguish '54 model station wagon, the cosmopolitan trio made the surprise even more unexpected by arriving late Monday or early Tuesday (take your pick). Since then, they've been touring Southland tourist meccas and surfing — for the first time — in the Pacific Ocean.

DECIDING A 90TH birthday is something to make a fuss about, more than 50 neighborhood friends of Guy Haukenberry, 1053 Hellman St., honored him Wednesday with a birthday dinner.

Guy may be up in years, but he's never felt it prevented him from helping anyone less fortunate.

He's happy to drive handicapped people on errands in his electric cart and do grocery shopping for shut-ins. An avid fisherman, he often takes these same friends with him to the pier.

Sounds as if party couldn't have happened to a nicer Guy.

GLOBE-TROTTING fever has hit Mrs. E. J. Wightman again and now she's off for Europe via Acapulco, Canal Zone and New York aboard the Swedish-American Line MS Kungsholm. Joining her on the 37-day cruise is Mrs. Walter B. Moore.

Of special interest to Mrs. Wightman will be a visit to the Isle of Wight, a British island from which her husband's forebearers migrated in the early 18th Century.

OPERA STAR Mary Costa entertained a contingent of 30 Long Beach women at tea Thursday in her Beverly Hills home. And what could be more flattering to hostess than fact her guests are members of the Mary Costa group of Long Beach Music Club?

Among those chatting with the renowned singer were group chairman Mrs. Paul Shaub and board members Mmes. Candace Smith, Richard Lerossignol, Ross Lacost, Orlo Rolo and Russell Brougher.

IT'S THE TIME of year when mortar boards begin to appear and thoughts turn back to high school days. Sentimental alums get their heads together and soon reunion plans are abrewing.

Such an occasion is slated May 31 by Bellflower High School's class of '54 who will mark the 15th date with a dinner dance in Los Coyotes Country Club, La Mirada. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. James (Elaine Reed) Shirley, 3641 Hackett Ave.

A similar event planned by under-30-type alums is the Aug. 27 reunion for 1964 graduates of Huntington Beach High School, Marina campus, in Newporter Inn. Information may be obtained from Donald Kato, 18182 Bushard St., Fountain Valley.

KEEPING A SILVER date today are the Clayton A. Beatons who will mark 25 years of wedded bliss at an open house celebration in their Huntington Beach home.

Out-of-town guests who witnessed the 1944 ceremony in Abercrombie, N.D., planning to attend are Mrs. Harriet Fredrickson of Renville, Minn., and Mrs. Maurene Egge of Fargo, N.D.

MRS. WILLIAM BIXBY

Bixbys will reside in Long Beach

The bride, wearing a formal gown of Chantilly lace, was attended by Peggy Carter, maid of honor, Rosemary Bastardi and Julie Poole. Julie Jerauld was flower girl.

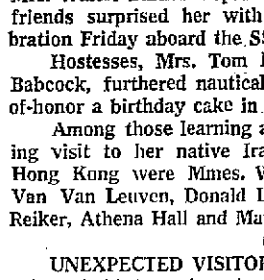

Best man duties were performed by John Pavel. Michael Kelly, William T. Dawkins, Michael Lavia and Robert Dawkins seated guests.

The new Mrs. Bixby is a graduate of Lakewood High School. Her husband, a Wilson High alumnus, graduated from Long Beach City and San Jose State colleges, and now is a graduate student at the University of Southern California.

Following a reception at the Long Beach Petroleum Club, the couple left on a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Lake Tahoe. They will make Long Beach their first home.

Kissing display irks relatives

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Libby, my 17-year-old niece, brought her boyfriend to the grandparents' for Sunday supper. She didn't ASK if she could bring him. She just brought him.

After supper, Libby and her boyfriend picked a comfortable chair in the corner. He sat down, and she sat on top of him, and they spent the entire evening that way. She couldn't keep her hands off him.

He didn't say a word. He just grinned and whispered something to Libby once in a while. It's a wonder he didn't grab her and head for the nearest bedroom. It was disgusting.

After everyone left, Grandpa was all shook up to think that his lovely young granddaughter would throw herself at a boy that way. "Just asking for trouble," he says.

And Grandma was in tears. All the while Libby's parents were sitting across the room like two stuffed sparrows on a limb.

My husband says I should mind my own business — that Libby has parents to tell her how to act. Should I say something to those stupid parents? Or should I say something to Libby? Or better yet, can YOU say something? AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: A 17-year-old who would behave this way in the presence of her parents either doesn't know any better, or doesn't care what anyone thinks.

And parents who would sit in silence during such a performance are either helpless or gutless. If you think it will help Libby, tell her the facts of life. But hurry!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old girl who is still single. Sure, I wish I were married, but things haven't worked out that way.

Whenever I visit my married friends, it's always the same old story. They can't understand why a nice girl who is pretty, has a good figure and pleasant personality isn't married. They keep insisting I am too "fussy."

This really hurts me and makes me wonder if maybe I shouldn't marry the first man who comes along no matter what he's like or how I feel about him.

I've dated quite a few men. Some fell in love with someone else and others I never seemed to care enough for.

Perhaps if you print this, some of my friends will read it and realize how much they can hurt a girl without meaning to. STILL SINGLE

DEAR STILL: And to those friends who hurt without meaning to, may I suggest that if you really want to be helpful, keep your eyes open for an eligible man who may fill the bill. The best way for a nice girl to meet a nice man is through mutual friends.

Former radio great blasts TV

By ROBIN PAXTON
Staff Writer

Remember "Queen for a Day," "The Romance of Helen Trent," and "Our Gal Sunday?"

Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association reminisced about old-time radio at the Pacific Coast Club Wednesday as veteran producer, actor and radio announcer Gene Baker recounted tales of his radio days.

"I got my first radio announcing job at age 16 in Portland, Ore.," Baker recalled.

"Things were a lot different then. Radio was brand new. We did things that never had been done before — not because we knew how, but because no one had done them, so, why not?"

He told of the historic moment when NBC in Portland had a one-hour broadcast from four different cities at once. So that all listeners could share this momentous occasion, CBS signed off the air so everyone could listen to its competitor.

HIS SMALL Portland station once had a chance to broadcast an hour of dinner music from a local concert hall, but couldn't pay to have the telephone company wire it through.

An ingenious engineer obtained a set of plans for the city sewer system. After careful study, he attached a rubber ball to a wire, dropped it into the sewer and retrieved it as it bobbed under the concert hall. The station had its own underground wiring.

The soap opera era marked the real Golden Age of radio, according to Baker.

"Why, Ma Perkins should be made secretary to the U.S. Treasurer. She's the only person I know who could keep a lumber yard open for 27 years and never sell a single stick of wood!"

People believed what they heard in those days. Listeners wrote requesting appointments with "Young Dr. Malone." And even if Mary Perkins ("Backstage Wife") didn't know where her roving actor husband was, faithful listeners did. And letters poured into the stations filling her in on his latest affair with one of his leading ladies.

"People thought of 'Queen for a Day' as a tear-jerker," Baker chuckled, recalling his 15 years as the program's announcer.

"It wasn't. It was the greatest daytime comedy on the air. You just never knew what those ladies would come out with.

"One lady said she'd like a pair of dentures if elected Queen. I remarked that her teeth looked quite good.

"'Oh, these are good teeth,' she replied, 'but they're my son-in-law's. I borrowed them for the trip!'"

All of the more than 5,000 "Queens" benefited from the experience, Baker claimed.

"They became different people. They even formed their own Ex-Queens' Club, which now supports a hospital ward and other charities."

FROM AMUSING radio anecdotes, Baker switched abruptly to the more sobering subject of television.

"The programming and commercials on TV today are an insult to our intelligence. TV is sold as an entertainment medium.

"Actually, it's a devious, subtle method of communication that is shaping our environment.

"TV advertising is based on doubt and fear. You are all wrong. You have B.O., bad breath, smoke sissy cigarets and drive the wrong car.

"TV is shaping your lives. If you don't like what's on, DO something. Write to the station. Write to the president of the sponsoring company. Threaten not to buy their products.

"They're scared of you and they'll listen.

"And take the time to commend as well as to condemn. That's your air out there, and you're the most powerful people in the world. Let your feelings be known.

"If you don't, you're entitled to the garbage you watch!"

Kissing display irks relatives

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Libby, my 17-year-old niece, brought her boyfriend to the grandparents' for Sunday supper. She didn't ASK if she could bring him. She just brought him.

After supper, Libby and her boyfriend picked a comfortable chair in the corner. He sat down, and she sat on top of him, and they spent the entire evening that way. She couldn't keep her hands off him.

He didn't say a word. He just grinned and whispered something to Libby once in a while. It's a wonder he didn't grab her and head for the nearest bedroom. It was disgusting.

After everyone left, Grandpa was all shook up to think that his lovely young granddaughter would throw herself at a boy that way. "Just asking for trouble," he says.

And Grandma was in tears. All the while Libby's parents were sitting across the room like two stuffed sparrows on a limb.

My husband says I should mind my own business — that Libby has parents to tell her how to act. Should I say something to those stupid parents? Or should I say something to Libby? Or better yet, can YOU say something? AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: A 17-year-old who would behave this way in the presence of her parents either doesn't know any better, or doesn't care what anyone thinks.

And parents who would sit in silence during such a performance are either helpless or gutless. If you think it will help Libby, tell her the facts of life. But hurry!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old girl who is still single. Sure, I wish I were married, but things haven't worked out that way.

Whenever I visit my married friends, it's always the same old story. They can't understand why a nice girl who is pretty, has a good figure and pleasant personality isn't married. They keep insisting I am too "fussy."

This really hurts me and makes me wonder if maybe I shouldn't marry the first man who comes along no matter what he's like or how I feel about him.

I've dated quite a few men. Some fell in love with someone else and others I never seemed to care enough for.

Perhaps if you print this, some of my friends will read it and realize how much they can hurt a girl without meaning to. STILL SINGLE

DEAR STILL: And to those friends who hurt without meaning to, may I suggest that if you really want to be helpful, keep your eyes open for an eligible man who may fill the bill. The best way for a nice girl to meet a nice man is through mutual friends.

Sure cereal talks, but what language?

By ERMA BOMBECK

There seems to be a bit of a furor because the Campbell Soup people put marbles in their soup commercials to force the meat and vegetables to the top, thus creating an illusion that it was lousy with meat and vegetables.

I got another flash for you, Charlie. Stomachs aren't made of glass, and oatmeal doesn't really build a fire in your tummy. (It just lies there and hardens.)

We appreciate the concern, but housewives are not all that naive. We become "commercial-conditioned" the day we buy our first box of breakfast cereal.

There it is, a box of Pulverized Krispies that promises enough nutrients to supply an Olympic hog caller team with energy for the next three years. Listed on the side of the box are vitamins that a surgeon can't pronounce.

When you pour them into a bowl the little devils will come alive with power. With the first spoonful, your child will roll his eyes back in his head and smile, "Crimanetley, Mom you're keen to buy this cereal." Inside of every box is a model of a nuclear Polaris submarine, completely manned and ready to sail out of the Gulf of Mexico whenever the youngsters say the word.

It doesn't work out quite that way. The cereal lies in the bowl like a sponge, while the kids scramble for the submarine. Father chokes to death on the plastic periscope. The submarine is a couple of two-inch pieces of balsa wood, with a U. S. flag decal. I might have made it out to the Gulf of Mexico had it not dropped into the cream pitcher and sunk, right there at the table.

As they go out of the door the youngsters mumble what a big gyp it was. Are they disillusioned? Absolutely not.

The next time, they vow, they're going to get a box of Fluoride Krunchies that offer a secret 14-carat code ring, guaranteed to put them in touch with a spy network in Czechoslovakia.

I'M AFRAID advertising has produced an audience of skeptics, with its coffee beans that promise romance and a mother of six who has time to water ski.

I used to believe. When I was a kid there was a cosmetic line that used to sell its nail polish using a comic strip approach. The first panel showed a young wife in tears because she had absolutely nothing to wear to an important party.

In the next strip, her best friend showed up with a bottle of nail polish and said, "Who needs a new dress or a new hairdo? You've got this." In the last strip, the heroine is surrounded by men who are half-crazy with desire.

Oh, how I believed in this. I went to an eighth grade party one night at Charlene Jones' house and wasn't worried about my old dress because I was wearing, "Watermelon Rind," a new shade of this magic nail polish. As soon as I hit the door, my girlfriend whispered, "This is a party. What are you doing in your school clothes?"

You know, I wouldn't be at all surprised if Colonel Saunders and Mrs. Olsen were really Fabian and Sandra Dee.

Philip Nortons leave for island honeymoon

A trip to Hawaii followed the Saturday nuptials of Carolyn Grace Combs and Philip Stanley Norton in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Among guests witnessing the ceremony were parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frende Willis Combs, 4282 Pacific Ave., and Dr. and Mrs. George Stanley Norton of Santa Ana.

The bride wore a gown with silk organza cage over peau de soie fashioned with a wedding ring neckline and caplette sleeves.

Mrs. Carl W. Chamberlain was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jackie Prandi, Diane Jewell, and Mmes. Norman Vinson, Michael Nott and Ray Sparling.

The bridegroom's brother, David Henry Norton, was best man. Ushering guests were Gregg Johnson, John Gay, Tom Tucker, Gary Brooks, J. C. Horton, Bill Lawless, Stewart McPherson and Chris Upham.

MRS. P. S. NORTON

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. The couple will make a first home in Corona Del Mar.

Schlieper-Prowell vows are solemnized

MRS. STANLEY A. SCHLIEPER

Saturday in an 11:30 a.m. ceremony, Kathryn Ann Prowell and Stanley Alan Schlieper exchanged wedding vows in Los Altos United Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Scott Prowell Jr., 3140 Pattiz Ave., wore a formal gown of white lace with an illusion veil held by a pearl and crystal tiara.

She was attended by her sister, Ellen Prowell.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Fowler Moran, 44 Alamitos Ave., and Clyde Schlieper, Tampa, Fla., asked Edward Davis to perform best man duties.

Following the wedding, the newlyweds were feted at a reception in Pacific Coast Club.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Millikan High School and attended Long Beach City College. She was a member of Assisteens, junior auxiliary to Assistance League.

Her bridegroom, a graduate of Wilson High School, is on leave from Fort Sill, Okla., where he is serving in the U.S. Army. Following the couple's honeymoon in Palm Springs, he will return to active duty.

Art that is woven in history

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

Long ago the nobles of France, viewing their great halls with distaste for the long, bare walls and with shivers when chill winds blew, turned to weavers for relief.

The art of tapestry came from the Mediterranean with traditions derived from the ancient silk trade cities of Babylon, Ninevah, Tyre and Sidon. This pictorial, narrative art reflected the cultural histories of ancient China, Peru, Egypt and Greece.

But it was in France in the middle ages that the art began its greatest era in Europe and it was there that the famous workshops of Gobelin and Aubusson set new standards.

From the workshops at Aubusson have come some of the modern tapestries in an exhibit of 53 contemporary pieces which may be seen at the Plaza Galley of the California Federal Building, 5670 Wilshire Blvd. Others are from the studio of an independent weaver of great originality, Yvette Caquil-Prince. It is largely from her studies at the Beaux Arts Academy in Paris and from her independent research into the ancient art, that the renaissance of master weaving has surged. To her atelier have come such artists as Calder, Miro, Picasso and Chagall.

With its freshness of color and imaginative design, contemporary tapestry is bespelling the modern collector who, like the ancient French, values this decorative art although his split-level home is free from drafts.

The exhibit, displayed in all areas of the auditorium foyers and the Plaza Gallery on the third floor of California Federal, may be seen through May 16.

LONG BEACH Art Association imposed no demands or restrictions on artists for its annual "Shibui Show," leaving each free to interpret that nebulous word in his own way.

"The response was gratifying — the versatility encompasses the full spectrum of media," said Betty Anne Kirkpatrick, exhibit chairman.

The show opens today at 1 p.m. in the LBAA Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. and will hang through April.

First prize went to Dorre Stogner for her "Memory of Spring," second to Annabelle Clifton for "Landscape." Honorable mentions were awarded to Kathleen Neal, Carl Broderick, Anna Hayes and Vesta Carton.

TWO PROMINENT Long Beach artists, husband and wife Ben Messick and Velma Hay, will host the spring tea of the National League of American Pen Women Saturday at 1 p.m.

In the studio-gallery, guests may view Messick's watercolors of Old Chinatown, the Chavez Ravine and the Harbor Area before changes remade the landscapes. An internationally honored artist, Messick has had his work sent by the U.S. Department of State to more than 70 countries.

Of equal interest will be the distinctive, mystical paintings by Velma Hay.

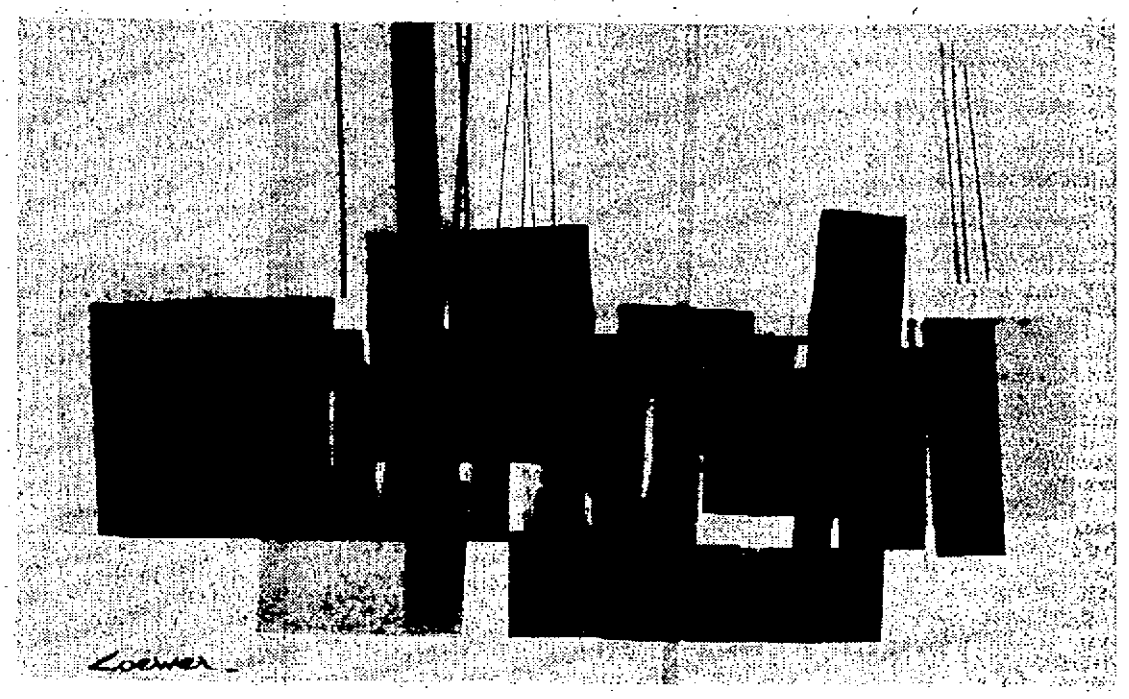

Program chairman Mrs. Malena Werner has arranged an open forum discussion. Alice Tenneson Hawkins and Margaret Roxby will read from their published works.

CURRENTLY in the galleries of California State College, Long Beach, are the National Invitational Spring Show, which will hang through April 30, and a photographic design exhibit by graduate student Bert Davis.

WITH NEW officers and a new gallery, San Pedro Art Association has plans for expanded activity but for the moment the gallery is open "on weekends from noon to 4 p.m. as sitters are available."

The gallery is located at 2937 Pacific Ave. New officers are Peter Allen, president; Diane Allen, Barbara Kneafsey, Pat Krzeminski, Iris Kalb and Eddy Farwell. Allen also won first place in the juried show now on exhibit.

Saucy 'Irma La Douce' challenges costume crew

"Irma La Douce," that saucy Broadway, London and Paris musical about a "poule" and her lawyer-lover, opens a seven-night run Thursday at California State College, Long Beach.

"This is a story about passion, bloodshed, desire and death," says the hotel keeper in the opening lines. "It happened not so long ago in Paris, in the narrow streets behind Pigalle. We call this part of Paris the "Milieu," where the only crime is to get caught—"

But New York Times critic Howard Taubman observed, "Trust the French to make vice as innocent as a fable. In 'Irma La Douce' the Gallic gift for genial satire turns an evil-ridden district around the Place Pigalle into a kind of cynical fairyland and its depraved inhabitants into charming acquaintances."

CONCOCTING this musical souffle are the department of music and the department of theater arts under the direction of Dr. Hans Lampl and Dr. Kenneth Lyman. Hilary Maveety as Irma and Michael Wieben as Nestor head the cast.

A rough estimate of time so far totaled by the 25 student construction crew members, staff, assistants and faculty advisors is 4,000 hours but this doesn't take into account the costume crew.

Challenge to costume designer Herbert L. Camburn, associate professor in the department of theater arts, was to supply numerous quick costume changes for the fast-paced musical.

At one point there is a 10-second change for Nestor, who masquerades in the double life of Oscar and the "mec" lover of Irma. He appears on one side of a kiosk as Nestor then in an instant comes out the other as Oscar. There's a quick change pregnancy-pad for Irma that curves her figure in 30 seconds.

SINCE MOST of the 25-member cast are dual or triple cast and most dance as well as sing, Camburn had the double problem of designing colorful and exciting costumes that will take the strain of high jumps, splits and kicks but can be donned or discarded instantly.

Special inserts were made in all the men's pants, and all the girls' Apache skirts, though they appear very tight, have special plackets in the back so that leaps can be free and easy.

How to design costmes with a theatrical comedy flare, of no particular period, not too close to today's Mod men's styles? "I certainly didn't want the inhabitants of Pigalle to look as if they had just left Sunset Boulevard for a quick trip to CSLB," said Camburn.

And so the costume crew cuts and stitches and trims and fits, rushing toward opening night. The musical will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and again April 23, 24 and 25. After each of these performances, the unsung costumers will collect press and put away the show's wardrobe, leaving all in perfect condition befor they switch off the last light.

STITCH, STITCH, STITCH IS THE LOT OF LOUISE HASSELL AND MARGARET HOLLAND, PART OF THE 'IRMA' COSTUME CREW.

Alberto Bolet to lecture on music conductor's role

ALBERTO BOLET

Bolshoi soprano in two recitals

She will return to the Pavilion Tuesday, April 22, to sing a different selection of classics. In both recitals she will be accompanied at the piano by her husband, the eminent Russian cellist Mstislov Rostropovich.

'WORK IN PROGRESS'

Faculty show finely-polished

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Art Faculty Show at Long Beach City College, 4901 Carson Ave., is a little jewel. Works, other than some enormous woven panels, are small in scale and finely-polished.

There is a sense of work in progress and exploration, highly commendable qualities in those with daily routines in the classroom.

Robert McMenomy's ceramics are distilled to the essence of form in stonewares: lidded jars and containers. His glazes are in earth tones which are both carefully controlled and natural. He offers, as well, a 4-ft. sculpture of steel rods, floor-standing, connected so that the terminal discs tremble and shimmer when the work is touched.

Theodore Baird, department chairman, is represented by three painterly canvasses and a painted relief which are abstract in a poetic manner. Other painters shown are Richard Keyes and Thomas Hawkins. Keyes' subject is landscape, economically but solidly indicated. He, like Baird, has a strong, directional brush stroke.

HAWKINS, on the other hand, is preoccupied with the back yard—the old-fashioned, unlandscaped backyard—in which nature surrounds human beings.

Joseph Hooten is most successful in several carefully controlled drawings. They, like his graphics, are highly personal showing puzzling relationships between the human, animal and natural worlds.

Joan Benkoff's three serigraphs are beautifully colored; her one engraving is achieved in rhythmic, textured strokes.

Norma Matlin is exploring clear plastic boxes, small in scale. One is stuffed with small, clear electric light globes which glow or blink in a friendly manner.

TOSHIKO GOTO is responsible for the aforementioned woven hangings of the four seasons, and a smaller one, "Baba-Yaga" made of fibres, bamboo, and ceramic pendants.

Over all this careful work looms an enormous black plastic reptile, air-filled, which, in its writhing convolutions, seems to be trying to shed its skin. This is by James Simpson, gallery director, who designed the very restrained display.

Gallery hours, through April 25, are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays thru Thursdays, and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Fridays.

THURSDAY EVENT

Hospital auxiliaries merge for meeting

The former radio "mommy" of Baby Snooks will be featured speaker Thursday noon at a city-wide luncheon of women hospital-volunteer workers.

Reservations for the event, scheduled at Elks Lodge, 4101 E. Willow St., will close Monday.

Arlene Harris was a familiar voice for nearly 20 years as a performer on the Baby Snooks program and as star of the Al Pearce Radio Show. She currently specializes in doing cartoon voices for television commercials.

In a humorous lecture Miss Harris will recount some of her experiences.

The event will give volunteers at seven Long Beach hospitals a chance to meet and exchange anecdotes and information about the charitable work they do.

It will be the first of what many hope will become an annual event, according to Mrs. Alan Payne, president of Pacific Hospital Guild, one of the participating groups.

ARLENE HARRIS
. . . She'll reminisce

The luncheon also will be open to the public.

Reservations and ticket information may be obtained from volunteer chairmen at Community, Los Altos, Memorial Pacific, St. Mary's, Woodruff Community and U.S. Naval hospitals.

Bid by South is failure

Today's hand might well cause our modern experts trouble. No one has worked out a truly scientific method of handling a nine-card suit headed by the ace-10.

The bidding in the box took place back in 1930. North and South were two of the greatest players of that day and the bidding in the box shows how they arrived at seven spades.

East had no problem with his opening lead. He placed the ace of clubs on the table and North was down one.

The difference between 1930 bidding and modern bidding can be shown by listening to South's comments. His first comment was that he might well have opened with a strong two-bid.

Two-bids were weaker back then but South's hand did not come close to being worth even a 1930 two-bid.

SOUTH'S contention was that since he had failed to open with a two-bid, the only way he could show his strength was a jump to three no-trump.

A modern player would have merely rebid three diamonds. So would most of the top players of that day. They would be taking some chance of missing a game, but not much.

From the first days of contract, most players have recognized the desirability of getting to game.

Anyway, South did rebid to three no-trump and North jumped to six spades. We do feel that a five-spade call would have been sounder, and South pointed out in several well-chosen words that if North had just bid five spades, South would have carried on to six.

On the other hand, no one twisted South's arm to make him bid the grand slam. He was flying blind in a fog when he made that bid and had no reason to jeopardize game, small slam and rubber.

Sure cereal talks, but what language?

By ERMA BOMBECK

There seems to be a bit of a furor because the Campbell Soup people put marbles in their soup commercials to force the meat and vegetables to the top, thus creating an illusion that it was lousy with meat and vegetables.

I got another flash for you, Charlie. Stomachs aren't made of glass, and oatmeal doesn't really build a fire in your tummy. (It just lies there and hardens.)

We appreciate the concern, but housewives are not all that naive. We become "commercial-conditioned" the day we buy our first box of breakfast cereal.

There it is, a box of Pulverized Krispies that promises enough nutrients to supply an Olympic hog caller team with energy for the next three years. Listed on the side of the box are vitamins that a surgeon can't pronounce.

When you pour them into a bowl the little devils will come alive with power. With the first spoonful, your child will roll his eyes back in his head and smile, "Crimanetley, Mom you're keen to buy this cereal." Inside of every box is a model of a nuclear Polaris submarine, completely manned and ready to sail out of the Gulf of Mexico whenever the youngsters say the word.

It doesn't work out quite that way. The cereal lies in the bowl like a sponge, while the kids scramble for the submarine. Father chokes to death on the plastic periscope. The submarine is a couple of two-inch pieces of balsa wood, with a U. S. flag decal. I might have made it out to the Gulf of Mexico had it not dropped into the cream pitcher and sunk, right there at the table.

As they go out of the door the youngsters mumble what a big gyp it was. Are they disillusioned? Absolutely not.

The next time, they vow, they're going to get a box of Fluoride Krunchies that offer a secret 14-carat code ring, guaranteed to put them in touch with a spy network in Czechoslovakia.

I'M AFRAID advertising has produced an audience of skeptics, with its coffee beans that promise romance and a mother of six who has time to water ski.

I used to believe. When I was a kid there was a cosmetic line that used to sell its nail polish using a comic strip approach. The first panel showed a young wife in tears because she had absolutely nothing to wear to an important party.

In the next strip, her best friend showed up with a bottle of nail polish and said, "Who needs a new dress or a new hairdo? You've got this." In the last strip, the heroine is surrounded by men who are half-crazy with desire.

Oh, how I believed in this. I went to an eighth grade party one night at Charlene Jones' house and wasn't worried about my old dress because I was wearing, "Watermelon Rind," a new shade of this magic nail polish. As soon as I hit the door, my girlfriend whispered, "This is a party. What are you doing in your school clothes?"

You know, I wouldn't be at all surprised if Colonel Saunders and Mrs. Olsen were really Fabian and Sandra Dee.

Philip Nortons leave for island honeymoon

A trip to Hawaii followed the Saturday nuptials of Carolyn Grace Combs and Philip Stanley Norton in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Among guests witnessing the ceremony were parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frende Willis Combs, 4282 Pacific Ave., and Dr. and Mrs. George Stanley Norton of Santa Ana.

The bride wore a gown with silk organza cage over peau de soie fashioned with a wedding ring neckline and caplette sleeves.

Mrs. Carl W. Chamberlain was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jackie Prandi, Diane Jewell, and Mmes. Norman Vinson, Michael Nott and Ray Sparling.

The bridegroom's brother, David Henry Norton, was best man. Ushering guests were Gregg Johnson, John Gay, Tom Tucker, Gary Brooks, J. C. Horton, Bill Lawless, Stewart McPherson and Chris Upham.

MRS. P. S. NORTON

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. The couple will make a first home in Corona Del Mar.

MRS. STANLEY A. SCHLIEPER

Schlieper-Prowell vows are solemnized

Saturday in an 11:30 a.m. ceremony, Kathryn Ann Prowell and Stanley Alan Schlieper exchanged wedding vows in Los Altos United Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Scott Prowell Jr., 3140 Pattiz Ave., wore a formal gown of white lace with an illusion veil held by a pearl and crystal tiara.

She was attended by her sister, Ellen Prowell.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Fowler Moran, 44 Alamitos Ave., and Clyde Schlieper, Tampa, Fla., asked Edward Davis to perform best man duties.

Following the wedding, the newlyweds were feted at a reception in Pacific Coast Club.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Millikan High School and attended Long Beach City College. She was a member of Assisteens, junior auxiliary to Assistance League.

Her bridegroom, a graduate of Wilson High School, is on leave from Fort Sill, Okla., where he is serving in the U.S. Army. Following the couple's honeymoon in Palm Springs, he will return to active duty.

Shaded effect

Indoor gardening can be great fun, and a window sill collection of plants benefits greatly from window-shaded light control, year-round. And, what's good for your greenery can be good for your decor. Choose shades in a charming color appropriate to room. Finish with pretty hem shape, trimmed with contrasting fringe.

Garden mood

Fabric will set a garden mood for outdoor living — florals and treillage designs are blooming for '69.

One of the world's fabled showplaces, known to most as the Hearst Castle but referred to by its builder, the late newspaper tycoon William Randolph Hearst as La Casa Grande, continues to be a major California tourist attraction after a decade of operation under state management as the Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument.

KRAFT

The great mansion, overlooking the Pacific at San Simeon, approximately 275 miles from the Long Beach - Orange County area on Hwy. 1, last year attracted 491,310 visitors from all over the world who paid $1,166,236 to tour its 100 rooms and the 123 acres of lavish gardens, terraces, pools and palatial guesthouses.

It was a half-century ago — in 1919 — that Hearst began construction of sprawling La Casa Grande as a family home where he could also display $50 million worth of art treasures he had collected from every corner of the world. It was there that he later lived and worked, and entertained movie stars, diplomats, kings and potentates.

The guests arrived at his invitation in an almost endless procession. He put them up in guesthouses and 38 bedrooms of the mansion, and entertained them in a style that became legendary even in his own time.

* * * *

THEN, in 1958, seven years after his death, the Hearst Corporation, with the approval of the family, presented La Cuesta Ecantada to the State of California with the understanding that it be preserved as a memorial not only to Hearst himself but also to his mother. In the first 11 years as a state historical monument it has been visited by almost 5 million persons.

Reactions of these visitors differ. Some are all but overwhelmed by what they see, and well they should be. Into this layout went ancient Roman and Grecian temples, Pompeiian mosiacs, English castles, French chateaux and churches which were dismantled and sent by sea to San Simeon where they were rebuilt with meticulous care to create an overall effect of rare beauty.

Antiques of uncommon value abound in the castle rooms. A salmagundi of paintings, statues and furnishings by some of the world's most famous artisans from many eras of civilization going all the way back to ancient Egypt hang on the walls of the mansion and in its guest houses, in the gardens, and surrounding the 345,000-gallon outdoor Neptune Pool.

Rare building materials, exotic marbles, hundreds of thousands of tiles, frescoes, tapestries and acres of imported plants blended into the setting have been preserved as Hearst would have them preserved.

* * * *

HEARST felt that the Neptune Pool was one of his finer accomplishments in the creation of La Cuesta Encantada. Constructed of concrete and faced with marble, its 104-foot length offers a beautiful setting for the Greco-Roman temple facade that forms its backdrop in front of the castle. White marble statues at the edge of the pool and in the recessed alcove appear to float on the water. Etruscan - styled colonnades at each end of the pool complete the classic concept.

Visitors are also impressed by a second swimming area, the Roman Pool, so large that Hearst built two tennis courts on its roof. The pool building is lined with brilliantly colored Venetian glass tiles, with tiles of 22-carat gold furnishing design contrast.

* * * *

TOURS begin at the foot of Enchanted Hill, just off Hwy. 1 at the village of San Simeon, about 45 miles northwest of San Luis Obispo. On the 10-mile round trip bus ride along a winding road leading to the castle visitors may still see remnants of imported wildlife Hearst brought to his baronial estate. Among these are zebra, tahr goat and aoudad (Barbary sheep), but in Hearst's time his "zoo" also included lions, cheetahs, a polar bear and other animals housed in special enclosures.—

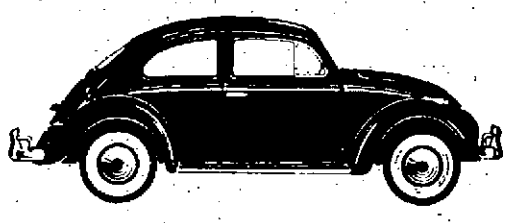

Two tours are offered: Tour One takes in the grounds and lower level only of the mansion; Tour Two covers only the upper levels of the mansion. Tour Three, which will cover the "New Wing" of the mansion, remains to

HEARST CASTLE'S TWIN TOWERS, patterned after a Spanish cathedral, rise 137 feet and may be seen from Hwy. 1 in the San Simeon area.

Art that is woven in history

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

Long ago the nobles of France, viewing their great halls with distaste for the long, bare walls and with shivers when chill winds blew, turned to weavers for relief.

The art of tapestry came from the Mediterranean with traditions derived from the ancient silk trade cities of Babylon, Ninevah, Tyre and Sidon. This pictorial, narrative art reflected the cultural histories of ancient China, Peru, Egypt and Greece.

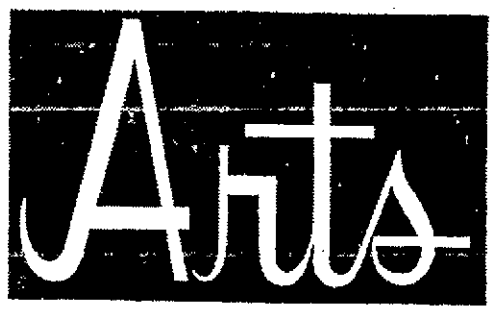

But it was in France in the middle ages that the art began its greatest era in Europe and it was there that the famous workshops of Gobelin and Aubusson set new standards.

From the workshops at Aubusson have come some of the modern tapestries in an exhibit of 53 contemporary pieces which may be seen at the Plaza Gallcy of the California Federal Building, 5670 Wilshire Blvd. Others are from the studio of an independent weaver of great originality, Yvette Caquil-Prince. It is largely from her studies at the Beaux Arts Academy in Paris and from her independent research into the ancient art, that the renaissance of master weaving has surged. To her atelier have come such artists as Calder, Miro, Picasso and Chagall.

With its freshness of color and imaginative design, contemporary tapestry is bespelling the modern collector who, like the ancient French, values this decorative art although his split-level home is free from drafts.

The exhibit, displayed in all areas of the auditorium foyers and the Plaza Gallery on the third floor of California Federal, may be seen through May 16.

LONG BEACH Art Association imposed no demands or restrictions on artists for its annual "Shibui Show," leaving each free to interpret that nebulous word in his own way.

"The response was gratifying — the versatility encompasses the full spectrum of media," said Betty Anne Kirkpatrick, exhibit chairman.

The show opens today at 1 p.m. in the LBAA Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. and will hang through April.

First prize went to Dorre Stogner for her "Memory of Spring," second to Annabelle Clifton for "Landscape." Honorable mentions were awarded to Kathleen Neal, Carl Broderick, Anna Hayes and Vesta Carton.

TWO PROMINENT Long Beach artists, husband and wife Ben Messick and Velma Hay, will host the spring tea of the National League of American Pen Women Saturday at 1 p.m.

In the studio-gallery, guests may view Messick's watercolors of Old Chinatown, the Chavez Ravine and the Harbor Area before changes remade the landscapes. An internationally honored artist, Messick has had his work sent by the U.S. Department of State to more than 70 countries.

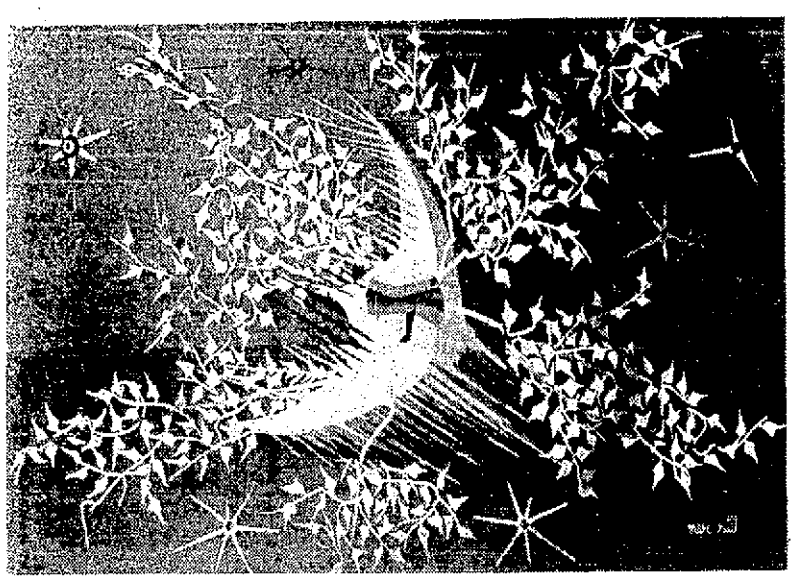

Of equal interest will be the distinctive, mystical paintings by Velma Hay.

Program chairman Mrs. Malena Werner has arranged an open forum discussion. Alice Tenneson Hawkins and Margaret Roxby will read from their published works.

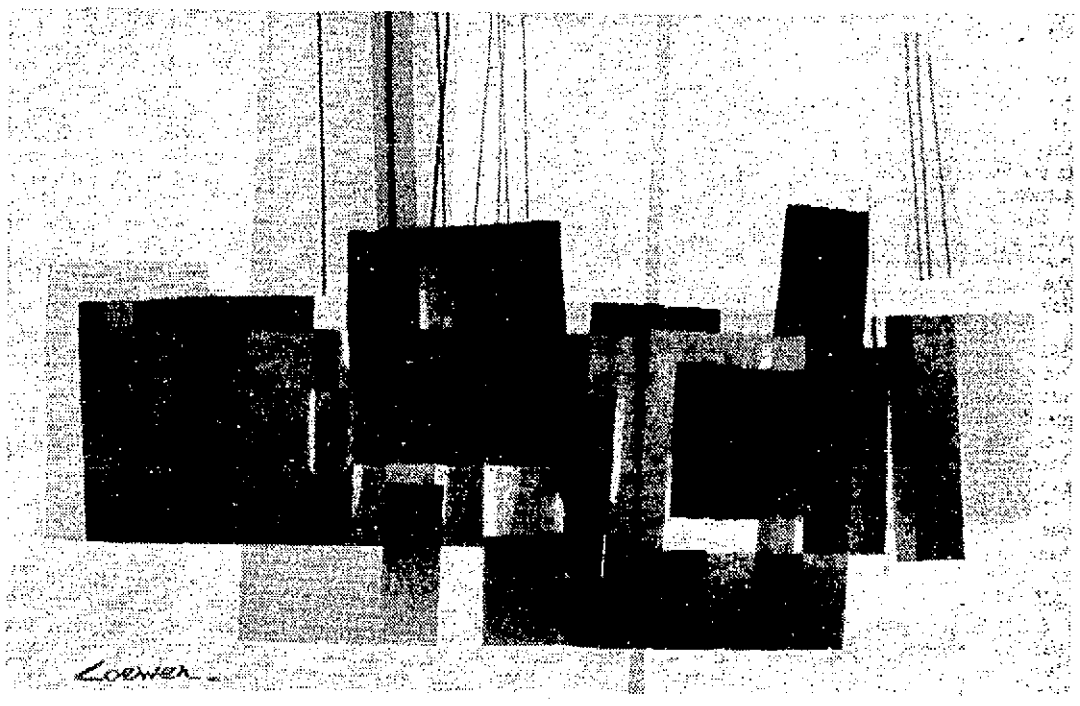

CURRENTLY in the galleries of California State College, Long Beach, are the National Invitational Spring Show, which will hang through April 30, and a photographic design exhibit by graduate student Bert Davis.

WITH NEW officers and a new gallery, San Pedro Art Association has plans for expanded activity but for the moment the gallery is open "on weekends from noon to 4 p.m. as sitters are available."

The gallery is located at 2937 Pacific Ave. New officers are Peter Allen, president; Diane Allen, Barbara Kneafsey, Pat Krzeminski, Iris Kalb and Eddy Farwell. Allen also won first place in the juried show now on exhibit.

Saucy 'Irma La Douce' challenges costume crew

"Irma La Douce," that saucy Broadway, London and Paris musical about a "poule" and her lawyer-lover, opens a seven-night run Thursday at California State College, Long Beach.

"This is a story about passion, bloodshed, desire and death," says the hotel keeper in the opening lines. "It happened not so long ago in Paris, in the narrow streets behind Pigalle. We call this part of Paris the "Milieu," where the only crime is to get caught—"

But New York Times critic Howard Taubman observed, "Trust the French to make vice as innocent as a fable. In 'Irma La Douce' the Gallic gift for genial satire turns an evil-ridden district around the Place Pigalle into a kind of cynical fairyland and its depraved inhabitants into charming acquaintances."

CONCOCTING this musical souffle are the department of music and the department of theater arts under the direction of Dr. Hans Lampl and Dr. Kenneth Lyman. Hilary Maveety as Irma and Michael Wieben as Nestor head the cast.

A rough estimate of time so far totaled by the 25 student construction crew members, staff, assistants and faculty advisors is 4,000 hours but this doesn't take into account the costume crew.

Challenge to costume designer Herbert L. Camburn, associate professor in the department of theater arts, was to supply numerous quick costume changes for the fast-paced musical.

At one point there is a 10-second change for Nestor, who masquerades in the double life of Oscar and the "mec" lover of Irma. He appears on one side of a kiosk as Nestor then in an instant comes out the other as Oscar. There's a quick change pregnancy-pad for Irma that curves her figure in 30 seconds.

SINCE MOST of the 25-member cast are dual or triple cast and most dance as well as sing, Camburn had the double problem of designing colorful and exciting costumes that will take the strain of high jumps, splits and kicks but can be donned or discarded instantly.

Special inserts were made in all the men's pants, and all the girls' Apache skirts, though they appear very tight, have special plackets in the back so that leaps can be free and easy.

How to design costmes with a theatrical comedy flare, of no particular period, not too close to today's Mod men's styles? "I certainly didn't want the inhabitants of Pigalle to look as if they had just left Sunset Boulevard for a quick trip to CSLB," said Camburn.

And so the costume crew cuts and stitches and trims and fits, rushing toward opening night. The musical will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and again April 23, 24 and 25. After each of these performances, the unsung costumers will collect press and put away the show's wardrobe, leaving all in perfect condition befor they switch off the last light.

STITCH, STITCH, STITCH IS THE LOT OF LOUISE HASSELL AND MARGARET HOLLAND, PART OF THE 'IRMA' COSTUME CREW.

'WORK IN PROGRESS'

Faculty show finely-polished

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Art Faculty Show at Long Beach City College, 4901 Carson Ave., is a little jewel. Works, other than some enormous woven panels, are small in scale and finely-polished.

There is a sense of work in progress and exploration, highly commendable qualities in those with daily routines in the classroom.

Robert McMenomy's ceramics are distilled to the essence of form in stonewares: lidded jars and containers. His glazes are in earth tones which are both carefully controlled and natural. He offers, as well, a 4-ft. sculpture of steel rods, floor-standing, connected so that the terminal discs tremble and shimmer when the work is touched.

Theodore Baird, department chairman, is represented by three painterly canvasses and a painted relief which are abstract in a poetic manner. Other painters shown are Richard Keyes and Thomas Hawkins. Keyes' subject is landscape, economically but solidly indicated. He, like Baird, has a strong, directional brush stroke.

HAWKINS, on the other hand, is preoccupied with the back yard—the old-fashioned, unlandscaped backyard—in which nature surrounds human beings.

Joseph Hooten is most successful in several carefully controlled drawings. They, like his graphics, are highly personal showing puzzling relationships between the human, animal and natural worlds.

Joan Benkoff's three serigraphs are beautifully colored; her one engraving is achieved in rhythmic, textured strokes.

Norma Matlin is exploring clear plastic boxes, small in scale. One is stuffed with small, clear electric light globes which glow or blink in a friendly manner.

TOSHIKO GOTO is responsible for the aforementioned woven hangings of the four seasons, and a smaller one, "Baba-Yaga" made of fibres, bamboo, and ceramic pendants.

Over all this careful work looms an enormous black plastic reptile, air-filled, which, in its writhing convolutions, seems to be trying to shed its skin. This is by James Simpson, gallery director, who designed the very restrained display.

Gallery hours, through April 25, are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays thru Thursdays, and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Fridays.

Ahrold to show African slides

Long Beach composer and pianist Frank Ahrold will show slides of his recent trip to Africa for Lakewood Branch of Music Teachers Association Tuesday. Anyone interested is invited to attend the 9:30 a.m. social hour and following program in the home of Mrs. Robert F. Alton, 6528 Metz St.

TRAVELS WITH DELAPLANE

Mexico-curious country of beauty

By STAN DELAPLANE

MORELIA, Mexico — The first thing, when I wanted to go down to Mexico, I called Mexicana and asked for the round-trip fair, San Francisco-Mazatlan. The girl said, "175.20." And how much to make it Guadalajara? "That's $190.60." That's good — you can't drive it for that.

I said: "How about if I make it onward, all the way to Mexico City?" She said that round-trip fare was $190. I said, "Now come, it's 60 cents LESS for going 400 miles MORE?"

"Beats me," she said. "That's what the book says."

Well, here's a curious country where one of the most popular enchilada stands shut down because, "Too many people asked for them, Senor."

You could try Morelia before Americans come in by the "colony," cocktail parties come every night and Time comes each week.

It's one of the prettiest towns in Mexico. A great Cathedral in the sun. A flowery plaza. Arches over the sidewalks where you have morning coffee and the Indians come down the street, burros loaded with brick-red pottery.

Villa Montana and Villa San Jose up in the pine tree hills are two of the finest in Mexico. You're only six hours from Mexico City. It's high enough in the lake country to be cool. The Spanish Viceroys came here for the summer.

Down in town you can live in the old palace, the Virrey de Mendoza. All stone and leather and wood doors, much as when the Viceroy lived here. Insist on the front rooms with high ceilings and French doors. The back rooms must have been for the help.

* * * *

"If we moved into a small town in Mexico could I work? And what kind of jobs are there?"

A FOREIGNER can't work in Mexico. They're very starchy about that. If you retire here with certain immigrant-type papers, you can work after five years.

* * * *

"This will be our first trip—to Japan. I hope we don't run into any strange customs we don't understand, and is any preparation needed?"

IF I WERE YOU, I'd get a set of chopsticks (called o-hashi in Japan) and practice. Western-style hotels will give you silver. But you'll surely run into some places where it's sticks or starve.

No tipping in Japan. (Except airport porters.) You don't tip bellboys, doormen, waiters, taxi drivers. Western hotels will have our kind of baths. But in the country they may be Japanese baths. Dip hot water from the sunken wooden tub with the wooden bucket. Pour it over yourself. Soap. Rinse off all the soap! Then get in the tub and soak.

You will also get the most flimsy towel you ever saw. It's supposed to be that way to soak up water. Wring it out and dry with the wet towel. And surprisingly, you come out drier than with our big fluffy towels.

* * * *

"What is the tipping custom in Ireland?"

FOR THE SAME services as we do in the U.S. but not so much and not so often. Ireland is a light tipping country — 10 per cent on a restaurant bill. You could make it 12 in the elegant Gresham or Russell in Dublin. Very good book of Irish tours on your own just came out from Irish International Airlines, 572 Fifth avenue, New York City.

* * * *

"Is it difficult to drive in Ireland?"

I DON'T find it so. They drive on the left as in England, and you'll probably get a rent car with the wheel on the right. No great distances to drive — from Dublin in the east to Galway on the Atlantic coast is only eight hours with time out for lunch at Athlone.

I was stuck in mud down near Killarney, and two farmers came along and pushed me out. Up in Connemara, a farmer came out of his house in the rain and insisted on changing a tire for me. I've never had so much roadside volunteer help.

It will puzzle you that Irish country hotels don't give you a door key. But no more than it puzzles them that you ask for one. "Ah, they've all been lost long ago," the maid told me. "And a good thing. It was a nuisance keeping track of them."

Half million to visit castle

be announced. It is suggested that Tour One be taken first.

Each tour takes about two hours and entails considerable walking and stair-climbing, and the Department does not recommend a visit for those who find climbing difficult. Wheelchairs, strollers and other wheeled conveyances cannot negotiate the tour routes or be transported on the tour buses.

Tour One non-reserved tickets cost $2 for adults, $1 for children 6-12; reserved tickets, $3 and $2, respectively. Tour Two reserved and non-reserved tickets are $4 and $2. Children under age 6 are admitted free if they do not occupy a separate seat on the bus.

* * * *

RESERVATIONS for the tours will be accepted up to 60 days in advance but not less than 10 days in advance. Organized group tour reservations may be made up to six months in advance, but these are limited and no group rates are extended except to youth groups during the off season. Tickets are sold on a first-come-first-served basis by writing the State Department of Parks and Recreation, Box 2390, Sacramento, Cal. 95811. Refunds will be made (less $1 cancellation charge per ticket) if notice is received at least 48 hours before the scheduled tour.

CAMERAS without attachments, tripods and the like may be carried on the tours and pictures taken on the grounds only.

If you are one of the more than half-million expecting to visit the castle this year, the Department suggests that you should find good overnight and restaurant and hotel accommodation at one of several nearby towns whose chambers of commerce respond to requests for additional information.

Italy gas prices favor tourists

The Italian Government Tourist Department announced in Rome that the council of ministers, which has increased the cost of gasoline in Italy, has accepted a recommendation to exempt tourists in possession of gasoline coupons from this increase.

While the price of gasoline is increased to 130 lire per liter for regular (Normale) and to 140 lire per liter for high-test gasoline (Super), the cost of gasoline coupons remains the same — 46 cents per U.S. gallon (regular) and 53 cents for high-test: this represents a discount of about 40% for the tourists. Discount gasoline coupons are offered to visitors who drive a vehicle registered outside of Italy. Local rentals are excluded from the plan.

Discover the Pacific with P&O!

Take P&O's September Circle Pacific Holiday and season-hop to autumn in the Orient. Spring "down under." Summer-warm south sea islands. For 8 glorious weeks a big ship built for the sun is your home. A crew of hundreds spoils you with super British Service. At each meal you're tempted with dozens of dishes. And you discover a whole new world without a worry.

P&O's sunny ship Oronsay takes you to the Orient and Australia. You explore Japan for 5 bright autumn days. Cruise through the island-studded Inland Sea. And have 2 full days to treasure hunt for silks, pearls, or perfumes in Hong Kong.

Sydney blossoms with spring. You leave Oronsay and come aboard P&O's trim liner Iberia for more sunny sea days. You swim. Soak up sea breezes. Play chess or cards on a shady verandah. At night, join the ballroom set or take in a lively pub party. The choice is yours as you sail on to visit Auckland with its tidy green boulevards. You see Fiji's fearless fire-walkers and Pago Pago's lush, lava-ringed harbor. Make one more Hawaii call. Then, reluctantly leave the ship where you first stepped aboard.

When you circle the Pacific with P&O, everything's arranged and everything's included! Japan tour. Shore excursions. Escorts. With Tourist Class ship accommodations, P&O's package starts at $1342. With First Class, $1808.

Oronsay sails from Vancouver September 17, San Francisco September 20, and Los Angeles September 21. See your travel agent. Or mail the coupon for information.

SAFETY INFORMATION: Oronsay and Iberia, registered in Great Britain, substantially meet International Safety Standards for new ships developed in 1948, and meet the 1966 Fire Safety Requirements.

Bid by South is failure

Today's hand might well cause our modern experts trouble. No one has worked out a truly scientific method of handling a nine-card suit headed by the ace-10.

The bidding in the box took place back in 1930. North and South were two of the greatest players of that day and the bidding in the box shows how they arrived at seven spades.

East had no problem with his opening lead. He placed the ace of clubs on the table and North was down one.

The difference between 1930 bidding and modern bidding can be shown by listening to South's comments. His first comment was that he might well have opened with a strong two-bid.

Two-bids were weaker back then but South's hand did not come close to being worth even a 1930 two-bid.

SOUTH'S contention was that since he had failed to open with a two-bid, the only way he could show his strength was a jump to three no-trump.

A modern player would have merely rebid three diamonds. So would most of the top players of that day. They would be taking some chance of missing a game, but not much.

From the first days of contract, most players have recognized the desirability of getting to game.

Anyway, South did rebid to three no-trump and North jumped to six spades. We do feel that a five-spade call would have been sounder, and South pointed out in several well-chosen words that if North had just bid five spades, South would have carried on to six.

On the other hand, no one twisted South's arm to make him bid the grand slam. He was flying blind in a fog when he made that bid and had no reason to jeopardize game, small slam and rubber.

Flowers, music hat show theme

Hats abloom with fresh garden flowers and bearing song titles will compete in 12 categories at Lakewood Women's Club's annual "Flowers and Music" hat show Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Lakewood Country Club.

The creations will be judged on originality and comic design. A special sweepstakes award will go to the winner of the greatest number of ribbons.

Judges will be Mrs. Grotten McKenzie, garden chairman of Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, and her assistants Mrs. Harry Morch and Mrs. Don West.

THE EVENT is to be staged by the garden section of the Lakewood club under chairmanship of Mrs. Robert A. Braham. For further information about the show, call Mrs. Braham, 2913 Silva St.

Many members of the club are planning to attend the District Convention April 21 and 22 at the Grand Hotel in Anaheim where awards for outstanding achievements will be made. At a fashion luncheon, members will model their own creations in many categories.

S.D. to revive 'Don Quixote'

San Diego Opera will present Jules Massenet's "Don Quixote" April 24 and 26 at 8 p.m. in San Diego Civic Theater. This will be the first professional production of the work in the United States since 1929 and the first ever to be sung in English.

Michael Devlin in the title role, Andrew Foldi as Sancho Panza, and Nedda Casei as Dulcinea head the cast of 10. Walter Herbert is artistic director and conductor.

Maui—an island of infinite variety for visitors

MAUI, Hawaii — The 10,000-foot majestic rise of mountain that is Haleakala on the southern half of this island dominates the entire landscape.

The volcanic formation gives the visitor varying changes of climate and scenery as the ascent of the mountain is made. The unparalleled view from the top (unless you're in an airplane) is usually a game of peek-a-boo because of the layer of clouds that rings the mountain more often than not.

But on a clear day, you can just about see forever, and the hour-and-a-half drive from the Kahului Airport, where visitors usually arrive at Maui, is a rewarding experience. Inside the crater are colors to challenge the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

There are really two resort areas on the Valley Isle, as Maui is known, and they are distinctly different. On the east end of Maui in lush, tropical land is Hana, location of the Hasegawa General Store which is the subject of a popular song. Nearby are the Seven Sacred Pools which only recently became part of the Haleakala National Park.

* * * *

ON THE western shore are Lahaina and Kaanapali, historical old whaling town and new resort developments, respectively. This is the dry side of the island that is blooming in tourist attraction innovations.

Along this same shoreline but to the south is Kihei, a "wide spot in the road" that is beginning to build for the tourist industry so that visitors can enjoy the long expanse of beautiful white beach that outlines Maalaea Bay.

One of the island's points of interest, literally, is the Iao Needle, a fingerlike rocky formation that is the center of attention in the Iao Valley Park. The park is only about four miles from Kahului Airport. It is a short detour for the driver headed for the Lahaina area to duck into the Iao Valley and see the abruptly rising sides of the valley covered in their moss green "velour." The lights and shadows result in ever-changing visual effects that are lovely to look at and can fascinate the viewer much as watching flames of a fire.

* * * *

FROM KAHULUI the drive to Lahaina takes about 30 minutes through the narrow isthmus of the island past sugar cane fields and along the west coast heading north.

The charm of Lahaina is its atmosphere of the early 1800s. On the waterfront is the Pioneer Inn, the decor of which is in keeping with the whaling era. A variety of small shops with locally made wares as well as imported items, such as jewelry and wearing apparel, give the visitor plenty of opportunity for just browsing or buying.

North of Lahaina is Kaanapali which is the starting point for a string of hotels that range in price from very expensive to moderate. At Kaanapali is a long strand of white beach, but further north the beaches are in small, picturesque coves.

* * * *

PINEAPPLE fields blanket the slopes of gently rising land as far as one can see. At Honolua is a plantation village complete with general store.

Maui is midway in the Hawaiian chain and only 30 minutes jet flying time from Honolulu. For travelers in less hurry and more interested in "flight-seeing" along the way there are slower and lower-flying propellered aircraft to get you there.

Air taxi services from Honolulu provide small, twin-engine aircraft transportation to the three airports on Maui — at Hana, Kahului and Kaanapali — as well as to the other islands.

Oldest L.A. ship agency will expand

Williams, Dimond & Co., the oldest steamship general agency on the West Coast, will expand its representational activities to include all phases of the travel industry and on a nationwide basis, according to Robert F. Holbrook, the firm's president.

A subsidiary company, Williams, Dimond International, has been established to handle the new operation. The activities of WDI will be headed up by vice presidents Ken Ziv, currently Williams, Dimond & Co.'s passenger manager, and Don Hough, formerly interline manager for American Airlines in Los Angeles.

Immediate plans call for the expansion of existing passenger departments in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle, geared to handle the broader spectrum of representations. In addition, offices in major U.S. cities will open shortly.

The present steamship passenger representations will continue to be directed by Ziv, while airline accounts will be under the management of Hough. Specialized personnel are joining the firm to handle representations for hotels, tour operators, bus companies and others.

Target date for full operation is set for May 1.

Aeronaves links Mexican spas

In a realignment of airline routes and schedules, the popular jet set spas — "get-away-from-it-all" resorts and fishing areas — of Mexico's golden west coast have been linked by Aeronaves de Mexico's DC-9 jet service. With stop-over privileges, travelers may now fly from Los Angeles to La Paz, La Paz to Puerto Vallarta, Puerto Vallarta to Acapulco, then on to Mexico City, colonial Guadalajara and back to Los Angeles.

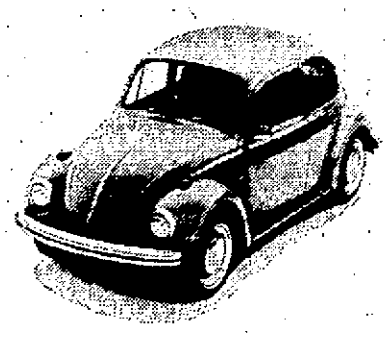

This exlusive air route presents a good way to be introduced to the best of Mexico. The round-trip air fare for the entire package is just $184.

Takeoff to teeoff tours get going

From takeoff to teeoff, Delta Air Lines is offering magic golfing carpet package tours in southern U.S.A. and near-by Caribbean Islands. The seven-day, six night golf vacations are arranged conveniently to match the new early morning Los Angeles departures of Deltas Montego Bay and San Juan jets. Priced from $190.50 to $244 per person, double occupancy until Dec. 15, the packages include gourmet dinners, tropical breakfasts, greens fees, golf cart, golf balls, golf hat, and use of beach and pool facilities where available, transfers between airport and hotel.

Four of the golfing destinations included are Runway Bay Hotel and Country Club, and Tryall Golf and Beach Club, Jamaica; El Conquistador, Las Croabas, and Dorado Beach Hotel, Puerto Rico.

TOUR SCHEDULES ANNOUNCED

Hearst Castle to lure half million visitors during present year

By FRED TAYLOR KRAFT
Travel Editor

One of the world's fabled showplaces, known to most as the Hearst Castle but referred to by its builder, the late newspaper tycoon William Randolph Hearst as La Casa Grande, continues to be a major California tourist attraction after a decade of operation under state management as the Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument.

KRAFT

The great mansion, overlooking the Pacific at San Simeon, approximately 275 miles from the Long Beach - Orange County area on Hwy. 1, last year attracted 491,310 visitors from all over the world who paid $1,166,236 to tour its 100 rooms and the 123 acres of lavish gardens, terraces, pools and palatial guesthouses.

It was a half-century ago — in 1919 — that Hearst began construction of sprawling La Casa Grande as a family home where he could also display $50 million worth of art treasures he had collected from every corner of the world. It was there that he later lived and worked, and entertained movie stars, diplomats, kings and potentates.

The guests arrived at his invitation in an almost endless procession. He put them up in guesthouses and 38 bedrooms of the mansion, and entertained them in a style that became legendary even in his own time.

* * * *

THEN, in 1958, seven years after his death, the Hearst Corporation, with the approval of the family, presented La Cuesta Encantada to the State of California with the understanding that it be preserved as a memorial not only to Hearst himself but also to his mother. In the first 11 years as a state historical monument it has been visited by almost 5 million persons.

Reactions of these visitors differ. Some are all but overwhelmed by what they see, and well they should be. Into this layout went ancient Roman and Grecian temples, Pompeiian mosiacs, English castles, French chateaux and churches which were dismantled and sent by sea to San Simeon where they were rebuilt with meticulous care to create an overall effect of rare beauty.

Antiques of uncommon value abound in the castle rooms. A salmagundi of paintings, statues and furnishings by some of the world's most famous artisans from many eras of civilization going all the way back to ancient Egypt hang on the walls of the mansion and in its guest houses, in the gardens, and surrounding the 345,000-gallon outdoor Neptune Pool.

Rare building materials, exotic marbles, hundreds of thousands of tiles, frescoes, tapestries and acres of imported plants blended into the setting have been preserved as Hearst would have them preserved.

* * * *

HEARST felt that the Neptune Pool was one of his finer accomplishments in the creation of La Cuesta Encantada. Constructed of concrete and faced with marble, its 104-foot length offers a beautiful setting for the Greco-Roman temple facade that forms its backdrop in front of the castle. White marble statues at the edge of the pool and in the recessed alcove appear to float on the water. Etruscan - styled colonnades at each end of the pool complete the classic concept.

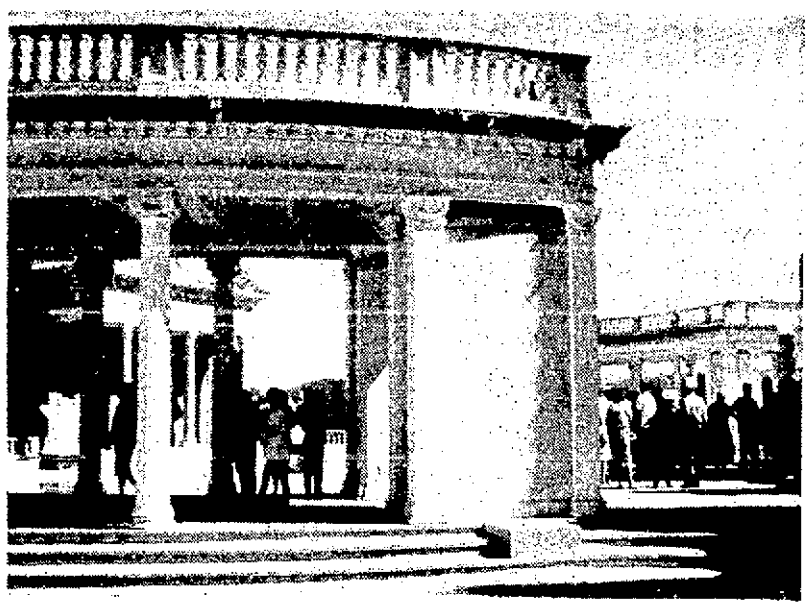

Visitors are also impressed by a second swimming area, the Roman Pool, so large that Hearst built two tennis courts on its roof. The pool building is lined with brilliantly colored Venetian glass tiles, with tiles of 22-carat gold furnishing design contrast.

* * * *

TOURS begin at the foot of Enchanted Hill, just off Hwy. 1 at the village of San Simeon, about 45 miles northwest of San Luis Obispo. On the 10-mile round trip bus ride along a winding road leading to the castle visitors may still see remnants of imported wildlife Hearst brought to his baronial estate. Among these are zebra, tahr goat and aoudad (Barbary sheep), but in Hearst's time his "zoo" also included lions, cheetahs, a polar bear and other animals housed in special enclosures.—

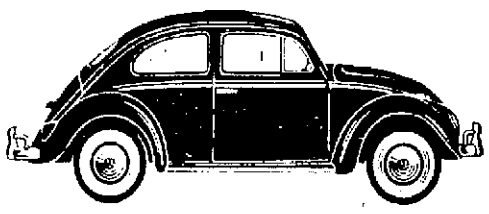

Two tours are offered: Tour One takes in the grounds and lower level only of the mansion; Tour Two covers only the upper levels of the mansion. Tour Three, which will cover the "New Wing" of the mansion, remains to

TOUR PARTY VIEWS NEPTUNE POOL, which offers a beautiful setting for the Greco-Roman temple facade that forms its backdrop in front of the Hearst Castle. (State Department of Public Works photo).

HEARST CASTLE'S TWIN TOWERS, patterned after a Spanish cathedral, rise 137 feet and may be seen from Hwy. 1 in the San Simeon area.

'BLARNEY,' CRIED THE QUEEN

A kiss gave eloquence?

By GORDON QUARNSTROM

CORK, Ireland — In an ancient castle near here is a stone known round the world, famed in legend, song and story, sought out by thousands of visitors each year ... the Blarney Stone, of course.

Come along on a visit to Blarney Castle, only a few miles from Cork and easily reached motoring between Dublin and Shannon. You'll find the castle itself well worth a careful inspection, and you will have the Blarney Stone and the nearby Rock Close (said to date from Druidic times) as added pleasures.

Blarney Castle rises about 120 feet above a park-like area. You reach it by crossing two bridges over the River Martin, which drains the bog of Inchacumawn, getting your first view when the northern side of the keep towers up in front of you. Ancient dungeons may be seen at ground level, and under a line of battlements lies the escape tunnel. It connects with underground passages and had an outlet near Blarney Lake in ages past.

* * * *

CLIMB the steep winding stairs and you return to ancient days, for the castle was built in 1446 by the King of Munster, and you will see the fireplace used to heat the cauldrons of tar and oil used in defense in time of siege, the slit window through which an archer could fire, the great dining hall once used for banquets.

And you will come atop the battlements to the Blarney Stone. It is a block of limestone 49 inches long, 13 inches wide and 9 inches in depth. Legend says that the lips which kiss it will receive the gift of eloquence, so you empty your pockets of valuables, lie flat on your back, grab two upright iron bars and lean far over the edge to kiss the stone about two feet below the battlement. It's wise to have your ankles held and to have help in getting back to an upright position. Maybe after that you will have the gift of "fair words in soft speech" once accredited to the MacCarthy who reigned in Munster during Queen Elizabeth's time.

Terence Hougton of Irish International Airlines explains that while professing to be the Queen's loyal Baron of Blarney, MacCarthy never fulfilled any promise he made. Eventually, in disgust, the queen cried out: "Blarney, Blarney, what he says he does not mean. It is the usual blarney."

IT TAKES A LITTLE DOING, as this picture proves, to kiss the Blarney Stone, but this visitor to Blarney Castle, Ireland, prepares to do just that. (Photo by Kevin Coleman, Killarney).

Matson offers 'Paradise Found'

A visit to the strange and famous Galapagos Islands will be one of the highlights of Matson Lines' new cruise to the west coast of South America this Spring.

This first venture into South American waters for Matson begins May 18 from Los Angeles aboard the liner SS Monterey. Ports of call will be Mazatlan and Acapulco, Mexico; the Galapagos Islands and Guayaquil, Ecuador; Lima Peru; Taboga, Panama and Balboa in the Canal Zone.

Throughout the cruise, and exciting variety of optional shore excursions is available. Passengers will be able to enjoy the tempo of modern cities and resorts, and also explore the ruins of ancient Inca cultures.

The call at the Galapagos Islands with their remarkable wildlife will be a "paradise found" for those interested in the natural sciences. Here is where Charles Darwin developed his evolutionary ideas, and unusual and often humorously sounding creatures like the vermilion flycatcher or the masked booby can be viewed at close hand.

Fares for this South American adventure cruise begin at $1,180 from the West Coast.

Trolley Car Era Revived in Perris

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — Anyone nostalgic for the whine of electric motors and the clang of old-time street car bells can relive the experience in a stretch of scenic valley at Perris south of here.

Nearly 100 pieces of electric powered rolling stock are either operable or being refurbished by a faithful group of street car buffs in what has become the third largest trolley car museum in the country.

They named it the Orange Empire Trolly Museum in memory of the Orange Empire Trolley tours which the Pacific Electric Railway, then the world's largest trolley system, used to run through the orange grove country as a favorite tourist attraction a generation ago.

* * * *

A WEEKEND visit to the museum is fascinating, according to the Southern California Visitors Council. That's when the 300 trolley buffs making up the museum membership are at work. They're doctors, lawyers, painters, businessmen. But they may be laying track, setting poles, stringing trolley wire, painting, upholstering or overhauling electric motors.

A family may take on the restoration of one particular car as a project and spend years at it.

One of the Big Red Cars of the Pacific Electric has been restored to tip-top shape and you can take a ride on it over half a mile of track. Rides are usually every half hour Sunday afternoons and some holidays except from July 4 to Labor Day. A trolley buff who has special safety training is the motorman.

ALL KINDS of trolley cars from the old wooden models, to the most modern streamliners are parked on the circles of track. Some were donated by discontinued lines and others were rescued after use as roadside diners or chicken coops.

One excellently restored car that you won't want to ride in is the "Descanse" of the old narrow gauge Los Angeles street railway. It used to make special trips from "mortuary row" in Los Angeles to a cemetery that had a loop of track.

With a special compartment for the coffin and seats for the mourners, it was one of the few electric railway "funeral cars."

TRAVELS WITH DELAPLANE

Mexico-curious country of beauty

By STAN DELAPLANE

MORELIA, Mexico — The first thing, when I wanted to go down to Mexico, I called Mexicana and asked for the round-trip fair, San Francisco-Mazatlan. The girl said, "175.20." And how much to make it Guadalajara? "That's $190.60." That's good — you can't drive it for that.

I said: "How about if I make it onward, all the way to Mexico City?" She said that round-trip fare was $190. I said, "Now come, it's 60 cents LESS for going 400 miles MORE?"

"Beats me," she said. "That's what the book says."

Well, here's a curious country where one of the most popular enchilada stands shut down because, "Too many people asked for them, Senor."

You could try Morelia before Americans come in by the "colony," cocktail parties come every night and Time comes each week.

It's one of the prettiest towns in Mexico. A great Cathedral in the sun. A flowery plaza. Arches over the sidewalks where you have morning coffee and the Indians come down the street, burros loaded with brick-red pottery.

Villa Montana and Villa San Jose up in the pine tree hills are two of the finest in Mexico. You're only six hours from Mexico City. It's high enough in the lake country to be cool. The Spanish Viceroys came here for the summer.

Down in town you can live in the old palace, the Virrey de Mendoza. All stone and leather and wood doors, much as when the Viceroy lived here. Insist on the front rooms with high ceilings and French doors. The back rooms must have been for the help.

* * * *

"If we moved into a small town in Mexico could I work? And what kind of jobs are there?"

A FOREIGNER can't work in Mexico. They're very starchy about that. If you retire here with certain immigrant-type papers, you can work after five years.

* * * *

"This will be our first trip—to Japan. I hope we don't run into any strange customs we don't understand, and is any preparation needed?"

IF I WERE YOU, I'd get a set of chopsticks (called o-hashi in Japan) and practice. Western-style hotels will give you silver. But you'll surely run into some places where it's sticks or starve.

No tipping in Japan. (Except airport porters.) You don't tip bellboys, doormen, waiters, taxi drivers. Western hotels will have our kind of baths. But in the country they may be Japanese baths. Dip hot water from the sunken wooden tub with the wooden bucket. Pour it over yourself. Soap. Rinse off all the soap! Then get in the tub and soak.

You will also get the most flimsy towel you ever saw. It's supposed to be that way to soak up water. Wring it out and dry with the wet towel. And surprisingly, you come out drier than with our big fluffy towels.

* * * *

"What is the tipping custom in Ireland?"

FOR THE SAME services as we do in the U.S. but not so much and not so often. Ireland is a light tipping country — 10 per cent on a restaurant bill. You could make it 12 in the elegant Gresham or Russell in Dublin. Very good book of Irish tours on your own just came out from Irish International Airlines, 572 Fifth avenue, New York City.

* * * *

"Is it difficult to drive in Ireland?"

I DON'T find it so. They drive on the left as in England, and you'll probably get a rent car with the wheel on the right. No great distances to drive — from Dublin in the east to Galway on the Atlantic coast is only eight hours with time out for lunch at Athlone.

I was stuck in mud down near Killarney, and two farmers came along and pushed me out. Up in Connemara, a farmer came out of his house in the rain and insisted on changing a tire for me. I've never had so much roadside volunteer help.

It will puzzle you that Irish country hotels don't give you a door key. But no more than it puzzles them that you ask for one. "Ah, they've all been lost long ago," the maid told me. "And a good thing. It was a nuisance keeping track of them."

Half million to visit castle

be announced. It is suggested that Tour One be taken first.

Each tour takes about two hours and entails considerable walking and stair-climbing, and the Department does not recommend a visit for those who find climbing difficult. Wheelchairs, strollers and other wheeled conveyances cannot negotiate the tour routes or be transported on the tour buses.

Tour One non-reserved tickets cost $2 for adults, $1 for children 6-12; reserved tickets, $3 and $2, respectively. Tour Two reserved and non-reserved tickets are $4 and $2. Children under age 6 are admitted free if they do not occupy a separate seat on the bus.

* * * *

RESERVATIONS for the tours will be accepted up to 60 days in advance but not less than 10 days in advance. Organized group tour reservations may be made up to six months in advance, but these are limited and no group rates are extended except to youth groups during the off season. Tickets are sold on a first-come-first-served basis by writing the State Department of Parks and Recreation, Box 2390, Sacramento, Cal. 95811. Refunds will be made (less $1 cancellation charge per ticket) if notice is received at least 48 hours before the scheduled tour.

CAMERAS without attachments, tripods and the like may be carried on the tours and pictures taken on the grounds only.

If you are one of the more than half-million expecting to visit the castle this year, the Department suggests that you should find good overnight and restaurant and hotel accommodation at one of several nearby towns whose chambers of commerce respond to requests for additional information.

Travel and RESORTS

Italy gas prices favor tourists

The Italian Government Tourist Department announced in Rome that the council of ministers, which has increased the cost of gasoline in Italy, has accepted a recommendation to exempt tourists in possession of gasoline coupons from this increase.

While the price of gasoline is increased to 130 lire per liter for regular (Normale) and to 140 lire per liter for high-test gasoline (Super), the cost of gasoline coupons remains the same — 46 cents per U.S. gallon (regular) and 53 cents for high-test: this represents a discount of about 40% for the tourists. Discount gasoline coupons are offered to visitors who drive a vehicle registered outside of Italy. Local rentals are excluded from the plan.

Wins promotion with Alitalia

Desmond E. Nesbitt, who with his wife and two children live in Orange, has been promoted to Los Angeles district sales manager for Alitalia Airlines, 5670 Wilshire Blvd., according to Mario M. Gavini, western regional manager of the carrier.

A FUN CAR AT A FUN PLACE

'69 Cortina is value packed

Story and Photos By BILL EMERY

A spectacular, modern oasis in the exclusive Palm Springs golf resort complex and a rallye-proven compact sedan from the homeland of the Queen Mary share the spotlight on this pleasure-bent week-end outing.

With a brand new 1969 Cortina 1600-V two-door sedan borrowed from Herb Baldwin, owner of Plaza Motors at 17439 Clark Ave. in Bellflower, our journey to The Inn at Bermuda Dunes Country Club near Indio took scarcely two hours.

The 1600-V two-door and four-door models are new to the Cortina line this year, although they share the same basic dimensions as the Deluxe and GT series. All models have a wheelbase of 98 inches, and, except for the slightly longer station wagons, the sedans are 168 inches long, 54.7 inches high and 64.9 inches wide.

All models feature a three-spoke padded steering wheel mounted on an energy-absorbing steering column, front seat head restraints, new folding as well as sliding front bucket seats and plush vinyl interior.

Amazingly, even with these improvements and the expense of complying with the stricter U.S. Government safety requirements for 1969, Cortina has reduced its price by $108 and is now priced at $1849 P.O.E.

An automatic transmission is optional on all but the GT series, and 4-speed fully synchronized gearbox is standard equipment. The optional automatic offers three forward speeds with torque converter.

CORTINA SEEMS to be giving a lot more car for less money. The rear suspension is now mounted in rubber which reduces noise level and produces a much better ride.

Power disc brakes up front are standard equipment on the 1969 GT and Station Wagon models.

Added, too, this year is an outside door lock on the passenger side on all models.

Color comes to Cortina this year in a whole new spectrum. The drabness of London fog would never be suspect in this new line of colors being offered.

While most imports won't announce it right away in the showroom, they burn premium fuel. Cortina added another point in its favor when Ford of England designed this performing compact to thrive on regular gasoline.

An all new transmission with remote shift goes through the gears like a hot knife through butter. There's no bucking or jolting . . . just smooth performance from the beginning.

Cortina engines are of the bowl-in-piston, cross-port venting design and are much more efficient in controlling the explosion and engine's breathing. The more efficiently an engine can breathe in the air-fuel mixture and breathe out the exhaust gases, the more power it will provide for a given quantity of fuel. We got 30 miles-per-gallon on this trip.

BERMUDA DUNES was a sandy waste a little over a decade ago with nothing more than hot blowing sand on the open desert. Now it is a palm-lined oasis with lakes, lush green turf and spraying fountains.

Today, Bermuda Dunes is a city unto itself with its own post office, fire department, hotel, tennis and swim club, airport and 27-hole championship golf course.

Clubhouse and course were opened March of 1959 by developers Ernie Dunlevie and Ray Ryan. The 7,010-yard par 72 golf course is one of four used for the Bob Hope Desert Classic each year during the winter, and twice has been the host club since 1960, according to club president Carl Schooss.

Magnificent homes surround the lush green fairways with a panoramic magnified view of the San Jacinto mountains and the little San Bernardino mountains. The desert-turned-oasis community gets its water directly below tapped by three huge wells, each pumping 2,000 gallons a minute into the lakes.

THE MEMBER-OWNED private club offers a relaxing atmosphere in its hilltop clubhouse. Its dining room is a warm blend of high-beamed wood ceiling with decorative chandeliers, stone fireplace and rich carpeting. Soft colors and mellow wood are continued beyond a divider into the cocktail lounge with an expansive glass view overlooking the greens, lake and mountains.

Bermuda Dunes Airport, a 3,500-foot paved and lighted runway complete with hangar and maintenance facilities, plays host to residents and visitors from every state in the union. Many members commute from here and use their golf carts from their home to the airport.

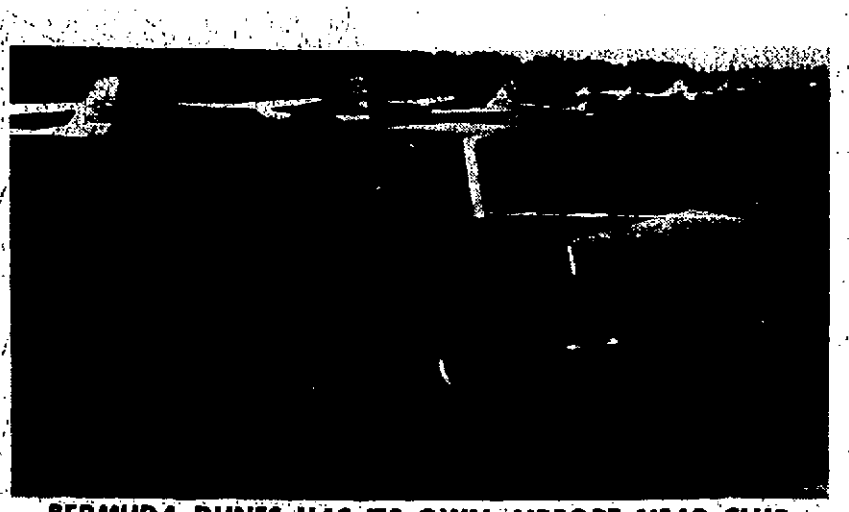

Golfing isn't the only activity at this 300-acre resort! There's also a 4-court tennis club, an Olympic-sized heated swimming pool besides a pool at The Inn, horseback riding and acres of expanse for dune buggies and cycling.

The Inn works closely with the Country Club and rooms run from $16 per night to $40 for suites per couple. Kitchens can be common to two studios and attractive monthly rates are offered from June through September.

For a change in scenery and a change in pace, it's hard to beat the new 1969 Cortina and the plush Bermuda Dunes. They're both value-packed!

Maui—an island of infinite variety for visitors

MAUI, Hawaii — The 10,000-foot majestic rise of mountain that is Haleakala on the southern half of this island dominates the entire landscape.

The volcanic formation gives the visitor varying changes of climate and scenery as the ascent of the mountain is made. The unparalleled view from the top (unless you're in an airplane) is usually a game of peek-a-boo because of the layer of clouds that rings the mountain more often than not.

But on a clear day, you can just about see forever, and the hour-and-a-half drive from the Kahului Airport, where visitors usually arrive at Maui, is a rewarding experience. Inside the crater are colors to challenge the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

There are really two resort areas on the Valley Isle, as Maui is known, and they are distinctly different. On the east end of Maui in lush, tropical land is Hana, location of the Hasegawa General Store which is the subject of a popular song. Nearby are the Seven Sacred Pools which only recently became part of the Haleakala National Park.

* * * *

ON THE western shore are Lahaina and Kaanapali, historical old whaling town and new resort developments, respectively. This is the dry side of the island that is blooming in tourist attraction innovations.

Along this same shoreline but to the south is Kihei, a "wide spot in the road" that is beginning to build for the tourist industry so that visitors can enjoy the long expanse of beautiful white beach that outlines Maalaea Bay.

One of the island's points of interest, literally, is the Iao Needle, a fingerlike rocky formation that is the center of attention in the Iao Valley Park. The park is only about four miles from Kahului Airport. It is a short detour for the driver headed for the Lahaina area to duck into the Iao Valley and see the abruptly rising sides of the valley covered in their moss green "velour." The lights and shadows result in ever-changing visual effects that are lovely to look at and can fascinate the viewer much as watching flames of a fire.

* * * *

FROM KAHULUI the drive to Lahaina takes about 30 minutes through the narrow isthmus of the island past sugar cane fields and along the west coast heading north.

The charm of Lahaina is its atmosphere of the early 1800s. On the waterfront is the Pioneer Inn, the decor of which is in keeping with the whaling era. A variety of small shops with locally made wares as well as imported items, such as jewelry and wearing apparel, give the visitor plenty of opportunity for just browsing or buying.

North of Lahaina is Kaanapali which is the starting point for a string of hotels that range in price from very expensive to moderate. At Kaanapali is a long strand of white beach, but further north the beaches are in small, picturesque coves.

* * * *

PINEAPPLE fields blanket the slopes of gently rising land as far as one can see. At Honolua is a plantation village complete with general store.

Maui is midway in the Hawaiian chain and only 30 minutes jet flying time from Honolulu. For travelers in less hurry and more interested in "flight-seeing" along the way there are slower and lower-flying propellered aircraft to get you there.

Air taxi services from Honolulu provide small, twin-engine aircraft transportation to the three airports on Maui — at Hana, Kahului and Kaanapali — as well as to the other islands.

Oldest L.A. ship agency will expand

Williams, Dimond & Co., the oldest steamship general agency on the West Coast, will expand its representational activities to include all phases of the travel industry and on a nationwide basis, according to Robert F. Holbrook, the firm's president.

A subsidiary company, Williams, Dimond International, has been established to handle the new operation. The activities of WDI will be headed up by vice presidents Ken Ziv, currently Williams, Dimond & Co.'s passenger manager, and Don Hough, formerly interline manager for American Airlines in Los Angeles.

Immediate plans call for the expansion of existing passenger departments in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle, geared to handle the broader spectrum of representations. In addition, offices in major U.S. cities will open shortly.

The present steamship passenger representations will continue to be directed by Ziv, while airline accounts will be under the management of Hough. Specialized personnel are joining the firm to handle representations for hotels, tour operators, bus companies and others.

Target date for full operation is set for May 1.

Aeronaves links Mexican spas

In a realignment of airline routes and schedules, the popular jet set spas — "get-away-from-it-all" resorts and fishing areas — of Mexico's golden west coast have been linked by Aeronaves de Mexico's DC-9 jet service. With stop-over privileges, travelers may now fly from Los Angeles to La Paz, La Paz to Puerto Vallarta, Puerto Vallarta to Acapulco, then on to Mexico City, colonial Guadalajara and back to Los Angeles.

This exlusive air route presents a good way to be introduced to the best of Mexico. The round-trip air fare for the entire package is just $184.

Takeoff to teeoff tours get going

From takeoff to teeoff, Delta Air Lines is offering magic golfing carpet package tours in southern U.S.A. and near-by Caribbean Islands. The seven-day, six night golf vacations are arranged conveniently to match the new early morning Los Angeles departures of Deltas Montego Bay and San Juan jets. Priced from $190.50 to $244 per person, double occupancy until Dec. 15, the packages include gourmet dinners, tropical breakfasts, greens fees, golf cart, golf balls, golf hat, and use of beach and pool facilities where available, transfers between airport and hotel.

Four of the golfing destinations included are Runway Bay Hotel and Country Club, and Tryall Golf and Beach Club, Jamaica; El Conquistador, Las Croabas, and Dorado Beach Hotel, Puerto Rico.

'BLARNEY,' CRIED THE QUEEN

A kiss gave eloquence?

By GORDON QUARNSTROM

CORK, Ireland — In an ancient castle near here is a stone known round the world, famed in legend, song and story, sought out by thousands of visitors each year ... the Blarney Stone, of course.

Come along on a visit to Blarney Castle, only a few miles from Cork and easily reached motoring between Dublin and Shannon. You'll find the castle itself well worth a careful inspection, and you will have the Blarney Stone and the nearby Rock Close (said to date from Druidic times) as added pleasures.

Blarney Castle rises about 120 feet above a park-like area. You reach it by crossing two bridges over the River Martin, which drains the bog of Inchacumawn, getting your first view when the northern side of the keep towers up in front of you. Ancient dungeons may be seen at ground level, and under a line of battlements lies the escape tunnel. It connects with underground passages and had an outlet near Blarney Lake in ages past.

* * * *

CLIMB the steep winding stairs and you return to ancient days, for the castle was built in 1446 by the King of Munster, and you will see the fireplace used to heat the cauldrons of tar and oil used in defense in time of siege, the slit window through which an archer could fire, the great dining hall once used for banquets.

And you will come atop the battlements to the Blarney Stone. It is a block of limestone 49 inches long, 13 inches wide and 9 inches in depth. Legend says that the lips which kiss it will receive the gift of eloquence, so you empty your pockets of valuables, lie flat on your back, grab two upright iron bars and lean far over the edge to kiss the stone about two feet below the battlement. It's wise to have your ankles held and to have help in getting back to an upright position. Maybe after that you will have the gift of "fair words in soft speech" once accredited to the MacCarthy who reigned in Munster during Queen Elizabeth's time.

Terence Hougton of Irish International Airlines explains that while professing to be the Queen's loyal Baron of Blarney, MacCarthy never fulfilled any promise he made. Eventually, in disgust, the queen cried out: "Blarney, Blarney, what he says he does not mean. It is the usual blarney."

IT TAKES A LITTLE DOING, as this picture proves, to kiss the Blarney Stone, but this visitor to Blarney Castle, Ireland, prepares to do just that. (Photo by Kevin Coleman, Killarney).

Matson offers 'Paradise Found'

A visit to the strange and famous Galapagos Islands will be one of the highlights of Matson Lines' new cruise to the west coast of South America this Spring.

This first venture into South American waters for Matson begins May 18 from Los Angeles aboard the liner SS Monterey. Ports of call will be Mazatlan and Acapulco, Mexico; the Galapagos Islands and Guayaquil, Ecuador; Lima Peru; Taboga, Panama and Balboa in the Canal Zone.

Throughout the cruise, and exciting variety of optional shore excursions is available. Passengers will be able to enjoy the tempo of modern cities and resorts, and also explore the ruins of ancient Inca cultures.

The call at the Galapagos Islands with their remarkable wildlife will be a "paradise found" for those interested in the natural sciences. Here is where Charles Darwin developed his evolutionary ideas, and unusual and often humorously sounding creatures like the vermilion flycatcher or the masked booby can be viewed at close hand.

Fares for this South American adventure cruise begin at $1,180 from the West Coast.

Trolley Car Era Revived in Perris

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — Anyone nostalgic for the whine of electric motors and the clang of old-time street car bells can relive the experience in a stretch of scenic valley at Perris south of here.

Nearly 100 pieces of electric - powered rolling stock are either operable or being refurbished by a faithful group of street car buffs in what has become the third largest trolley car museum in the country.

They named it the Orange Empire Trolly Museum in memory of the Orange Empire Trolley tours which the Pacific Electric Railway, then the world's largest trolley system, used to run through the orange grove country as a favorite tourist attraction a generation ago.

* * * *

A WEEKEND visit to the museum is fascinating, according to the Southern California Visitors Council. That's when the 300 trolley buffs making up the museum membership are at work. They're doctors, lawyers, painters, businessmen. But they may be laying track, setting poles, stringing trolley wire, painting, upholstering or overhauling electric motors.

A family may take on the restoration of one particular car as a project and spend years at it.

One of the Big Red Cars of the Pacific Electric has been restored to tip-top shape and you can take a ride on it over half a mile of track. Rides are usually every half hour Sunday afternoons and some holidays except from July 4 to Labor Day. A trolley buff who has special safety training is the motorman.

ALL KINDS of trolley cars from the old wooden models to the most modern streamliners are parked on the circles of track. Some were donated by discontinued lines and others were rescued after use as roadside diners or chicken coops.

One excellently restored car that you won't want to ride in is the "Descanse" of the old narrow gauge Los Angeles street railway. It used to make special trips from "mortuary row" in Los Angeles to a cemetery that had a loop of track.

With a special compartment for the coffin and seats for the mourners, it was one of the few electric railway "funeral cars."

A FUN CAR AT A FUN PLACE

'69 Cortina is value packed

Story and Photos
By BILL EMERY

A spectacular, modern oasis in the exclusive Palm Springs golf resort complex and a rallye-proven compact sedan from the homeland of the Queen Mary share the spotlight on this pleasure-bent week-end outing.

With a brand new 1969 Cortina 1600-V two-door sedan borrowed from Herb Baldwin, owner of Plaza Motors at 17439 Clark Ave. in Bellflower, our journey to The Inn at Bermuda Dunes Country Club near Indio took scarcely two hours.

The 1600-V two-door and four-door models are new to the Cortina line this year, although they share the same basic dimensions as the Deluxe and GT series. All models have a wheelbase of 98 inches, and, except for the slightly longer station wagons, the sedans are 168 inches long, 54.7 inches high and 64.9 inches wide.

All models feature a three-spoke padded steering wheel mounted on an energy-absorbing steering column, front seat head restraints, new folding as well as sliding front bucket seats and plush vinyl interior.

Amazingly, even with these improvements and the expense of complying with the stricter U.S. Government safety requirements for 1969, Cortina has reduced its price by $108 and is now priced at $1849 P.O.E.

An automatic transmission is optional on all but the GT series, and 4-speed fully synchronized gearbox is standard equipment. The optional automatic offers three forward speeds with torque converter.

CORTINA SEEMS to be giving a lot more car for less money. The rear suspension is now mounted in rubber which reduces noise level and produces a much better ride.

Power disc brakes up front are standard equipment on the 1969 GT and Station Wagon models. Added, too, this year is an outside door lock on the passenger side on all models.

Color comes to Cortina this year in a whole new spectrum. The drabness of London fog would never be suspect in this new line of colors being offered.

While most imports won't announce it right away in the showroom, they burn premium fuel. Cortina added another point in its favor when Ford of England designed this performing compact to thrive on regular gasoline.

An all new transmission with remote shift goes through the gears like a hot knife through butter. There's no bucking or jolting . . . just smooth performance from the beginning.

Cortina engines are of the bowl-in-piston, cross-port venting design and are much more efficient in controlling the explosion and engine's breathing. The more efficiently an engine can breathe in the air-fuel mixture and breathe out the exhaust gases, the more power it will provide for a given quantity of fuel. We got 30 miles-per-gallon on this trip.

BERMUDA DUNES was a sandy waste a little over a decade ago with nothing more than hot blowing sand on the open desert. Now it is a palm-lined oasis with lakes, lush green turf and spraying fountains.

Today, Bermuda Dunes is a city unto itself with its own post office, fire department, hotel, tennis and swim club, airport and 27-hole championship golf course.

Clubhouse and course were opened March of 1959 by developers Ernie Dunlevie and Ray Ryan. The 7,010-yard par 72 golf course is one of four used for the Bob Hope Desert Classic each year during the winter, and twice has been the host club since 1960, according to club president Carl Schooss.

Magnificent homes surround the lush green fairways with a panoramic magnified view of the San Jacinto mountains and the little San Bernardino mountains. The desert-turned-oasis community gets its water directly below tapped by three huge wells, each pumping 2,000 gallons a minute into the lakes.

THE MEMBER-OWNED private club offers a relaxing atmosphere in its hilltop clubhouse. Its dining room is a warm blend of high-beamed wood ceiling with decorative chandeliers, stone fireplace and rich carpeting. Soft colors and mellow wood are continued beyond a divider into the cocktail lounge with an expansive glass view overlooking the greens, lake and mountains.

Bermuda Dunes Airport, a 3,500-foot paved and lighted runway complete with hangar and maintenance facilities, plays host to residents and visitors from every state in the union. Many members commute from here and use their golf carts from their home to the airport.

Golfing isn't the only activity at this 300-acre resort! There's also a 4-court tennis club; an Olympic-sized heated swimming pool besides a pool at The Inn, horseback riding and acres of expanse for dune buggies and cycling.

The Inn works closely with the Country Club and rooms run from $16 per night to $40 for suites per couple. Kitchens can be common to two studios and attractive monthly rates are offered from June through September.

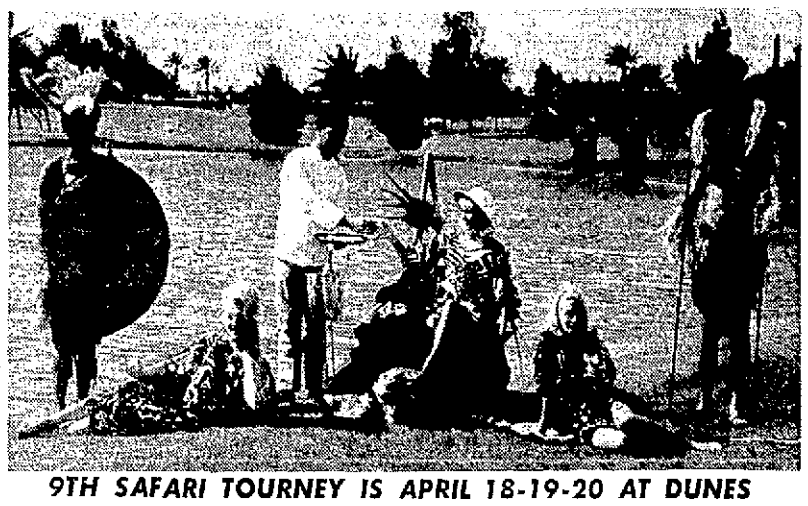

For a change in scenery and a change in pace, it's hard to beat the new 1969 Cortina and the plush Bermuda Dunes. They're both value-packed!

SPECIAL LIMITED ENROLLMENT
EXPIRES MIDNIGHT, APRIL 27, 1969

IF YOU OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY IS HOSPITALIZED,
WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO BE ABLE TO SAY...

"Imagine... extra cash coming in every week to spend as we please!"

AT LAST, HERE IS A HEALTH PLAN THAT PAYS EXTRA CASH DIRECT TO YOU—OVER AND ABOVE ANY OTHER INSURANCE OR MEDICARE!

- Extra cash for sicknesses
- Extra cash for accidents
- Extra cash for maternity benefits
- Increased extra cash for cancer, heart attack or stroke
- Extra cash doubled when husband and wife are both injured

Regardless of your age or the size of your family, you can enroll now, right from this announcement and get your first month for only $1.00!

See inside to find the Plan that suits you best

New extra cash plan so practical you may even leave the hospital money ahead!

your recovery can be seriously delayed!

How The Plan Protects You And Your Family

Now, with the unique "extra cash" protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan, you can avoid these worries—because you can be assured of extra cash income when you or any covered member of your family goes to the hospital. No matter how large your family, no matter what your age or occupation and without any qualifications whatsoever, you can choose any of four low-cost plans, specially tailored to suit your family's needs. (Full details of each plan and benefits are shown on preceding page.)

In addition to the extra cash hospital benefits, you get all these valuable "extra" features:

How Your "Health-Bank Account" Grows Each Month

Here's a wonderful benefit, no matter which plan you choose—almost like having an extra "Bank Account." When your policy is issued, your insurance provides up to $10,000, $7,500, or $5,000—depending upon the plan you choose. This is your "Health-Bank Account."

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first month) is actually added to your maximum! When you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from your "account." It's much like putting money in and taking it out of a bank account.

Enjoy Peace Of Mind And Security

For as long as you live and continue to pay your premiums, we will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons—and we guarantee that we will never cancel, modify or terminate your policy unless we decline renewal or modify all policies of this type in your entire state or until the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of your policy has been paid.

SPECIAL NOTE IF YOU ARE OVER 65

Even though Medicare will pay most of your hospital expenses it will not cover all of your needs. During this limited enrollment, you can get the extra cash protection you need during the high-risk senior years without any qualifications just by using the form at the end of this announcement!

It's a fact that people over 65 go to hospitals more often and have larger hospital bills. That's exactly why senior citizens need extra cash protection! And that's why some hospital plans won't accept them or charge rates beyond their means. But The Doctors Hospital Plan not only accepts you regardless of age, it gives you easy-to-carry protection that is within your means. If you are over 65 now, or when you become 65, the following modest monthly additional rate applies:

Female on All-Family or Husband-Wife Plan	$2.50
Female on One-Parent Family or Individual Plan	3.50
Male on any Plan	3.50

At last, here is a plan that actually pays you:

- Extra cash for sicknesses
- Extra cash for accidents
- Extra cash for maternity
- Increased extra cash for cancer, heart attack or stroke
- Extra cash doubled when husband and wife are both injured
- All in addition to any other insurance or Medicare!

Think of it. Now, simply by the stroke of your pen, you may enjoy the expense-free, tax-free protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan—the new "bonus" plan that pays extra cash direct to you when a sudden accident or an unexpected sickness hospitalizes you or a covered member of your family! And you may enroll during this Limited Enrollment Period—without having to see a company representative and without any red tape whatsoever!

Why You Need The Doctors Hospital Plan In Addition To Ordinary Hospital Insurance

The unique Doctors Hospital Plan was created by an insurance company run by doctors since 1902, Physicians Mutual Insurance Company. They have for many years specialized in health and accident protection for physicians, surgeons and dentists. Now this fine old "doctors company" has created this remarkable new "extra cash" plan—and at a cost substantially less than you might expect to pay!

Doctors know that ordinary hospital insurance—even Medicare—simply will not cover everything. Actually, even if your ordinary hospital insurance covers all your medical and hospital bills, what about all your other expenses—the bills that keep piling up at home—the tremendous and costly upset to your budget, your reserves, and your family life?

Without "extra cash" protection, a hospital emergency may leave you with savings gone, debts you can't pay, peace of mind shattered—even

WHICHEVER PLAN YOU CHOOSE, YOU GET:

50% INCREASE IN YOUR CASH BENEFITS... if you or any member of your family is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion), or stroke (apoplexy).

If you choose the All-Family Plan or the Husband-Wife Plan, you get in addition:

DOUBLE CASH BENEFITS if both you and your wife are injured and hospitalized at the same time: You get twice the amount $350 A WEEK!

Important: Here is another real "plus"—if you have been told that anyone in your family is "uninsurable"! Even if one of your covered family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past—ailments that come back again and again, or are likely to recur—you will be covered for these pre-existing conditions after your policy has been in force for one year!

You Get Paid In Addition To Any Other Insurance You Have—Even Medicare!

Yes, The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any other company's health insurance you carry, individual or group—even Medicare! And all your benefits are tax-free! In some cases, you may even come out money ahead. Of course, you may have only one like policy with Physicians Mutual.

Surprisingly Low Cost

Membership in The Doctors Hospital Plan costs considerably less than you might expect. You pay only $1.00 for your first month (regardless of your plan), then only $7.95 a month for the All-Family Plan; only $5.95 a month for the One-Parent Family Plan; only $6.45 for the Husband-Wife Plan; and the Individual Plan costs only $3.95. (When you become 65—or if you are over 65 now—special Senior Citizen rates apply. See the modest increase in the box on the preceding page.) And remember, regardless of age, size of family or the plan you select, you get your first month for only $1.00!

PLUS increased extra cash for cancer, heart attack or stroke

On all plans, your "extra cash" benefits are paid from the very first day you enter the hospital, for as long—and for as many times—as you are hospitalized, right up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you select.

Naturally, The Doctors Hospital Plan will cover any new accident or sickness. New accidents are covered immediately. After your policy is 30 days old, you are covered for new sicknesses which begin thereafter. There are only these minimum necessary exceptions: pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the All-Family Plan or the Husband-Wife Plan, each of which covers maternity after the policy is in force for 10 months), war, military service, mental derangement, alcoholism or drug addiction, or conditions covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Laws.

You may go to any hospital of your own choice, with these exceptions only: nursing homes; convalescent, extended-care, or self-care units of hospitals; or V.A. facilities.

answered about the Hospital Plan

ble cash benefits. You get twice the amount—$350 A WEEK!

10. Does this plan pay in any hospital?

You will be covered in any hospital except nursing homes; convalescent, extended-care, or self-care units of hospitals; or V.A. facilities.

11. When does my policy go into force?

It becomes effective the very same day we receive your Enrollment Form. New accidents are covered on that date. After your policy is 30 days old, new sicknesses which begin thereafter are covered. Under the ALL-FAMILY PLAN and the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, childbirth or pregnancy or any consequence thereof is covered after your policy is in force for 10 months.

12. What if someone in my family has had a health problem that may occur again?

Even if one of your covered family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past, pre-existing conditions are covered after the policy has been in force for one year.

13. What conditions aren't covered?

Only these minimum necessary exceptions: pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the ALL-FAMILY PLAN or the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN), war, military service, mental derangement, alcoholism or drug addiction, or if something happens "on the job" and is covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Laws.

14. Can I drop out any time? Can you drop me?

We will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons—for as long as you live and continue to pay your premiums. We guarantee that we will never cancel, modify or terminate your policy unless we decline renewal or modify all policies of this type in your entire state or until the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of your policy has been paid. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

15. Why is The Doctors Hospital Plan almost like having an extra "bank account"?

When your policy is issued, your insurance provides up to $10,000, $7,500, or $5,000—depending upon the plan you choose. This is your "Health-Bank Account." Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first month) is actually added to your maximum. When you have claims, benefits are subtracted from your "account"!

16. Will my claims be handled promptly?

Yes. With your policy, you will receive a simple, easy-to-use Claim Form. Your claims will be processed quickly and your checks sent directly to you.

17. Why are the premiums so low?

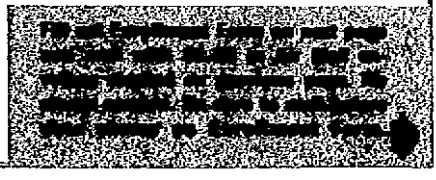

With The Doctors Hospital Plan, you actually get all these benefits—at such a low cost—because this is a mass enrollment plan—and no salesmen are used. Our volume is higher and our total sales costs are lower.

18. How much does my first month cost?

Only $1.00, regardless of your age, the size of your family or the plan you select. After the first month, if you are under 65, you pay only these low monthly rates: only $7.95 a month for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN; only $5.95 a month for the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN; only $6.45 a month for the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN; only $3.95 a month for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN. (If you are 65 or older, premiums increase. See modest increase in box on a preceding page.)

19. Why should I enroll right now?

Because an unexpected sickness or accident could strike without warning—and you will not be covered until your policy is in force. Remember, if for any reason you change your mind, you may return your policy within 10 days and your $1.00 will be refunded immediately.

New extra cash plan so practical you may even leave the hospital money ahead!

your recovery can be seriously delayed!

How The Plan Protects You And Your Family

Now, with the unique "extra cash" protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan, you can avoid these worries—because you can be assured of extra cash income when you or any covered member of your family goes to the hospital. No matter how large your family, no matter what your age or occupation and without any qualifications whatsoever, you can choose any of four low-cost plans, specially tailored to suit your family's needs. (Full details of each plan and benefits are shown on preceding page.)

In addition to the extra cash hospital benefits, you get all these valuable "extra" features:

How Your "Health-Bank Account" Grows Each Month

Here's a wonderful benefit, no matter which plan you choose—almost like having an extra "Bank Account." When your policy is issued, your insurance provides up to $10,000, $7,500, or $5,000—depending upon the plan you choose. This is your "Health-Bank Account."

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first month) is actually added to your maximum! When you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from your "account." It's much like putting money in and taking it out of a bank account.

Enjoy Peace Of Mind And Security

For as long as you live and continue to pay your premiums, we will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons—and we guarantee that we will never cancel, modify or terminate your policy unless we decline renewal or modify all policies of this type in your entire state or until the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of your policy has been paid.

SPECIAL NOTE IF YOU ARE OVER 65

Even though Medicare will pay most of your hospital expenses it will not cover all of your needs. During this limited enrollment, you can get the extra cash protection you need during the high-risk senior years without any qualifications just by using the form at the end of this announcement!

It's a fact that people over 65 go to hospitals more often and have larger hospital bills. That's exactly why senior citizens need extra cash protection! And that's why some hospital plans won't accept them or charge rates beyond their means. But The Doctors Hospital Plan not only accepts you regardless of age, it gives you easy-to-carry protection that is within your means. If you are over 65 now, or when you become 65, the following modest monthly additional rate applies:

Female on All-Family or Husband-Wife Plan	$2.50
Female on One-Parent Family or Individual Plan	3.50
Male on any Plan	3.50

BEFORE MAILING,

PLEASE MAKE SURE YOU HAVE FILLED OUT THE ENROLLMENT FORM AND ENCLOSED $1.00 FOR YOUR 1ST MONTHS COVERAGE.

THANK YOU!

DICK VAN DYKE, MARY TYLER MOORE
Reunited for Hour Show at 8 p.m. Sunday, Ch. 2

Rob, Laura Visit

America's favorite television housewife of three years ago was Mary Tyler Moore.

Televiewers fell in love with Mary when she played Laura Petrie for five seasons on "The Dick Van Dyke Show." She and the rest of the cast decided to leave the air and attack the movies. Both Van Dyke and Mary have met with moderate success.

Mary and Van Dyke will celebrate a television reunion at 8 p.m. Sunday with an hour-long CBS special on Ch. 2.

"SEEING Dick again on a stage was like coming home again," she said. "It's the most pleasant and exciting three weeks I've spent in the past five years.

"I'm very comfortable working with Dick," Mary said. "We have that thing . . . you know, we're so attuned to one another that our timing is just right for making jokes work.

"We have the feeling that it's almost like a good marriage that has lasted 20 years."

THE PAIR will sing and dance on the show and work in sketches together. Not until the last five minutes of the special will they revert to Rob and Laura in a nostalgic dream sequence of the days when they were the happiest couple on the tube.

"I feel like Laura again," Mary said, laughing. "We were both a little self-conscious playing Rob and Laura. Kept asking ourselves if this is the way we would have played the couple five years ago.

"Personally, I think this is the best work I've ever done."

19 Important Questions New Doctors

1. What is The Doctors Hospital Plan?

The Doctors Hospital Plan is a brand-new, low-cost health protection plan—that pays extra cash direct to you when a covered accident or illness hospitalizes you or a covered member of your family.

2. Why do I need The Doctors Hospital Plan in addition to my regular insurance?

Probably your present hospital insurance won't cover all your hospital expenses, but even if it does, you will still need help to cover all your household expenses when you are hospitalized.

3. Can I collect even if I carry other health insurance?

Yes, The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any health insurance you carry, whether individual or group—even in addition to Medicare! And all your benefits are tax-free! Of course, you may have only one like policy with Physicians Mutual.

4. Is there a lot of red tape to qualify?

None at all. Your only qualification is to complete and mail your Enrollment Form by the deadline date shown. Simply use the Air Mail envelope enclosed to mail your form today. No stamp needed.

5. Which plan should I choose?

You may choose any of four low-cost plans—you can actually select the exact plan that suits you best!

If yours is a young, growing family, we recommend the ALL-FAMILY PLAN. You and your wife are covered at once for accidents, for new sicknesses after 30 days, and for maternity benefits after 10 months. All your children (and future additions) between 3 months and under 21 are included, at no extra cost, as long as they are unmarried and live at home.

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. This covers you and all unmarried children living at home between 3 months of age and under 21.

If you have no children as yet, or if you have children who are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN.

Or, if you are living by yourself, or wish to cover only one member of the family, choose the INDIVIDUAL PLAN.

6. If I become hospitalized, when do my benefits begin?

On all plans, your cash benefits are paid from the very first day you enter the hospital, for as long—and for as many times—as you are hospitalized, up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you choose.

7. How much can I be paid?

Each plan has its own "Aggregate of Benefits," what we call the maximum.

For example, under the ALL-FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $10,000—$100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash when you are hospitalized; $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) when your wife is hospitalized; $50 weekly ($7.14 daily) for each eligible child hospitalized.

Under the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $7,500—$100 weekly ($14.28 daily) when you are hospitalized; $50 weekly ($7.14 daily) for each eligible child hospitalized.

Under the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, the maximum is $7,500—$100 weekly ($14.28 daily) when you are hospitalized; $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) when your wife is hospitalized.

Under the INDIVIDUAL PLAN, the maximum is $5,000—$100 a week ($14.28 a day) when you are hospitalized.

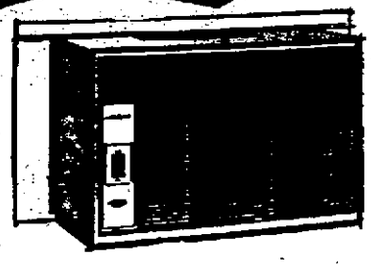

8. Are any additional benefits included in The Doctors Hospital Plan?

Yes. You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits if you or any covered family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion), or stroke (apoplexy).

9. What are the "double" cash benefits?

If you and your wife are both injured and hospitalized at the same time and are covered by the ALL-FAMILY PLAN or the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, you get dou-

You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

15. Why is The Doctors Hospital Plan almost like having an extra "bank account"?

IN MY opinion "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" is one of the finest shows on television. Now I've been informed that CBS has officially cancelled the series.

The humorous segments are not always hilariously funny, but they seem to maintain a far higher level than that of the average variety show.

Such rarely seen performers as Donovan, Pete Seeger, Judy Collins, Joan Baez and the Beatles have all been presented very effectively on the Smothers show.

Furthermore, the series has introduced such fine talent as Pat Paulsen, Leigh French, Glen Campbell and Mason Williams.

Also, the lighting, simple sets, and special effects have been intriguing and innovative in many numbers.

Finally, the presence of the Smothers brothers themselves has been refreshing in the shallow, hypocritical world of national television.

Would you please enlighten me and other readers concerning the reason for the ... cancellation? Also, I would like the addresses of both CBS (to whom I intend to write in protest) and of Tom Smothers (to whom I intend to write in appreciation).

Dorothy J. Korber,
Long Beach

(The Smothers-CBS dispute has been covered at great length. Basically, the Smothers want more say on what they can say on the show; CBS feels it has the right to have the final say. Apparently, CBS got tired of arguing about it. Write Smothers, care CBS, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood,Calif 90028).

I ... PROTEST against the firing of the Smothers Brothers at CBS. I believe it is unfair that CBS should fire them. I, and I know millions across the country, enjoy their show every Sunday night and it would be a disaster if they did not appear on TV next season. They have something to say and it needs to be said ..."

Louis W. Perciach,
Long Beach.

TO VELMA Blodgett and Glenn Thompson (Televues, April 6):

What you say in your letters are your opinion. What I said in mine is my opinion. Isn't this a free country and don't all of us have the right to express ourselves?

Isn't it better for someone to watch so-called violence on the television than to go out in the streets and create violence? I respect your opinion, but ... I don't like the shows I put in my list. And you like them. Are you going to take my right to watch my favorite programs? Next year I have no shows to watch except "Here Come the Brides" and that has no violence!

All I meant to say in my first letter is why can't some other shows except the clean-cut, heart-warming, programs stay on? Why not be realistic. There is violence on our streets and there is nothing we can do about it!

CHRIS FRAZELL,
Long Beach

WHAT HAPPENED to Winston Burdett who used to appear on CBS?

Mrs. M. M. Reece,
Long Beach

(He still is the Rome correspondent of the network. He appears on occasion).

ON "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" (March 24) they read jokes from letters they said viewers had sent in. Will they really read fans' jokes ...? How can I get tickets to the show?

Also, where can I write to Angela Cartwright ... She has starred in a lot of TV shows. Her latest appearance was on "My Three Sons".

J. W.,
Long Beach

(Try one of your old jokes and see. For tickets write NBC, 3000 W. Alameda Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91503. For Miss Cartwright, try her care "My Three Sons," CBS, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028;.

COULD YOU tell me who was the male star of the weekly television series "Shane," a while back? Jill Ireland played the female lead of this series.

P. R.,
Lakewood

(David Carradine).

...REGARDING the theme music on "Championship Bowling" seen on Ch. 5 at 5 p.m. Saturdays (when not preempted). The show does not state the composer and I would like to buy the music ...

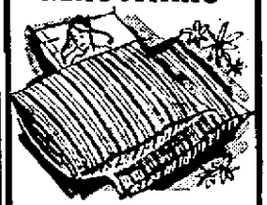

Also, the title music to the motion picture, "The Carpetbaggers" ...

Dewey Weber,
Long Beach

(Theme music for "Championship Bowling" is "The Steel Mill," composed by Syd Dale; publisher is Sam Fox. You'll have to check your music store to find out if this is available. Elmer Bernstein is the composer of "The

Like Hep!

Dinah Shore Hosts Show

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

Dinah Shore said it: "The trouble with most television specials is that they're not very special."

One of the very first feminine vocalists to star in her own video series — going back to the early 1950s with a twice-weekly 15-minute song spot — Dinah takes a bow at 9 p.m., Sunday in an hour-long extra special special.

Titled, "Like Hep," Dinah's songfest will see her work with Lucille Ball for the first time.

Other guests are Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, and Diana Ross, making her television debut without The Supremes.

SO WHAT'S so special about Dinah's only outing on the tube this year?

"First of all, everything will be music," she said, "Even the sketches will be musical and rally 'with it.' Not above it or below it or ahead of it. But with it."

Dinah defines being with it, by explaining the title of her show. Swingers and teenie boppers have been using the term "Hip" insead of "Hep" for years. "Hep—has been considered square.

"The fact is," Dinah laughed, "'Hep' is so far out it's 'in,' like granny glasses and flared pants.

"So is our show. We do good material with contemporary songs as well as some standards. In one of our sketches we all play nursery rhyme characters in a big put-on. Diana plays Snow White, Lucille Ball is a wicked witch and Dan Rowan is Little Tommy Tucker.

"Everyone does something different. Things they've never done on television before — including me."

DINAH'S objection to the rash of not-very-specials is the rondelet of guests, the same faces on the same shows exchanging host and hostesses and staging almost identical formats.

"Most of them could be done as one segment of a series," said Tennessee's gift to Hollywood.

"Even the costumes, the sets and the songs are similar. They could all be part of the same musical series on a weekly basis, even though the networks are different."

Dinah was scolded for putting on airs by claiming Nashville as her birthplace, attempting to play the big city girl.

She hung her head: I was really born in Winchester, Tennessee. That's only 90 miles south of Nashville. And people don't always know where it is."

Carol Channing

'The Seven Deadly Sins'

Carol Channing is joined by guest stars Carol Burnett and Danny Thomas for a music-and-comedy romp, "Carol Channing Proudly Presents the Seven Deadly Sins" at 9 p.m. Monday, Ch. 7, (following the Academy Award Show.)

Each sin is showcased in a special comedy or musical turn. Miss Channing and Thomas, as a Biblical couple, ENVY the neighbors' ark. Miss Burnett offers a lilting lament on the piffalls of LUST. Thomas delivers a WRATHFUL put-down of nose jokes, and the trio succumbs to PRIDE by taking potshots at each other's "image." Miss Channing wallows in AVARICE, adrip with ermine and diamonds, then luxuriates in everyone's favorite pastime, SLOTH. Featured is an 11-snng celebration of GLUTTONY, by Carol and Carol.

DICK VAN DYKE, MARY TYLER MOORE
Reunited for Hour Show at 8 p.m. Sunday, Ch. 2

Rob, Laura Visit

America's favorite television housewife of three years ago was Mary Tyler Moore.

Televiewers fell in love with Mary when she played Laura Petrie for five seasons on "The Dick Van Dyke Show." She and the rest of the cast decided to leave the air and attack the movies. Both Van Dyke and Mary have met with moderate success.

Mary and Van Dyke will celebrate a television reunion at 8 p.m. Sunday with an hour-long CBS special on Ch. 2.

"SEEING Dick again on a stage was like coming home again," she said. "It's the most pleasant and exciting three weeks I've spent in the past five years.

"I'm very comfortable working with Dick," Mary said. "We have that thing . . . you know, we're so attuned to one another that our timing is just right for making jokes work.

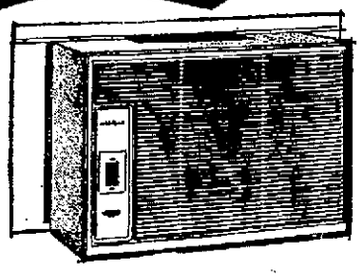

"We have the feeling that it's almost like a good marriage that has lasted 20 years."

THE PAIR will sing and dance on the show and work in sketches together. Not until the last five minutes of the special will they revert to Rob and Laura in a nostalgic dream sequence of the days when they were the happiest couple on the tube.

"I feel like Laura again," Mary said, laughing. "We were both a little self-conscious playing Rob and Laura. Kept asking ourselves if this is the way we would have played the couple five years ago.

"Personally, I think this is the best work I've ever done."

PAN AND FAN MAIL

IN MY opinion "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" is one of the finest shows on television. Now I've been informed that CBS has officially cancelled the series.

The humorous segments are not always hilariously funny, but they seem to maintain a far higher level than that of the average variety show.

Such rarely seen performers as Donovan, Pete Seeger, Judy Collins, Joan Baez and the Beatles have all beem presented very effectively on the Smothers show.

Furthermore, the series has introduced such fine talent as Pat Paulsen, Leigh French, Glen Campbell and Mason Williams.

Also, the lighting, simple sets, and special effects have been intriguing and innovative in many numbers.

Finally, the presence of the Smothers brothers themselves has been refreshing in the shallow, hypocritical world of national television.

Would you please enlighten me and other readers concerning the reason for the ... cancellation? Also, I would like the addresses of both CBS (to whom I intend to write in protest) and of Tom Smothers (to whom I intend to write in appreciation).

Dorothy J. Korber,
Long Beach

(The Smothers-CBS dispute has been covered at great length. Basically, the Smothers want more say on what they can say on the show; CBS feels it has the right to have the final say. Apparently, CBS got tired of arguing about it. Write Smothers, care CBS, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood,Calif 90028).

I ... PROTEST against the firing of the Smothers Brothers at CBS. I believe it is unfair that CBS should fire them. I, and I know millions across the country, enjoy their show every Sunday night and it would be a disaster if they did not appear on TV next season. They have something to say and it needs to be said ..."

Louis W. Perciach,
Long Beach.

TO VELMA Blodgett and Glenn Thompson (Televues, April 6):

What you say in your letters are your opinion. What I said in mine is my opinion. Isn't this a free country and don't all of us have the right to express ourselves?

Isn't it better for someone to watch so-called violence on the television than to go out in the streets and create violence? I respect your opinion, but ... I don't like the shows I put in my list. And you like them. Are you going to take my right to watch my favorite programs? Next year I have no shows to watch except "Here Come the Brides" and that has no violence!

All I meant to say in my first letter is why can't some other shows except the clean-cut, heart-warming, programs stay on? Why not be realistic. There is violence on our streets and there is nothing we can do about it!

CHRIS FRAZELL,
Long Beach

WHAT HAPPENED to Winston Burdett who used to appear on CBS?

Mrs. M. M. Reece,
Long Beach

(He still is the Rome correspondent of the network. He appears on occasion).

ON "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" (March 24) they read jokes from letters they said viewers had sent in. Will they really read fans' jokes ...? How can I get tickets to the show?

Also, where can I write to Angela Cartwright ... She has starred in a lot of TV shows. Her latest appearance was on "My Three Sons".

J. W.,
Long Beach

(Try one of your old jokes and see. For tickets write NBC, 3000 W. Alameda Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91503. For Miss Cartwright, try her care "My Three Sons," CBS, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028;.

COULD YOU tell me who was the male star of the weekly television series "Shane," a while back? Jill Ireland played the female lead of this series.

P. R.,
Lakewood

(David Carradine).

...REGARDING the theme music on "Championship Bowling" seen on Ch. 5 at 5 p.m. Saturdays (when not preempted). The show does not state the composer and I would like to buy the music ...

Also, the title music to the motion picture, "The Carpetbaggers" ...

Dewey Weber,
Long Beach

(Theme music for "Championship Bowling" is "The Steel Mill," composed by Syd Dale; publisher is Sam Fox. You'll have to check your music store to find out if this is available. Elmer Bernstein is the composer of "The

33 1-3 RP Monkee

Now There are Only Three of Them

"All of the Monkees are individuals," said Monkee Davy Jones. "You can ask us all the same question and get four — no, three different answers."

Three of the Monkees — Davy Jones, Micky Dolenz and Mike Nesmith — gathered at a restaurant on Hollywood's Sunset Strip to talk with newspapermen about themselves and their television special, "33 1-3 Revolutions Per Monkee," at 8 p.m., Monday, Ch. 4.

Missing — but represented by an empty seat — was Peter Tork, who left the Monkees immediately after finishing work on the special to essay a solo career.

"WE STARTED off sticking to the group image," Monkee Micky said. "It may have been beneficial at first, but today we're recognized as individuals. We think and act and talk and dress differently. I've always advocated individuality. Dress the Marx Brothers all alike and what have you got."

Mike tossed a rare, wry grin toward his fellow Monkee.

"Davy is best characterized by his love of show business," he said. "All he wants to do is perform. He's always on. I think it was Sammy Davis Jr. who said that Davy is the type of guy who gets up for a midnight snack, opens the refrigerator door, the light goes on and he does 20 minutes on the kitchen linoleum.

"Micky also is a born entertainer," Mike continued. "He doesn't even need the refrigerator light.

"Mike is tall, and he gets taller all the time," sallied Davy, at 5-feet-3 the smallest of the Monkees. "I think he's going to be, quite possibly, a fantastic leading man. And, like Garbo, he wants to be alone."

Mike resumed: "Peter was a dexternus technician, a good musician. He can't be replaced and he won't be replaced. We're not interchangeable parts."

"He was a sort of wandering minstrel," Davy added. "He always wanted to be able to come and go as he liked."

SPEAKING of the future, Davy predicted: "I think the remaining three of us will always be together. We might do something on our own, but we'll always come back. The Monkees is our base."

The Monkees is not a rock 'n' roll group, but a comedy act, Mike said: "We might have been four times as big if we never picked up a guitar.

"But I believe the big success is coming. It'll happen. We'll be accepted as a comedy group that does music, not vice versa" he concluded, glancing uneasily at the empty seat beside him.

Like Hep!

Dinah Shore Hosts Show

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

Dinah Shore said it: "The trouble with most television specials is that they're not very special."

One of the very first feminine vocalists to star in her own video series — going back to the early 1950s with a twice-weekly 15-minute song spot — Dinah takes a bow at 9 p.m., Sunday in an hour-long extra special special.

Titled, "Like Hep," Dinah's songfest will see her work with Lucille Ball for the first time.

Other guests are Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, and Diana Ross, making her television debut without The Supremes.

SO WHAT'S so special about Dinah's only outing on the tube this year?

"First of all, everything will be music," she said, "Even the sketches will be musical and rally 'with it.' Not above it or below it or ahead of it. But with it."

Dinah defines being with it, by explaining the title of her show. Swingers and teenie boppers have been using the term "Hip" insead of "Hep" for years. "Hep—has been considered square.

"The fact is," Dinah laughed, " 'Hep' is so far out it's 'in,' like granny glasses and flared pants.

"So is our show. We do good material with contemporary songs as well as some standards. In one of our sketches we all play nursery rhyme characters in a big put-on. Diana plays Snow White, Lucille Ball is a wicked witch and Dan Rowan is Little Tommy Tucker.

"Everyone does something different. Things they've never done on television before — including me."

DINAH'S objection to the rash of not-very-specials is the rondelet of guests, the same faces on the same shows exchanging host and hostesses and staging almost identical formats.

"Most of them could be done as one segment of a series," said Tennessee's gift to Hollywood.

"Even the costumes, the sets and the songs are similar. They could all be part of the same musical series on a weekly basis, even though the networks are different."

Dinah was scolded for putting on airs by claiming Nashville as her birthplace, attempting to play the big city girl.

She hung her head: I was really born in Winchester, Tennessee. That's only 90 miles south of Nashville. And people don't always know where it is."

Carol Channing

'The Seven Deadly Sins'

Carol Channing is joined by guest stars Carol Burnett and Danny Thomas for a music-and-comedy romp, "Carol Channing Proudly Presents the Seven Deadly Sins" at 9 p.m. Monday, Ch. 7, (following the Academy Award Show.)

Each sin is showcased in a special comedy or musical turn. Miss Channing and Thomas, as a Biblical couple, ENVY the neighbors' ark. Miss Burnett offers a lilting lament on the pitfalls of LUST. Thomas delivers a WRATHFUL put-down of nose jokes, and the trio succumbs to PRIDE by taking potshots at each other's "image." Miss Channing wallows in AVARICE, adrip with ermine and diamonds, then luxuriates in everyone's favorite pastime, SLOTH. Featured is an 11-song celebration of GLUTTONY, by Carol and Carol.

SMOTHERS DISPUTE: Some Views by TV Writers

(Editor's Note: The firing of the Smothers Brothers by the Columbia Broadcasting System has created some stir in the world of TV. Here are some comments by TV writers on the dispute).

. . . SOMEONE, somewhere must decide what is acceptable television fare in terms of taste, fairness, and standards of morals. It figures this job cannot be left to individual performers with their own hostilities and attitudes.

The FCC chooses to let the responsibility lie with the networks and individual stations. They are the ones who take the rap if the rules are warped — not Tommy Smothers or any other performer.

All Tommy might lose is a job. CBS with its thousands of employes could blow the licenses of its stations. And that would be big trouble indeed.

—Vernon Scott, UPI

. . . THERE IS a matter of genuine corporate principle involved . . . the network's point — aside from the technical reasons for the breakoff with the Smothers, or which party is legally right—is that its guidelines, and screening processes, must be the same for all shows. Even if the network wants to change subtly, or doubts its rightness, it does not want to be pushed to the wall publicly and vociferously by a couple of comedians.

To illustrate the enormous gap between the principals in the overall video controversy, consider this fact: it was CBS' Dr. Frank Stanton, a man of deep integrity, who recently faced down the Senate Subcommittee by refusing to accede to general pre-screenings by the Code Authority of The National Association of Broadcasters. He felt it was a seed of censorship.

TOM SMOTHERS

He said CBS has its own screening practices. Yet these are the practices the Smothers object to. Imagine, then, the gap between, say, the Subcommittee and the Smothers brothers.

It is this sort of gap that has much of television's creative talent in considerable fear and anger at the oment.

—RICK Du Brow, UPI

IN THEIR own determined, erratic and at times exhausting way, the Smothers brothers have brought to the surface the issue of censorship in television. It is not entirely the simple problem they suggest, because of the nature of TV itself, but in the broadest and best measure of their concern they have performed a valuable service. The need of television is not to design new, subtle methods of repressive self-regulation, but rather to speed up the introduction of sturdy substance in all forms. A medium can choke on blandness, and it is a dull society which refuses to run the occasional risk of what some people may call vulgarity or irreverence. Too much of TV is deadly pap. The industry needs a generous dose of unpredictable mavericks with convictions . . .

The CBS action with respect to the Smothers brothers actually arose from administrative annoyance. The Smothers brothers did keep CBS on edge until the very last moment and because the network was unable, until Good Friday afternoon, to screen last Sunday's program for its affiliates, the network chose not to do so. This pre-screening for affiliates is not mandatory — NBC does not do it with "Laugh-In" — but the individual station does bear the final legal responsibility for what goes out on its channel.

What Pastore and CBS have now done is to magnify the controversy over program censorship far beyond anything envisioned. The irony of the cancellation last Sunday night is that the show was one of the best programs the Smother brothers have done this season . . .

In his many remarks of late, Tom Smothers drove home one point which should receive major priority in any future Senate or House hearings on the destiny of TV. Instead of dragging network executives, their lawyers and their press agents down to Washington, why doesn't Congress take the minimum trouble of inviting the creative artists to contribute their observations and complaints?

The tone of Congressional hearings is indeed distressing — a form of repetitive executive charade. The limitations,

33 1-3 RP Monkee

Now There are Only Three of Them

"All of the Monkees are individuals," said Monkee Davy Jones. "You can ask us all the same question and get four — no, three different answers."

Three of the Monkees — Davy Jones, Micky Dolenz and Mike Nesmith — gathered at a restaurant on Hollywood's Sunset Strip to talk with newspapermen about themselves and their television special, "33 1-3 Revolutions Per Monkee," at 8 p.m., Monday, Ch. 4.

Missing — but represented by an empty seat — was Peter Tork, who left the Monkees immediately after finishing work on the special to essay a solo career.

"WE STARTED off sticking to the group image," Monkee Micky said. "It may have been beneficial at first, but today we're recognized as individuals. We think and act and talk and dress differently. I've always advocated individuality. Dress the Marx Brothers all alike and what have you got."

Mike tossed a rare, wry grin toward his fellow Monkee.

"Davy is best characterized by his love of show business," he said. "All he wants to do is perform. He's always on. I think it was Sammy Davis Jr. who said that Davy is the type of guy who gets up for a midnight snack, opens the refrigerator door, the light goes on and he does 20 minutes on the kitchen linoleum.

"Micky also is a born entertainer," Mike continued. "He doesn't even need the refrigerator light.

"Mike is tall, and he gets taller all the time," sallied Davy, at 5-feet-3 the smallest of the Monkees. "I think he's going to be, quite possibly, a fantastic leading man. And, like Garbo, he wants to be alone."

Mike resumed: "Peter was a dexterous technician, a good musician. He can't be replaced and he won't be replaced. We're not interchangeable parts."

"He was a sort of wandering minstrel," Davy added. "He always wanted to be able to come and go as he liked."

SPEAKING of the future, Davy predicted: "I think the remaining three of us will always be together. We might do something on our own, but we'll always come back. The Monkees is our base."

The Monkees is not a rock 'n' roll group, but a comedy act, Mike said: "We might have been four times as big if we never picked up a guitar.

"But I believe the big success is coming. It'll happen. We'll be accepted as a comedy group that does music, not vice versa" he concluded, glancing uneasily at the empty seat beside him.

POLYNESIAN Adventure (2), 7:30 p.m. — An American family meets the challenges of a strange and rather primitive environment when they spend a year on Tahiti, Bora Bora, Raiatea and Tahas Islands. With Stanton Waterman of Princeton, N.J., a veteran filmmaker, their adventures were captured for the season's fourth National Geographic Society hour.

COLLEGE TURMOIL (2), 10 p.m. — The causes of student protests, what students hope to gain, and the future of higher education in this country are explored by Eric Sevareid, Harry Reasoner and Mike Wallace — as the same questions are asked separately of three educators and four student veterans of campus unrest. Participating are college presidents Dr. S. I. Hayakawa (San Francisco State), Dr. Robbin Fleming (Michigan) and Dr. Morris Abram (Brandeis), plus students representing conservative, moderate, radical and black militant views.

TRUE COMPANIONSHIP . . . bringing people who feel alike and think alike together: that's what computer selection is all about. Nor is it just for young people. It works for men and women of all ages who are looking for mature, lasting relationships with members of the opposite sex. It is not a substitute for the human mind or emotions. You truly make the selection because of the values you place on a lasting relationship. The computer merely helps us find like-minded companions faster. It has worked for thousands; it will work for you.

Plan Now for a Sturdy All Year Liken Patio

Know the company, know the product, know the guarantee. These are the three most important phases when planning a patio, carport or other aluminum structure, according to T. H. Liken and Sons, patio and aluminum building contractors serving the Southland for 22 years.

The award winning company (winners of the National Flexalum Design Award) have combined their designing skills with the finest in materials to establish an outstanding reputation for quality workmanship. All work is bonded and guaranteed.

Liken notes that nothing can match their Flexalum patio cover. Custom work, unique construction . . . no nuts, bolts or screws to mar the beauty of a Liken patio.

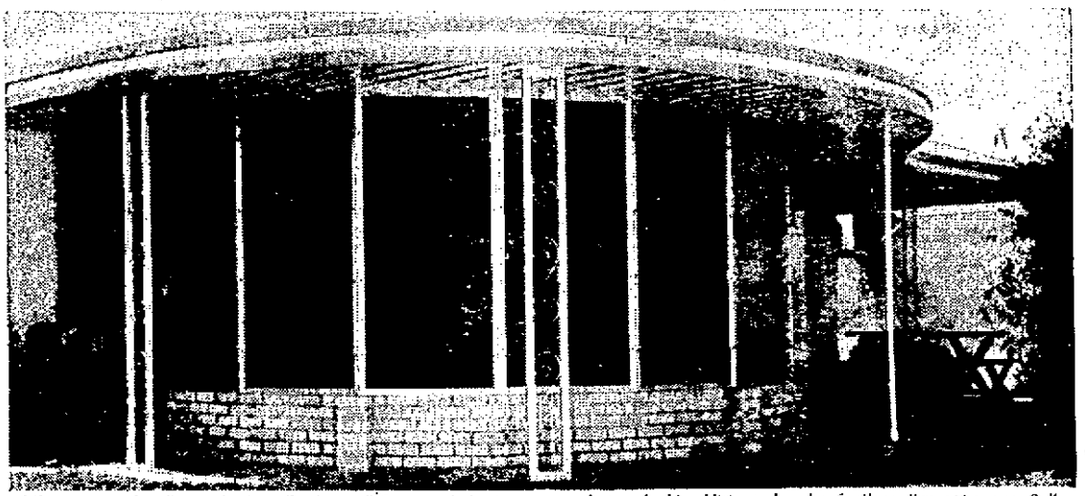

Exceptional quality is provided through the extra strength of top quality spring-tempered aluminum panels. Likens features all-aluminum concealed I-beam construction. Two coats of baked enamel that does away with waxing.

If desired, special skylight panels can be alternated with aluminum panels allowing a limited amount of light to filter through. The customer has a choice of a multitude of colors to choose from, plus cello-glass removable windows to make your patio an all-year room.

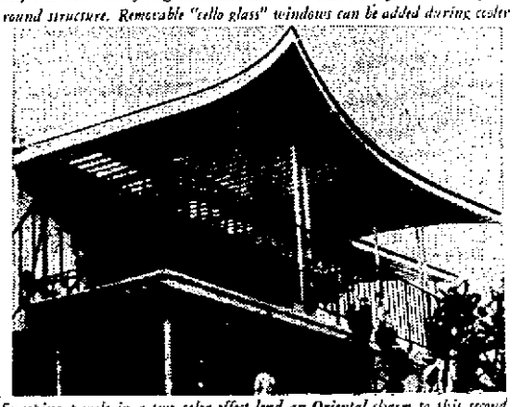

Original designs and solving of unusual problems are a specialty of Likens. A complete staff of experts are always available to aid with any aluminum-structure design.

Looking for something different in patio cover designs? Likens is always the first with unique ideas that add beauty and function to your patio area. Upright valance design is continued along back of home to eliminate the "tacked on look" so prevalent in most patios. All furniture and accessories were "color keyed" to match patio roof.

Likens ever popular all-year aluminum "patio room." Strong, cool aluminum roof combined with fiberglass screens and brick wall make for a durable year-round structure. Removable "cello glass" windows can be added during cooler months to make this addition truly a den, family or all year play room. Call GE 3-0946 for a Free Estimate at any time you desire.

Sweeping panels in a two color effect lend an Oriental charm to this second story balcony. Alternating panels of translucent plexi-glass allows light to filter through, but holds back heat rays. Total concept is further enhanced by decorative scroll railing, Oriental shrubbery and statuary.

Get Maximum Use of Yard with Liken Patio

Probably no home-improvement project has such wide appeal as installing an outdoor patio. It can add much to family (and guests) pleasure.

Distinctive types of patios are featured through the quality designs provided by T. H. Liken and Sons. Curved patios, screened-in's, and many, many other distinctive designs are offered by the 22-year-old firm that has adhered to ethical business practices and prices during their many years of service to Long Beach and surrounding area homeowners.

Likens are craftsmen in their field. They design each patio cover with the architectural plan of the house in mind.

Another service offered by the popular company is refacing industrial and commercial buildings. Old buildings take on a fresh, sparkling "new look" with a Likens plan.

Patio construction is augmented with complete service in aluminum awnings, screen enclosures, cement work and brick planters. All work carries a complete guarantee.

Likens staff of experts are well trained to plan, design and carry through on any home, commercial or industrial improvement project.

Free estimates are available at all times. A call to GE 3-0946 will bring a representative at your selected time.

THE EASTER program, "Were You There on That Easter Long Ago," shown on Ch. 5 was most impressive and one that should be repeated every Easter season . . .

THAT ARTICLE, "Violence & Remedy — What Sense in Censorship?" by Tom Wicker (TeleVues, April 6), certainly made a lot of sense.

And I think there's a lot of truth in the part where he said that some studies have suggested that watching television too much is a greater danger to children than what they see.

Whenever I feel violent about anything, it's because I feel life hasn't treated me fairly. Not because of anything I've seen on TV or read in a book. And, right or wrong, I imagine that's why people feel violent.

A SMALL item in the paper said that "Star Trek" would go into "domestic syndication" next season. Does this mean that the show will continue to be produced or that it will go into reruns?

TV for Welles
Takes Job with CBS

By GEORGE GENT
New York Times Service

Orson Welles is returning to his first love — broadcasting.

The actor, writer, producer and director, who made broadcasting history in 1938 with his Mercury Theater radio dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War Of The Worlds," has signed with the Columbia Broadcasting System to do one or more annual television specials of his choice, starting next season. Welles, talked about his reasons for trying his hand at the one medium he has for the most part avoided.

"THIS IS sort of a new frontier for me," he said. "When television came along, I'd already done more than 10 years of radio work and I thought everyone would want me. I sat around waiting for the phone to ring — and it didn't.

"Oh, I've done a little television, but I've never done anything as a director.

"I've talked to people about different projects over the years but they never wanted me to do anything interesting — always one kind of series or another. I've always felt they wnated to control me, or channel me into some predictable format or to trade my name as so many yards of personality. When Mike Dann, (CBS's senior vice president of programming) contacted me on the coast two months ago, he stressed that I could do whatever interested me.

"Now I find the prospect a little frightening. Before I could say no one ever gave me a chance on television. Now they have and I'll be found out," he said, laughing loudly.

"I have no great message to the world," he said. "I would like to use the medium creatively, try to design the work for the medium. I don't like television when it gets near to photographed plays."

WELLES, whose major films include "Citizen Kane" and "The Magnificent Ambersons," said CBS wanted him more as a producer and director than as a personality.

"I'll be in complete charge and will have to take the blame for any failures," he said.

ORSON WELLES

It was on Sunday, Oct. 30, 1938, that Welles' dramatization of a Martian invasion created panic among thousands of listeners throughout the country, causing some to believe that the end of the world was at hand and others to arm themselves against the Martian invaders.

Because the program, which was carried on the CBS radio network, had carried warnings that it was a dramatization, Welles and the network were exonerated following an investigation by the Federal Communications Commission, but Welles' reputation as a "boy wonder" had been established.

SMOTHERS DISPUTE: Some Views by TV Writers

(Editor's Note: The firing of the Smothers Brothers by the Columbia Broadcasting System has created some stir in the world of TV. Here are some comments by TV writers on the dispute).

. . . SOMEONE, somewhere must decide what is acceptable television fare in terms of taste, fairness, and standards of morals. It figures this job cannot be left to individual performers with their own hostilities and attitudes.

The FCC chooses to let the responsibility lie with the networks and individual stations. They are the ones who take the rap if the rules are warped — not Tommy Smothers or any other performer.

All Tommy might lose is a job. CBS with its thousands of employes could blow the licenses of its stations. And that would be big trouble indeed.

—Vernon Scott, UPI

. . . THERE IS a matter of genuine corporate principle involved . . . the network's point — aside from the technical reasons for the breakoff with the Smothers, or which party is legally right—is that its guidelines, and screening processes, must be the same for all shows. Even if the network wants to change subtly, or doubts its rightness, it does not want to be pushed to the wall publicly and vociferously by a couple of comedians.

To illustrate the enormous gap between the principals in the overall video controversy, consider this fact: it was CBS' Dr. Frank Stanton, a man of deep integrity, who recently faced down the Senate Subcommittee by refusing to accede to general pre-screenings by the Code Authority of The National Association of Broadcasters. He felt it was a seed of censorship.

TOM SMOTHERS

He said CBS has its own screening practices. Yet these are the practices the Smothers object to. Imagine, then, the gap between, say, the Subcommittee and the Smothers brothers.

It is this sort of gap that has much of television's creative talent in considerable fear and anger at the oment.

—RICK Du Brow, UPI

IN THEIR own determined, erratic and at times exhausting way, the Smothers brothers have brought to the surface the issue of censorship in television. It is not entirely the simple problem they suggest, because of the nature of TV itself, but in the broadest and best measure of their concern they have performed a valuable service. The need of television is not to design new, subtle methods of repressive self-regulation, but rather to speed up the introduction of sturdy substance in all forms. A medium can choke on blandness, and it is a dull society which refuses to run the occasional risk of what some people may call vulgarity or irreverence. Too much of TV is deadly pap. The industry needs a generous dose of unpredictable mavericks with convictions . . .

The CBS action with respect to the Smothers brothers actually arose from administrative annoyance. The Smothers brothers did keep CBS on edge until the very last moment and because the network was unable, until Good Friday afternoon, to screen last Sunday's program for its affiliates, the network chose not to do so. This pre-screening for affiliates is not mandatory — NBC does not do it with "Laugh-In" — but the individual station does bear the final legal responsibility for what goes out on its channel.

What Pastore and CBS have now done is to magnify the controversy over program censorship far beyond anything envisioned. The irony of the cancellation last Sunday night is that the show was one of the best programs the Smother brothers have done this season . . .

In his many remarks of late, Tom Smothers drove home one point which should receive major priority in any future Senate or House hearings on the destiny of TV. Instead of dragging network executives, their lawyers and their press agents down to Washington, why doesn't Congress take the minimum trouble of inviting the creative artists to contribute their observations and complaints?

The tone of Congressional hearings is indeed distressing — a form of repetitive executive charade. The limitations,

CRITICS' CORNER

THE SECOND BILL COSBY SPECIAL: Aired Wednesday, Ch. 4.

Childhood memories provide a rich lode for mining by comedians, as Sam Levinson and more recently Bill Cosby can testify. But it requires special skill, sentiment and a kind of resigned tolerance to pull them off so that the result is both funny and affectionate.

Cosby, in his NBC Special had one long monologue that must have had points of identification for men with sharp memories of their boyhoods, men with young sons and all mothers of little boys. That's a big audience.

The comedian took all the parts in a midnight drama involving himself at the age of eight, his five-year-old brother and his father. The boys quarreled, fought, cried, lied and generally raised hob. Cosby carried the whole thing off beautifully, and it occupied the best part of 30 minutes.

In the second half of the hour there was another elaborate sketch in which Cosby, in wig and long beard played the part of Noah in a contemporary version of building of the ark...

The Noah sequence was also the frame from a big dance production number, and earlier there was some gospel singing by a group. But it was essentially a one-man show.

Bill Cosby is a perceptive and warm comedian who has apparently total recall of the emotions and exaggerations of childhood. It was an hour that slipped by quickly and entertainingly.

Smothers Dispute

handicaps and strictures faced by the men who make the shows that the people see are ignored as practically immaterial. Congress, wittingly or unwittingly plays along with the big business concept of broadcasting, and elder Senators and station owners rarely give more than lip service to the changing morals of 1969. Their intellectual liaison on this score goes a long way toward explaining why TV needs a thorough shake-up in attitude and outlook.

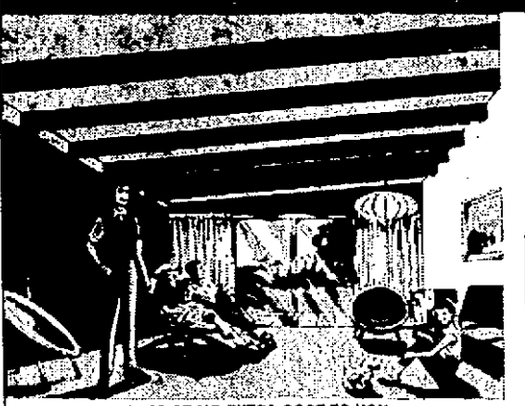

Younger viewers, white and black, may not always be right or pragmatic and they are not all of TV's composite audience. But they are entitled to proportional representation within the schedules of the networks and within the considerations of Congressional committees. Whether the Smothers brothers are the most consistent and knowledgeable spokesmen in their behalf can be debated. But at least the Smothers brothers represent one facet of modern society. That they should be summarily blipped off the air deserves contemplation and reappraisal once last week's emotions have cooled off and there can be a fresh look at what their departure could mean, not to themselves alone but to TV as a whole.

TRUE COMPANIONSHIP . . . bringing people who feel alike and think alike together: that's what computer selection is all about. Nor is it just for young people. It works for men and women of all ages who are looking for mature, lasting relationships with members of the opposite sex. It is not a substitute for the human mind or emotions. You truly make the selection because of the values you place on a lasting relationship. The computer merely helps us find like-minded companions faster. It has worked for thousands; it will work for you.

Plan Now for a Sturdy All Year Liken Patio

Know the company, know the product, know the guarantee. These are the three most important phases when planning a patio, carport or other aluminum structure, according to T. H. Liken and Sons, patio and aluminum building contractors serving the Southland for 22 years.

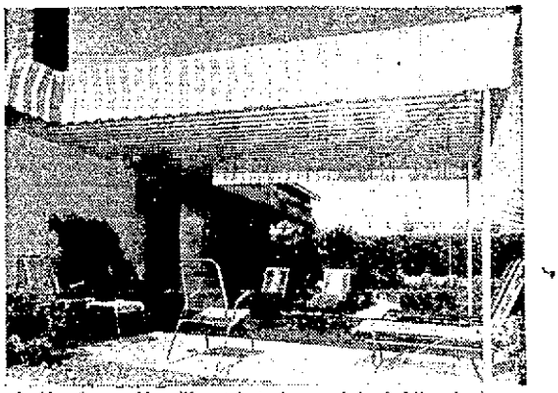

The award winning company (winners of the National Flexalum Design Award) have combined their designing skills with the finest in materials to establish an outstanding reputation for quality workmanship. All work is bonded and guaranteed.

Liken notes that nothing can match their Flexalum patio cover. Custom work, unique construction . . . no nuts, bolts or screws to mar the beauty of a Liken patio.

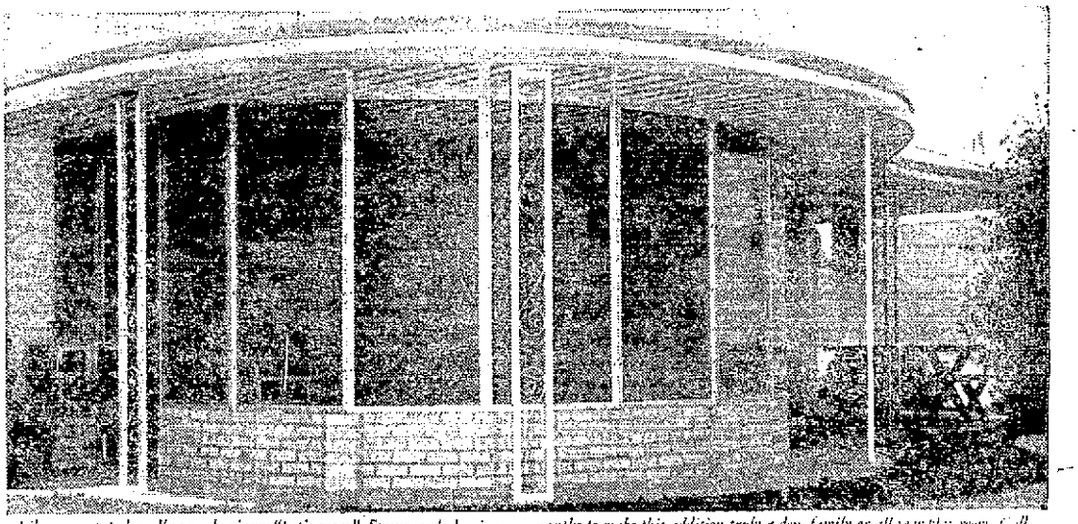

Exceptional quality is provided through the extra strength of top quality spring-tempered aluminum panels. Likens features all aluminum concealed I-beam construction. Two coats of baked enamel that does away with waxing.

If desired, special skylight panels can be alternated with aluminum panels allowing a limited amount of light to filter through. The customer has a choice of a multitude of colors to choose from, plus cello-glass removable windows to make your patio an all-year room.

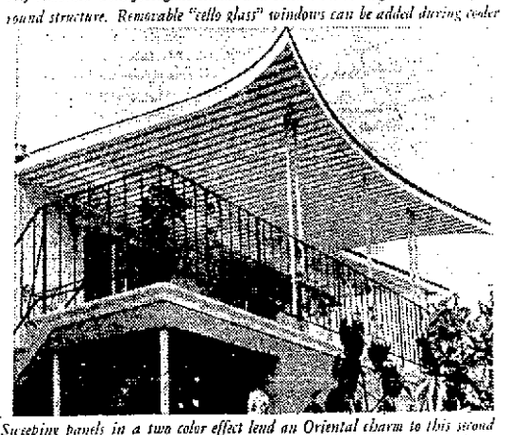

Original designs and solving of unusual problems are a specialty of Likens. A complete staff of experts are always available to aid with any aluminum-structure design.

Looking for something different in patio cover designs? Likens is always the firm with unique ideas that add beauty and function to your patio area. Upright valance design is continued along back of home to eliminate the "tacked on look" so prevalent in most patios. All furniture and accessories were "color keyed" to match patio roof.

Likens ever popular all-year aluminum "patio room." Strong, cool aluminum roof combined with fiberglass screens and brick wall make for a durable year-round structure. Removable "cello glass" windows can be added during cooler months to make this addition truly a den, family or all year play room. Call GE 3-0946 for a Free Estimate at any time you desire.

Sweeping panels in a two color effect lend an Oriental charm to this second story balcony. Alternating panels of translucent plexi-glass allows light to filter through, but holds back heat rays. Total concept is further enhanced by decorative scroll railing, Oriental shrubbery and statuary.

Get Maximum Use of Yard with Liken Patio

Probably no home-improvement project has such wide appeal as installing an outdoor patio. It can add much to family (and guests) pleasure.

Distinctive types of patios are featured through the quality designs provided by T. H. Liken and Sons. Curved patios, screened-in's, and many, many other distinctive designs are offered by the 22-year-old firm that has adhered to ethical business practices and prices during their many years of service to Long Beach and surrounding area homeowners.

Likens are craftsmen in their field. They design each patio cover with the architectural plan of the house in mind.

Another service offered by the popular company is relating industrial and commercial buildings. Old buildings take on a fresh, sparkling "new look" with a Likens plan.

Patio construction is augmented with complete service in aluminum awnings, screen enclosures, cement work and brick planters. All work carries a complete guarantee.

Likens staff of experts are well trained to plan, design and carry through on any home, commercial or industrial improvement project.

Free estimates are available at all times. A call to GE 3-0946 will bring a representative at your selected time.

Glad You Asked That!

By Hy Gardner

No, Jackie Gleason didn't save Richard Nixon's life.

Q. "THEY SAY the real reason for President Richard Nixon's friendship and affection for Jackie Gleason is that the latter once saved him from drowning. Got any lowdown on this?" — Frank Hennessey, Chicago.

A. This goes to show you how they can make a mountain out of a flea hill. Back in 1966 both men were playing golf at the Doral Hotel and Country Club in Miami when a photographer shot a gag picture of Jackie "saving" Mr. Nixon from "falling" into a water hole by holding on to a club for dear life. The dignitary didn't come any closer to getting a bath than a hippie, and I've got a picture to prove it.

Q. "I've read where President and Mrs. Nixon first met when they were appearing in an amateur play in Whittier, Calif. Was she ever a professional actress?" — Moore McDonough, Houston.

A. Pat Nixon told a reporter that she helped pay her college tuition by playing tiny extra roles in motion pictures and hit the "Big Time" when she did a walk-on in the film "Becky Sharp" for which she was paid $25. She also said she once had a speaking part, a fat one line, but it ended up on the cutting room floor.

Q. "I hear Joe Namath, the New York Jets grown-up Bonus Baby, almost became a professional baseball player. Ask him if this is true." — Jack Slakman, Far Rockaway, N.Y.

A. "It's true," Joe drawled. "I preferred baseball to football and eight years ago I was offered a $50,000 bonus to join a major league team. As dizzying as the prospect of getting my hands on fifty big ones was, I turned down the bid so I could continue college. Then along came Sonny Werblin and I was hooked on football."

Q. "I have a thought on the confusing Pueblo-North Korean controversy. Wouldn't it have been a simple thing for Commander Bucher, if he feared secret documents getting into the hands of the enemy, for him to just toss the books overboard?" — Ex-Navy Officer, Miami, Fla.

A. You may have a point there. From what other U.S. Navy officers (who have had ships under their command during wartime) tell me, every secret document from "Confidential" on is kept in books with lead-backed covers that sink upon hitting the water.

Q. "Did you know that two of the stars on the BBC radio network are old friends, Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, and Charles Chaplin?" — H.P.B., London, England.

A. I noticed that in "London Calling," a log of the BBC overseas programs. They're not appearing in person, however. Chaplin's autobiography is being read in 20 installments by Charles Leno and Tse-tung is the "star" of four weekly programs reviewing China today. That both men are "on" at the same time is strictly a coincidence.

Q. "Apart from the handful of men who manage his octopus affairs, do you know ANYONE who has seen and talked personally with Howard Hughes in recent months?" — Joan McGowan, Indianapolis.

A. Yes. Xavier Cugat, the Latin-lover bandleader. Cugie, who played host to the billionaire back when he hosted a nightclub, requested a meeting with Hughes to inquire about some Las Vegas property he planned to buy adjacent to some of Hughes' acreage. Hughes recommended he make the investment.

THAT ARTICLE, "Violence & Remedy — What Sense in Censorship?" by Tom Wicker (TeleVues, April 6), certainly made a lot of sense.

And I think there's a lot of truth in the part where he said that some studies have suggested that watching television too much is a greater danger to children than what they see.

Whenever I feel violent about anything, it's because I feel life hasn't treated me fairly. Not because of anything I've seen on TV or read in a book. And, right or wrong, I imagine that's why people feel violent.

A SMALL item in the paper said that "Star Trek" would go into "domestic syndication" next season. Does this mean that the show will continue to be produced or that it will go into reruns?

TV for Welles
Takes Job with CBS

By GEORGE GENT
New York Times Service

Orson Welles is returning to his first love — broadcasting.

The actor, writer, producer and director, who made broadcasting history in 1938 with his Mercury Theater radio dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War Of The Worlds," has signed with the Columbia Broadcasting System to do one or more annual television specials of his choice, starting next season. Welles, talked about his reasons for trying his hand at the one medium he has for the most part avoided.

"THIS IS sort of a new frontier for me," he said. "When television came along, I'd already done more than 10 years of radio work and I thought everyone would want me. I sat around waiting for the phone to ring — and it didn't.

"Oh, I've done a little television, but I've never done anything as a director.

"I've talked to people about different projects over the years but they never wanted me to do anything interesting — always one kind of series or another. I've always felt they wnated to control me, or channel me into some predictable format or to trade my name as so many yards of personality. When Mike Dann, (CBS's senior vice president of programming) contacted me on the coast two months ago, he stressed that I could do whatever interested me.

"Now I find the prospect a little frightening. Before I could say no one ever gave me a chance on television. Now they have and I'll be found out," he said, laughing loudly.

"I have no great message to the world," he said. "I would like to use the medium creatively, try to design the work for the medium. I don't like television when it gets near to photographed plays."

WELLES, whose major films include "Citizen Kane" and "The Magnificent Ambersons," said CBS wanted him more as a producer and director than as a personality.

"I'll be in complete charge and will have to take the blame for any failures," he said.

ORSON WELLES

It was on Sunday, Oct. 30, 1938, that Welles' dramatization of a Martian invasion created panic among thousands of listeners throughout the country, causing some to believe that the end of the world was at hand and others to arm themselves against the Martian invaders.

Because the program, which was carried on the CBS radio network, had carried warnings that it was a dramatization, Welles and the network were exonerated following an investigation by the Federal Communications Commission, but Welles' reputation as a "boy wonder" had been established.

THE WELLS REPORT

Simon-Called-Sam

By Bob Wells

THE NAME OF WATTS is known throughout the nation and the world. But before it was known in the United States of America, it was known abroad.

In America, Watts has become a synonym for black wrath. It was the place where in that terrible August of 1965, long-repressed anger erupted in smoke and flame. Few middle-class white suburbanites can tell you exactly where Watts is, but they can tell you the name of its main street — "Charcoal Alley" — and the electronic picture of its smoking ruins has been graven permanently into their memories along with the sounds of breaking glass and police sirens, spooled forever on brown strands of magnetic tape and in gray brain cells.

But in Europe long before the black revolution, the name Watts connoted frozen light and filigreed air and elfin spires and a haze of bright tiles fluttering like butterflies against a summer sky.

Watts was and is known in the world as the home of Simon Rodia called Sam.

Three years after the convulsive earthquake of emotions that burned it, Watts is slowly rising again like a dark fist thrust into an uncaring sky. In the ashes, black Watts has found a new voice, a new power, a new pride.

BUT AT 1765 E. 107TH ST., the airy towers could care less. There they stand, as serene as the day the greasy smoke rolled around them and the looters hurried homeward past them with television sets and cases of liquor. There they stand as uncaring as the day Their Pomposities, the Los Angeles City Bureaucracy, came to tear them down and failed.

Black Watts is the story of the impotence of the many breaking loose in the fury of the mass until the uncaring heavens are forced to listen. When the learned men write about that, they call it politics.

The Watts Towers are the story of the pent-up fury of a single human soul shouting out so strongly that the uncaring heavens were forced to listen.

When the learned men write about that, they call it art.

The elfin spires and watches of Watts were just as surely thrown up by an earthquake of the soul as a good part of the rest of Watts was destroyed by a Soul earthquake.

THE TOWERS WERE built by an Italian immigrant named Simon Rodia, called Sam Rodilla by his Mexican neighbors. He was born in Italy about 1872 and emigrated to this country as a very young man. Here, he eventually became a skilled tile-setter.

Sometime in the 1920s, when he was almost 50 years of age, Simon Rodia began work on his towers. For some 30 years they were his dedication and his life until he completed them in 1954. Then he walked away from them. He deeded the property to a friend, moved up to Northern California to Martinez and steadfastly refused to talk about his life work with anyone until he died.

What made him build what London Times art critic David Thompson called "one of the oddest and most touching works of art in America, and one of the most remarkable achievements of folk art anywhere"?

His self discipline was tremendous. He organized his daily life into three equal periods — eight hours of work for a living, eight hours for sleeping and eight hours of work on the towers. Every cent he earned he spent for building materials. He collected 72,000 equal-sized sea shells at the beach in Long Beach for ornamentation.

He worked simultaneously at all three towers. His tools were a window washer's belt, a bucket for cement, and a trowel. He used nothing else.

THE THREE TOWERS ARE BUILT of concrete shaped into cones of spirals over steel reinforcing rods and wire mesh. They rise to a height of more than 100 feet. Every inch of the structure is covered with multi-colored mosaic — broken tiles, glass and pottery, sea shells and imprints of drawn lines, imprints of tools, hands, corncobs and baskets.

The triangular lot around the towers is a garden of fountains, pavilions and labyrinths. In the acute angle is what he called "Marco Polo's Ship," researched perhaps in the 11th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, which he owned and which was his favorite and perhaps only reading.

What made him build the towers?

Rodia told columnist Paul Coates that they were his tribute to the United States of America, that he had wanted to "do something" for his adopted home. Coates scheduled him for his television show, but when Sam got to the studio gates, he turned and ran.

It is a nice patriotic explanation, but Sam gave another one to a couple who were friends with him in the 1930s.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND BALL used to take him bits and pieces of material for the towers. Mainly it was broken dishes or bottles.

"I like to believe that we got to know him about as well as anyone," Mrs. Ball said a few years ago. "He told us that he'd started his project more by accident than plan in 1924."

In those days, Sam was a heavy drinker — as a student of the Towers, Dr. Paul Laporte, puts it, there is evidence "he ran around with women and alcohol." Anyway, as Rodia told the Balls, one Sunday afternoon in 1924 about a year after his wife died, he was putting up a concrete wall in front of his property.

He was drinking as usual — taking a belt from a whisky bottle as he worked. He got to thinking about his dead wife and about how she used to plead with him him to cut down on his drinking. He got to thinking how the bottle had deprived his wife of so many things he might have given her.

HE REACHED DOWN AND picked up the whisky bottle. This time, however, instead of drinking from it, he smashed it with one deliberate stroke. Then he picked up the pieces of broken bottle one by one and gently pushed them into the wet concrete.

That was the beginning of the towers.

At the age of 75, he finished them. He transferred his lot and the towers to a young Mexican-American neighbor and left. By this time word of the towers had spread among artists and art critics throughout the world. A nonprofit corporation was set up to acquire the towers and watch over them.

In the late 1950s, the Towers came to the attention of the City of Los Angeles, which proposed to demolish them on the solid bureaucratic grounds that they had been constructed without a building permit and they might fall over and hit somebody.

Committees were formed to protest to the Mayor and the City Council. After considerable public outcry, the City finally agreed to a stress test. The test equipment was rolled out and attached to the towers. The stress load was gradually applied to the tallest tower. It didn't budge. The load was increased. The tower stood firm.

Finally, the stress was increased to 10,000 pounds, the full capacity of the equipment. The tower didn't budge, but the main beam of the test rigging began to give way. The City shamefacedly unhooked it and crept away.

The Towers stand.

CRITICS' CORNER

THE SECOND BILL COSBY SPECIAL: Aired Wednesday, Ch. 4.

Childhood memories provide a rich lode for mining by comedians, as Sam Levinson and more recently Bill Cosby can testify. But it requires special skill, sentiment and a kind of resigned tolerance to pull them off so that the result is both funny and affectionate.

Cosby, in his NBC Special had one long monologue that must have had points of identification for men with sharp memories of their boyhoods, men with young sons and all mothers of little boys. That's a big audience.

The comedian took all the parts in a midnight drama involving himself at the age of eight, his five-year-old brother and his father. The boys quarreled, fought, cried, lied and generally raised hob. Cosby carried the whole thing off beautifully, and it occupied the best part of 30 minutes.

In the second half of the hour there was another elaborate sketch in which Cosby, in wig and long beard played the part of Noah in a contemporary version of building of the ark...

The Noah sequence was also the frame from a big dance production number, and earlier there was some gospel singing by a group. But it was essentially a one-man show.

Bill Cosby is a perceptive and warm comedian who has apparently total recall of the emotions and exaggerations of childhood. It was an hour that slipped by quickly and entertainingly.

Smothers Dispute

handicaps and strictures faced by the men who make the shows that the people see are ignored as practically immaterial. Congress, wittingly or unwittingly plays along with the big business concept of broadcasting, and elder Senators and station owners rarely give more than lip service to the changing morals of 1969. Their intellectual liaison on this score goes a long way toward explaining why TV needs a thorough shake-up in attitude and outlook.

Younger viewers, white and black, may not always be right or pragmatic and they are not all of TV's composite audience. But they are entitled to proportional representation within the schedules of the networks and within the considerations of Congressional committees. Whether the Smothers brothers are the most consistent and knowledgeable spokesmen in their behalf can be debated. But at least the Smothers brothers represent one facet of modern society. That they should be summarily blipped off the air deserves contemplation and reappraisal once last week's emotions have cooled off and there can be a fresh look at what their departure could mean, not to themselves alone but to TV as a whole.

Ex-Newsman Tony Zoppi, Who Once Worked for LBJ and Was Jack Ruby's Friend, Hobnobs With Showbiz Greats

Publicist in Paradise

By Bob Martin

LAS VEGAS — If happiness is doing the kind of work you like to do and getting paid handsomely to do it, then Tony Zoppi is as happy as a guy hitting five straight jackpots on a dollar slot machine.

How would you like to make the rounds of Las Vegas shows with Bob Hope, shoot the breeze with Dean Martin or Clint Eastwood, play a joke on Frank Sinatra, dine with Ann-Margret, Mitzi Gaynor or Raquel Welch, laugh it up with Carol Channing, Phyllis Diller, Danny Thomas or Marty Allen, chat with Ingrid Bergman, Carol Lawrence or Barbra Streisand, become chummy with O.J. Simpson or Denny McLain?

Zoppi does all these things, and he does them regularly. In a city built on luck (good and bad), he has to pinch himself every morning and ask, "How lucky can I get?" For Zoppi is a Las Vegas publicity man — publicity director of the Riviera Hotel — and, as far as he's concerned, hobnobbing with celebrities is more fun than breaking the bank at Monte Carlo.

How does one go about landing such a dream job? Well, it wasn't handed to Tony on a silver platter fresh out of college; he spent years developing a suitable background for such a position. First, he became a widely known newspaper columnist with his own TV show in Dallas.

"I'll have to admit I've been fascinated by show business people all my life," says the pleasant-faced publicist who looks at you from behind thick black-rimmed glasses. "As a kid in New Jersey I worked in an exclusive beach club in Long Branch called the Colony Surf Club where many big-name stars entertained. I started out at age 12 as a page boy — monkey suit and all — and was there six years, becoming assistant publicity director in my last year. From the beginning, I made it my business to get to know the stars who appeared there — people like Sophie Tucker, Fanny Brice, Ted Lewis, George Jessel, the Ritz Brothers, Milton Berle, Martha Raye, Abe Lyman and Lou Rapp, who later became a singing star and then a top TV producer under the name of Barry Wood. This was back about 1934 to 1939. I remember I got $10 extra a week as Lyman's band boy. I worked from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. and loved every minute of it."

Tony had two loves in addition to show business — sports and newspapers. Columnists like Bob Considine, Danton Walker, Walter Winchell and Ed Sullivan (who M.C.'ed shows at the club) were his idols. While in high school Tony was a sports stringer for the Long Branch Daily Record, earning 5 cents an inch, and he became sports editor of his high school and college (Upsala) papers.

Never an outstanding athlete or entertainer himself, Zoppi used his journalistic talents to open the doors to the world occupied by the stars of sports and show business.

Tony Zoppi, Riviera Hotel publicity director, and pal Bob Hope make the rounds in Las Vegas. With them here is a dancer-friend.

Yet, ironically, he may remember his association with two men who were neither entertainers nor athletes long after he has forgotten many of the others. Their names: Lyndon Baines Johnson and Jack Ruby.

ZOPPI ONCE WORKED for Johnson. Here's how it came about:

During World War II, Tony earned a second lieutenant's commission and was made a special services officer at Harmon General Hospital in Longview, Tex. At the hospital he was in charge of a 36-piece military band, wrote and directed a radio show called "Heroes Come to Harmon" (about wounded GIs) and wrote human interest stories for newspapers. After leaving the Army, Zoppi was asked by the publisher of the Longview paper, Carl Estes, to work for him. "I was made sports editor, which means I covered City Hall in the morning, county offices or civic affairs in the afternoon and a ball game at night," he recalls.

"Anyway, in 1948 a young congressman named Lyndon Johnson decided to run for the Senate. He made his opening speech in a little town about 20 miles from Longview and I was assigned to cover it. The next day Johnson read it, liked it and called Estes to ask who wrote it. Estes replied: 'Oh, I've got a young Yankee working for me.' Johnson then asked Estes if he'd give me a leave of absence to do publicity for him. So I traveled throughout the campaign with Johnson and he ended up winning by 84 votes and gaining the nickname of 'Landslide Lyndon.'

"We've stayed in touch over the years. He sent me a nice note just last December. I used to see him occasionally when he'd be in Dallas, and I talked to him briefly one time while he was President and came to Vegas. I was visiting here myself at the time."

An autographed ("To my friend . . .") photograph of the former President hangs behind Zoppi's desk in his office on the first floor of the Riviera.

TONY KNEW JACK RUBY very well for a number of years. Since Tony was nightclub editor of the Dallas Morning News and Ruby was owner of a nightclub in Dallas, it was only natural that they should know each other, but their association was closer than many such relationships.

WORK IS PLAY FOR A LAS VEGAS PUBLICIST

"Ruby was in my office the morning of the Kennedy assassination — he was constantly in my office," recalls Zoppi. "I think I knew him better than anyone else in Dallas, certainly better than any other newspaperman. And, incidentally, I do not subscribe to the assassination conspiracy theory at all — it is ridiculous.

"I'm the only living reporter (the late Dorothy Kilgallen was the only other one) to get an exclusive interview with Ruby after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald. He called me from his jail cell and we talked for an hour and a half. He talked about everything and broke down emotionally three or four times.

"During the trial he always insisted that I sit with him; he told attorney Melvin Belli, 'I want Tony in my corner.' So I had a seat right in back of him. I testified I didn't think he could get a fair trial in Dallas, that the trial should be held in another city.

"One time an Associated Press reporter asked him: 'Do you know Tony pretty well?' 'Know him?' Ruby replied. 'Why, I'm giving him the rights to my book.' This was the first I'd heard of it. But later his brother Earl got the other members of the family to sign papers giving me exclusive rights to Ruby's life story. Of course, they'll share in any income.

"I'm working on a book about Ruby and I've already written the outline for a screenplay, which is in MGM's hands. I'd like for Rod Steiger to play the part; if so, I think we'd have a multi-million-dollar property. I feel it's inevitable the picture will be made, although the Kennedy family may cause some delays.

"You know, when Ruby was in my office the morning of the assassination, he told me he was going to move into a new home in an exclusive part of Dallas. I said, 'Say, that's pretty fancy territory,' and his last words to me that day were: 'Tony, I've scrimped all my life — now I want to live a little'."

ZOPPI, INCIDENTALLY, claims to be the first newsman to report the death of President Kennedy. Here's how it came about:

He watched the Kennedy parade from the Adolphus Hotel with an FBI agent (he had asked Ruby to join him) and immediately after the shooting was assigned to the Parkland Hospital. "In my haste to get to the hospital," Zoppi remembers, "I forgot my press pass, and the security guards wouldn't let me in. A little later I was standing on the back dock at the hospital when an ambulance came up with a casket. I knew then the President was dead. The two ambulance attendants asked me to give them a hand with taking the casket into the hospital, and this way I got past guards who had stopped me before. I quickly got to a phone and tried to call the Dallas News, but the lines were all tied up. Someone shouted, 'Get off the phone!' I then went to the switchboard operators, told them who I was and they put me through to the News. I told John King, the city editor, that Kennedy was dead, and he said, 'How do you know?' and I told him about the casket. Then a voice (the phones were being monitored) said, 'Get the hell off the phone!' and I was cut off. But at least I was the first newsman to get the word out that Kennedy was dead."

FROM THE EXCITEMENT of a presidential assassination, the slaying of Oswald and the trial and death of Ruby to the relative quiet of Las Vegas might seem like a comedown to some newsmen, but Zoppi will settle for his present life.

How did he happen to land the Riviera job?

From the early 1950s to 1965 Tony was entertainment editor of the Dallas News (after a stint in the sports department) and wrote a popular daily column, "Dallas After Dark." Starting in 1961, he also had a weekly TV show of the same name, sponsored by Pontiac dealers in Dallas. "It was a show of the Johnny Carson or Merv Griffin type in which I would interview entertainers and then they'd perform. Among the stars I had on my show were Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Frank Sinatra, Danny Thomas, Victor Borge, Diana Dors, Ray Anthony, Joey Bishop, Vic Damone and many others. I did a few of the interviews in Las Vegas for showing in Dallas, because I came to Vegas about once a month for openings of shows.

"Anyway, four years ago when I was out here, Harvey Silbert, a Beverly Hills attorney who was chairman of the board of the Riviera, took me to breakfast and confided in me that the Riviera was looking for a publicity director, had interviewed a few persons but wasn't satisfied with them and was wondering if I could recommend anybody in Texas for the job. I said, 'How about me?', and he replied, 'Why, you're Mr. Dallas, you wouldn't be interested, would you?' But they offered to triple my salary and I didn't have to think twice."

The Riviera has had a management change since Zoppi joined it, but he insists he wasn't the least bit worried about losing his job. "As a matter of fact, two other big hotels in Vegas have offered me jobs with them," he points out. "I've had a big pay raise at the Riviera and my duties have been expanded — I'm advertising director as well as publicity director. A very knowledgeable man, Ed Torres, runs the Riviera now; he's also owner-operator of the Fremont and the Aladdin."

Zoppi brought to the job not only the skills of a newspaperman and experience in television and radio, but an acquaintance with hundreds of entertainers and friendship with many. He's a likeable, seemingly modest, easy-going, fun-loving fellow who's never overly aggressive. He has a good sense of humor and gets along well with nearly everyone. I've known him for years — we used to work together on the Dallas News.

"MY CLOSEST FRIEND in show business is Bob Hope," he told me. "Our relationship transcends the reporter-star relationship. He'll call me up and we'll make the rounds — take in the shows together. I used to travel with him down South — he'd call me from New Orleans or Houston or someplace and I'd hop a plane in Dallas and join him. The first time I met Bob was in Vegas; Jerry Colonna, whom I'd met in Dallas, introduced us. Bob's the kind of person that, the minute I met him, I felt like I'd known him a hundred years.

"It was the same with Frank Sinatra. I know he's supposed to have trouble with newsmen, but he and I clicked at once.

"We were raised not far apart in New Jersey. Frank flew me from Dallas to Miami for one of his shows. I gave his son his very first review in show business; he was making his pro debut as a singer on a Tommy Dorsey show in Dallas. Earlier in the day his father called me and asked me to have a talk with the boy. I talked with him for three hours like a Dutch uncle — told him what he could expect. I gave him a good review, and he cherished it. A year later he was asked in New York if he'd made any friends among newspapermen and he said, 'Yes, Jim Bacon of AP and Tony Zoppi of the Dallas News.' It sure made me feel good to hear that."

The only picture of a famous person other than Mr. Johnson that Tony had hanging in his office the day I interviewed him was one showing Hope being introduced by Tony at a program at SMU. ("Later the same evening I introduced Red Skelton at another place in Dallas. What a parlay!"). At his apartment a few blocks from the Riviera — "it's owned by Al Hirt the musician and he won't let me pay any rent" — Tony has pictures on the wall of himself with Perry Como, Liberace, Sinatra, Dean Martin (one of his bosses now, since he recently bought a 10 per cent interest in the Riviera), Victor Borge, Ray Anthony and Tony Bennett.

Friend Dean Martin is now one of Zoppi's bosses — he recently bought 10 per cent interest in the Riviera.

Zoppi dines with singer Maria Callas at show in Las Vegas.

Zoppi lists Bennett, Marty Allen ("a real funny guy and an intellectual, one of the best-read guys in show business"), Shecky Greene, Mike Douglas, Carol Channing, Phyllis Diller and Totie Fields as among his closest show business friends. Hank Stram, coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, has been a close friend since the days when he was an assistant coach at SMU, and Tony has been one of the American Football League's biggest fans since its inception. Tony got pitching star Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers to entertain as organist-pianist at the Riviera after last year's World Series, and persuaded O.J. Simpson to spend a few days in the hotel at the end of the football season. Tony became quite chummy with both of them -- and both brought the Riviera a lot of publicity, as did the recent wedding there of one of the Pueblo crewmen, also arranged by Zoppi.

THE PUBLICIST ADMITS there are a few entertainers he's not too fond of. He mentioned one widely known female singer who has apneared at the Riviera. "But even if an entertainer is hard to get along with I don't let that stand in the way of publicizing her. I just let her go her way, and I go mine. Some stars are their own worst enemies, but most of them are easy to get along with."

Zoppi claims he works seven days a week, from about 10 in the morning until late at night, with a break in the afternoon, "but I don't consider it work — it's a pleasure."

There's one hazard to such a job — the temptation to gamble — but Tony keeps clear of it. "There are plenty of guys who have worked in Vegas, including publicity men, who will be paying off their gambling debts for the rest of their lives. But not me. I do no gambling — not a dime."

For relaxation, he likes to swim and go to pro football games. He has a set of golf clubs in his office, but hasn't played since having a back operation three years ago (he never was very good at golf, anyway; I can recall beating him regularly when both of us were sports staffers on the Dallas News).

As good publicity men should, Zoppi sees no end to the Las Vegas boom. New hotels continue to rise, and others continue to expand. "We added 300 rooms last year for a total of 770, and plan to add more. Business is unbelievable — and with the advent of the giant supersonic jets it will be more so. Then, instead of being just the playground of the United States, Las Vegas will be the playground of the world."

And, when that comes about, Tony Zoppi will have even more celebrities to get to know. The prospect is almost enough to make him forget he's never met Howard Hughes.

Glad You Asked That!

By Hy Gardner

No, Jackie Gleason didn't save Richard Nixon's life.

Q. "THEY SAY the real reason for President Richard Nixon's friendship and affection for Jackie Gleason is that the latter once saved him from drowning. Got any lowdown on this?" — Frank Hennessey, Chicago.

A. This goes to show you how they can make a mountain out of a flea hill. Back in 1966 both men were playing golf at the Doral Hotel and Country Club in Miami when a photographer shot a gag picture of Jackie "saving" Mr. Nixon from "falling" into a water hole by holding on to a club for dear life. The dignitary didn't come any closer to getting a bath than a hippie, and I've got a picture to prove it.

Q. "I've read where President and Mrs. Nixon first met when they were appearing in an amateur play in Whittier, Calif. Was she ever a professional actress?" — Moore McDonough, Houston.

A. Pat Nixon told a reporter that she helped pay her college tuition by playing tiny extra roles in motion pictures and hit the "Big Time" when she did a walk-on in the film "Becky Sharp" for which she was paid $25. She also said she once had a speaking part, a fat one line, but it ended up on the cutting room floor.

Q. "I hear Joe Namath, the New York Jets grown-up Bonus Baby, almost became a professional baseball player. Ask him if this is true." — Jack Slakman, Far Rockaway, N.Y.

A. "It's true," Joe drawled. "I preferred baseball to football and eight years ago I was offered a $50,000 bonus to join a major league team. As dizzying as the prospect of getting my hands on fifty big ones was, I turned down the bid so I could continue college. Then along came Sonny Werblin and I was hooked on football."

Q. "I have a thought on the confusing Pueblo-North Korean controversy. Wouldn't it have been a simple thing for Commander Bucher, if he feared secret documents getting into the hands of the enemy, for him to just toss the books overboard?" — Ex-Navy Officer, Miami, Fla.

A. You may have a point there. From what other U.S. Navy officers (who have had ships under their command during wartime) tell me, every secret document from "Confidential" on is kept in books with lead-backed covers that sink upon hitting the water.

Q. "Did you know that two of the stars on the BBC radio network are old friends, Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, and Charles Chaplin?" — H.P.B., London, England.

A. I noticed that in "London Calling," a log of the BBC overseas programs. They're not appearing in person, however. Chaplin's autobiography is being read in 20 installments by Charles Leno and Tse-tung is the "star" of four weekly programs reviewing China today. That both men are "on" at the same time is strictly a coincidence.

Q. "Apart from the handful of men who manage his octopus affairs, do you know ANYONE who has seen and talked personally with Howard Hughes in recent months?" — Joan McGowan, Indianapolis.

A. Yes. Xavier Cugat, the Latin-lover bandleader. Cugie, who played host to the billionaire back when he hosted a nightclub, requested a meeting with Hughes to inquire about some Las Vegas property he planned to buy adjacent to some of Hughes' acreage. Hughes recommended he make the investment.

WEEK'S EVENTS PROMOTE
PAN AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP

It's Festival Time in Lakewood Again

By Hal Lowe

Colombian dancers perform lively number at Parks Fiesta held during Pan American Week at Lakewood city parks.

Sheila Miller, 19, a Mayfair High School graduate and a freshman at Whittier College, will reign over week-long Pan American Festival starting Monday. The brown-eyed brunette was selected a week ago in competition with 20 others. Sheila succeeds the girl on the cover of today's Southland, Connie Sessions, as Pan American Queen.

A HANDSHAKE over a back yard fence in Lakewood in 1947, between neighbors, has grown into an international event, which will be celebrated by the people of Lakewood for seven days starting Monday. It's the 23rd annual Pan American Festival.

Jess Solter and his new neighbor, Dr. Walter Montano, former Bolivian consul, exchanged the handshake and thought it would be nice if the people of the United States and the people of Latin America could also exchange such a handshake. They discussed their plan with friends and, from such beginnings, came the Pan American Festival.

The first celebration was a simple tree-planting event and an assembly in a Lakewood junior high school. However, each year, other ceremonies have been added and the 23rd Festival will be a week-long event climaxed by a big parade next Sunday.

Each year, one of the Latin American countries, selected alphabetically, is chosen as the honored country. This year, Brazil will be making her second appearance. A dignitary from the honored country is invited as guest of the city to participate in the celebration and ride as grand marshal in the parade. These honored guests have included mayors of leading Latin American cities and even a vice president of one of the countries.

Friendship is expressed with the "El Comienzo" luncheon which kicks off Pan American Week. Latin American consuls and the guest from the honored country are speakers. This is followed by the flag exchange ceremony at Bancroft Junior High School.

It has become a tradition for students at the school to exchange flags with a similar school in the honored country. An exchange student from that country attending in the area acts as official delegate to the ceremony.

Activities during Pan American Week are ruled over by the festival queen, who is selected in competition among local high school and college girls. The queen also acts as ambassador from the city at Pan Am functions the year around. Since many of the queens — and their families — have been the guests in Latin American nations, the competition for the title is quite keen.

An innovation in the festival this year will be a fair sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce called the "Fiesta de Amistad." It is hoped that this fair will be an annual attraction which Latin American countries can use as a showcase for their customs and products.

Additional festival activities include banquets, a Spanish Speaking Contest for high school students, and a fiesta at Lakewood City Parks on Friday night, featuring dance groups from many Latin American countries.

The international fame of Lakewood Pan American Festival continues to grow. In the past few years the U.S. Information Agency has sent a team to film the week-long highlights, including the "Saludos Antigos" Parade held on the closing day of the festival. These films are then released in Latin American countries to show how an American community extends a hand of friendship across an entire continent rather than just a back yard fence.

Jess Solter (left) and Dr. Walter Montano, former Bolivian consul, re-enact handshake in 1947 which led to creation of Pan American Festival in Lakewood.

Students of Bancroft Junior High School conduct flag exchange ceremony.

OUR COVER

Each year the City of Lakewood extends a hand of friendship to the people of the countries of North, South and Central America with a Pan American Festival. The 23rd such fete will begin tomorrow and continue through next Sunday. Our colorful cover shows the 1968 Pan American Festival Queen, Connie Sessions, standing in front of the flags mosaic in the Pan American Room of the Lakewood City Hall. The white area is an outline of the city. Miss Sessions, 19, a graduate of St. Joseph High School in Lakewood, is a freshman at California State College at Long Beach. Turn to Page 8 for more about the festival.

Outside House Painting Eliminated for 15 Years

LONG BEACH, CALIF. (CT)—Painting is a thing of the past. Let us show you how Fiberglas TEX-COTE insulates, waterproofs and beautifies and is factory guaranteed for a full 15 years.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residences until they hear the TEX-COTE story. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every fiberglas TEX-COTE job is factory guaranteed for 15 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to TEX-COTE its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER THE YEARS

TEX-COTE is one of the oldest coatings now marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings since 1946. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. TEX-COTE fuses itself to the walls and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects. TEX-COTE may be applied over stucco, wood, brick, block or shingles.

THE WELLS REPORT

Simon-Called-Sam

By Bob Wells

THE NAME OF WATTS is known throughout the nation and the world. But before it was known in the United States of America, it was known abroad.

In America, Watts has become a synonym for black wrath. It was the place where in that terrible August of 1965, long-repressed anger erupted in smoke and flame. Few middle-class white suburbanites can tell you exactly where Watts is, but they can tell you the name of its main street — "Charcoal Alley" — and the electronic picture of its smoking ruins has been graven permanently into their memories along with the sounds of breaking glass and police sirens, spooled forever on brown strands of magnetic tape and in gray brain cells.

But in Europe long before the black revolution, the name Watts connoted frozen light and filigreed air and elfin spires and a haze of bright tiles fluttering like butterflies against a summer sky.

Watts was and is known in the world as the home of Simon Rodia called Sam.

Three years after the convulsive earthquake of emotions that burned it, Watts is slowly rising again like a dark fist thrust into an uncaring sky. In the ashes, black Watts has found a new voice, a new power, a new pride.

BUT AT 1765 E. 107TH ST., the airy towers could care less. There they stand, as serene as the day the greasy smoke rolled around them and the looters hurried homeward past them with television sets and cases of liquor. There they stand as uncaring as the day Their Pomposities, the Los Angeles City Bureaucracy, came to tear them down and failed.

Black Watts is the story of the impotence of the many breaking loose in the fury of the mass until the uncaring heavens are forced to listen. When the learned men write about that, they call it politics.

The Watts Towers are the story of the pent-up fury of a single human soul shouting out so strongly that the uncaring heavens were forced to listen.

When the learned men write about that, they call it art.

The elfin spires and watches of Watts were just as surely thrown up by an earthquake of the soul as a good part of the rest of Watts was destroyed by a Soul earthquake.

THE TOWERS WERE built by an Italian immigrant named Simon Rodia, called Sam Rodilla by his Mexican neighbors. He was born in Italy about 1872 and emigrated to this country as a very young man. Here, he eventually became a skilled tile-setter.

Sometime in the 1920s, when he was almost 50 years of age, Simon Rodia began work on his towers. For some 30 years they were his dedication and his life until he completed them in 1954. Then he walked away from them. He deeded the property to a friend, moved up to Northern California to Martinez and steadfastly refused to talk about his life work with anyone until he died.

What made him build what London Times art critic David Thompson called "one of the oddest and most touching works of art in America, and one of the most remarkable achievements of folk art anywhere"?

His self discipline was tremendous. He organized his daily life into three equal periods — eight hours of work for a living, eight hours for sleeping and eight hours of work on the towers. Every cent he earned he spent for building materials. He collected 72,000 equal-sized sea shells at the beach in Long Beach for ornamentation.

He worked simultaneously at all three towers. His tools were a window washer's belt, a bucket for cement, and a trowel. He used nothing else.

THE THREE TOWERS ARE BUILT of concrete shaped into cones of spirals over steel reinforcing rods and wire mesh. They rise to a height of more than 100 feet. Every inch of the structure is covered with multi-colored mosaic — broken tiles, glass and pottery, sea shells and imprints of drawn lines, imprints of tools, hands, corncobs and baskets.

The triangular lot around the towers is a garden of fountains, pavilions and labyrinths. In the acute angle is what he called "Marco Polo's Ship," researched perhaps in the 11th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, which he owned and which was his favorite and perhaps only reading.

What made him build the towers?

Rodia told columnist Paul Coates that they were his tribute to the United States of America, that he had wanted to "do something" for his adopted home. Coates scheduled him for his television show, but when Sam got to the studio gates, he turned and ran.

It is a nice patriotic explanation, but Sam gave another one to a couple who were friends with him in the 1930s.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND BALL used to take him bits and pieces of material for the towers. Mainly it was broken dishes or bottles.

"I like to believe that we got to know him about as well as anyone," Mrs. Ball said a few years ago. "He told us that he'd started his project more by accident than plan in 1924."

In those days, Sam was a heavy drinker — as a student of the Towers, Dr. Paul Laporte, puts it, there is evidence "he ran around with women and alcohol." Anyway, as Rodia told the Balls, one Sunday afternoon in 1924 about a year after his wife died, he was putting up a concrete wall in front of his property.

He was drinking as usual — taking a belt from a whisky bottle as he worked. He got to thinking about his dead wife and about how she used to plead with him him to cut down on his drinking. He got to thinking how the bottle had deprived his wife of so many things he might have given her.

HE REACHED DOWN AND picked up the whisky bottle. This time, however, instead of drinking from it, he smashed it with one deliberate stroke. Then he picked up the pieces of broken bottle one by one and gently pushed them into the wet concrete.

That was the beginning of the towers.

At the age of 75, he finished them. He transferred his lot and the towers to a young Mexican-American neighbor and left. By this time word of the towers had spread among artists and art critics throughout the world. A nonprofit corporation was set up to acquire the towers and watch over them.

In the late 1950s, the Towers came to the attention of the City of Los Angeles, which proposed to demolish them on the solid bureaucratic grounds that they had been constructed without a building permit and they might fall over and hit somebody.

Committees were formed to protest to the Mayor and the City Council. After considerable public outcry, the City finally agreed to a stress test. The test equipment was rolled out and attached to the towers. The stress load was gradually applied to the tallest tower. It didn't budge. The load was increased. The tower stood firm.

Finally, the stress was increased to 10,000 pounds, the full capacity of the equipment. The tower didn't budge, but the main beam of the test rigging began to give way. The City shamefacedly unhooked it and crept away.

The Towers stand.

What Your Name Means

By LA REINA RULE

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of P. O. Box 64151, Los Angeles, Calif. 90064 for origin, meaning and brief genealogy; for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Kindly give the background on WINTER.—P.S., Lakewood, D.W., Wilmington.

WINTER, English, determines that the forefather was a 13th century citizen "born in the wintertime." Ancestors include Philip Winter, a taxpayer in the year 1264. There are many shields held by branches of the Winter lineage. An outstanding one is covered with a checkered pattern of gold and red squares, crossed in the center by a silver stripe.

MISS RULE: Would like information on Douglas. — R.D., Lakewood

DOUGLAS, Scottish, described the valley estate "Douglas" meaning "black water," owned by the clan founder, William de Douglas, born about A.D. 1150. "Black water" alluded to a dark, shadowed stream on the estate. Sir James Douglas was a famous captain under King Robert the Bruce in the war of Scottish independence from England, 1306. In the 1400's the Douglases were created Marquesses of Queensbury. Their shield is silver, decorated with a red heart with an imperial crown on it. Two silver stars are on a blue band crossing the top of the shield.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on GRACE.—G. G., Garden Grove.

GRACE, both English and Irish, is from the old French term "Le Gras," describing "stout one." The English Grace ancestor was Raymond Le Gras, a 12th century Norman nobleman, who accompanied English armies in the subjugation of Ireland. The Grace shield is red, emblazoned with a rampant lion on a gold and silver cross-stripe. American descendants include W. R. Grace, born in Ireland, who founded a network of shipping and air lines.

MISS RULE: Please give the origin of NOYES. — M.N., Huntington Beach.

NOYES, French, represents a family who owned "orchards of nut-trees" in the Middle Ages.

MISS RULE: Would like brief genealogy on BRYANT.—E. M., San Pedro.

BRYANT, Irish and English, is a form of O'Bryan, meaning "descendants of the strong man." The clan O'Bryan descended from Brian Boru, famed Irish king who died in 1014. Welsh Bryants trace to "Bry-An" meaning "young, honorable and strong one." Another name origin, the French word "Bruyant" brought to England in the 1100s, deciphers as "blustering one." The English Bryant shield is blue, emblazoned

A 'Two-Family' Family

By Ellen Krec

"WE LOVE Garden Grove, we approve of the fine school system and our children live nearby, so why shouldn't we stay here?" Those are the sentiments of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Espelin.

"We lived three blocks away in West Garden Grove until 14 months ago," says Mrs. Espelin, "then we decided we wanted a larger home and selected this one."

Rearing two distinct families provided the Espelins with a son and daughter, both married, and 6-year-old Debbie Jo living at home. A 7-year-old granddaughter living within four blocks gives Debbie Jo a playmate.

A live-in house guest is Bobbi, age 2, who has been a daily visitor for the past four months, adding a lively touch to the already active family. The tot is the child of a working-mother friend.

Vigorous participation in civic affairs helped accomplish the incorporation of the City of Garden Grove. Mrs. Espelin admits to many years of PTA participation along with membership in Eastern Star. Espelin, associated with the Cole Markets, finds the Elks Lodge a satisfying change.

A "fun" weekend takes the Espelins to Las Vegas while a "quiet" time leads them to their cabin at Big Bear.

The Espelins purchased the home in spite of its poor and inadequate condition. Their decision to "fix it up" has cost to date $6,000. This included a room for dining, an extension of the kitchen area.

Doing the inside first meant applying a fresh coat of paint to each of the walls to help blend already existing furniture with the "carpet that came with the home."

Not particularly fond of the pumpkin carpeting, the Espelins decided to include it in the interior decorating by having the loose cushion-back sofa upholstered in gold crushed velvet and a lounge chair in blending cut velvet.

The Raymond E. Espelins enjoy their living room.

A see-through divider at the entrance was filled with amber obscure glass, creating a small private entry.

The functional kitchen allows space for a smaller family dining section, but the apple green cook-center cabinets create a serve-through to the new, enlarged dining room where Danish contemporary furnishings add a light note.

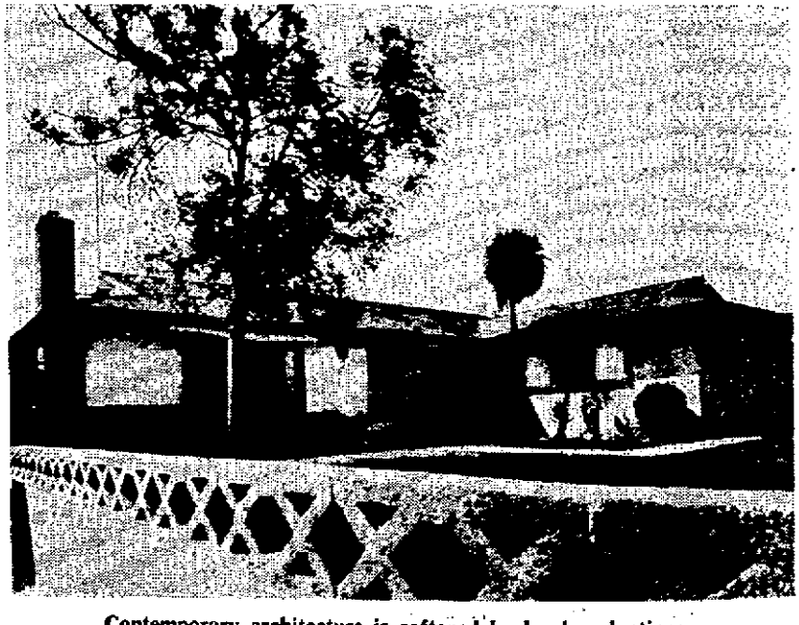

Sliding glass doors expose the garden which will contain a pool and patio when the budget allows.

After the loss of a favorite poodle, a trip to the animal shelter produced a frisky female puppy named Jake. Until pool time, Jake calls the spacious rear yard home.

Family pride is apparent in the red and white bedroom boasting a lace-topped canopy bed. Initially the room was enjoyed by the now-married daughter and remains hers while her husband completes his armed forces obligation.

To date the Espelins' son-in-law has been the recipient of the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster as well as a recent Air Medal. Modesty prevents him from any discussion as to the reason for the honors.

Debbie enjoys a close relationship with her sister and occasionally slips

Ex-Newsman Tony Zoppi, Who Once Worked for LBJ and Was Jack Ruby's Friend, Hobnobs With Showbiz Greats

Publicist in Paradise

By Bob Martin

LAS VEGAS — If happiness is doing the kind of work you like to do and getting paid handsomely to do it, then Tony Zoppi is as happy as a guy hitting five straight jackpots on a dollar slot machine.

How would you like to make the rounds of Las Vegas shows with Bob Hope, shoot the breeze with Dean Martin or Clint Eastwood, play a joke on Frank Sinatra, dine with Ann-Margret, Mitzi Gaynor or Raquel Welch, laugh it up with Carol Channing, Phyllis Diller, Danny Thomas or Marty Allen, chat with Ingrid Bergman, Carol Lawrence or Barbra Streisand, become chummy with O.J. Simpson or Denny McLain?

Zoppi does all these things, and he does them regularly. In a city built on luck (good and bad), he has to pinch himself every morning and ask, "How lucky can I get?" For Zoppi is a Las Vegas publicity man — publicity director of the Riviera Hotel — and, as far as he's concerned, hobnobbing with celebrities is more fun than breaking the bank at Monte Carlo.

How does one go about landing such a dream job? Well, it wasn't handed to Tony on a silver platter fresh out of college; he spent years developing a suitable background for such a position. First, he became a widely known newspaper columnist with his own TV show in Dallas.

"I'll have to admit I've been fascinated by show business people all my life," says the pleasant-faced publicist who looks at you from behind thick black-rimmed glasses. "As a kid in New Jersey I worked in an exclusive beach club in Long Branch called the Colony Surf Club where many big-name stars entertained. I started out at age 12 as a page boy — monkey suit and all — and was there six years, becoming assistant publicity director in my last year. From the beginning, I made it my business to get to know the stars who appeared there — people like Sophie Tucker, Fanny Brice, Ted Lewis, George Jessel, the Ritz Brothers, Milton Berle, Martha Raye, Abe Lyman and Lou Rapp, who later became a singing star and then a top TV producer under the name of Barry Wood. This was back about 1934 to 1939. I remember I got $10 extra a week as Lyman's band boy. I worked from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. and loved every minute of it."

Tony had two loves in addition to show business — sports and newspapers. Columnists like Bob Considine, Danton Walker, Walter Winchell and Ed Sullivan (who M.C.'ed shows at the club) were his idols. While in high school Tony was a sports stringer for the Long Branch Daily Record, earning 5 cents an inch, and he became sports editor of his high school and college (Upsala) papers.

Never an outstanding athlete or entertainer himself, Zoppi used his journalistic talents to open the doors to the world occupied by the stars of sports and show business.

Tony Zoppi, Riviera Hotel publicity director, and pal Bob Hope make the rounds in Las Vegas. With them here is a dancer-friend.

Yet, ironically, he may remember his association with two men who were neither entertainers nor athletes long after he has forgotten many of the others. Their names: Lyndon Baines Johnson and Jack Ruby.

ZOPPI ONCE WORKED for Johnson. Here's how it came about:

During World War II, Tony earned a second lieutenant's commission and was made a special services officer at Harmon General Hospital in Longview, Tex. At the hospital he was in charge of a 36-piece military band, wrote and directed a radio show called "Heroes Come to Harmon" (about wounded GIs) and wrote human interest stories for newspapers. After leaving the Army, Zoppi was asked by the publisher of the Longview paper, Carl Estes, to work for him. "I was made sports editor, which means I covered City Hall in the morning, county offices or civic affairs in the afternoon and a ball game at night," he recalls.

"Anyway, in 1948 a young congressman named Lyndon Johnson decided to run for the Senate. He made his opening speech in a little town about 20 miles from Longview and I was assigned to cover it. The next day Johnson read it, liked it and called Estes to ask who wrote it. Estes replied: 'Oh, I've got a young Yankee working for me.' Johnson then asked Estes if he'd give me a leave of absence to do publicity for him. So I traveled throughout the campaign with Johnson and he ended up winning by 84 votes and gaining the nickname of 'Landslide Lyndon.'

"We've stayed in touch over the years. He sent me a nice note just last December. I used to see him occasionally when he'd be in Dallas, and I talked to him briefly one time while he was President and came to Vegas. I was visiting here myself at the time."

An autographed ("To my friend . . .") photograph of the former President hangs behind Zoppi's desk in his office on the first floor of the Riviera.

TONY KNEW JACK RUBY very well for a number of years. Since Tony was nightclub editor of the Dallas Morning News and Ruby was owner of a nightclub in Dallas, it was only natural that they should know each other, but their association was closer than many such relationships.

"Ruby was in my office the morning of the Kennedy assassination — he was constantly in my office," recalls Zoppi. "I think I knew him better than anyone else in Dallas, certainly better than any other newspaperman. And, incidentally, I do not subscribe to the assassination conspiracy theory at all — it is ridiculous.

"I'm the only living reporter (the late Dorothy Kilgallen was the only other one) to get an exclusive interview with Ruby after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald. He called me from his jail cell and we talked for an hour and a half. He talked about everything and broke down emotionally three or four times.

"During the trial he always insisted that I sit with him; he told attorney Melvin Belli, 'I want Tony in my corner.' So I had a seat right in back of him. I testified I didn't think he could get a fair trial in Dallas, that the trial should be held in another city.

"One time an Associated Press reporter asked him: 'Do you know Tony pretty well?' 'Know him?' Ruby replied. 'Why, I'm giving him the rights to my book.' This was the first I'd heard of it. But later his brother Earl got the other members of the family to sign papers giving me exclusive rights to Ruby's life story. Of course, they'll share in any income.

"I'm working on a book about Ruby and I've already written the outline for a screenplay, which is in MGM's hands. I'd like for Rod Steiger to play the part; if so, I think we'd have a multi-million-dollar property. I feel it's inevitable the picture will be made, although the Kennedy family may cause some delays.

"You know, when Ruby was in my office the morning of the assassination, he told me he was going to move into a new home in an exclusive part of Dallas. I said, 'Say, that's pretty fancy territory,' and his last words to me that day were: 'Tony, I've scrimped all my life — now I want to live a little'."

ZOPPI, INCIDENTALLY, claims to be the first newsman to report the death of President Kennedy. Here's how it came about:

He watched the Kennedy parade from the Adolphus Hotel with an FBI agent (he had asked Ruby to join him) and immediately after the shooting was assigned to the Parkland Hospital. "In my haste to get to the hospital," Zoppi remembers, "I forgot my press pass, and the security guards wouldn't let me in. A little later I was standing on the back dock at the hospital when an ambulance came up with a casket. I knew then the President was dead. The two ambulance attendants asked me to give them a hand with taking the casket into the hospital, and this way I got past guards who had stopped me before. I quickly got to a phone and tried to call the Dallas News, but the lines were all tied up. Someone shouted, 'Get off the phone!' I then went to the switchboard operators, told them who I was and they put me through to the News. I told John King, the city editor, that Kennedy was dead, and he said, 'How do you know?' and I told him about the casket. Then a voice (the phones were being monitored) said, 'Get the hell off the phone!' and I was cut off. But at least I was the first newsman to get the word out that Kennedy was dead."

FROM THE EXCITEMENT of a presidential assassination, the slaying of Oswald and the trial and death of Ruby to the relative quiet of Las Vegas might seem like a comedown to some newsmen, but Zoppi will settle for his present life.

How did he happen to land the Riviera job?

From the early 1950s to 1965 Tony was entertainment editor of the Dallas News (after a stint in the sports department) and wrote a popular daily column, "Dallas After Dark." Starting in 1961, he also had a weekly TV show of the same name, sponsored by Pontiac dealers in Dallas. "It was a show of the Johnny Carson or Merv Griffin type in which I would interview entertainers and then they'd perform. Among the stars I had on my show were Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Frank Sinatra, Danny Thomas, Victor Borge, Diana Dors, Ray Anthony, Joey Bishop, Vic Damone and many others. I did a few of the interviews in Las Vegas for showing in Dallas, because I came to Vegas about once a month for openings of shows.

"Anyway, four years ago when I was out here, Harvey Silberi, a Beverly Hills attorney who was chairman of the board of the Riviera, took me to breakfast and confided in me that the Riviera was looking for a publicity director, had interviewed a few persons but wasn't satisfied with them and was wondering if I could recommend anybody in Texas for the job. I said, 'How about me?', and he replied, 'Why, you're Mr. Dallas, you wouldn't be interested, would you?' But they offered to triple my salary and I didn't have to think twice."

The Riviera has had a management change since Zoppi joined it, but he insists he wasn't the least bit worried about losing his job. "As a matter of fact, two other big hotels in Vegas have offered me jobs with them," he points out. "I've had a big pay raise at the Riviera and my duties have been expanded — I'm advertising director as well as publicity director. A very knowledgeable man, Ed Torres, runs the Riviera now; he's also owner-operator of the Fremont and the Aladdin."

Zoppi brought to the job not only the skills of a newspaperman and experience in television and radio, but an acquaintance with hundreds of entertainers and friendship with many. He's a likeable, seemingly modest, easy-going, fun-loving fellow who's never overly aggressive. He has a good sense of humor and gets along well with nearly everyone. I've known him for years — we used to work together on the Dallas News.

Zoppi dines with singer Maria Callas at show in Las Vegas.

"MY CLOSEST FRIEND in show business is Bob Hope," he told me. "Our relationship transcends the reporter-star relationship. He'll call me up and we'll make the rounds — take in the shows together. I used to travel with him down South — he'd call me from New Orleans or Houston or someplace and I'd hop a plane in Dallas and join him. The first time I met Bob was in Vegas; Jerry Colunna, whom I'd met in Dallas, introduced us. Bob's the kind of person that, the minute I met him, I felt like I'd known him a hundred years.

"It was the same with Frank Sinatra. I know he's supposed to have trouble with newsmen, but he and I clicked at once.

"We were raised not far apart in New Jersey. Frank flew me from Dallas to Miami for one of his shows. I gave his son his very first review in show business; he was making his pro debut as a singer on a Tommy Dorsey show in Dallas. Earlier in the day his father called me and asked me to have a talk with the boy. I talked with him for three hours like a Dutch uncle — told him what he could expect. I gave him a good review, and he cherished it. A year later he was asked in New York if he'd made any friends among newspapermen and he said, 'Yes, Jim Bacon of AP and Tony Zoppi of the Dallas News.' It sure made me feel good to hear that."

The only picture of a famous person other than Mr. Johnson that Tony had hanging in his office the day I interviewed him was one showing Hope being introduced by Tony at a program at SMU. ("Later the same evening I introduced Red Skelton at another place in Dallas. What a parlay!"). At his apartment a few blocks from the Riviera — "it's owned by Al Hirt the musician and he won't let me pay any rent" — Tony has pictures on the wall of himself with Perry Como, Liberace, Sinatra, Dean Martin (one of his bosses now, since he recently bought a 10 per cent interest in the Riviera), Victor Borge, Ray Anthony and Tony Bennett.

Friend Dean Martin is now one of Zoppi's bosses — he recently bought 10 per cent interest in the Riviera.

Zoppi lists Bennett, Marty Allen ("a real funny guy and an intellectual, one of the best-read guys in show business"), Shecky Greene, Mike Douglas, Carol Channing, Phyllis Diller and Totie Fields as among his closest show business friends. Hank Stram, coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, has been a close friend since the days when he was an assistant coach at SMU, and Tony has been one of the American Football League's biggest fans since its inception. Tony got pitching star Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers to entertain as organist-pianist at the Riviera after last year's World Series, and persuaded O.J. Simpson to spend a few days in the hotel at the end of the football season. Tony became quite chummy with both of them — and both brought the Riviera a lot of publicity, as did the recent wedding there of one of the Pueblo crewmen, also arranged by Zoppi.

THE PUBLICIST ADMITS there are a few entertainers he's not too fond of. He mentioned one widely known female singer who has appeared at the Riviera. "But even if an entertainer is hard to get along with I don't let that stand in the way of publicizing her. I just let her go her way, and I go mine. Some stars are their own worst enemies, but most of them are easy to get along with."

Zoppi claims he works seven days a week, from about 10 in the morning until late at night, with a break in the afternoon, "but I don't consider it work — it's a pleasure."

There's one hazard to such a job — the temptation to gamble — but Tony keeps clear of it. "There are plenty of guys who have worked in Vegas, including publicity men, who will be paying off their gambling debts for the rest of their lives. But not me. I do no gambling — not a dime."

For relaxation, he likes to swim and go to pro football games. He has a set of golf clubs in his office, but hasn't played since having a back operation three years ago (he never was very good at golf, anyway; I can recall beating him regularly when both of us were sports staffers on the Dallas News).

As good publicity men should, Zoppi sees no end to the Las Vegas boom. New hotels continue to rise, and others continue to expand. "We added 300 rooms last year for a total of 770, and plan to add more. Business is unbelievable — and with the advent of the giant supersonic jets it will be more so. Then, instead of being just the playground of the United States, Las Vegas will be the playground of the world."

And, when that comes about, Tony Zoppi will have even more celebrities to get to know. The prospect is almost enough to make him forget he's never met Howard Hughes.

THE SOUTHLAND AT HOME

Debbie shares toys with niece, Terri Krasho, 7, Bobbie Bohler, 2.

into the bedroom to sleep.

Debbie's always tidy bedroom has cheerful green and white gingham awning curtains, backing her capped and ruffled bed. Small green painted diamonds highlight the white chest and neatly arranged dolls and toys fill the shelves on one wall.

The "grown-ups" room also opens to the patio where easy access can furnish the guests with refreshments from a rattan bar. Game tables may be assembled quickly for further pastime.

Bright cherry carpeting underscores the wicker stools and a controversial painting lends a colorful touch to the wall.

At the lighted valance Mrs. Espelin plans to hang a collection of swords from her father's multiple associations.

Small but comfortable in avocado and cream is the master bedroom with a draped wall serving as background for the chenille topped bed. A full wall plus closet doors presents a size illusion with the addition of antique mirror.

While the interior combines Mediterranean and Scandinavian contemporary design with cozy accents of Early American, the exterior is a contemporary design with interest furnished by geometric panels bordering the entry.

A sweep of lawn leaves a view of the shrub-rimmed home.

Teens in Action

The DeMolay Way

AT 13, SCOTT ALEVY disliked school, sometimes got suspended, earned just passing grades and didn't care if he got into trouble or not. Five years later, he is an honor student at Long Beach City College, secretary of the campus free speech committee, a disc jockey for the school district's radio stations, a folk singer who writes some of his own songs, and a concerned person.

Scott, who lives at 6209 Seaborn St. in Lakewood, attributes much of his transformation to his involvement in the International Order of DeMolay, a 50-year-old Masonic organization offering training and guidance to boys 14 through 21. Scott is now president of the Southern League of DeMolay and master councillor for the Long Beach DeMolay chapter.

His views:

—I was a problem child until I joined DeMolay. But I found the members respected me as a person and gave me responsibility. I am a completely different person now, I am much more serious and I care about school and civic activities.

—Members of DeMolay are encouraged to be well-rounded. The three cornerstones of the organization are the Bible, the Flag and the schoolbook. It is good to be a part of an organization whose members do good works like ushering at charity benefits and visiting patients at the Shrine hospital.

—In May, we are planning to have a patriots' parade to offset the Communists' May Day celebrations. We are trying to prove to people there is a good faction of youth in support of our country.

—Three of our members are in Vietnam right now. When I was 16, I attended the funeral of a DeMolay brother who was killed in Vietnam. His death did something to me, and I started looking into the war and trying to determine what we are fighting for. I am still unsure about the war, but I feel that we have elected officials to take on the responsibility of determining policy in Vietnam, and we need to give them our trust and support.

—One of the great things about DeMolay is the fraternal feeling. The young members identify with and try to emulate community leaders who were once DeMolay members, such as Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, the late Walt Disney and Rep. Craig Hosmer.

—Through DeMolay, I have learned a lot about government. Once a year, the Long Beach chapter participates in Government Day in Long Beach. I have served as a city councilman, city manager and mayor. I learned the workings of local government and got a chance to talk over city problems with city officials.

—DeMolay stirred an interest in civic affairs which I have carried with me to City College. I got tired of the apathy on campus and signed up for a committee. I am now secretary of the free speech committee which sets up guidelines for the free speech area on campus. The area is open for two days a week for three hours a day. Anyone can speak as long as his speech isn't one obscenity after another, he doesn't try to incite a riot, and he allows time to answer questions from the audience. The free speech area allows students to talk out problems and express their ideas, and frequently you will find more than 200 students in the area. The free speech area acts as a safety valve. On some other campuses, the students are only free to throw rocks.

—Some of the student demonstrations in the state have gotten out of hand. I believe people who have something to say should be heard, but they must also respect the rights of others. In other words, the right to swing your arm ends at my nose.

—I am a believer in some forms of civil disobedience. But persons who are disobedient must be prepared to be punished for their actions in return for making the public aware of the problems. Martin Luther King was often jailed in order to bring to light the problems of discrimination.

—But King's efforts and the efforts of legislators are helping to change things. I think big business is now being forced to realize that no matter what color a man is, inside his muscles work the same as anybody else's.

—I know there are many problems facing our society, and I know that the youth is unsure. But I have the utmost confidence in my generation. I think we will go farther, faster.

WEEK'S EVENTS PROMOTE
PAN AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP

It's Festival Time in Lakewood Again

By Hal Lowe

Colombian dancers perform lively number at Parks Fiesta held during Pan American Week at Lakewood city parks.

Sheila Miller, 19, a Mayfair High School graduate and a freshman at Whittier College, will reign over week-long Pan American Festival starting Monday. The brown-eyed brunette was selected a week ago in competition with 20 others. Sheila succeeds the girl on the cover of today's Southland, Connie Sessions, as Pan American Queen.

A HANDSHAKE over a back yard fence in Lakewood in 1947, between neighbors, has grown into an international event, which will be celebrated by the people of Lakewood for seven days starting Monday. It's the 23rd annual Pan American Festival.

Jess Solter and his new neighbor, Dr. Walter Montano, former Bolivian consul, exchanged the handshake and thought it would be nice if the people of the United States and the people of Latin America could also exchange such a handshake. They discussed their plan with friends and, from such beginnings, came the Pan American Festival.

The first celebration was a simple tree-planting event and an assembly in a Lakewood junior high school. However, each year, other ceremonies have been added and the 23rd Festival will be a week-long event climaxed by a big parade next Sunday.

Each year, one of the Latin American countries, selected alphabetically, is chosen as the honored country. This year, Brazil will be making her second appearance. A dignitary from the honored country is invited as guest of the city to participate in the celebration and ride as grand marshal in the parade. These honored guests have included mayors of leading Latin American cities and even a vice president of one of the countries.

Friendship is expressed with the "El Comienzo" luncheon which kicks off Pan American Week. Latin American consuls and the guest from the honored country are speakers. This is followed by the flag exchange ceremony at Bancroft Junior High School.

It has become a tradition for students at the school to exchange flags with a similar school in the honored country. An exchange student from that country attending in the area acts as official delegate to the ceremony.

Activities during Pan American Week are ruled over by the festival queen, who is selected in competition among local high school and college girls. The queen also acts as ambassador from the city at Pan Am functions the year around. Since many of the queens — and their families — have been the guests in Latin American nations, the competition for the title is quite keen.

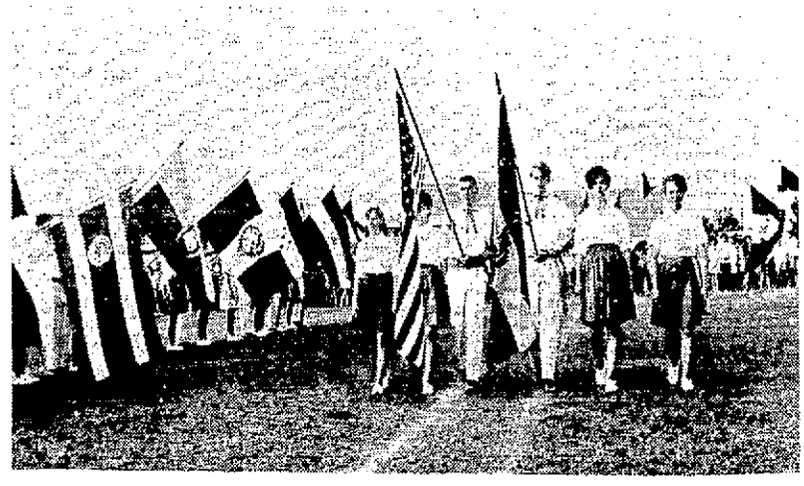

An innovation in the festival this year will be a fair sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce called the "Fiesta de Amistad." It is hoped that this fair will be an annual attraction which Latin American countries can use as a showcase for their customs and products.

Additional festival activities include banquets, a Spanish Speaking Contest for high school students, and a fiesta at Lakewood City Parks on Friday night, featuring dance groups from many Latin American countries.

The international fame of Lakewood Pan American Festival continues to grow. In the past few years the U.S. Information Agency has sent a team to film the week-long highlights, including the "Saludos Amigos" Parade held on the closing day of the festival. These films are then released in Latin American countries to show how an American community extends a hand of friendship across an entire continent rather than just a back yard fence.

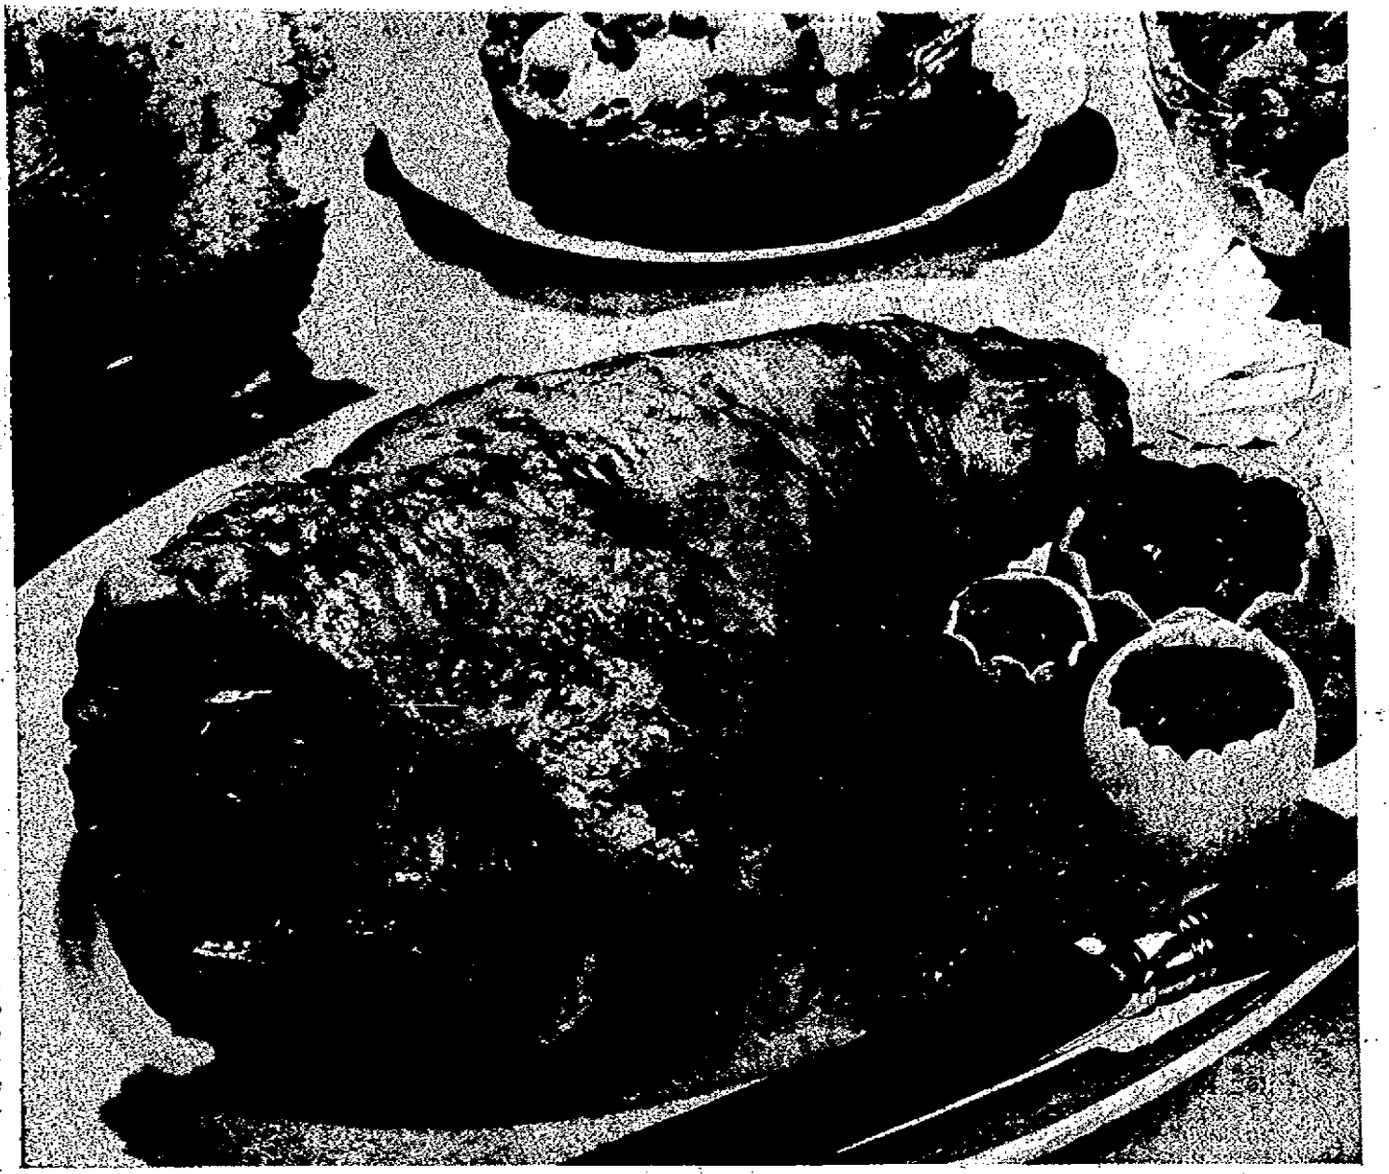

Jess Solter (left) and Dr. Walter Montano, former Bolivian consul, re-enact handshake in 1947 which led to creation of Pan American Festival in Lakewood.

Students of Bancroft Junior High School conduct flag exchange ceremony.

Festive Leg of Lamb

TIME WAS when tender, delicately flavored lamb was available only in the spring, but now "spring-like" lamb is available the year 'round. Equally popular, too!

Festive dinners call for impressive roasts. Not only does the hostess like their dramatic appearance on the table, but she also likes their ease of preparation.

Leg of lamb joins this parade of roasts because of its tender, delicate flavor, with American lamb as the best example. Its size ranges from five to seven pounds which means it can serve a small dinner party very well. Here's a suggested menu:

Dinner Menu

Roast Leg of Lamb
Citrus Fruit Cups with Jelly
Noodle Basket—Creamed Potatoes, Peas and Mushrooms
Pineapple-Apricot Salad
Crescent Rolls Honey Butter
Coconut Layer Cake
Coffee Tea

By Mildred Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

Two styles are usually available in leg of lamb. If the hostess wants the lamb to wear a "frill," she selects a French style. This means simply that the shank bone is exposed so it can wear a paper frill. The other style, American, has a somewhat square appearance because a part of the shank (leg bone) is removed.

Leg of Lamb

5 to 7-pound leg of lamb
Salt and pepper

Do not have the fell removed from the leg of lamb. Place fell side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part of the leg, being sure the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer registers 175 degrees F. for medium-done; 180 degrees F. for well-done lamb. Allow 2½ to 3½ hours for roasting.

To garnish, make cups from an orange, lemon and lime, removing the pulp and scalloping the cut edges. Fill orange cup with current jelly, lemon cup with mint jelly and lime cup with apple or grape jelly. Group beside roast leg of lamb on serving platter. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

To carve, remove two or three thin slices from the thin side of roast to form base, then carve perpendicular slices to leg bone on the meaty or fell side. Release slices by cutting under them, following the leg bone.

Noodle Basket

1 can (5½ ounces) chow mein noodles
2 egg whites
2 tblsps. water

Lightly beat together egg whites and water. Add noodles and mix thoroughly until all liquid is absorbed. Press noodles into a well greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (3500 degrees F.) for 18 to 20 minutes. Using a spatula to loosen, remove noodle basket from casserole immediately. Invert on rack and let cool. Serve with hot, creamed new potatoes and peas with mushrooms which may be of the frozen variety, if desired.

Storage Stackup

By Ellen Krec

STORAGE is like beauty . . . it depends on your requirements and desires.

Storage means space, but in more than one of today's homes it means lack of space.

What can you do with things you have accumulated and wish to keep but are unused a goodly portion of the time?

Interior BOUTIQUE

There's the garage, but that's full and the cars are rusting before your eyes on the street.

You could take the extra bedroom and stuff it, then close the door. But those unexpected guests cause some problems.

Or you can call in a cabinet maker and discuss it with him. If your budget will stand structural changes, you can extend a wall, shorten a room or lengthen a hall to take care of the overflow.

Then there are my "ingenius" friends and acquaintances who never cease to amaze me with solutions to storage problems.

One of the tidiest arrangements I have seen is the open-box policy, especially good for the child's room.

Actually the boxes are storage or store type slots with open faces for a neat appearance. Each box is painted a different bright color and stacked, floor to ceiling, but attached to the wall to prevent fallout.

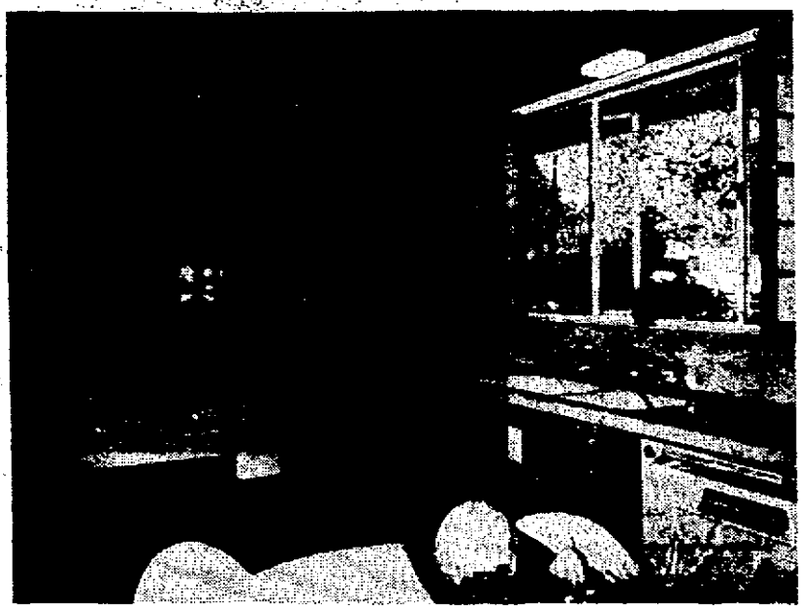

The room inhabiter better be neat or all will be exposed for all to see — no doors to hide the crime of messiness!

Next comes the sliding-door closet whose innards are just a mess and a maze. The doors come off. A band of moulding is added to cover the rough edges and neat shelves are installed. Wallpaper makes an excellent background and a custom-size space

What Your Name Means

By LA REINA RULE

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of P. O. Box 64151, Los Angeles, Calif. 90064 for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Kindly give the background on WINTER.—P.S., Lakewood, D.W., Wilmington.

WINTER, English, determines that the forefather was a 13th century citizen "born in the wintertime." Ancestors include Philip Winter, a taxpayer in the year 1264. There are many shields held by branches of the Winter lineage. An outstanding one is covered with a checkered pattern of gold and red squares, crossed in the center by a silver stripe.

MISS RULE: Would like information on Douglas. — R.D., Lakewood

DOUGLAS, Scottish, described the valley estate "Douglas" meaning "black water," owned by the clan founder, William de Douglas, born about A.D. 1150. "Black water" alluded to a dark, shadowed stream on the estate. Sir James Douglas was a famous captain under King Robert the Bruce in the war of Scottish independence from England, 1306. In the 1400's the Douglases were created Marquesses of Queensbury. Their shield is silver, decorated with a red heart with an imperial crown on it. Two silver stars are on a blue band crossing the top of the shield.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on GRACE.—G. G., Garden Grove.

GRACE, both English and Irish, is from the old French term "Le Gras," describing "stout one." The English Grace ancestor was Raymond Le Gras, a 12th century Norman nobleman, who accompanied English armies in the subjugation of Ireland. The Grace shield is red, emblazoned with a rampant lion on a gold and silver cross-stripe. American descendants include W. R. Grace, born in Ireland, who founded a network of shipping and air lines.

MISS RULE: Please give the origin of NOYES. — M.N., Huntington Beach.

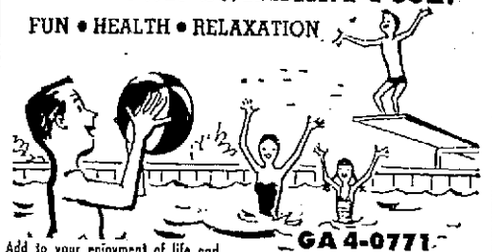

NOYES, French, represents a family who owned "orchards of nut-trees" in the Middle Ages.

MISS RULE: Would like brief genealogy on BRYANT.—E. M., San Pedro.

BRYANT, Irish and English, is a form of O'Bryan, meaning "descendants of the strong man." The clan O'Bryan descended from Brian Boru, famed Irish king who died in 1014. Welsh Bryants trace to "Bry-An" meaning "young, honorable and strong one." Another name origin, the French word "Bruyant" brought to England in the 1100s, deciphers as "blustering one." The English Bryant shield is blue, emblazoned

A 'Two-Family' Family

By Ellen Krec

"WE LOVE Garden Grove, we approve of the fine school system and our children live nearby, so why shouldn't we stay here?" Those are the sentiments of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Espelin.

"We lived three blocks away in West Garden Grove until 14 months ago," says Mrs. Espelin, "then we decided we wanted a larger home and selected this one."

Rearing two distinct families provided the Espelins with a son and daughter, both married, and 6-year-old Debbie Jo living at home. A 7-year-old granddaughter living within four blocks gives Debbie Jo a playmate.

A live-in house guest is Bobbi, age 2, who has been a daily visitor for the past four months, adding a lively touch to the already active family. The tot is the child of a working-mother friend.

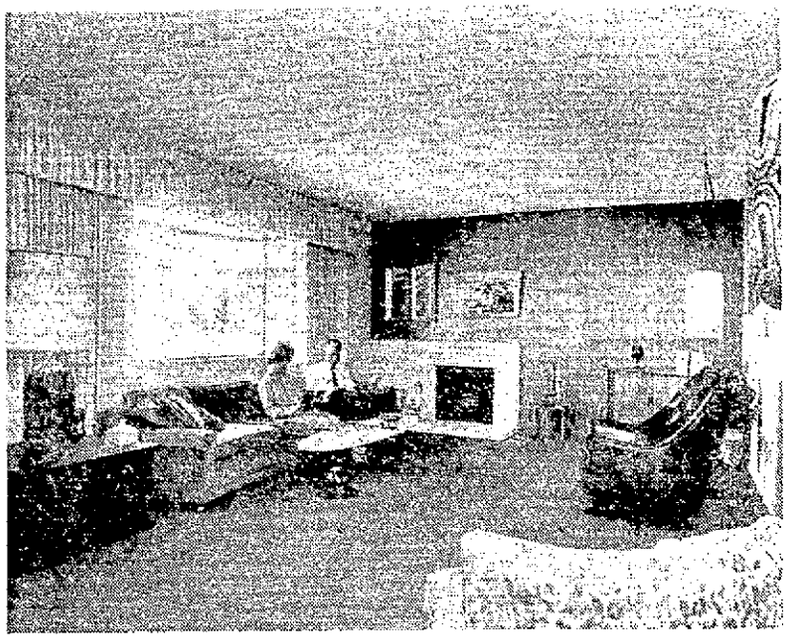

Vigorous participation in civic affairs helped accomplish the incorporation of the City of Garden Grove. Mrs. Espelin admits to many years of PTA participation along with membership in Eastern Star. Espelin, associated with the Cole Markets, finds the Elks Lodge a satisfying change.

A "fun" weekend takes the Espelins to Las Vegas while a "quiet" time leads them to their cabin at Big Bear.

The Espelins purchased the home in spite of its poor and inadequate condition. Their decision to "fix it up" has cost to date $6,000. This included a room for dining, an extension of the kitchen area.

Doing the inside first meant applying a fresh coat of paint to each of the walls to help blend already existing furniture with the "carpet that came with the home."

Not particularly fond of the pumpkin carpeting, the Espelins decided to include it in the interior decorating by having the loose cushion-back sofa upholstered in gold crushed velvet and a lounge chair in blending cut velvet.

The Raymond E. Espelins enjoy their living room.

A see-through divider at the entrance was filled with amber obscure glass, creating a small private entry.

The functional kitchen allows space for a smaller family dining section, but the apple green cook-center cabinets create a serve-through to the new, enlarged dining room where Danish contemporary furnishings add a light note.

Sliding glass doors expose the garden which will contain a pool and patio when the budget allows.

After the loss of a favorite poodle, a trip to the animal shelter produced a frisky female puppy named Jake. Until pool time, Jake calls the spacious rear yard home.

Family pride is apparent in the red and white bedroom boasting a lace-topped canopy bed. Initially the room was enjoyed by the now-married daughter and remains hers while her husband completes his armed forces obligation.

To date the Espelins' son-in-law has been the recipient of the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster as well as a recent Air Medal. Modesty prevents him from any discussion as to the reason for the honors.

Debbie enjoys a close relationship with her sister and occasionally slips may be made for your acquisitions, such as stereo or television.

Next comes the full-wall unit, such as the one the Samuel Hoods enjoy. Mrs. Hood was responsible for the design, and I think women always should have much to say about storage because I have yet to find a man who knows where to put card tables, games for the children, folding chairs and assorted "stuff" no family can do without!

According to Mrs. Hood's design, a full wall in the family room was covered with piano-hinged doors either folding or pull out, depending on use, and open spaces for display.

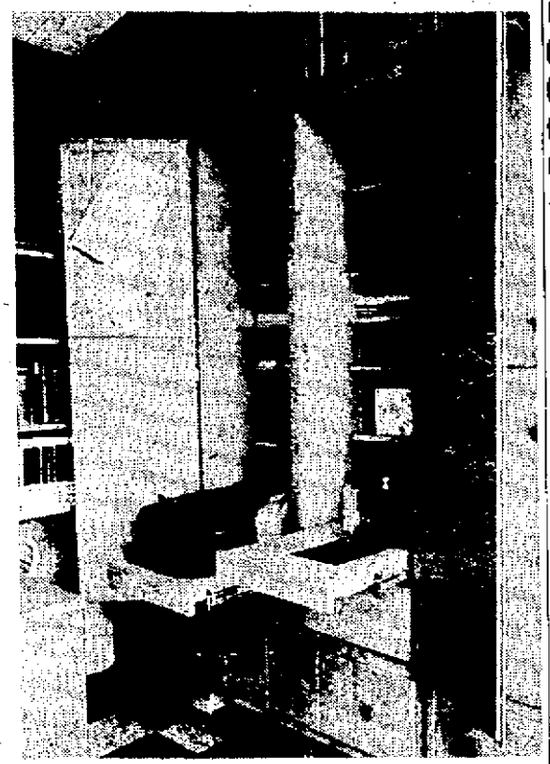

The walnut unit was custom designed to include a slanted space for magazines, an air-cooled pocket for television and stereo, open spaces for books and games, a bin for card tables and closet for chairs as well as a paneled display area.

A second useless area was cleverly changed into a pigeonhole cabinet. The back of the breakfast bar cabinet was too narrow for anything except four-inch slots, making it ideal for the equipment such as envelopes, stamps, pencil sharpeners, etc.

Another sewing wall was a Bob McHenry design and covers the wall from floor to ceiling with pull-out tables for sewing machine and typewriter. The equipment necessary for sewing fits into the cabinet above the machine, while the writing necessities fit perfectly into the cabinet area above the typewriter.

In Dr. Stanley Challis' kitchen Mrs. Challis enjoys more move-about space since the stove was recessed into the wall. Tight fitting into the space makes cleaning the stove no chore at all.

A purely professional suggestion may be the island storage wall created to serve between rooms as dual storage for the needs of each room. This may be a welcome suggestion to the man with a plan or to the architect in residence. Suffice it to say some of the ideas have a doityourself quality while others require a let someoneelsedoitforyou look.

Dream Vacation

A dream vacation doesn't have to be a brand-new adventure. It can be something that you do again because its magic never ceases.

Rena Ellington, 1641 E. Carson St., Torrance, knows exactly what she will do with her two weeks because she has been doing it every year since 1920.

Other winning essays will be published in future weeks. Winners' checks will be mailed to them. An additional check of $30 will go to the writer of the essay judged best of all. The entry deadline has passed.

By RENA ELLINGTON

MY DREAM VACATION is the same as I have enjoyed every year since 1920; two weeks, or more, in the High Sierra mountains . . .

My favorite way to go is with backpack, a camera and at least one companion. A backpacker may wander at will, off the beaten trail, where the grandeur is grander, the land untrampled and the lakes and streams jumping with trout . . . to enjoy still things and silent places, the still dark pool in the curve of a stream, where the sunlight has ceased to play . . . to enjoy the exuberant and intoxicating air, water unspoiled by chemicals . . . and the night sky filled with stars!

All this, plus the ecstasy of a full moon above the rugged profiles of awe-inspiring peaks, at proper intervals . . . and the pleasure of supper fires at the end of a day's hike in the virgin wilderness . . . this is LIVING!

Political Paradox:

The Rise of Hugh Flournoy

HOUSTON FLOURNOY . . . What does the future hold?

By William Wingfield

EARLY THIS YEAR THE leading financial backers of the Republican Party in Southern California gathered for a major testimonial dinner at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles.

Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, former lieutenant governor of California, and President Nixon's closest confidant, was the featured speaker.

Speculation naturally arises if the guest of honor, California State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, may not be slated to move on to greater things. Such gala events normally are not held for persons of lesser rank than governors or senators.

A number of writers who cover the state political scene have conjectured that Flournoy may have his eye on the seat of ailing U.S. Sen. George Murphy should Murphy decide not to seek reelection next year because of his health.

There is also the possibility that Gov. Ronald Reagan may decide that one term is enough, and Flournoy might be a logical choice to succeed him.

Whether he makes his move next year or sometime in the future, Hugh Flournoy, only 39 years old and sometimes called "the John Lindsay of California," might seem to have a promising political career ahead of him.

When he left his post as associate professor of government at Pomona College to become state controller (he holds a Ph.D. from Princeton), the faculty held a dinner in his honor.

Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, retiring president of Pomona College, recalls, "I told the faculty when Hugh was leaving the college that he might become governor. I think he'll go higher than controller. I think he's done a fine job in Sacramento. I have been sympathetic to what he's tried to do."

Millard Sheets, the world famous artist-architect, served with Flournoy on California's Rockefeller delegation for the 1964 Republican National Convention.

"I think this guy is going to go places," Sheets declared. "He's got a lot of juice, that guy — a lot of political juice. I think Hugh's a dedicated guy and intelligent as hell. That's quite a lot to say when you see so many of the other kind, and I've seen so many birthrights sold in politics."

For the moment, the handsome, smooth featured, smiling and olive complexioned young politico is discounting these rumors.

"I've never made my plans more than 24 hours ahead of time," he recently told this writer.

Yet, it is known that within the past year the state controller has been casting about to build a public relations staff, something that is highly important for an aspiring politician. It is rumored that he has sought out some who worked on Sen. Charles Percy's campaign for governor of Illinois in 1964.

If he does have aspirations, Flournoy is following in good footsteps, because he once represented the same area in the State Assembly that President Nixon once represented in Congress. He was also the political discovery of Roy Day of Pomona, the same man who is generally given credit for discovering Nixon.

However, Flournoy is truthful in saying that his two major political decisions — to run for the Assembly in 1960 and for controller in 1966 — have been on the spur of the moment.

Day remembers how Flournoy was tabbed to run for the Assembly. The candidate the Republicans first sought decided against the race.

Day picked up the telephone, called Flournoy, and said, "OK, Hugh, you're on."

After six years in Sacramento, Flournoy decided to return to Pomona College.

John Vieg, chairman of Pomona College's government department, recalls, "We were all getting ready to welcome him back full-time to our department, but, as it happens, the Western Political Science Association was meeting at the University of Nevada. I was just sitting down for dinner. A fellow beckoned me over and said there was a long-distance phone call. It was Hugh saying he had been under pressure to run for controller on the Christopher ticket. They thought Hugh could add enough strength to the ticket to give Christopher the nomination instead Reagan."

Ironically, as Flournoy himself acknowledges, the only reason he entered the race was to have a platform for making statewide speeches for former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher against Reagan — yet he owes his very election as state controller to Reagan.

On primary election day, Flournoy won the nomination for controller, but Christopher lost the race for governor. After the primary, all polls indicated that Reagan would be elected governor but Flournoy would lose the controllership. Flournoy was running against now U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, hitherto the top vote-getter of the Democratic Party, who was getting great mileage out of attacking Reagan for his alleged links with the controversial, conservatice John Birch Society.

Instead, Reagan won by such a landslide that he brought in all but one of the statewide Republican candidates, including Hugh Flournoy. Next to Alan Cranston, the most surprised person in California was Houston I. Flournoy.

Animosity between the governor and his state controller was long-standing. In 1964, Flournoy was the actual second in command to then Sen. Thomas Kuchel for the Rockefeller forces in California, while Reagan, of course, was a strong supporter of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

After both men took offices, the animosity continued. According to the 1968 best seller, "The Republican Establishment," by Stephen Hess and David S. Broder, the two men never spoke to each other.

Flournoy acknowledges that, for 10 months, Reagan wouldn't let him into the cabinet meetings. However, since Flournoy is the man in charge of the state's money, the governor finally decided to let him in — and the two seem to get along well now. Reagan appointed Flournoy to head the Advisory Commission on Tax Reform, and Flournoy was one of Reagan's most enthusiastic delegates at the Republican National Convention at Miami Beach.

Reagan ended up offering his own tax-reform proposals, however.

"I get along a lot better with the governor than John Schmitz (Orange County's John Birch state senator) does," Flournoy declared. "After all, we're both Republicans.

"We each have our job to do," Flournoy continued. "I don't know that I would be in the inner circle of any governor, except Bob Monagan (speaker of the State Assembly), who is a personal friend of mine. Other controllers have had the same problem. Cranston did with Pat Brown. The exception would be Kuchel with Earl Warren."

Despite this new amity between Reagan and Flournoy, the differences of opinion if not the animosity continues. Flournoy favored letting Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver lecture at the University of California, while Reagan strongly opposed it. And Flournoy and Reagan differ widely in their views on taxes.

Flournoy has never been a friend of Assembly Minority Leader Jess Unruh either. When Unruh, as speaker of the Assembly, locked up Republican assemblymen in 1963 until they would pass Gov. Brown's budget, Flournoy went into a violent rage and came back to his Assembly district to make speeches at all of the Republican clubs strongly denouncing Unruh. Reportedly, Flournoy still sees red at the mention of Unruh's name.

Since he has been controller, Flournoy's major battle has been to fulfill his campaign promise to eliminate the appointive inheritance tax appraiser system. This is the last political pork barrel in California, and its abolition has been fought by Gov. Reagan, the State Senate, the Bar Association, and the old-timers of the Republican Party (and the Democratic Party when it is in office.)

Although stymied in the State Senate year after year, Flournoy contin-

into the bedroom to sleep.

Debbie's always tidy bedroom has cheerful green and white gingham awning curtains backing her capped and ruffled bed. Small green painted diamonds highlight the white chest and neatly arranged dolls and toys fill the shelves on one wall.

The "grown-ups" room also opens to the patio where easy access can furnish the guests with refreshments from a rattan bar. Game tables may be assembled quickly for further pastime.

Bright cherry carpeting underscores the wicker stools and a controversial painting lends a colorful touch to the wall..

At the lighted valance Mrs. Espelin plans to hang a collection of swords from her father's multiple associations.

Small but comfortable in avocado and cream is the master bedroom with a draped wall serving as background for the chenille topped bed. A full wall plus closet doors presents a size illusion with the addition of antique mirror.

While the interior combines Mediterranean and Scandinavian contemporary design with cozy accents of Early American, the exterior is a contemporary design with interest furnished by geometric panels bordering the entry.

A sweep of lawn leaves a view of the shrub-rimmed home.

Teens in Action

The DeMolay Way

AT 13, SCOTT ALEVY disliked school, sometimes got suspended, earned just passing grades and didn't care if he got into trouble or not. Five years later, he is an honor student at Long Beach City College, secretary of the campus free speech committee, a disc jockey for the school district's radio stations, a folk singer who writes some of his own songs, and a concerned person.

Scott, who lives at 6209 Seaborn St. in Lakewood, attributes much of his transformation to his involvement in the International Order of DeMolay, a 50-year-old Masonic organization offering training and guidance to boys 14 through 21. Scott is now president of the Southern League of DeMolay and master councillor for the Long Beach DeMolay chapter.

His views:

—I was a problem child until I joined DeMolay. But I found the members respected me as a person and gave me responsibility. I am a completely different person now, I am much more serious and I care about school and civic activities.

—Members of DeMolay are encouraged to be well-rounded. The three cornerstones of the organization are the Bible, the Flag and the schoolbook. It is good to be a part of an organization whose members do good works like ushering at charity benefits and visiting patients at the Shrine hospital.

—In May, we are planning to have a patriots' parade to offset the Communists' May Day celebrations. We are trying to prove to people there is a good faction of youth in support of our country.

—Three of our members are in Vietnam right now. When I was 16, I attended the funeral of a DeMolay brother who was killed in Vietnam. His death did something to me, and I started looking into the war and trying to determine what we are fighting for. I am still unsure about the war, but I feel that we have elected officials to take on the responsibility of determining policy in Vietnam, and we need to give them our trust and support.

—One of the great things about DeMolay is the fraternal feeling. The young members identify with and try to emulate community leaders who were once DeMolay members, such as Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, the late Walt Disney and Rep. Craig Hosmer.

—Through DeMolay, I have learned a lot about government. Once a year, the Long Beach chapter participates in Government Day in Long Beach. I have served as a city councilman, city manager and mayor. I learned the workings of local government and got a chance to talk over city problems with city officials.

—DeMolay stirred an interest in civic affairs which I have carried with me to City College. I got tired of the apathy on campus and signed up for a committee. I am now secretary of the free speech committee which sets up guidelines for the free speech area on campus. The area is open for two days a week for three hours a day. Anyone can speak as long as his speech isn't one obscenity after another, he doesn't try to incite a riot, and he allows time to answer questions from the audience. The free speech area allows students to talk out problems and express their ideas, and frequently you will find more than 200 students in the area. The free speech area acts as a safety valve. On some other campuses, the students are only free to throw rocks.

—Some of the student demonstrations in the state have gotten out of hand. I believe people who have something to say should be heard, but they must also respect the rights of others. In other words, the right to swing your arm ends at my nose.

—I am a believer in some forms of civil disobedience. But persons who are disobedient must be prepared to be punished for their actions in return for making the public aware of the problems. Martin Luther King was often jailed in order to bring to light the problems of discrimination.

—But King's efforts and the efforts of legislators are helping to change things. I think big business is now being forced to realize that no matter what color a man is, inside his muscles work the same as anybody else's.

—I know there are many problems facing our society, and I know that the youth is unsure. But I have the utmost confidence in my generation. I think we will go farther, faster.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Breath-holding Kids Are Smart, Difficult

By Ben Zinser

Southland Mapering Medical-Science Editor

CHILDREN who have breath-holding spells have similar personality traits, a doctor reports in Clinical Pediatrics.

The youngsters are active, energetic, intelligent and tend to be more independent than their brothers and sisters. They also are more difficult to train, respond poorly to discipline and are nervous.

One or both parents often have similar traits. Conflicts between a parent and child are common.

MILD IRRADIATION to the body and part of the stomach in persons with duodenal ulcer may help to prevent ulcer recurrence, a study shows.

Duodenal ulcer is that of the first portion of the small intestine — the most common form of peptic ulcer.

A study of 68 patients at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, shows "long-term good results" in three-fourths of those patients who received both irradiation and medications. Only one-third of those managed on medicines alone got good results for a long period.

The radiation decreases acid secretion and also changes continuous acid secretion to intermittent secretion.

INCIDENCE of polio has tripled in warm climates during the past 10 years, reports the World Health Organization.

The finding is based on a study of 44 tropical and subtropical countries in Africa, Asia, Central America and South America.

At the same time the incidence of the disease has fallen dramatically in 25 countries in North America, Europe, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The decrease in cooler climates is attributed to use of antipolio vaccines in mass immunization campaigns.

A CASE report from the Mayo Clinic says that fluoride may be useful in the treatment of osteoporosis, a condition marked by brittleness and softness of bone.

The substance reverses porosity of bone. It stimulates bone-cell activity, resulting in new bone formation.

SOFT CONTACT lenses are turning out to have more drawbacks than merits, a Japanese eye specialist reports.

Advantages seem to be only that the soft-type lenses are easier to fit and are better tolerated by the patient.

On the other hand, the soft lenses are large and thick because they contain much water. Quality of image is poor and the surface of the lens starts to dry unless the wearer blinks frequently, says Dr. Akira Nikajima of Tokyo.

Soft lenses also pose a cleaning problem. After long use, they become cloudy.

Sterilization of the lenses is also a problem. Sterilizing solutions cannot be used because they would hurt the cornea, the doctor says.

Researchers are now trying to combine soft and hard substances in hope of combining the advantages of both soft and hard lenses. But results so far have not been satisfactory, according to a report in Medical Tribune, newspaper for doctors.

A TRANSIENT disorder of infancy and early childhood, marked by head tilt, nodding and a peculiar movement of the eyeballs, is described in a medical journal.

Called spasmus nutans, the disorder eventually disappears, and no treatment is necessary.

Doctors say the head tilt never occurs as the only sign of the ailment. Jiggling of the eyeballs may be present without nodding or head tilt, but nodding never occurs without the eyeball movement.

The condition was studied in 16 infants, Modern Medicine reports. Onset was between the ages of three and eight months, and duration varied from four to 36 months.

CALIFORNIA researchers are investigating strong evidence that a specific chromosomal imbalance has an association with human cancer.

Chromosomes are microscopic bodies (heredity carriers) found in cells.

The chromosome imbalance found in all cancers so far is an excess of E16 chromosomes, according to a report in Chemical and Engineering News.

Normally there are two E16 chromosomes in a cell. In cancer cells, the E16 count has been higher.

The hope is that this clue will lead to a means of regulating cancer-cell reproduction by chemical means.

The Artistic Animal

THE NAVY is austere. But sailors aren't.

According to regulations, a warship is strictly functional. It must not have doodads, frills or fru fru. No pictures on the bulkheads, no potted plants, no decor. If any sailor really wants to comtemplate beauty, let him look at his ship, which is something of a work of art.

So what happens? Sailors paste pictures of girls on the insides of their locker doors. And if they are put to work in shops or offices fairly free from inspection, they cover the walls with pinups.

Man is the artistic animal. He is never satisfied simply with function. He must also have decoration.

A Matter of Degree

OF THE 76 presidents of the American Bankers Association from 1875 to 1961, as many as 39 had no college education at all. While the majority of the remainder had attended college, they had received no degrees. Four of the college graduates were from Harvard, two were from the University of Georgia, and the rest from scattered schools.

Supreme Court justices are a different matter. Out of 95 between 1789 and 1963, 14 had gone to Yale, 13 to Harvard, 9 to Princeton and 7 to Columbia. Only 16 of the 95 (all in the early days) had never attended college.

This was the educational background of the two top executives of the 53 companies with a billion dollars or more sales, in 1961: Harvard 13, Princeton 6, Yale 6, Michigan 5, M.I.T. 4.

Of 213 medalists of the National Academy of Sciences from 1886 to 1961, 22 were from Harvard, 18 from Johns Hopkins, 16 from the University of Chicago, 14 from Columbia, 9 from Yale, 8 from UC, 7 from M.I.T. and 6 from Princeton.

And how, in that admirable and very informative book "The Education of American Leaders," by George W. Pierson (Praeger, $17.50), do the colleges and universities rank as producers of leaders and men of exceptional distinction? Harvard is first, then come Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Michigan, Pennsylvania, California, Chicago, Cornell and Wisconsin.

Above All, Win!

GOLFMANSHIP. By Stephen Potter. McGraw Hill, $4.95.

"Tis not how you play the game, but, whether you win or lose," with apologies to the memory of Granny Rice who wrote the famous lines, only with reverse meaning. Hang the game, sportsmen like to win and will do whatever they can get by with, fair or foul, to emerge victorious, says the author, sadly in truth.

Potter, a British humorist, offers pointers on how to win at golf . . . other than by skill or physical prowess . . . with stratagems at the bar, in the locker room, on the first tee. Literally how to booby-trap your opponent into the loser column.

"Golfmanship" is the only "how-to" book that wholeheartedly and unabashedly is dedicated to the cause and science of winning. And, as everyone who has played the game knows, one well-placed word, one timely gesture, one off-paced concession can explode the composure, displace the rhythm, ruin the shots, wreck the sanity of any foe. This is the reason (this intelligence contributed at no cost by the reviewer) that there is such strict courtesy around a golf match, that conversation is almost nil, that it is almost sacrilege to whisper much less cough or sneeze around a game. And, lastly, only in baser circles is gamesmanship practiced on the golf course. — Bill Shelton.

And Try Not to Miss...

LICENSED TO KILL: The Incompetent American Motorist and How He Got That Way. By Ronald M. Weiers. Chilton, $1.95.

Among the things told by author Weiers are why women are safer drivers; the link between the social drinker and even the smoking driver, and accidents. He is critical of driver training and driver examinations as they are conducted.

TOPSY AND EVIL. By George Baxt. Simon and Schuster, $4.50.

Negro detective Pharaoh Love, who did so well in "A Queer Kind of Death" and "Swing Low, Sweet Harriet," and another hip Negro detective, Satan Stagg, figure in this thriller. Stagg sets out to discover why Love disappeared when Guru Raskalnikov was bludgeoned to death. Bizarre and suspenseful.

Medical Marvel

THE TRANSPLANTED HEART. By Peter Hawthorne. Rand McNally, $4.95.

Dr. Philip Blaiberg now goes about Cape Town, South Africa, with the heart of another transplanted in his chest by pioneering doctor Professor Christiaan Barnard.

As incredible as this is, it is not half so astounding as was news of the first, and unsuccessful, transplant by Dr. Barnard with Louis Washkansky as the world's first human recipient.

Millions the world over followed the news media accounts of the operation, many with new hope for life and many with interest in the incredible progress of medical science.

This book, written by a prominent reporter, is a detailed account of the operation on Washkansky, the planning, the obstacles and the doubts and the feelings of futility when Washkansky died.

There is no doubt that Dr. Barnard's name belongs to history. It is well to quote the surgeon: "My moment of truth—the moment when the enormity of it all really hit me—was just after I had taken out Washkansky's heart. I looked down and saw this empty space . . . the realization that there was a man lying in front of me without a heart, but still alive, was, I think, the most awesome, inspiring moment of all." — Bill Shelton.

Festive Leg of Lamb

TIME WAS when tender, delicately flavored lamb was available only in the spring, but now "spring-like" lamb is available the year 'round. Equally popular, too!

Festive dinners call for impressive roasts. Not only does the hostess like their dramatic appearance on the table, but she also likes their ease of preparation.

By Mildred Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

Leg of lamb joins this parade of roasts because of its tender, delicate flavor, with American lamb as the best example. Its size ranges from five to seven pounds which means it can serve a small dinner party very well. Here's a suggested menu:

Dinner Menu

Roast Leg of Lamb
Citrus Fruit Cups with Jelly
Noodle Basket—Creamed Potatoes, Peas and Mushrooms
Pineapple-Apricot Salad
Crescent Rolls Honey Butter
Coconut Layer Cake
Coffee Tea

Two styles are usually available in leg of lamb. If the hostess wants the lamb to wear a "frill," she selects a French style. This means simply that the shank bone is exposed so it can wear a paper frill. The other style, American, has a somewhat square appearance because a part of the shank (leg bone) is removed.

Leg of Lamb

5 to 7-pound leg of lamb
Salt and pepper

Do not have the fell removed from the leg of lamb. Place fell side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part of the leg, being sure the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer registers 175 degrees F. for medium-done; 180 degrees F. for well-done lamb. Allow 2½ to 3½ hours for roasting.

To garnish, make cups from an orange, lemon and lime, removing the pulp and scalloping the cut edges. Fill orange cup with current jelly, lemon cup with mint jelly and lime cup with apple or grape jelly. Group beside roast leg of lamb on serving platter. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

To carve, remove two or three thin slices from the thin side of roast to form base, then carve perpendicular slices to leg bone on the meaty or fell side. Release slices by cutting under them, following the leg bone.

Noodle Basket

1 can (5½ ounces) chow mein noodles
2 egg whites
2 tblsps. water

Lightly beat together egg whites and water. Add noodles and mix thoroughly until all liquid is absorbed. Press noodles into a well greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (3500 degrees F.) for 18 to 20 minutes. Using a spatula to loosen, remove noodle basket from casserole immediately. Invert on rack and let cool. Serve with hot, creamed new potatoes and peas with mushrooms which may be of the frozen variety, if desired.

Recipe of the Week

GEORGE B. ANDER, 3061 Gale Ave., Long Beach, is this week's winner of the $5 prize.

SHRIMP PILAU
(Machchi Pilau)

2 cups rice
4 cups water
2 cups finely chopped onions
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
½ cup yogurt
2 lbs. raw shrimp, shelled and cleaned
6 tblsp. butter
1 cup blanched ground almonds
2 tsp. ground coriander
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Cook the rice in 4 cups salted water for 12 minutes. Drain, reserving ¾ cups water. Toss together the onions, salt, pepper, yogurt, and shrimp. Melt the butter in a skillet; cook the mixture in it over high heat for 2 minutes, shaking the pan frequently. Stir in the almonds, coriander and reserved rice water. Cover and cook 2 minutes.

Storage Stackup

By Ellen Krec

STORAGE is like beauty . . . it depends on your requirements and desires.

Storage means space, but in more than one of today's homes it means lack of space.

What can you do with things you have accumulated and wish to keep but are unused a goodly portion of the time?

Interior BOUTIQUE

There's the garage, but that's full and the cars are rusting before your eyes on the street.

You could take the extra bedroom and stuff it, then close the door. But those unexpected guests cause some problems.

Or you can call in a cabinet maker and discuss it with him. If your budget will stand structural changes, you can extend a wall, shorten a room or lengthen a hall to take care of the overflow.

Then there are my "ingenius" friends and acquaintances who never cease to amaze me with solutions to storage problems.

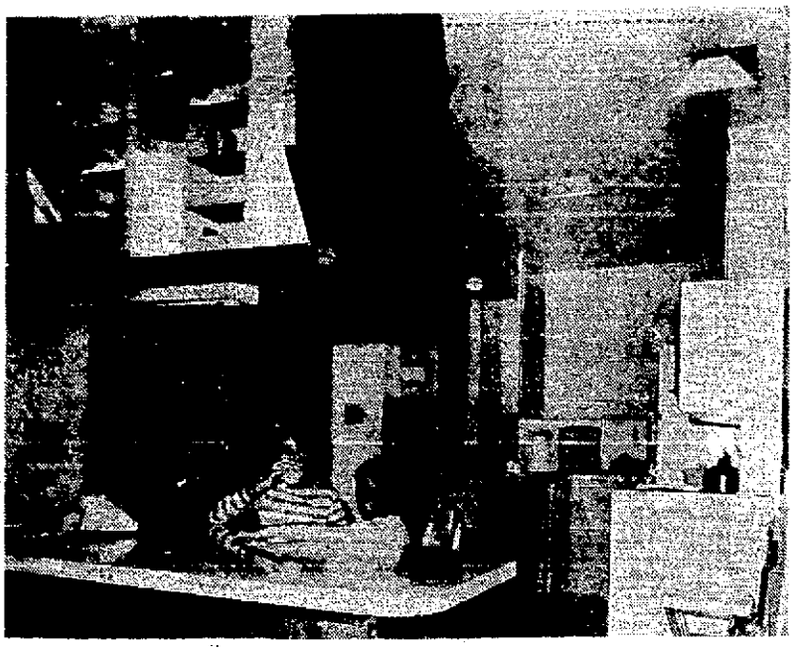

One of the tidiest arrangements I have seen is the open-box policy, especially good for the child's room.

Actually the boxes are storage or store type slots with open faces for a neat appearance. Each box is painted a different bright color and stacked, floor to ceiling, but attached to the wall to prevent fallout.

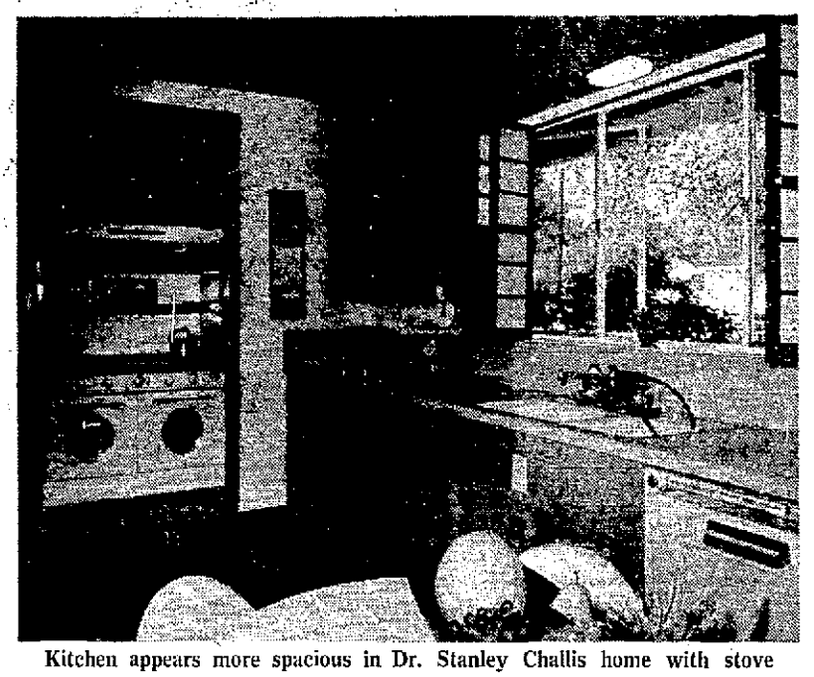

The room inhabiter better be neat or all will be exposed for all to see — no doors to hide the crime of messiness!

Next comes the sliding-door closet whose innards are just a mess and a maze. The doors come off. A band of moulding is added to cover the rough edges and neat shelves are installed. Wallpaper makes an excellent background and a custom-size space

Narrow space backing dish cabinet turns snack bar into writing desk with all equipment pigeonholed above the counter. Pullout cabinet at base of bar conceals typewriter.

Kitchen appears more spacious in Dr. Stanley Challis home with stove recessed into convenient wall.

Fish Fanciers Fair

By Eleanor Avery Price

Long Beach Aquarium Society will exhibit beautiful fishes at Hobby Show in Municipal Auditorium today. —Van der Meid Photo

IF YOU ATTEND the Hobby Show today at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, be certain to look at the fishes on display. With marine and fresh water fish hobbyists increasing in numbers, their occupation ranks close to first as the world's top hobby.

As far as I have been able to learn, the keeping of tropical fishes began in ancient Egypt, before 300 B.C., when opaque glass in the form of containers was invented.

The first written record of fishes as pets seems to have come much later, during the Ming Dynasty in China along about 1596, when Chang Chien-te was ruler. Title of the record was "The Book of Vermillion Fish." Vermillion fish were goldfish, and they were raised in vessels rather than in ponds. Probably some of the crafts were very ornate.

Eventually other references to pet fishes appeared, but there seems to be no mention of the use of plants and gravel in the various aquariums. That is, not until Robert Warrington, a chemist, discovered that tiny rounded pebbles and attractive greenery, especially vallisneria, improved the fishes' lot.

In 1853, the London Zoological Gardens opened an aquarium to the public. Not long after, Count Montizon, experimenting with photography, was able to capture on film some of the beautiful qualities of the aquarium.

Soon other countries took notice, and aquariums were constructed in England, France, Holland, Ireland and Germany. Japan must have taken active interest, too, for soon goldfish were brought to America from the Orient. This colorful fish became instantly popular, so Germany also began shipping them there by the thousands. Even when a protective tariff was deemed necessary, enthusiasm for goldfish did not abate for a long time.

Goldfish are still enjoyed, being easy to keep. But the various guppies, especially elaborate ones such as the veiltail, may be more in demand than any other fishes. They, too, are usually not difficult to maintain, one reason being that guppies, at least when young, do not require such limited feedings as some other fishes. Therefore, if a child can't resist feeding them a bit frequently, the fish don't seem to suffer. However, water changes should be quite frequent in such cases.

The hobby of aquarium fishes can become very interesting, and even more so when one tries to improve fish strains, to develop new strains, and to create home decorative effects. Many a person has found that his health improved because he had such an absorbing interest.

Put Pop-up on Pick-up

By Steve Ellingson

THE FAMILY camping bug has come out of his cocoon; it's time to get ready for the vacation season that lies ahead. Now it's possible to travel and camp with a built-in bedroom and galley along with plenty of storage area for food, clothing and other supplies. Now you can know the real fun of camping and traveling without the need of elaborate planning, without the drudgery of pitching a tent that takes up so much of the fun time. Yes, and you can do all of this without hocking the family jewels; it's not expensive to build your own camper.

The pick-up pop-up camper shown here is designed with a roof that can be quickly and easily lowered or raised to give you the stand-up head room of a large heavy camper — yet it still retains the driving advantages of the small camper which folds down for traveling.

Because of its light weight and sturdy construction, you can take to the rough, off-beat roads without special overload springs, heavy-duty tires or a pickup truck with a big engine. The collapsible roof feature reduces gas-wasting wind resistance, and sway bracing isn't needed for cornering or bucking a strong wind. The size may be adapted to fit any make or model of pickup truck. The plan shows how this is done.

The plan for building the camper shown gives easy-to-follow, step-by-step directions along with lots of illustrations of the various stages of construction. It also lists the needed materials.

For the Gypsy Trail.

To obtain the camper plan number 470, send $2 (add 25c per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

A pool and bench in glowing tile add interest to this garden. And here is a secret: the pool tiling is applied to a wood frame that masks an old bath tub. The bench also has a base of wood. Pattern 477, which gives directions for both these wood frames as well as illustrated steps for the tile work, is 50c. It is also in the Mosaic Tile Pattern Packet No. 78 for $1.50.

Interior BOUTIQUE

may be made for your acquisitions, such as stereo or television.

Next comes the full-wall unit, such as the one the Samuel Hoods enjoy. Mrs. Hood was responsible for the design, and I think women always should have much to say about storage because I have yet to find a man who knows where to put card tables, games for the children, folding chairs and assorted "stuff" no family can do without!

According to Mrs. Hood's design, a full wall in the family room was covered with piano-hinged doors either folding or pull out, depending on use, and open spaces for display.

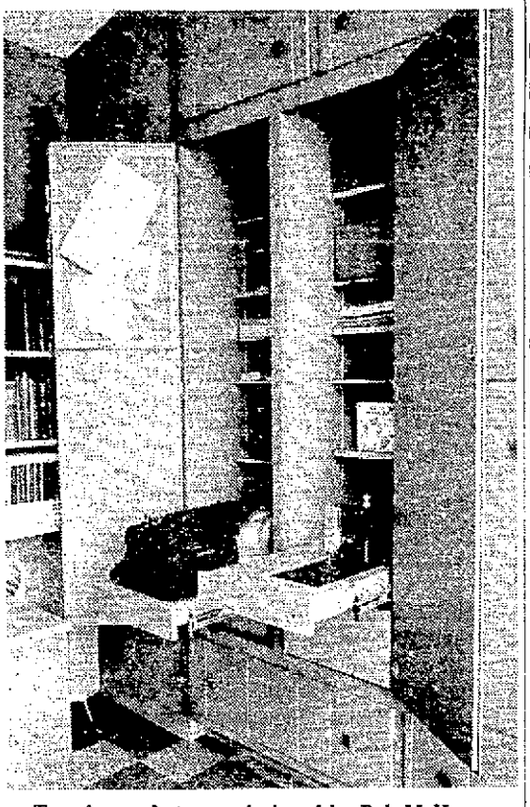

The walnut unit was custom designed to include a slanted space for magazines, an air-cooled pocket for television and stereo, open spaces for books and games, a bin for card tables and closet for chairs as well as a paneled display area.

A second useless area was cleverly changed into a pigeonhole cabinet. The back of the breakfast bar cabinet was too narrow for anything except four-inch slots, making it ideal for the equipment such as envelopes, stamps, pencil sharpeners, etc.

Another sewing wall was a Bob McHenry design and covers the wall from floor to ceiling with pull-out tables for sewing machine and typewriter. The equipment necessary for sewing fits into the cabinet above the machine, while the writing necessities fit perfectly into the cabinet area above the typewriter.

In Dr. Stanley Challis' kitchen Mrs. Challis enjoys more move-about space since the stove was recessed into the wall. Tight fitting into the space makes cleaning the stove no chore at all.

A purely professional suggestion may be the island storage wall created to serve between rooms as dual storage for the needs of each room. This may be a welcome suggestion to the man with a plan or to the architect in residence. Suffice it to say some of the ideas have a doityourself quality while others require a let someoneelsedoitforyou look.

Dream Vacation

A dream vacation doesn't have to be a brand-new adventure. It can be something that you do again because its magic never ceases.

Rena Ellington, 1641 E. Carson St., Torrance, knows exactly what she will do with her two weeks because she has been doing it every year since 1920.

Other winning essays will be published in future weeks. Winners' checks will be mailed to them. An additional check of $30 will go to the writer of the essay judged best of all. The entry deadline has passed.

By RENA ELLINGTON

MY DREAM VACATION is the same as I have enjoyed every year since 1920; two weeks, or more, in the High Sierra mountains . . .

My favorite way to go is with backpack, a camera and at least one companion. A backpacker may wander at will, off the beaten trail, where the grandeur is grander, the land untrampled and the lakes and streams jumping with trout . . . to enjoy still things and silent places, the still dark pool in the curve of a stream, where the sunlight has ceased to play . . . to enjoy the exuberant and intoxicating air, water unspoiled by chemicals . . . and the night sky filled with stars!

All this, plus the ecstasy of a full moon above the rugged profiles of awe-inspiring peaks, at proper intervals . . . and the pleasure of supper fires at the end of a day's hike in the virgin wilderness . . . this is LIVING!

Political Paradox:

The Rise of Hugh Flournoy

HOUSTON FLOURNOY . . . What does the future hold?

By William Wingfield

EARLY THIS YEAR THE leading financial backers of the Republican Party in Southern California gathered for a major testimonial dinner at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles.

Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, former lieutenant governor of California, and President Nixon's closest confidant, was the featured speaker.

Speculation naturally arises if the guest of honor, California State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, may not be slated to move on to greater things. Such gala events normally are not held for persons of lesser rank than governors or senators.

A number of writers who cover the state political scene have conjectured that Flournoy may have his eye on the seat of ailing U.S. Sen. George Murphy should Murphy decide not to seek reelection next year because of his health.

There is also the possibility that Gov. Ronald Reagan may decide that one term is enough, and Flournoy might be a logical choice to succeed him.

Whether he makes his move next year or sometime in the future, Hugh Flournoy, only 39 years old and sometimes called "the John Lindsay of California," might seem to have a promising political career ahead of him.

When he left his post as associate professor of government at Pomona College to become state controller (he holds a Ph.D. from Princeton), the faculty held a dinner in his honor.

Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, retiring president of Pomona College, recalls, "I told the faculty when Hugh was leaving the college that he might become governor. I think he'll go higher than controller. I think he's done a fine job in Sacramento. I have been sympathetic to what he's tried to do."

Millard Sheets, the world famous artist-architect, served with Flournoy on California's Rockefeller delegation for the 1964 Republican National Convention.

"I think this guy is going to go places," Sheets declared. "He's got a lot of juice, that guy — a lot of political juice. I think Hugh's a dedicated guy and intelligent as hell. That's quite a lot to say when you see so many of the other kind, and I've seen so many birthrights sold in politics."

For the moment, the handsome, smooth featured, smiling and olive complexioned young politico is discounting these rumors.

"I've never made my plans more than 24 hours ahead of time," he recently told this writer.

Yet, it is known that within the past year the state controller has been casting about to build a public relations staff, something that is highly important for an aspiring politician. It is rumored that he has sought out some who worked on Sen. Charles Percy's campaign for governor of Illinois in 1964.

If he does have aspirations, Flournoy is following in good footsteps, because he once represented the same area in the State Assembly that President Nixon once represented in Congress. He was also the political discovery of Roy Day of Pomona, the same man who is generally given credit for discovering Nixon.

However, Flournoy is truthful in saying that his two major political decisions — to run for the Assembly in 1960 and for controller in 1966 — have been on the spur of the moment.

Day remembers how Flournoy was tabbed to run for the Assembly. The candidate the Republicans first sought decided against the race.

Day picked up the telephone, called Flournoy, and said, "OK, Hugh, you're on."

After six years in Sacramento, Flournoy decided to return to Pomona College.

John Vieg, chairman of Pomona College's government department, recalls, "We were all getting ready to welcome him back full-time to our department, but, as it happens, the Western Political Science Association was meeting at the University of Nevada. I was just sitting down for dinner. A fellow beckoned me over and said there was a long-distance phone call. It was Hugh saying he had been under pressure to run for controller on the Christopher ticket. They thought Hugh could add enough strength to the ticket to give Christopher the nomination instead Reagan."

Ironically, as Flournoy himself acknowledges, the only reason he entered the race was to have a platform for making statewide speeches for former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher against Reagan — yet he owes his very election as state controller to Reagan.

On primary election day, Flournoy won the nomination for controller, but Christopher lost the race for governor. After the primary, all polls indicated that Reagan would be elected governor but Flournoy would lose the controllership. Flournoy was running against now U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, hitherto the top vote-getter of the Democratic Party, who was getting great mileage out of attacking Reagan for his alleged links with the controversial, conservative John Birch Society.

Instead, Reagan won by such a landslide that he brought in all but one of the statewide Republican candidates, including Hugh Flournoy. Next to Alan Cranston, the most surprised person in California was Houston I. Flournoy.

Animosity between the governor and his state controller was long-standing. In 1964, Flournoy was the actual second in command to then Sen. Thomas Kuchel for the Rockefeller forces in California, while Reagan, of course, was a strong supporter of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

After both men took offices, the animosity continued. According to the 1968 best seller, "The Republican Establishment," by Stephen Hess and David S. Broder, the two men never spoke to each other.

Flournoy acknowledges that, for 10 months, Reagan wouldn't let him into the cabinet meetings. However, since Flournoy is the man in charge of the state's money, the governor finally decided to let him in — and the two seem to get along well now. Reagan appointed Flournoy to head the Advisory Commission on Tax Reform, and Flournoy was one of Reagan's most enthusiastic delegates at the Republican National Convention at Miami Beach.

Reagan ended up offering his own tax-reform proposals, however.

"I get along a lot better with the governor than John Schmitz (Orange County's John Birch state senator) does," Flournoy declared. "After all, we're both Republicans.

"We each have our job to do," Flournoy continued. "I don't know that I would be in the inner circle of any governor, except Bob Monagan (speaker of the State Assembly), who is a personal friend of mine. Other controllers have had the same problem. Cranston did with Pat Brown. The exception would be Kuchel with Earl Warren."

Despite this new amity between Reagan and Flournoy, the differences of opinion if not the animosity continues. Flournoy favored letting Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver lecture at the University of California, while Reagan strongly opposed it. And Flournoy and Reagan differ widely in their views on taxes.

Flournoy has never been a friend of Assembly Minority Leader Jess Unruh either. When Unruh, as speaker of the Assembly, locked up Republican assemblymen in 1963 until they would pass Gov. Brown's budget, Flournoy went into a violent rage and came back to his Assembly district to make speeches at all of the Republican clubs strongly denouncing Unruh. Reportedly, Flournoy still sees red at the mention of Unruh's name.

Since he has been controller, Flournoy's major battle has been to fulfill his campaign promise to eliminate the appointive inheritance tax appraiser system. This is the last political pork barrel in California, and its abolition has been fought by Gov. Reagan, the State Senate, the Bar Association, and the old-timers of the Republican Party (and the Democratic Party when it is in office.)

Although stymied in the State Senate year after year, Flournoy contin-

THE ARTISTIC ANIMAL

There is no tribe so primitive that it has no art.

Art to primitive man is important. It is magic. It brings him food, fertility, success in war, closer communion with his gods.

Many civilized men, however, lose their sense of art. They buy well-made houses designed by somebody else -- and cover their walls with junk which somebody else told them to buy.

"I don't know anything about art," they say, "but I know what I like."

Do they?

Such people have never really faced up to the question of what they like. They buy stuff someone else has told them they should like. And if they are affluent, they are influenced by price tags. "That painting cost $1,000 so it has got to be good."

Having hung their pictures, they are stuck with them. They can't bring themselves to admit that they made mistakes and are bored with being reminded of their errors.

It is not necessary to be an esthete to have good art in a home. Nor is it necessary to be rich.

The first step is to choose what you really like. If it is a gatefold from Playboy, frame it and put it on the wall. But the minute you get tired of it, get rid of it.

Visits to museums, reading, an art course or two can improve your taste. Don't expect to like in 20 years what you like now.

Do-it-yourself art can be gratifying. There is a glow of achievement, even though the result is not exactly Michelangelo. Also, the effort does improve one's understanding. You begin to learn what you really like.

Fine paintings and other art can be good companions. In a slow and subtle way they make a home richer and more comfortable. But when they don't have such an effect or when they cease to have, send them to the attic.

You may have to live with inadequate plumbing, but you don't have to live with inadequate art. If it doesn't increase your joy of living get rid of it and find something that does.

—Mark Clutter.

Introducing the

Bixby Green aparts

(They're far and apart from any apartments you've ever seen)

Bixby Green is something else. We call it an apartment village because that's what is resembles; a European-inspired colony of luxurious town house apartments interspersed with abundant landscaping, tree-lined walkways and private recreational areas.

But any other resemblance to apartments ends right there.

Bixby Green is an adult community. And for families with children over 16 years old.

A Bixby Green suite begins where a conventional apartment (or an average house, for that matter) leaves off.

Each suite is a two-story plan. Upstairs are as many as three bedrooms, including a large master bedroom with separate dressing area. Downstairs, a separate entry-hallway leads to a sunken living room and, just beyond, your own secluded garden patio. All-electric kitchens have everything. And "everything" includes your own washer-dryer, too. Each suite is centrally air-conditioned and totally soundproofed (you have to not hear it to believe it!). Deep carpeting and floor-to-ceiling drapes comprise a rich background for your finest pieces.

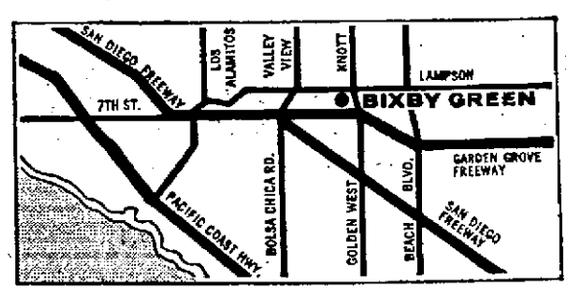

You're at home on a six-acre park, where village walkways lead to the pool area, putting green and other fun places. Your own Bixby Green shopping center is practically next door. You can be a stay-at-home, or you can venture beyond the seclusion of Bixby Green to Orange County's beaches, marinas and golf courses. You can go where the fun is anytime you feel like it. We'll mind the chores. And do the lawns. And keep things quiet.

No question of it: Bixby Green is something else. Something more than just a place to live. Something special.

Bixby Green Aparts are apart from the ordinary. Come and see why.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Breath-holding Kids Are Smart, Difficult

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Editor

CHILDREN who have breath-holding spells have similar personality traits, a doctor reports in Clinical Pediatrics.

The youngsters are active, energetic, intelligent and tend to be more independent than their brothers and sisters. They also are more difficult to train, respond poorly to discipline and are nervous.

One or both parents often have similar traits. Conflicts between a parent and child are common.

MILD IRRADIATION to the body and part of the stomach in persons with duodenal ulcer may help to prevent ulcer recurrence, a study shows.

Duodenal ulcer is that of the first portion of the small intestine — the most common form of peptic ulcer.

A study of 68 patients at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, shows "long-term good results" in three-fourths of those patients who received both irradiation and medications. Only one-third of those managed on medicines alone got good results for a long period.

The radiatinn decreases acid secretion and also changes continuous acid secretion to intermittent secretion.

INCIDENCE of polio has tripled in warm climates during the past 10 years, reports the World Health Organization.

The finding is based on a study of 44 tropical and subtropical countries in Africa, Asia, Central America and South America.

At the same time the incidence of the disease has fallen dramatically in 25 countries in North America, Europe, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The decrease in cooler climates is attributed to use of antipolio vaccines in mass immunization campaigns.

A CASE report from the Mayo Clinic says that fluoride may be useful in the treatment of osteoporosis, a condition marked by brittleness and softness of bone.

The substance reverses porosity of bone. It stimulates bone-cell activity, resulting in new bone formation.

SOFT CONTACT lenses are turning out to have more drawbacks than merits, a Japanese eye specialist reports.

Advantages seem to be only that the soft-type lenses are easier to fit and are better tolerated by the patient.

On the other hand, the soft lenses are large and thick because they contain much water. Quality of image is poor and the surface of the lens starts to dry unless the wearer blinks frequently, says Dr. Akira Nikajima of Tokyo.

Soft lenses also pose a cleaning problem. After long use, they become cloudy.

Sterilization of the lenses is also a problem. Sterilizing solutions cannot be used because they would hurt the cornea, the doctor says.

Researchers are now trying to combine soft and hard substances in hope of combining the advantages of both soft and hard lenses. But results so far have not been satisfactory, according to a report in Medical Tribune, newspaper for doctors.

A TRANSIENT disorder of infancy and early childhood, marked by head tilt, nodding and a peculiar movement of the eyeballs, is described in a medical journal.

Called spasmus nutans, the disorder eventually disappears, and no treatment is necessary.

Doctors say the nead tilt never occurs as the only sign of the ailment. Jiggling of the eyeballs may be present without nodding or head tilt, but nodding never occurs without the eyeball movement.

The condition was studied in 16 infants, Modern Medicine reports. Onset was between the ages of three and eight months, and duration varied from four to 36 months.

CALIFORNIA researchers are investigating strong evidence that a specific chromosomal imbalance has an association with human cancer.

Chromosomes are microscopic bodies (heredity carriers) found in cells.

The chromosome imbalance found in all cancers so far is an excess of E16 chromosomes, according to a report in Chemical and Engineering News.

Normally there are two E16 chromosomes in a cell. In cancer cells, the E16 count has been higher.

The hope is that this clue will lead to a means of regulating cancer-cell reproduction by chemical means.

The Artistic Animal

THE NAVY is austere. But sailors aren't.

According to regulations, a warship is strictly functional. It must not have doodads, frills or fru fru. No pictures on the bulkheads, no potted plants, no decor. If any sailor really wants to comtemplate beauty, let him look at his ship, which is something of a work of art.

So what happens? Sailors paste pictures of girls on the insides of their locker doors. And if they are put to work in shops or offices fairly free from inspection, they cover the walls with pinups.

Man is the artistic animal. He is never satisfied simply with function. He must also have decoration.

A Matter of Degree

OF THE 76 presidents of the American Bankers Association from 1875 to 1961, as many as 39 had no college education at all. While the majority of the remainder had attended college, they had received no degrees. Four of the college graduates were from Harvard, two were from the University of Georgia, and the rest from scattered schools.

Supreme Court justices are a different matter. Out of 95 between 1789 and 1963, 14 had gone to Yale, 13 to Harvard, 9 to Princeton and 7 to Columbia. Only 16 of the 95 (all in the early days) had never attended college.

This was the educational background of the two top executives of the 53 companies with a billion dollars or more sales, in 1961: Harvard 13, Princeton 6, Yale 6, Michigan 5, M.I.T. 4.

Of 213 medalists of the National Academy of Sciences from 1886 to 1961, 22 were from Harvard, 18 from Johns Hopkins, 16 from the University of Chicago, 14 from Columbia, 9 from Yale, 8 from UC, 7 from M.I.T. and 6 from Princeton.

And how, in that admirable and very informative book "The Education of American Leaders," by George W. Pierson (Praeger, $17.50), do the colleges and universities rank as producers of leaders and men of exceptional distinction? Harvard is first, then come Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Michigan, Pennsylvania, California, Chicago, Cornell and Wisconsin.

Medical Marvel

THE TRANSPLANTED HEART. By Peter Hawthorne. Rand McNally, $4.95.

Dr. Philip Blaiberg now goes about Cape Town, South Africa, with the heart of another transplanted in his chest by pioneering doctor Professor Christiaan Barnard.

As incredible as this is, it is not half so astounding as was news of the first, and unsuccessful, transplant by Dr. Barnard with Louis Washkansky as the world's first human recipient.

Millions the world over followed the news media accounts of the operation, many with new hope for life and many with interest in the incredible progress of medical science.

This book, written by a prominent reporter, is a detailed account of the operation on Washkansky, the planning, the obstacles and the doubts and the feelings of futility when Washkansky died.

There is no doubt that Dr. Barnard's name belongs to history. It is well to quote the surgeon: "My moment of truth—the moment when the enormity of it all really hit me—was just after I had taken out Washkansky's heart. I looked down and saw this empty space . . . the realization that there was a man lying in front of me without a heart, but still alive, was, I think, the most awesome, inspiring moment of all." — Bill Shelton.

GOLFMANSHIP. By Stephen Potter. McGraw Hill, $4.95.

"Tis not how you play the game, but, whether you win or lose," with apologies to the memory of Granny Rice who wrote the famous lines, only with reverse meaning. Hang the game, sportsmen like to win and will do whatever they can get by with, fair or foul, to emerge victorious, says the author, sadly in truth.

Potter, a British humorist, offers pointers on how to win at golf . . . other than by skill or physical prowess . . . with stratagems at the bar, in the locker room, on the first tee. Literally how to booby-trap your opponent into the loser column.

"Golfmanship" is the only "how-to" book that wholeheartedly and unabashedly is dedicated to the cause and science of winning. And, as everyone who has played the game knows, one well-placed word, one timely gesture, one off-paced concession can explode the composure, displace the rhythm, ruin the shots, wreck the sanity of any foe. This is the reason (this intelligence contributed at no cost by the reviewer) that there is such strict courtesy around a golf match, that conversation is almost nil, that it is almost sacrilege to whisper much less cough or sneeze around a game. And, lastly, only in baser circles is gamesmanship practiced on the golf course. — Bill Shelton.

And Try Not to Miss...

LICENSED TO KILL: The Incompetent American Motorist and How He Got That Way. By Ronald M. Weiers. Chilton, $1.95.

Among the things told by author Weiers are why women are safer drivers; the link between the social drinker and even the smoking driver, and accidents. He is critical of driver training and driver examinations as they are conducted.

TOPSY AND EVIL. By George Baxt. Simon and Schuster, $4.50.

Negro detective Pharaoh Love, who did so well in "A Queer Kind of Death" and "Swing Low, Sweet Harriet," and another hip Negro detective, Satan Stagg, figure in this thriller. Stagg sets out to discover why Love disappeared when Guru Raskalnikov was bludgeoned to death. Bizarre and suspenseful.

THE PARADOX OF HUGH FLOURNOY

ues the fight. Since taking office, he has followed the merit system on his own initiative for making appointments. Vindication seemingly came right after he took office when, on Flournoy's orders, the State Personnel Board gave a four-hour examination to tax appraisers and only 74 incumbents passed it.

Twice while Flournoy was in the State Assembly, the John Birch Society tried to knock him off. In 1962, they ran Jack Fox, former president of the Covina Young Republicans, as a write-in candidate in the primary against him. In 1964, they ran Jack Parker, an admitted Bircher and another former president of the Covina Young Republicans.

What incited the Birchers in 1962 was that Flournoy was a member of Nixon's campaign staff. At that time, Nixon was on the top of their hate list. In 1964, they were violently angry because Flournoy was a Rockefeller supporter and had voted in favor of the Rumford Act and opposed Proposition 14.

Some of Parker's supporters went about sticking fliers under the windshield wipers of cars showing a Negro family moving into a house while a bloated realtor with dollar signs on his coat, the typical caricature of an archtype late 19th century plutocrat, said, "Here you are, folks, courtesy of Mr. Flournoy." Underneath this picture was one of a man in jail while his wife and children were crying. The caption said, "But dear, we didn't want to sell our house despite Mr. Flournoy."

Like so much of Flournoy's career, there is irony here, too. Flournoy was originally encouraged in politics by John Rousselot, the former second in command of the John Birch Society. Flournoy's Assembly district was part of the district that Rousselot represented in Congress. Both men, in 1960 and 1962, had the same campaign manager — Nixon's discoverer, Roy Day.

Flournoy observed recently, "I think the John Birch Society is dying. These movements come and go — like Aimee Semple McPherson or Gerald L. K. Smith. Maybe we need these movements to give our Don Quixotes somewhere to go. I don't know what they'll take up with next. Now that Rousselot has left the Birch Society, I think their strength may be on the decline. Much of its strength was due to Rousselot personally."

Flournoy is a rather abrasive man in his personal manner, a rather brittle man. He puts his feet up on his desk as he talks with visitors, and tends to be something of a wisecracker.

Some of his mannerisms can be quite irritating. At times, he appears very inconsiderate of others.

When one guest came to visit, Flournoy poured himself a cup of coffee and didn't offer his guest one. During the Republican National Convention, a newspaper reporter came to interview him in his hotel room. Flournoy had a shelf of liquor. He picked up a bottle, poured himself a drink, and sat down to start talking — not once offering his guest a drink. The reporter finally stalked out, seething with fury.

A man in public relations for the Republican Party says that Flournoy has a strong temper when aroused and can carry a deep grudge. He said that Flournoy often acts like a master sergeant.

Yet, he continued, Flournoy is the sort of man who, when he takes you into his office, will lay things right on the line and tell you what he thinks. He finds Flournoy straightforward and seemingly quite honest.

With Max Rafferty's defeat for the U.S. Senate, Flournoy thinks the ultra-conservatives will fade out and the traditional Republican Party will revive.

Perhaps there is a place in it for Hugh Flournoy.

Doty, English, is a simplified form of Doughty, which in the 12th century was defined as "brave and strong one." John Doughty was a Yorkshireman in 1379. The Doty armorial shield is silver, emblazoned with two gold bars placed between three gold stars. Edward Doty, a passenger on the Mayflower, settled in Massachusetts in 1620.

Gourmet's Guide

by Todd Thomey

Southland Dining at its Finest in the Long Beach and Orange County Area

THE DINNER menu at Rochelle's Restaurant, 3333 Lakewood Blvd., is one of the most varied and tempting in town. It is also one of the most literate.

In addition to describing the mouth-watering characteristics of such delights as shish kebab on a flaming sword and chicken simmered in red wine, the menu offers this description of Long Beach:

"A peal of laughter fills the air, the universal language of a dozen international beauties. A ship lies in our harbor, its bow heavy with barnacles, ready to unload a cargo of fashions from Italy. A doctor sets down his Bonanza, returning from a weekend of service across the Mexican border. Long Beach, truly an international city — our city — and the inspiration for our international menu. Come with us on a culinary tour to the world's most exciting places. . ."

That colorful paragraph was penned by Mel Keleman, general manager and part owner of Rochelle's, who is a graduate of Cornell University, where he studied restaurant and hotel management. In addition to being an occasional author, he is a talent expert, auditioning the groups which play for dancing in the restaurant's smart Red Velvet lounge. Thanks to Mel's musical tastes, Rochelle's is noted for offering sophisticated, modern groups with top reputations in their field.

The menu in the fashionable Regency Dining Room offers French, Turkish, German, Swiss, Italian, Russian and Spanish dishes, such as roast sauerbraten, breast of chicken cordon blue, beef Stroganoff, bocadillos al pescador and veal parmigiano. Priced from $2.95 to $3.95, they include a gourmet selection of appetizers, soup du jour or French onion soup or mixed green salad, potato or rice, hot bread and beverage.

Also featured are such elegant entrees as lobster and filet mignon combination, chateaubriand bouquetiere for two persons, boneless rainbow trout with almonds and succulent roast prime rib of beef.

Owned by Ben Rochelle, the restaurant has spacious facilities for luncheon and dinner banquets as well as several large parking lots. The restaurant and adjacent coffee shop are part of Rochelle's Motel, one of the largest in Long Beach.

Fish Fanciers Fair

By Eleanor Avery Price

Long Beach Aquarium Society will exhibit beautiful fishes at Hobby Show in Municipal Auditorium today. —Van der Meid Photo

IF YOU ATTEND the Hobby Show today at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, be certain to look at the fishes on display. With marine and fresh water fish hobbyists increasing in numbers, their occupation ranks close to first as the world's top hobby.

As far as I have been able to learn, the keeping of tropical fishes began in ancient Egypt, before 300 B.C., when opaque glass in the form of containers was invented.

The first written record of fishes as pets seems to have come much later, during the Ming Dynasty in China along about 1596, when Chang Chien-te was ruler. Title of the record was "The Book of Vermillion Fish." Vermillion fish were goldfish, and they were raised in vessels rather than in ponds. Probably some of the crafts were very ornate.

Eventually other references to pet fishes appeared, but there seems to be no mention of the use of plants and gravel in the various aquariums. That is, not until Robert Warrington, a chemist, discovered that tiny rounded pebbles and attractive greenery, especially vallisneria, improved the fishes' lot.

In 1853, the London Zoological Gardens opened an aquarium to the public. Not long after, Count Montizon, experimenting with photography, was able to capture on film some of the beautiful qualities of the aquarium.

Soon other countries took notice, and aquariums were constructed in England, France, Holland, Ireland and Germany. Japan must have taken active interest, too, for soon goldfish were brought to America from the Orient. This colorful fish became instantly popular, so Germany also began shipping them there by the thousands. Even when a protective tariff was deemed necessary, enthusiasm for goldfish did not abate for a long time.

Goldfish are still enjoyed, being easy to keep. But the various guppies, especially elaborate ones such as the veiltail, may be more in demand than any other fishes. They, too, are usually not difficult to maintain, one reason being that guppies, at least when young, do not require such limited feedings as some other fishes. Therefore, if a child can't resist feeding them a bit frequently, the fish don't seem to suffer. However, water changes should be quite frequent in such cases.

The hobby of aquarium fishes can become very interesting, and even more so when one tries to improve fish strains, to develop new strains, and to create home decorative effects. Many a person has found that his health improved because he had such an absorbing interest.

Put Pop-up on Pick-up

By Steve Ellingson

THE FAMILY camping bug has come out of his cocoon; it's time to get ready for the vacation season that lies ahead. Now it's possible to travel and camp with a built-in bedroom and galley along with plenty of storage area for food, clothing and other supplies. Now you can know the real fun of camping and traveling without the need of elaborate planning, without the drudgery of pitching a tent that takes up so much of the fun time. Yes, and you can do all of this without hocking the family jewels; it's not expensive to build your own camper.

The pick-up pop-up camper shown here is designed with a roof that can be quickly and easily lowered or raised to give you the stand-up head room of a large heavy camper — yet it still retains the driving advantages of the small camper which folds down for traveling.

Because of its light weight and sturdy construction, you can take to the rough, off-beat roads without special overload springs, heavy-duty tires or a pickup truck with a big engine. The collapsible roof feature reduces gas-wasting wind resistance, and sway bracing isn't needed for cornering or bucking a strong wind. The size may be adapted to fit any make or model of pickup truck. The plan shows how this is done.

The plan for building the camper shown gives easy-to-follow, step-by-step directions along with lots of illustrations of the various stages of construction. It also lists the needed materials.

For the Gypsy Trail.

To obtain the camper plan number 470, send $2 (add 25c per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

MRS. KING

SAMMY DAVIS

Q. Hasn't Sammy Davis Jr. secretly proposed to and been accepted by Mrs. Martin Luther King?—Ron Clark, Memphis, Tenn.
A. Not a chance.

Q. Now that Lyndon Johnson is no longer President, may we know the truth? Who were the "hawks" who advised him to escalate the war in Vietnam? And who were the "doves" who advised him to de-escalate?—Mrs. Anna Arnold, Winnetka, Ill.
A. Some leading hawks: Walt Rostow, Dean Rusk, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Some of the leading doves: Clark Clifford, Arthur Goldberg, Paul Nitze, Paul Warnke, Alfred Fitt, George Ball. Hawks-turned doves:Robert McNamara, McGeorge Bundy, Nicholas Katzenbach, William Bundy.

Q. My Mexican friends say it is a well-known fact that this country started the Mexican War of 1848 in order to steal Texas and force the sale of California from Mexico. Is this true? Is there any book about the U.S.-Mexican War which tells the truth?—A.B., San Antonio, Tex.
A. One of the most authoritative books on the subject is the Personal Memoirs of U.S. Grant. President Grant, who fought through the Mexican War, wrote of it: "We were sent to provoke a fight, but it was essential that Mexico should commence it . . ." Of Texas he wrote: "The occupation, separation and annexation were, from the inception of the movement to its final consummation, a conspiracy to acquire territory out of which slave states might be formed for the American Union."

The history of most nations reveals some shoddy and regrettable chapters. The behavior of the U.S. as regards Mexico during the administration of President Polk, was, in the opinion of several historians, flagrantly expansionist and morally reprehensible.

Q. How many women have served as prime ministers of their nations in this century?—Helen Roberts, Los Angeles, Calif.
A. Four: Mme. Gandhi of India, Golda Meir of Israel, Ana Pauker of Romania, and Mme. Bandaranaike of Ceylon.

Q. Is it true that if a Hollywood star, like Robert Cummings who comes from here, has a happy family life, no one will write about him?—T.R., Joplin, Mo.
A. Robert Cummings, who has been separated from his third wife for 17 months, recently sued her for divorce on grounds of cruelty. He and the former Mary Elliott were married in 1945. Cummings, 58, agreed that his wife should have custody of the four minors among their five children.

JULIE ANDREWS

REX HARRISON

Q. I understand that the two biggest movie bombs of 1968 were Dr. Dolittle with Rex Harrison and Star with Julie Andrews. How much did they cost?—Henry Weinstein, New York, N.Y.
A. Approximately $30 million.

Q. Comedian Don Rickles was razzing Dean Martin in Las Vegas. Rickles said: "Dean, I'm sick and tired of hearing about your drinking, your gambling, your debauchery, your fooling around with broads." Martin is supposed to have answered with a funny crack. What did he say?—Bernie Fine, Las Vegas, Nev.
A. Martin's retort: "I know, Don. I know. But it keeps me out of trouble."

Q. Would you let me know if the Marine Corps is accepting applications for enlistment from 17-year-old boys?—Mason Ford, Detroit, Mich.
A. Yes, if they are qualified.

Q. I would like to find out what has happened to Darryl Zanuck's latest girl-friend, the model from Paris named Genevieve Gilles. Has he already given her the air?—Lorraine Mitchell, New York, N.Y.
A. On the contrary, he has signed her to a long-term contract, will cast her in as many 20th Century-Fox films as he can.

Q. Is it true that Comdr. Bucher of the Pueblo was mercilessly beaten by the North Koreans because he told them, "I urinate on you?" — Louis Trask, San Francisco, Calif.
A. No. Bucher told his North Korean captors censoring his scheduled telecast that the word paean meant praise in English, which it does. Later in a North Korean telecast he declared, "My crew and I paean (he pronounced it pe-on) the people of North Korea for their treatment of us."

Q. What is the most frequent surgery performed in the U.S.—removal of the appendix?—Oliver Quirt, Washington, D.C.
A. No, removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Q. I read in a gossip column that a prominent movie star recently settled $100,000 on a 16-year-old girl who sued him on rape and paternity charges. Would you please print his name so that I can boycott his films?—Ann Stockwell, Newark, N.J.
A. The actor in question is married and a father. The disclosure of his name would do you no good, would cause great harm to him, his family, his career.

Q. Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli Prime Minister — doesn't she come from Milwaukee? — Henry Ehrlich, Madison, Wis.
A. Mrs. Meir was born in Russia, but her family emigrated to the U.S. when she was a child. She worked as a schoolteacher in Milwaukee before emigrating to Israel where she served as Foreign Minister, 1956-66.

THE ARTISTIC ANIMAL

There is no tribe so primitive that it has no art.

Art to primitive man is important. It is magic. It brings him food, fertility, success in war, closer communion with his gods.

Many civilized men, however, lose their sense of art. They buy well-made houses designed by somebody else — and cover their walls with junk which somebody else told them to buy.

"I don't know anything about art," they say, "but I know what I like."

Do they?

Such people have never really faced up to the question of what they like. They buy stuff someone else has told them they should like. And if they are affluent, they are influenced by price tags. "That painting cost $1,000 so it has got to be good."

Having hung their pictures, they are stuck with them. They can't bring themselves to admit that they made mistakes and are bored with being reminded of their errors.

It is not necessary to be an esthete to have good art in a home. Nor is it necessary to be rich.

The first step is to choose what you really like. If it is a gatefold from Playboy, frame it and put it on the wall. But the minute you get tired of it, get rid of it.

Visits to museums, reading, an art course or two can improve your taste. Don't expect to like in 20 years what you like now.

Do-it-yourself art can be gratifying. There is a glow of achievement, even though the result is not exactly Michelangelo. Also, the effort does improve one's understanding. You begin to learn what you really like.

Fine paintings and other art can be good companions. In a slow and subtle way they make a home richer and more comfortable. But when they don't have such an effect or when they cease to have, send them to the attic.

You may have to live with inadequate plumbing, but you don't have to live with inadequate art. If it doesn't increase your joy of living get rid of it and find something that does.

—Mark Clutter.

Introducing the

Bixby Green aparts

(They're far and apart from any apartments you've ever seen)

Bixby Green is something else. We call it an apartment village because that's what is resembles; a European-inspired colony of luxurious town house apartments interspersed with abundant landscaping, tree-lined walkways and private recreational areas.

But any other resemblance to apartments ends right there.

Bixby Green is an adult community. And for families with children over 16 years old.

A Bixby Green suite begins where a conventional apartment (or an average house, for that matter) leaves off.

Each suite is a two-story plan. Upstairs are as many as three bedrooms, including a large master bedroom with separate dressing area. Downstairs, a separate entry-hallway leads to a sunken living room and, just beyond, your own secluded garden patio. All-electric kitchens have everything. And "everything" includes your own washer-dryer, too. Each suite is centrally air-conditioned and totally soundproofed (you have to not hear it to believe it!). Deep carpeting and floor-to-ceiling drapes comprise a rich background for your finest pieces.

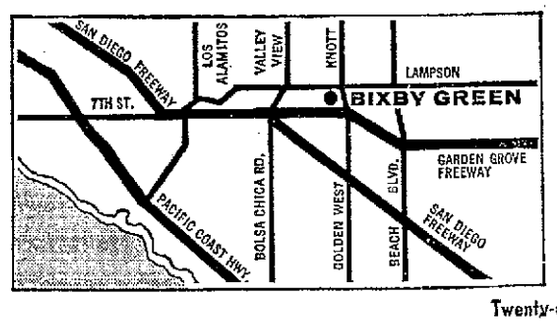

You're at home on a six-acre park, where village walkways lead to the pool area, putting green and other fun places. Your own Bixby Green shopping center is practically next door. You can be a stay-at-home, or you can venture beyond the seclusion of Bixby Green to Orange County's beaches, marinas and golf courses. You can go where the fun is anytime you feel like it. We'll mind the chores. And do the lawns. And keep things quiet.

No question of it; Bixby Green is something else. Something more than just a place to live. Something special.

Bixby Green Aparts are apart from the ordinary. Come and see why.

As Treasury Secretary Kennedy Sees It

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO YOUR POCKETBOOK

by Jack Anderson

Treasury Secretary Kennedy discusses economic strategy with President Nixon.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The dollar has been buffeted by such economic turbulence that George Washington, though still looking serene enough on the front, must be ready to cry out in anguish. He has been stretched by inflation, strained by the Vietnam War, squeezed by the gold drain, rocked by the monetary crisis and jarred by an erratic stock market. But how has all this wear and tear affected the dollars in your pocketbook? What will happen to your job and your paycheck, the stocks you have bought, the prices and taxes you will pay during the Nixon years? How should you prepare financially for the future?

To find out, PARADE talked to Treasury Secretary David Kennedy who, probably more than anyone, will influence the future dimensions of prosperity and the durability of the dollar. He spoke with quiet candor about the economic oulook. Except for the view of the White House through his office window, he seemed less like the nation's chief financial policymaker than a friendly neighborhood banker, say, at the Bank of Randolph which his grandfather founded in the picturesque Utah mountains.

The Secretary of the Treasury has snow-white hair, a cherubic face and a merry twinkle. Given a set of whiskers and a pillow under his belt, he would make a perfect Santa Claus. Yet there is little of the Santa Claus spirit in his fiscal philosophy. Here are his answers to the questions that affect the economic welfare of every American:

Will prices ever stop going up? "Inflation can be stopped," Kennedy declared. Already, he has started to brake the economy. By this fall, he predicted, prices not only will stop skyrocketing but should start dipping.

How can inflation be brought under control? "Every householder," he said, "knows that if expenditures exceed income for too long, you are going to have to cut your budget." The federal government, he said, has now reached this stage. The Vietnam War and the Great Society have been running up expenditures. "Federal expenditures in 1967 exceeded income by $25 billion," he said. A 10 percent surtax was rushed through Congress to increase income. But this came too late to halt inflation; spending must now be slashed, too, Kennedy contended. "It is possible," he said, "to reduce inflationary pressures with fiscal policies and monetary tightness."

How will these economic controls affect you? Not only prices but interest rates should taper off in the fall, he said. The cost of credit, now higher than at any time since the Civil War, should become cheaper. This should mean lower payments for new homes, bank loans and installment purchases. He also predicted the stock market should settle down, as people who have invested in stocks as a hedge against inflation return to fixed securities.

Won't this economic de-escalation also increase unemployment? The Secretary predicted that skilled workers will continue to be in demand but conceded that unskilled workers will probably have more trouble finding jobs. "The solution," he suggested, "is to train the untrained, to teach job skills to the unskilled, to make the poor producers as well as consumers."

How can an economic slowdown, which throws unskilled laborers out of work, be justified in human terms? The temporary pain of an economic slowdown, Kennedy suggested, might be preferable to the permanent damage done by inflation. Low-income and fixed-income citizens, he said, are hurt the most by rising prices. He acknowledged that it will take some delicate economic manipulation to lower prices without dislocating too many workers. He advocated government programs in the ghettos and distressed areas to alleviate hardship.

Putting it bluntly, isn't the Nixon Administration planning a controlled recession to stop inflation? "We hope to bring the economy into better balance," explained the Secretary. "We believe this is essential even if it means a controlled recession." He warned that Americans, haunted by the memory of the great Depression, tend to panic and to reverse an economic downturn "too soon."

What is the danger of a depression? Replied Kennedy: "In this day of expectancy, this day of demand, this day of technology, there is no reason why we shouldn't have continued economic growth for many, many years. We don't want to change this, only moderate it."

How would peace in Vietnam affect the economy? "The best thing that could happen to our economy," he declared, "would be a Vietnam peace." He predicted that pent-up demands and increased trade would continue to keep the economy whirring. In any case, he suggested that military demobilization would be too gradual to dislocate the economy.

Is there any end in sight to heavy military spending, or are we saddled indefinitely with a wartime economy? Kennedy dismissed the notion that military spending has become essential to our economy as a "silly argument." He pointed out that the Russians are spending "far more in proportion to their income than are we." Meanwhile, President Nixon is devoting most of his time to the quest for peace. "Let's not give up hope," said Kennedy, "that it will be possible someday to cut back armaments."

Is there any hope ahead for a tax cut? The Secretary held out no immediate hope for tax relief. But "as one of the dividends of a Vietnam peace," he said, "we could let the surtax expire."

With the income tax deadline on Tuesday, most taxpayers will be stuck with higher payments than ever. Is it fair that some millionaires are able to escape taxes altogether? "We will look into that," Kennedy promised. "We will find out where the income of these millionaires is coming from." However, he warned that the tax system cannot be changed too abruptly without risking economic upheaval. Precipitous tax reforms "might distort our economy and change our priorities on resource development." He pointed out, for example, that the 7 percent investment credit, though a tax break for the rich, had given businessmen the incentive to modernize their plants. This has kept the United States competitive in the world market and has contributed materially to our economic boom. "I don't mean to suggest that there aren't some rinkydinks in our tax laws," he added. "But it would be dangerous to assume that the whole system is bad."

Is there a revolt against tax laws that allow the rich to pay less than their fair share? "I have seen no evidence," said the Secretary, "that people aren't paying their taxes." He promised, however, to seek fairer taxes that would remove some of the inequities in the present laws. Taxes are lower in relation to our gross national product, he added, than in many other countries.

Is there any difference between a dollar lost in tax breaks and a dollar spent by the government? Kennedy acknowledged that the cost to the taxpayers is the same, whether the money is appropriated or merely remains uncollected in the form of tax incentives. He pointed out, however, that tax incentives shift the focus from the government to the private sector. The Nixon Administration, for example, is considering tax incentives to encourage economic expansion in the ghettos. While the incentives would cost the taxpayers just as much as government spending, he said, it might be more efficient to encourage private businessmen to go into the ghettos than to send in government social workers.

Does the government tolerate a little minor cheating on income tax returns? Kennedy's answer is an emphatic no. Those who cheat might get away with it only because it is impossible to check every single return, but this would be a dangerous risk to take.

David Kennedy, though moderate and mellow in manner, is an aggressive administrator. He turned down an invitation to become President Johnson's Secretary of the Treasury. Now that he has joined the Nixon Cabinet, he can be expected to pursue vigorously the policies he believes in.

THE PARADOX OF HUGH FLOURNOY

ues the fight. Since taking office, he has followed the merit system on his own initiative for making appointments. Vindication seemingly came right after he took office when, on Flournoy's orders, the State Personnel Board gave a four-hour examination to tax appraisers and only 74 incumbents passed it.

Twice while Flournoy was in the State Assembly, the John Birch Society tried to knock him off. In 1962, they ran Jack Fox, former president of the Covina Young Republicans, as a write-in candidate in the primary against him. In 1964, they ran Jack Parker, an admitted Bircher and another former president of the Covina Young Republicans.

What incited the Birchers in 1962 was that Flournoy was a member of Nixon's campaign staff. At that time, Nixon was on the top of their hate list. In 1964, they were violently angry because Flournoy was a Rockefeller supporter and had voted in favor of the Rumford Act and opposed Proposition 14.

Some of Parker's supporters went about sticking fliers under the windshield wipers of cars showing a Negro family moving into a house while a bloated realtor with dollar signs on his coat, the typical caricature of an archtype late 19th century plutocrat, said, "Here you are, folks, courtesy of Mr. Flournoy." Underneath this picture was one of a man in jail while his wife and children were crying. The caption said, "But dear, we didn't want to sell our house despite Mr. Flournoy."

Like so much of Flournoy's career, there is irony here, too. Flournoy was originally encouraged in politics by John Rousselot, the former second in command of the John Birch Society. Flournoy's Assembly district was part of the district that Rousselot represented in Congress. Both men, in 1960 and 1962, had the same campaign manager — Nixon's discoverer, Roy Day.

Flournoy observed recently, "I think the John Birch Society is dying. These movements come and go — like Aimee Semple McPherson or Gerald L. K. Smith. Maybe we need these movements to give our Don Quixotes somewhere to go. I don't know what they'll take up with next. Now that Rousselot has left the Birch Society, I think their strength may be on the decline. Much of its strength was due to Rousselot personally."

Flournoy is a rather abrasive man in his personal manner, a rather brittle man. He puts his feet up on his desk as he talks with visitors, and tends to be something of a wisecracker.

Some of his mannerisms can be quite irritating. At times, he appears very inconsiderate of others.

When one guest came to visit, Flournoy poured himself a cup of coffee and didn't offer his guest one. During the Republican National Convention, a newspaper reporter came to interview him in his hotel room. Flournoy had a shelf of liquor. He picked up a bottle, poured himself a drink, and sat down to start talking — not once offering his guest a drink. The reporter finally stalked out, seething with fury.

A man in public relations for the Republican Party says that Flournoy has a strong temper when aroused and can carry a deep grudge. He said that Flournoy often acts like a master sergeant.

Yet, he continued, Flournoy is the sort of man who, when he takes you into his office, will lay things right on the line and tell you what he thinks. He finds Flournoy straightforward and seemingly quite honest.

With Max Rafferty's defeat for the U.S. Senate, Flournoy thinks the ultraconservatives will fade out and the traditional Republican Party will revive.

Perhaps there is a place in it for Hugh Flournoy.

Doty, English, is a simplified form of Doughty, which in the 12th century was defined as "brave and strong one." John Doughty was a Yorkshireman in 1379. The Doty armorial shield is silver, emblazoned with two gold bars placed between three gold stars. Edward Doty, a passenger on the Mayflower, settled in Massachusetts in 1620.

THE DINNER menu at Rochelle's Restaurant, 3333 Lakewood Blvd., is one of the most varied and tempting in town. It is also one of the most literate.

In addition to describing the mouth-watering characteristics of such delights as shish kebab on a flaming sword and chicken simmered in red wine, the menu offers this description of Long Beach:

"A peal of laughter fills the air, the universal language of a dozen international beauties. A ship lies in our harbor, its bow heavy with barnacles, ready to unload a cargo of fashions from Italy. A doctor sets down his Bonanza, returning from a weekend of service across the Mexican border. Long Beach, truly an international city — our city — and the inspiration for our international menu. Come with us on a culinary tour to the world's most exciting places . . ."

That colorful paragraph was penned by Mel Keleman, general manager and part owner of Rochelle's, who is a graduate of Cornell University, where he studied restaurant and hotel management. In addition to being an occasional author, he is a talent expert, auditioning the groups which play for dancing in the restaurant's smart Red Velvet lounge. Thanks to Mel's musical tastes, Rochelle's is noted for offering sophisticated, modern groups with top reputations in their field.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

EDITED by LLOYD SHEARER

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

DOOMSDAY This is the week, according to the prophets of doom, that California is scheduled to split in half via a series of earthquakes, with the western portion sliding into the Pacific Ocean.

The prediction, of course, is ridiculous. But it has caught on with hundreds of kooks and cultists, many of them prophesying imminent disaster in words and music.

Disk jockeys are playing "Day After Day," a pop tune which plaintively asks, "Where can we go when there's no San Francisco?" or "California Earthquake," a Mama Cass recording which predicts, "Where the beach used to be won't be nothing at all."

A San Francisco writer, Curt Gentry, has penned a book, The Last Days of the Late, Great State of California, which forecasts the disappearance of the California coastal strip.

Ron Cobb, a Los Angeles artist, has drawn a frightening poster which shows Los Angeles submerged by a tidal wave.

Children and adults, fearful of the rumored nonsense, have phoned the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, asking the seismologists if all or any of this will happen. Caltech received so many inquiries, it issued a three-page fear-allaying statement, the heart of which says: "Wild predictions of disastrous earthquakes are not supported by scientific evidence and are frightening many Californians needlessly."

Dr. Leo Rangell, one of California's most eminent psychiatrists, says, "These predictions are the reactions of eccentrics who carry within them a sense of their own impending doom which they externalize. They delude themselves into believing that they have an omnipotent control over the forces of nature. When they are proved wrong by the inaccuracy of their prophecy, they blame it on the supernatural.

"Many people are uptight these days, but they ought not pay too much attention to these eccentrics who just add to the insecurity of our times."

FLIRTATION Soviet Russia is subtly determining the possibility of establishing some sort of relationship with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China.

Several months ago the Soviets sent to Japan Vitaly Yebgenyev Louis, better known as Victor Louis. In Tokyo journalist Louis made friends with several members of the Taiwan embassy. These diplomats arranged for Louis to become the first Russian to visit their island since Chiang escaped to Taiwan from the Chinese mainland in 1949.

Once Victor Louis got to Taiwan he quickly interviewed Defense Minister Chiang Ching-kuo, Chiang's son and heir apparent.

Soviet Russia is convinced that Red China plans to attack her, wants therefore to build up as many allies as possible. This is why the Kremlin sent Victor Louis to Taiwan to file a report on the Taiwanese lay of the land.

MICKEY MANTLE AND WIFE

MONEY AND ATHLETES There was a time not too long ago when baseball players were regarded as perennial adolescents with little or no business sense. Those days are gone.

Mickey Mantle, who recently announced his retirement from the New York Yankees, has registered with the Securities Exchange Commission 200,000 shares of Mickey Mantle's Country Cookin', Inc., a Dallas-based restaurant chain, for sale at $15 a share.

Mickey owns 110,000 shares of Country Cookin', and if he can market his stock at $15 a share, he will gross $1,650,000.

Joe Namath, New York Jets quarterback, also has a food franchise operation. His is called Broadway Joes's, Inc., with a public stock offering of $10 per share.

BEATLEMANIA A few Saturdays ago Beatle George Harrison had his tonsils removed at London University's College Hospital. Since then the hospital has received hundreds of letters from Beatle fans throughout the world offering to buy George's tonsils. The hospital refuses to sell the originals or permit plastic manufacturers to make copies of same.

WHY THEY FAIL In the 1930's the three leading weekly magazines in this country were The Saturday Evening Post, Liberty, and Collier's. Now all three have disappeared along with the Literary Digest, Pictorial Review, The American, Woman's Home Companion, and others.

Why do some magazines prosper and others perish? Those which have passed away were invariably edited and published by men who were afraid of change, who preferred to live in the past, who could not adapt, who took small cognizance of the shift in American taste, education, youth, culture, technology and sophistication.

"A good editor," the late Henry R. Luce, founder of Time-Life-Fortune, used to say, "is at least three years ahead of his audience."

MRS. KING

SAMMY DAVIS

Q. Hasn't Sammy Davis Jr. secretly proposed to and been accepted by Mrs. Martin Luther King?—Ron Clark, Memphis, Tenn.
A. Not a chance.

Q. Now that Lyndon Johnson is no longer President, may we know the truth? Who were the "hawks" who advised him to escalate the war in Vietnam? And who were the "doves" who advised him to de-escalate?—Mrs. Anna Arnold, Winnetka, Ill.
A. Some leading hawks: Walt Rostow, Dean Rusk, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Some of the leading doves: Clark Clifford, Arthur Goldberg, Paul Nitze, Paul Warnke, Alfred Fitt, George Ball. Hawks-turned doves:Robert McNamara, McGeorge Bundy, Nicholas Katzenbach, William Bundy.

Q. My Mexican friends say it is a well-known fact that this country started the Mexican War of 1848 in order to steal Texas and force the sale of California from Mexico. Is this true? Is there any book about the U.S.-Mexican War which tells the truth?—A.B., San Antonio, Tex.
A. One of the most authoritative books on the subject is the Personal Memoirs of U.S. Grant. President Grant, who fought through the Mexican War, wrote of it: "We were sent to provoke a fight, but it was essential that Mexico should commence it . . ." Of Texas he wrote: "The occupation, separation and annexation were, from the inception of the movement to its final consummation, a conspiracy to acquire territory out of which slave states might be formed for the American Union."

The history of most nations reveals some shoddy and regrettable chapters. The behavior of the U.S. as regards Mexico during the administration of President Polk, was, in the opinion of several historians, flagrantly expansionist and morally reprehensible.

A. Approximately $30 million.

Q. *Comedian Don Rickles was razzing Dean Martin in Las Vegas. Rickles said: "Dean, I'm sick and tired of hearing about your drinking, your gambling, your debauchery, your fooling around with broads." Martin is supposed to have answered with a funny crack. A. Martin's retort: "I know, Don. I know. But it keeps me out of trouble."

Q. Would you let me know if the Marine Corps is accepting applications for enlistment from 17-year-old boys?—Mason Ford, Detroit, Mich.

Q. Is it true that Comdr. Bucher of the Pueblo was mercilessly beaten by the North Koreans because he told them, "I urinate on you?" — Louis Trask, San Francisco, Calif.
A. No. Bucher told his North Korean captors censoring his scheduled telecast that the word paean meant praise in English, which it does. Later in a North Korean telecast he declared, "My crew and I paean (he pronounced it pe-on) the people of North Korea for their treatment of us."

Q. What is the most frequent surgery performed in the U.S.—removal of the appendix?—Oliver Quirt, Washington, D.C.
A. No, removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Q. I read in a gossip column that a prominent movie star recently settled $100,000 on a 16-year-old girl who sued him on rape and paternity charges. Would you please print his name so that I can boycott his films?—Ann Stockwell, Newark, N.J.
A. The actor in question is married and a father. The disclosure of his name would do you no good, would cause great harm to him, his family, his career.

Q. Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli Prime Minister — doesn't she come from Milwaukee? — Henry Ehrlich, Madison, Wis.
A. Mrs. Meir was born in Russia, but her family emigrated to the U.S. when she was a child. She worked as a schoolteacher in Milwaukee before emigrating to Israel where she served as Foreign Minister, 1956-66.

GOING UP: THE $12 MILLION LYNDON JOHNSON LIBRARY IN AUSTIN, TEX.

'THE BEST' The Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs and the Johnson Library, known to the University of Texas students as King Tut's Tomb or Montezuma's Mausoleum, was originally scheduled to be located in Johnson City or on the campus of the President's alma mater, Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos. But Lady Bird Johnson preferred that it be erected on the campus of her alma mater, the University of Texas.

The complex will cost approximately $12 million and is being paid for by the University of Texas. President Johnson selected the campus site himself and ordered "the best presidential library in the world."

WORKING WIVES One of every three wives in the U.S. holds a job outside the home. By 1970 the labor force will include 30 million women, 18 million of them married.

Although many men and women, too, feel that a woman's place is in the home, a study by Susan Orden and Norman Bradburn in The American Journal of Sociology shows that such a setup is not necessarily best for either husband or wife.

The freedom of a wife to choose her own life role has a direct bearing on the happiness or failure of her marriage.

The majority of women who choose to work in the labor market rather than the home market do so because they want to. When asked if they would work if they didn't need the money, 55% of the working wives questioned said "yes." This was even more true for those with more education: 77% of the college graduates in the group answered yes, compared with only 34% of those who completed eighth grade or less.

One characteristic of women who want to work is that their responsibilities as mothers and wives change through the life cycle. The peak time for wives to work is when their youngest child has passed third-grade age. Taking up work outside the house is generally considered a good way for a woman to adjust to the various shifts in her role.

What happens to the husband of the working wife? Although he may be exposed to more TV dinners than if she spent her days at home, the Orden-Bradburn study indicates that both husband and wife experience less tension and more sociability if the wife is doing what she wants to do. Couples, in fact, often feel happier if the wife chooses to work, since her job provides more money for the so-called good things in life.

The best situation appears to be one in which women work part-time, thus having some time to do things at home as well.

Since the freedom of choice for wives seems to increase the predictable chance for a satisfactory marriage, each husband and wife should see to it that the wife can make such a choice. Of course, there are many factors which inhibit a woman's job range: her education, the availability of domestic help for her home, employment opportunities suitable to her talent and time. The more these obstacles are overcome, the better off husbands and wives and marriages will be.

ONIONS According to British physicians, the onion may soon become a primary weapon in preventing heart attacks. A team of physicians at Newcastle University discovered recently that boiled or fried onions increased the blood's capacity to dissolve clots.

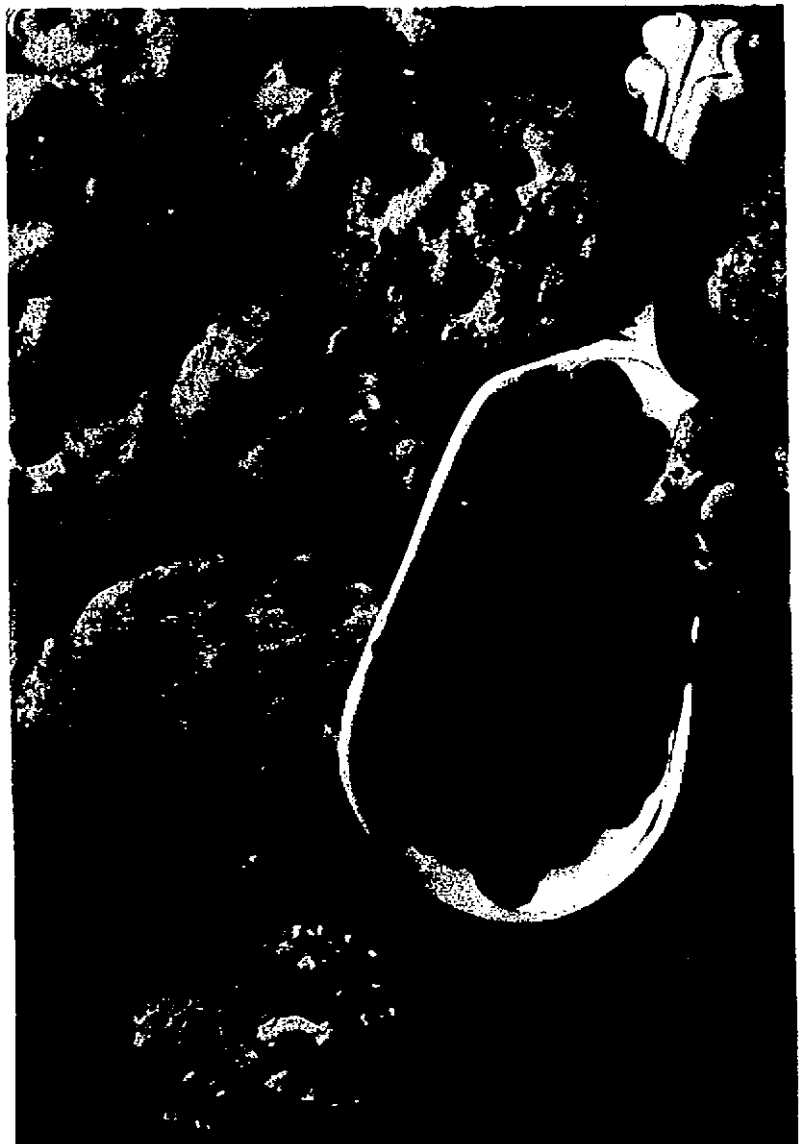

Their research was prompted by a patient's chance remark that in France, horses suffering from blood clots were always placed on a diet of garlic and onions. The physicians thereupon began prescribing onions for human patients. Attempts are now being made to isolate the chemical in onions that supposedly provides the dissolving effect.

ONASSIS WITH ELSA MARTINELLI IN PARIS.

DADDY-O Ever since Aristotle Onassis married Jackie Kennedy, the French press has been enjoying a field day tracking both of them. French editors insist that it is a marriage of convenience, that Jackie and Onassis are more frequently apart than together.

Daddy-O, as Onassis is now being called in Paris, is of course an inveterate nightclub-hopper. He is no longer seen in public with his amour of yesterday, Maria Callas, but recently he was spotted making the rounds of the Left Bank with Italian actress Elsa Martinelli. And even though Elsa's new husband was along, the French tongues wagged.

Upside-Down Cake Is Tops

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Have you tried upside-down cake lately? We have one that's a cinch to make, thanks to packaged biscuit mix and little golden nuggets of butterscotch.

The cake itself has a fine, even texture and cuts into neat, attractive slices, even when warm. Circles of pineapple gleam through the melted butterscotch topping and the flavors blend into a new and delicious taste.

Make this lovely dessert for your family or serve it to guests with pride. Good with whipped cream, low-calorie frozen whipped topping, or "just plain."

BUTTERSCOTCH UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

1 package (6 oz.) butterscotch flavored pieces
⅓ cup evaporated milk
1⅓ cups packaged biscuit mix
3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
¾ cup milk, divided
1 can (8½ oz.) pineapple slices, drained

Line a 9 x 5 x 2¾-inch pan with aluminum foil. Place butterscotch flavored pieces and evaporated milk in foil lined pan. Heat oven to 350°. Place pan with butterscotch mixture in oven to melt butterscotch. Combine biscuit mix, butter, sugar, vanilla, egg and ¼ cup milk. Beat about 1 minute until smooth. Add remaining ½ cup milk; beat ½ minute longer. Remove pan with melted butterscotch from oven; stir until mixture is blended. Arrange pineapple slices* in pan, spoon in batter. Return to oven; bake 40 to 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove to rack; cool 5 minutes. Invert cake on serving platter; gently remove foil. Serve warm with whipped cream or topping, if desired.

*Cut 1 slice in fourths, if necessary, to fit pan.

As Treasury Secretary Kennedy Sees It

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO YOUR POCKETBOOK

by Jack Anderson

Treasury Secretary Kennedy discusses economic strategy with President Nixon.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The dollar has been buffeted by such economic turbulence that George Washington, though still looking serene enough on the front, must be ready to cry out in anguish. He has been stretched by inflation, strained by the Vietnam War, squeezed by the gold drain, rocked by the monetary crisis and jarred by an erratic stock market. But how has all this wear and tear affected the dollars in your pocketbook? What will happen to your job and your paycheck, the stocks you have bought, the prices and taxes you will pay during the Nixon years? How should you prepare financially for the future?

To find out, PARADE talked to Treasury Secretary David Kennedy who, probably more than anyone, will influence the future dimensions of prosperity and the durability of the dollar. He spoke with quiet candor about the economic outlook. Except for the view of the White House through his office window, he seemed less like the nation's chief financial policymaker than a friendly neighborhood banker, say, at the Bank of Randolph which his grandfather founded in the picturesque Utah mountains.

The Secretary of the Treasury has snow-white hair, a cherubic face and a merry twinkle. Given a set of whiskers and a pillow under his belt, he would make a perfect Santa Claus. Yet there is little of the Santa Claus spirit in his fiscal philosophy. Here are his answers to the questions that affect the economic welfare of every American:

Will prices ever stop going up? "Inflation can be stopped," Kennedy declared. Already, he has started to brake the economy. By this fall, he predicted, prices not only will stop skyrocketing but should start dipping.

How can inflation be brought under control? "Every householder," he said, "knows that if expenditures exceed income for too long, you are going to have to cut your budget." The federal government, he said, has now reached this stage. The Vietnam War and the Great Society have been running up expenditures. "Federal expenditures in 1967 exceeded income by $25 billion," he said. A 10 percent surtax was rushed through Congress to increase income. But this came too late to halt inflation; spending must now be slashed, too, Kennedy contended. "It is possible," he said, "to reduce inflationary pressures with fiscal policies and monetary tightness."

How will these economic controls affect you? Not only prices but interest rates should taper off in the fall, he said. The cost of credit, now higher than at any time since the Civil War, should become cheaper. This should mean lower payments for new homes, bank loans and installment purchases. He also predicted the stock market should settle down, as people who have invested in stocks as a hedge against inflation return to fixed securities.

Won't this economic de-escalation also increase unemployment? The Secretary predicted that skilled workers will continue to be in demand but conceded that unskilled workers will probably have more trouble finding jobs. "The solution," he suggested, "is to train the untrained, to teach job skills to the unskilled, to make the poor producers as well as consumers."

How can an economic slowdown, which throws unskilled laborers out of work, be justified in human terms? The temporary pain of an economic slowdown, Kennedy suggested, might be preferable to the permanent damage done by inflation. Low-income and fixed-income citizens, he said, are hurt the most by rising prices. He acknowledged that it will take some delicate economic manipulation to lower prices without dislocating too many workers. He advocated government programs in the ghettos and distressed areas to alleviate hardship.

Putting it bluntly, isn't the Nixon Administration planning a controlled recession to stop inflation? "We hope to bring the economy into better balance," explained the Secretary. "We believe this is essential even if it means a controlled recession." He warned that Americans, haunted by the memory of the great Depression, tend to panic and to reverse an economic downturn "too soon."

What is the danger of a depression? Replied Kennedy: "In this day of expectancy, this day of demand, this day of technology, there is no reason why we shouldn't have continued economic growth for many, many years. We don't want to change this, only moderate it."

How would peace in Vietnam affect the economy? "The best thing that could happen to our economy," he declared, "would be a Vietnam peace." He predicted that pent-up demands and increased trade would continue to keep the economy whirring. In any case, he suggested that military demobilization would be too gradual to dislocate the economy.

Is there any end in sight to heavy military spending, or are we saddled indefinitely with a wartime economy? Kennedy dismissed the notion that military spending has become essential to our economy as a "silly argument." He pointed out that the Russians are spending "far more in proportion to their income than are we." Meanwhile, President Nixon is devoting most of his time to the quest for peace. "Let's not give up hope," said Kennedy, "that it will be possible someday to cut back armaments."

Is there any hope ahead for a tax cut? The Secretary held out no immediate hope for tax relief. But "as one of the dividends of a Vietnam peace," he said, "we could let the surtax expire."

With the income tax deadline on Tuesday, most taxpayers will be stuck with higher payments than ever. Is it fair that some millionaires are able to escape taxes altogether? "We will look into that," Kennedy promised. "We will find out where the income of these millionaires is coming from." However, he warned that the tax system cannot be changed too abruptly without risking economic upheaval. Precipitous tax reforms "might distort our economy and change our priorities on resource development." He pointed out, for example, that the 7 percent investment credit, though a tax break for the rich, had given businessmen the incentive to modernize their plants. This has kept the United States competitive in the world market and has contributed materially to our economic boom. "I don't mean to suggest that there aren't some rinkydinks in our tax laws," he added. "But it would be dangerous to assume that the whole system is bad."

Is there a revolt against tax laws that allow the rich to pay less than their fair share? "I have seen no evidence," said the Secretary, "that people aren't paying their taxes." He promised, however, to seek fairer taxes that would remove some of the inequities in the present laws. Taxes are lower in relation to our gross national product, he added, than in many other countries.

Is there any difference between a dollar lost in tax breaks and a dollar spent by the government? Kennedy acknowledged that the cost to the taxpayers is the same, whether the money is appropriated or merely remains uncollected in the form of tax incentives. He pointed out, however, that tax incentives shift the focus from the government to the private sector. The Nixon Administration, for example, is considering tax incentives to encourage economic expansion in the ghettos. While the incentives would cost the taxpayers just as much as government spending, he said, it might be more efficient to encourage private businessmen to go into the ghettos than to send in government social workers.

Does the government tolerate a little minor cheating on income tax returns? Kennedy's answer is an emphatic no. Those who cheat might get away with it only because it is impossible to check every single return, but this would be a dangerous risk to take.

David Kennedy, though moderate and mellow in manner, is an aggressive administrator. He turned down an invitation to become President Johnson's Secretary of the Treasury. Now that he has joined the Nixon Cabinet, he can be expected to pursue vigorously the policies he believes in.

However, Rosa Svensson, the midwife, calmed her fears and told her that while premature birth sometimes poses problems, modern medicine is pretty well prepared to handle them. What

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

DOOMSDAY This is the week, according to the prophets of doom, that California is scheduled to split in half via a series of earthquakes, with the western portion sliding into the Pacific Ocean.

The prediction, of course, is ridiculous. But it has caught on with hundreds of kooks and cultists, many of them prophesying imminent disaster in words and music.

Disk jockeys are playing "Day After Day," a pop tune which plaintively asks, "Where can we go when there's no San Francisco?" or "California Earthquake," a Mama Cass recording which predicts, "Where the beach used to be won't be nothing at all."

A San Francisco writer, Curt Gentry, has penned a book, The Last Days of the Late, Great State of California, which forecasts the disappearance of the California coastal strip.

Ron Cobb, a Los Angeles artist, has drawn a frightening poster which shows Los Angeles submerged by a tidal wave.

Children and adults, fearful of the rumored nonsense, have phoned the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, asking the seismologists if all or any of this will happen. Caltech received so many inquiries, it issued a three-page fear-allaying statement, the heart of which says: "Wild predictions of disastrous earthquakes are not supported by scientific evidence and are frightening many Californians needlessly."

Dr. Leo Rangell, one of California's most eminent psychiatrists, says, "These predictions are the reactions of eccentrics who carry within them a sense of their own impending doom which they externalize. They delude themselves into believing that they have an omnipotent control over the forces of nature. When they are proved wrong by the inaccuracy of their prophecy, they blame it on the supernatural.

"Many people are uptight these days, but they ought not pay too much attention to these eccentrics who just add to the insecurity of our times."

FLIRTATION Soviet Russia is subtly determining the possibility of establishing some sort of relationship with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China.

Several months ago the Soviets sent to Japan Vitaly Yebgenyev Louis, better known as Victor Louis. In Tokyo journalist Louis made friends with several members of the Taiwan embassy. These diplomats arranged for Louis to become the first Russian to visit their island since Chiang escaped to Taiwan from the Chinese mainland in 1949.

Once Victor Louis got to Taiwan he quickly interviewed Defense Minister Chiang Ching-kuo, Chiang's son and heir apparent.

Soviet Russia is convinced that Red China plans to attack her, wants therefore to build up as many allies as possible. This is why the Kremlin sent Victor Louis to Taiwan to file a report on the Taiwanese lay of the land.

MICKEY MANTLE AND WIFE

MONEY AND ATHLETES There was a time not too long ago when baseball players were regarded as perennial adolescents with little or no business sense. Those days are gone.

Mickey Mantle, who recently announced his retirement from the New York Yankees, has registered with the Securities Exchange Commission 200,000 shares of Mickey Mantle's Country Cookin', Inc., a Dallas-based restaurant chain, for sale at $15 a share.

Mickey owns 110,000 shares of Country Cookin', and if he can market his stock at $15 a share, he will gross $1,650,000.

Joe Namath, New York Jets quarterback, also has a food franchise operation. His is called Broadway Joes's, Inc., with a public stock offering of $10 per share.

BEATLEMANIA A few Saturdays ago Beatle George Harrison had his tonsils removed at London University's College Hospital. Since then the hospital has received hundreds of letters from Beatle fans throughout the world offering to buy George's tonsils. The hospital refuses to sell the originals or permit plastic manufacturers to make copies of same.

WHY THEY FAIL In the 1930's the three leading weekly magazines in this country were The Saturday Evening Post, Liberty, and Collier's. Now all three have disappeared along with the Literary Digest, Pictorial Review, The American, Woman's Home Companion, and others.

Why do some magazines prosper and others perish? Those which have passed away were invariably edited and published by men who were afraid of change, who preferred to live in the past, who could not adapt, who took small cognizance of the shift in American taste, education, youth, culture, technology and sophistication.

"A good editor," the late Henry R. Luce, founder of Time-Life-Fortune, used to say, "is at least three years ahead of his audience."

she couldn't tell Maj-Britt was that she was about to contribute to medical history by having twins—50 days apart!

There was no expectation of twins, even routine ones, when Maj-Britt arrived at the hospital with her husband, Hans, a woodcutter. As the young mother entered the delivery room, an incubator was made ready for the single-birth baby which apparently was about to enter the world, three months prematurely. Recalls midwife Svensson:

"It was one of my easiest deliveries. Maj-Britt was in labor for only about ten minutes. It was the girl the Pettersons wanted, all right, but it was my smallest baby ever. She weighed only a little over two pounds. We put her right into the incubator and I turned to see how the mother was doing. My eyes popped out. She seemed to be still pregnant."

Hurry-up call

The midwife put in a rush call for Dr. Alvar Brunge, Maj-Britt's obstetrician, just back from vacation, and he discovered that Maj-Britt had, indeed, been carrying twins. Ordinarily, the interval between twin births is no more than a half hour. But, when Maj-Britt showed no indication of birth for the second baby, Dr. Brunge made a quick decision.

"The first one looked as though it might not survive," he remembers, "and I thought that if the second one arrived right away, it might have the same problem, so I decided to do everything possible to delay the birth. The best I hoped for was several days."

Accordingly, while the little girl, Elizabeth, struggled for life in the incubator—she wasn't out of danger for five days — Dr. Brunge gave Maj-Britt injections of a preparation that blocks release of oxytocin; the hormone that activates labor contractions. She stayed in the hospital, sharing a room with three other expectant mothers. The days turned into weeks, and then a month, and then the second month began. Eight times Maj-Britt's roommates changed. Each time the happy new mother wished her luck and departed with her baby while Maj-Britt waited . . . and waited.

By now she was the talk of the entire hospital. Then she became the talk of the Swedish medical profession when Dr. Brunge mentioned her case at a convention. Then she became the talk of all Sweden when newspapers, radio and TV got wind of the story.

At long last, when tiny Elizabeth was 50 days old, the mother began to feel labor contractions. In early afternoon she was rushed to the delivery room and 23 minutes later Dr. Brunge delivered a boy. A moment of tense silence in the delivery room was broken by the child's first wail. The tardy twin had made his first comment.

The boy, later named Klas, was about a month premature but weighed 4.7 pounds, more than twice what his sister had. He, too, was put in an incubator and today the Pettersson twins are doing fine, home with their two brothers and parents.

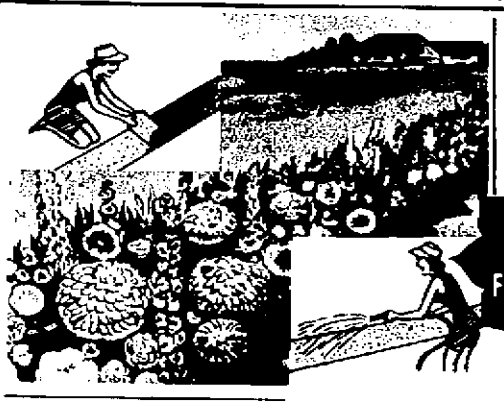

Dr. Brunge reports that his only other delayed twin birth occurred some years ago and the interval was two days. Professor Carl Gemzell of Uppsala, Sweden, a multiple birth expert, calls the Pettersson case "unique" and adds, "I've never seen anything like it in my practice."

Maj-Britt and Hans are delighted with the twins and have decided that their family is now just the right size. "Unless," says Hans, needling his wife, "you're going to have another baby tomorrow."

Somebody's coming to our house: Pettersson family ready to bring home the twins.

GOING UP: THE $12 MILLION LYNDON JOHNSON LIBRARY IN AUSTIN, TEX.

'THE BEST' The Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs and the Johnson Library, known to the University of Texas students as King Tut's Tomb or Montezuma's Mausoleum, was originally scheduled to be located in Johnson City or on the campus of the President's alma mater, Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos. But Lady Bird Johnson preferred that it be erected on the campus of her alma mater, the University of Texas.

The complex will cost approximately $12 million and is being paid for by the University of Texas. President Johnson selected the campus site himself and ordered "the best presidential library in the world."

WORKING WIVES One of every three wives in the U.S. holds a job outside the home. By 1970 the labor force will include 30 million women, 18 million of them married.

Although many men and women, too, feel that a woman's place is in the home, a study by Susan Orden and Norman Bradburn in The American Journal of Sociology shows that such a setup is not necessarily best for either husband or wife.

The freedom of a wife to choose her own life role has a direct bearing on the happiness or failure of her marriage.

The majority of women who choose to work in the labor market rather than the home market do so because they want to. When asked if they would work if they didn't need the money, 55% of the working wives questioned said "yes." This was even more true for those with more education: 77% of the college graduates in the group answered yes, compared with only 34% of those who completed eighth grade or less.

One characteristic of women who want to work is that their responsibilities as mothers and wives change through the life cycle. The peak time for wives to work is when their youngest child has passed third-grade age. Taking up work outside the house is generally considered a good way for a woman to adjust to the various shifts in her role.

What happens to the husband of the working wife? Although he may be exposed to more TV dinners than if she spent her days at home, the Orden-Bradburn study indicates that both husband and wife experience less tension and more sociability if the wife is doing what she wants to do. Couples, in fact, often feel happier if the wife chooses to work, since her job provides more money for the so-called good things in life.

The best situation appears to be one in which women work part-time, thus having some time to do things at home as well.

Since the freedom of choice for wives seems to increase the predictable chance for a satisfactory marriage, each husband and wife should see to it that the wife can make such a choice. Of course, there are many factors which inhibit a woman's job range: her education, the availability of domestic help for her home, employment opportunities suitable to her talent and time. The more these obstacles are overcome, the better off husbands and wives and marriages will be.

ONIONS According to British physicians, the onion may soon become a primary weapon in preventing heart attacks. A team of physicians at Newcastle University discovered recently that boiled or fried onions increased the blood's capacity to dissolve clots.

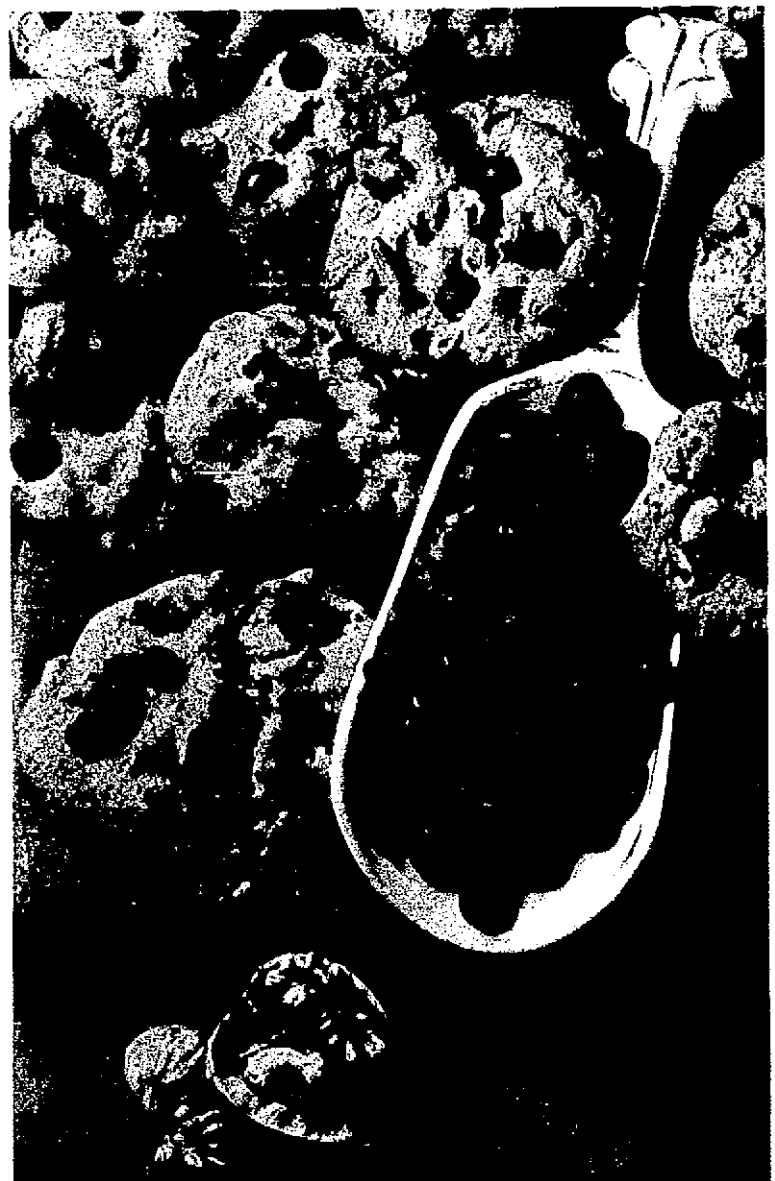

Their research was prompted by a patient's chance remark that in France, horses suffering from blood clots were always placed on a diet of garlic and onions. The physicians thereupon began prescribing onions for human patients. Attempts are now being made to isolate the chemical in onions that supposedly provides the dissolving effect.

ONASSIS WITH ELSA MARTINELLI IN PARIS.

DADDY-O Ever since Aristotle Onassis married Jackie Kennedy, the French press has been enjoying a field day tracking both of them. French editors insist that it is a marriage of convenience, that Jackie and Onassis are more frequently apart than together.

Daddy-O, as Onassis is now being called in Paris, is of course an inveterate nightclub-hopper. He is no longer seen in public with his amour of yesterday, Maria Callas, but recently he was spotted making the rounds of the Left Bank with Italian actress Elsa Martinelli. And even though Elsa's new husband was along, the French tongues wagged.

Upside-Down Cake Is Tops

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Have you tried upside-down cake lately? We have one that's a cinch to make, thanks to packaged biscuit mix and little golden nuggets of butterscotch.

The cake itself has a fine, even texture and cuts into neat, attractive slices, even when warm. Circles of pineapple gleam through the melted butterscotch topping and the flavors blend into a new and delicious taste.

Make this lovely dessert for your family or serve it to guests with pride. Good with whipped cream, low-calorie frozen whipped topping, or "just plain."

BUTTERSCOTCH UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

1 package (6 oz.) butterscotch flavored pieces
⅓ cup evaporated milk
1⅓ cups packaged biscuit mix
3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
¾ cup milk, divided
1 can (8½ oz.) pineapple slices, drained

Line a 9 x 5 x 2¾-inch pan with aluminum foil. Place butterscotch flavored pieces and evaporated milk in foil lined pan. Heat oven to 350°. Place pan with butterscotch mixture in oven to melt butterscotch. Combine biscuit mix, butter, sugar, vanilla, egg and ¼ cup milk. Beat about 1 minute until smooth. Add remaining ½ cup milk; beat ½ minute longer. Remove pan with melted butterscotch from oven; stir until mixture is blended. Arrange pineapple slices* in pan, spoon in batter. Return to oven; bake 40 to 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove to rack; cool 5 minutes. Invert cake on serving platter; gently remove foil. Serve warm with whipped cream or topping, if desired.

*Cut 1 slice in fourths, if necessary, to fit pan.

I see non-violent change in the South

BY IVAN ALLEN JR.,
Mayor of Atlanta

■ Ivan Allen Jr. probably is the South's most unusual mayor. In his two terms as chief executive of Atlanta he has established a reputation as a staunch supporter of civil rights for the Negro. Under his leadership the Georgia capital has enjoyed perhaps the highest degree of racial amity and calm it has ever known. A close friend of the late Martin Luther King, he has won the support of both white and black citizens for his efforts to build bridges between the races. At 58, Mayor Allen, who is married and has three children, does not plan to seek another term when his present tenure in City Hall expires at the end of this year.

ATLANTA, GA.

Had Martin Luther King not been slain, I think that he could have been elected Mayor of Atlanta within a generation. That, to my mind, is one of the measures of the progress the South has made and is still making toward solving the racial problem.

But it isn't the only one. Seven years ago, when I became Mayor of Atlanta, a city of some 500,000 population, there were segregated water fountains, rest rooms, cafeterias, parks, hotels, theaters, public transportation and employment practices. All of this is gone today.

Recently, for the first time in history, the Georgia State Senate, meeting in Atlanta, warmly received a Negro leader, Martin Luther King Sr. Not only did the legislators give him a fine ovation, they vied to shake hands with him while the press photographers took their picture. This would have been unheard of five years ago.

Changes like these are occurring throughout the South, especially in the progressive cities. By the turn of the century the Negro in the South will have achieved full equality or close to it, and he will do it with less violence and fewer riots than in the North.

Still have our racists

I admit it won't be easy. We still have our racists and demagogues but I don't think they truly represent the people; if Southerners had to choose between "Dixie" and "The Star-Spangled Banner," they would overwhelmingly choose the latter.

By the turn of the century, that is, 31 years from now, I would expect to see Negro governors, senators, and congressmen in the South. We already have Negroes in state legislatures. The black separatist movement will also disappear as prejudice and discrimination decline. Even today, I don't think it amounts to anything—it's just overblown newspaper copy. Militancy and extremism among whites will also diminish. The Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens Councils in the South are dead issues. I don't think there are 2000 KKK members left in the entire South.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr.: "By the turn of the century the Negro will achieve full equality or close to it in the South and with less violence than in the North."

Actually, the race issue through the years has hurt the South as much as it has hurt the Negro. There hasn't been a single major social, political, business, civic, religious or educational decision made in the South during the last 100 years that hasn't been warped or distorted by race. This is the greatest burden that any part of the country has ever had to carry. It's necessary to remove it by making the Negro an equal citizen. Think of how much more the South could have been worth, economically alone, had we allowed the Negro full equality. In Atlanta today only a handful of whites are on welfare; the rest are Negroes. And yet the South alone isn't to blame. Even the U.S. Supreme Court helped degrade the Negro, with the Plessy vs. Ferguson case, which established the "separate but equal" doctrine.

The turning point in the South's relations with its black citizens came with the civil rights crusades of the 1950's. That's when the meaning of segregation really hit home. Every Southerner had been raised in the tradition of accepting and practicing segregation as natural, without ever stopping to consider what it did to the Negro. Until then, we here in the South had never felt what it meant to be Negro.

Real progress

Actually, what has been done and is being done to move the Negro toward first-class citizenship in the South? We can point to real progress in several areas. Equality in public accommodations has been accomplished successfully in Atlanta and other progressive Southern cities with the strong backing of the business community. Considerable progress has been made in the area of equal employment opportunity. In the voting area, more and more Negroes are being registered in the South, and they vote like other American citizens. On open housing, we haven't done as well. But solutions will come more easily if the Negro is willing to make certain compromises, and move into white areas on a class, rather than a race basis—that is, a Negro college professor should buy a home in an equivalent white middle-class area. Caution is necessary. The fears stirred up by having as neighbors a family of a different color skin are primitive and visceral. In Atlanta, for 15 years we've seen the pattern repeated: one Negro family moves into an area, and by the end of the year the surrounding residential blocks all become black.

The situation in schooling is somewhat similar. To date in Atlanta we have integrated about 110,000 pupils, of whom 15,000 to 20,000 are Negro. But in 17 out of 19 schools where the ratio of Negro pupils went above 30 percent, the student body was all black by the end of the year. The white kids weren't allowed to transfer out—their families just moved away to the suburbs, where they've become Atlanta's greatest opponents.

Gain in education

On the positive side, thousands of Negro pupils are getting a better education today than they ever had before. Among them are youngsters who have come from small towns to live with uncles and aunts in Atlanta, where the schools are far superior to those in rural districts.

It has to be realized that the problems of the South, like those of the rest of the country, go far beyond racism. The basic issues are poverty, and the deterioration of our cities. The cities are the seat of our big problems, but they are still dominated by rural-minded legislators and politicians. But paradoxically, it's the cities that are also the site of the greatest progress. Atlanta, with all its problems, spearheads the advances in civil rights.

Like Martin Luther King, who was my good friend, I have a dream. My dream is the total elimination of racial prejudice and injustice so that all men will be accepted for what they are, not for the color of their skin. I firmly believe that this will come to pass.

My children and their contemporaries have nowhere near the racial prejudice that I had, and their children will have less. Much of the opposition to civil rights stems from the riots in the big cities, but I think the riots will decrease. And I find much more understanding of the causes of the riots among the young white people.

In my estimation, neither the South nor the nation will become the "two-race society" the Kerner Report foresees if we don't act. I feel we will go the other way, in the direction of a truly American society. I don't expect this nation to have a new Civil War, in the cities or in the South. I believe we will achieve full democracy through orderly procedures.

Boy (right) was born in Sweden 50 days after his sister. But they still are twins.

TWINS —50 DAYS APART!

by Jim Kenner

MOTALA, SWEDEN

When Maj-Britt Pettersson, a 26-year-old housewife, entered the hospital here late last year, she was perturbed over indications that her third child was going to be born prematurely. The first two — healthy, robust boys — had arrived easily and normally and Maj-Britt wanted the same for the daughter she hoped for.

However, Rosa Svensson, the midwife, calmed her fears and told her that while premature birth sometimes poses problems, modern medicine is pretty well prepared to handle them. What she couldn't tell Maj-Britt was that she was about to contribute to medical history by having twins—50 days apart!

There was no expectation of twins, even routine ones, when Maj-Britt arrived at the hospital with her husband, Hans, a woodcutter. As the young mother entered the delivery room, an incubator was made ready for the single-birth baby which apparently was about to enter the world, three months prematurely. Recalls midwife Svensson:

"It was one of my easiest deliveries. Maj-Britt was in labor for only about ten minutes. It was the girl the Pettersons wanted, all right, but it was my smallest baby ever. She weighed only a little over two pounds. We put her right into the incubator and I turned to see how the mother was doing. My eyes popped out. She seemed to be still pregnant."

Hurry-up call

The midwife put in a rush call for Dr. Alvar Brunge, Maj-Britt's obstetrician, just back from vacation, and he discovered that Maj-Britt had, indeed, been carrying twins. Ordinarily, the interval between twin births is no more than a half hour. But, when Maj-Britt showed no indication of birth for the second baby, Dr. Brunge made a quick decision.

"The first one looked as though it might not survive," he remembers, "and I thought that if the second one arrived right away, it might have the same problem, so I decided to do everything possible to delay the birth. The best I hoped for was several days."

Accordingly, while the little girl, Elizabeth, struggled for life in the incubator—she wasn't out of danger for five days — Dr. Brunge gave Maj-Britt injections of a preparation that blocks release of oxytocin; the hormone that activates labor contractions. She stayed in the hospital, sharing a room with three other expectant mothers. The days turned into weeks, and then a month, and then the second month began. Eight times Maj-Britt's roommates changed. Each time the happy new mother wished her luck and departed with her baby while Maj-Britt waited . . . and waited.

By now she was the talk of the entire hospital. Then she became the talk of the Swedish medical profession when Dr. Brunge mentioned her case at a convention. Then she became the talk of all Sweden when newspapers, radio and TV got wind of the story.

At long last, when tiny Elizabeth was 50 days old, the mother began to feel labor contractions. In early afternoon she was rushed to the delivery room and 23 minutes later Dr. Brunge delivered a boy. A moment of tense silence in the delivery room was broken by the child's first wail. The tardy twin had made his first comment.

The boy, later named Klas, was about a month premature but weighed 4.7 pounds, more than twice what his sister had. He, too, was put in an incubator and today the Pettersson twins are doing fine, home with their two brothers and parents.

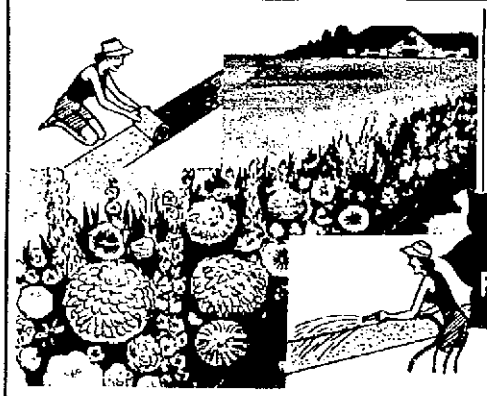

Dr. Brunge reports that his only other delayed twin birth occurred some years ago and the interval was two days. Professor Carl Gemzell of Uppsala, Sweden, a multiple birth expert, calls the Pettersson case "unique" and adds, "I've never seen anything like it in my practice."

Maj-Britt and Hans are delighted with the twins and have decided that their family is now just the right size. "Unless," says Hans, needling his wife, "you're going to have another baby tomorrow."

Somebody's coming to our house: Pettersson family ready to bring home the twins.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

Hospital-Tested Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives often force action—cause griping, cramping; can become habit-forming.

This hospital-tested substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL®. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—you may never take a laxative again!

Is 65 Too Late to Marry?

"I do's" among older couples are on the increase in the United States and becoming a growing trend, according to sociologist Dr. Walter C. McKain of the University of Connecticut. In a recent ten-year period, for instance, the number of brides over 65 increased by 61 percent, grooms, 43 percent. Why all the marital activity in the grandparent set?

Two obvious reasons: largely because of medical advances older people have never been in better physical shape; financially, they generally have the stability of pensions, Social Security checks, savings, and sometimes stocks.

But there are other factors, too. Dr. McKain, author of Retirement Marriage, based on an in-depth study of 100 golden-age couples married more than five years, explains: "In our society, people like to be anchored to a family. When a husband or wife dies and the grown children aren't willing to take in the surviving old parent, there are few alternatives left. The old person can learn to live alone, can move into a home or old people's hotel—or can remarry and form another household."

The only fly in the orange blossoms, according to Dr. McKain's study, is society. It has to be educated to the fact that marriage is not only for the young, but for the young in heart as well. In fact, of the 100 couples Dr. McKain studied, 95 were doing just fine.

As a result of his study, Dr. McKain has devised a simple test for oldsters contemplating marriage which is included in his University of Connecticut monograph. If you personally don't qualify for the test, clip it and give it to an older unmarried couple. They will find it very helpful.

I see non-violent change in the South

BY IVAN ALLEN JR.,
Mayor of Atlanta

■ Ivan Allen Jr. probably is the South's most unusual mayor. In his two terms as chief executive of Atlanta he has established a reputation as a staunch supporter of civil rights for the Negro. Under his leadership the Georgia capital has enjoyed perhaps the highest degree of racial unity and calm it has ever known. A close friend of the late Martin Luther King, he has won the support of both white and black citizens for his efforts to build bridges between the races. At 58, Mayor Allen, who is married and has three children, does not plan to seek another term when his present tenure in City Hall expires at the end of this year.

ATLANTA, GA.

Had Martin Luther King not been slain, I think that he could have been elected Mayor of Atlanta within a generation. That, to my mind, is one of the measures of the progress the South has made and is still making toward solving the racial problem.

But it isn't the only one. Seven years ago, when I became Mayor of Atlanta, a city of some 500,000 population, there were segregated water fountains, rest rooms, cafeterias, parks, hotels, theaters, public transportation and employment practices. All of this is gone today.

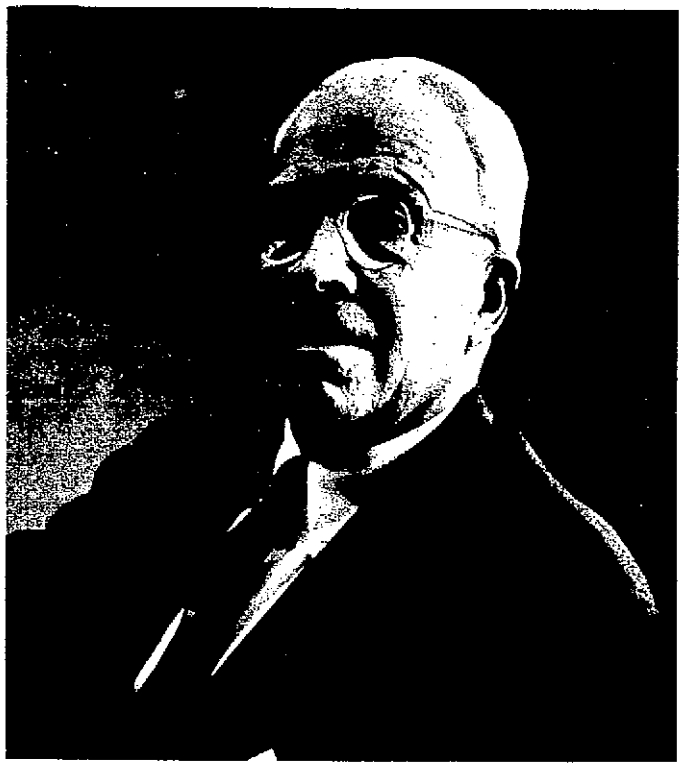

Recently, for the first time in history, the Georgia State Senate, meeting in Atlanta, warmly received a Negro leader, Martin Luther King Sr. Not only did the legislators give him a fine ovation, they vied to shake hands with him while the press photographers took their picture. This would have been unheard of five years ago.

Changes like these are occurring throughout the South, especially in the progressive cities. By the turn of the century the Negro in the South will have achieved full equality or close to it, and he will do it with less violence and fewer riots than in the North.

Still have our racists

I admit it won't be easy. We still have our racists and demagogues but I don't think they truly represent the people; if Southerners had to choose between "Dixie" and "The Star-Spangled Banner," they would overwhelmingly choose the latter.

By the turn of the century, that is, 31 years from now, I would expect to see Negro governors, senators, and congressmen in the South. We already have Negroes in state legislatures. The black separatist movement will also disappear as prejudice and discrimination decline. Even today, I don't think it amounts to anything—it's just overblown newspaper copy. Militancy and extremism among whites will also diminish. The Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens Councils in the South are dead issues. I don't think there are 2000 KKK members left in the entire South.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr.: "By the turn of the century the Negro will achieve full equality or close to it in the South and with less violence than in the North."

Actually, the race issue through the years has hurt the South as much as it has hurt the Negro. There hasn't been a single major social, political, business, civic, religious or educational decision made in the South during the last 100 years that hasn't been warped or distorted by race. This is the greatest burden that any part of the country has ever had to carry. It's necessary to remove it by making the Negro an equal citizen. Think of how much more the South could have been worth, economically alone, had we allowed the Negro full equality. In Atlanta today only a handful of whites are on welfare; the rest are Negroes. And yet the South alone isn't to blame. Even the U.S. Supreme Court helped degrade the Negro, with the Plessy vs. Ferguson case, which established the "separate but equal" doctrine.

The turning point in the South's relations with its black citizens came with the civil rights crusades of the 1950's. That's when the meaning of segregation really hit home. Every Southerner had been raised in the tradition of accepting and practicing segregation as natural, without ever stopping to consider what it did to the Negro. Until then, we here in the South had never felt what it meant to be Negro.

Real progress

Actually, what has been done and is being done to move the Negro toward first-class citizenship in the South? We can point to real progress in several areas. Equality in public accommodations has been accomplished successfully in Atlanta and other progressive Southern cities with the strong backing of the business community. Considerable progress has been made in the area of equal employment opportunity. In the voting area, more and more Negroes are being registered in the South, and they vote like other American citizens. On open housing, we haven't done as well. But solutions will come more easily if the Negro is willing to make certain compromises, and move into white areas on a class, rather than a race basis—that is, a Negro college professor should buy a home in an equivalent white middle-class area. Caution is necessary. The fears stirred up by having as neighbors a family of a different color skin are primitive and visceral. In Atlanta, for 15 years we've seen the pattern repeated: one Negro family moves into an area, and by the end of the year the surrounding residential blocks all become black.

The situation in schooling is somewhat similar. To date in Atlanta we have integrated about 110,000 pupils, of whom 15,000 to 20,000 are Negro. But in 17 out of 19 schools where the ratio of Negro pupils went above 30 percent, the student body was all black by the end of the year. The white kids weren't allowed to transfer out—their families just moved away to the suburbs, where they've become Atlanta's greatest opponents.

Gain in education

On the positive side, thousands of Negro pupils are getting a better education today than they ever had before. Among them are youngsters who have come from small towns to live with uncles and aunts in Atlanta, where the schools are far superior to those in rural districts.

It has to be realized that the problems of the South, like those of the rest of the country, go far beyond racism. The basic issues are poverty, and the deterioration of our cities. The cities are the seat of our big problems, but they are still dominated by rural-minded legislators and politicians. But paradoxically, it's the cities that are also the site of the greatest progress. Atlanta, with all its problems, spearheads the advances in civil rights.

Like Martin Luther King, who was my good friend, I have a dream. My dream is the total elimination of racial prejudice and injustice so that all men will be accepted for what they are, not for the color of their skin. I firmly believe that this will come to pass.

My children and their contemporaries have nowhere near the racial prejudice that I had, and their children will have less. Much of the opposition to civil rights stems from the riots in the big cities, but I think the riots will decrease. And I find much more understanding of the causes of the riots among the young white people.

In my estimation, neither the South nor the nation will become the "two-race society" the Kerner Report foresees if we don't act. I feel we will go the other way, in the direction of a truly American society. I don't expect this nation to have a new Civil War, in the cities or in the South. I believe we will achieve full democracy through orderly procedures.

Will computers ever replace teachers? Here 11-year-old Kenneth Hack happily studies economics on a versatile computer in his classroom in Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

The teacher who 'never gets angry'

BY MICHAEL ALAN

Ten-year-old Denise Arnot sat poised in front of her "typewriter" in P.S. 9, Manhattan, New York City--ready to take her math lesson. She pressed the start-button on the right side of her "typewriter," and immediately the machine punched out its first question:

"WHAT IS YOUR NUMBER AND YOUR FIRST NAME?"

"1585. DENISE," the fifth-grader punched back, wasting no time.

"HELLO, DENISE ARNOT," the machine welcomed her. "TODAY YOU ARE DOING A LESSON ON FRACTIONS. START WITH THIS ONE: 1/6 OF 18 = ?"

"3," Denise typed.

"CORRECT. 15/18 = ?/6."

"5."

And so it went for 15 minutes. Then dipping into its memory, the machine informed Denise:

"END OF LESSON. 18 PROBLEMS CORRECT, 90 PERCENT, IN 873 SECONDS. GOOD-BYE, DENISE."

The fifth-grader turned off her "typewriter"-teacher, and smiled, obviously pleased with herself.

Denise Arnot is one of 6000 New York City schoolchildren who this year are learning math from "typewriters"—in reality, computer terminals linked by telephone line to an RCA Spectra 70/45G computer located in mid-Manhattan. P.S. 9 is one of approximately 500 elementary and secondary schools across the country—according to computer-education specialist, Dr. Albert Hickey—where a computer is now used to teach math, reading, science or economics courses. And the United States is one of several countries, including Canada, Britain and the Soviet Union, where computers have entered the classroom.

The wonder of all this is that the computer has arrived so late to class. For, in the United States, the world's most computer-conscious country, the country where from Wall Street to Washington men listen to their machines, the computer had to wait until the mid-sixties to get inside the classroom.

Now that it's inside, however, it seems likely to stay—and to multiply. That, at least, is the belief of the computer manufacturers.

And that, also, is the opinion of most educators who have introduced computers into their classrooms. According to Walter Goodman, a social studies teacher and innovator of computer-taught economics in Yorktown Heights, N.Y., "It is only a matter of time—until computers will be teaching all subjects."

Computers not only teach many subjects, but they teach them in many ways. The RCA Spectra in New York City, for instance, uses a "drill" technique. The teacher presents the concepts to her students, the computer does the drilling and grading of papers.

The Yorktown Heights computer, however, employs a more creative, "tutorial" approach in its economics course. Once its sixth-grade students have pushed the start-button and typed in their name and number, the computer raps back:

"YOU ARE READY TO PLAY THE SUMERIAN ECONOMIC GAME. IMAGINE THAT YOU HAVE JUST BEEN MADE RULER OF LAGASH, A CITY-STATE OF SUMER, IN THE YEAR 3500 B.C. IN ORDER TO BECOME FAMILIAR WITH THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY, LET'S EXAMINE A MAP OF SUMER [the map flashes on the attached video screen]. EVERY SIX MONTHS YOUR ROYAL STEWARD, URBABA, WILL REPORT TO YOU THE ECONOMIC CONDITION OF THE KINGDOM. GUIDED BY THESE REPORTS, YOU WILL DECIDE THE USE OF YOUR GRAIN AND OTHER RESOURCES, TRYING TO KEEP YOUR POPULATION STABLE AND WELL FED.

Seasoned rulers

By the time they have ruled Sumer for 36 years—which takes about 12 one-hour sessions—the sixth-graders have been introduced to the major concepts of a primitive agricultural economy.

In a still more imaginative use of computers, the student writes his own program by feeding the computer a set of data to which it coughs back a solution. This usage requires knowledge of Fortran or Quiktran—two of the more common computer lingos—and therefore has been limited to college students and a few high-school whiz kids.

All this is very impressive, of course, but—you might ask—isn't it a little early to be talking about computerized classrooms? In a way, it is. Because, while about 500 U.S. public schools have computers teaching courses, some 110,000 do not. And even more important, if we were to extend computer-assisted instruction to the bulk of the nation's 44 million public-school children, it is estimated that annual costs would range from $9 billion to $24 billion—or 30 to 80 percent of the total expenditure for public schools. So, for the moment, computer education is in an expensive and experimental stage.

But look ahead five or ten years when, some experts contend, education by computer will be no more expensive than education by teacher, and when a greater and greater amount of information will have to be taught in our already overcrowded classrooms.

Consider, also, some advantages the computer already has over the flesh-and-blood teacher:

1. A computer, unlike a teacher in a 30-student classroom, is able to individualize instruction. In many programs, it waits patiently for the student to master each lesson, at his own pace. If he fails or takes too long, the computer automatically "branches" him off to a level of lower difficulty. If he answers correctly and rapidly, it branches him off to tougher material.

Thus, to your child the computer is not just an impersonal hunk of metal.

In the simple words of Kenneth Hack, a sixth-grader in Yorktown Heights, "The computer seems to know me and to be talking to me. It knows just what I am doing and never gets angry when I am wrong."

2. A computer cannot be accused of animosity or favoritism: there is no such thing as a computer's pet. Says one third-grade boy in Brooklyn, N.Y.: "Miss R . . . is always picking on me. She doesn't like boys. That's why I like to learn on this computer. It doesn't pick on me."

But, what happens to the human element in education when computers take over? No computer can tousle a child's hair, pat him on the back or help him off with his boots. True enough.

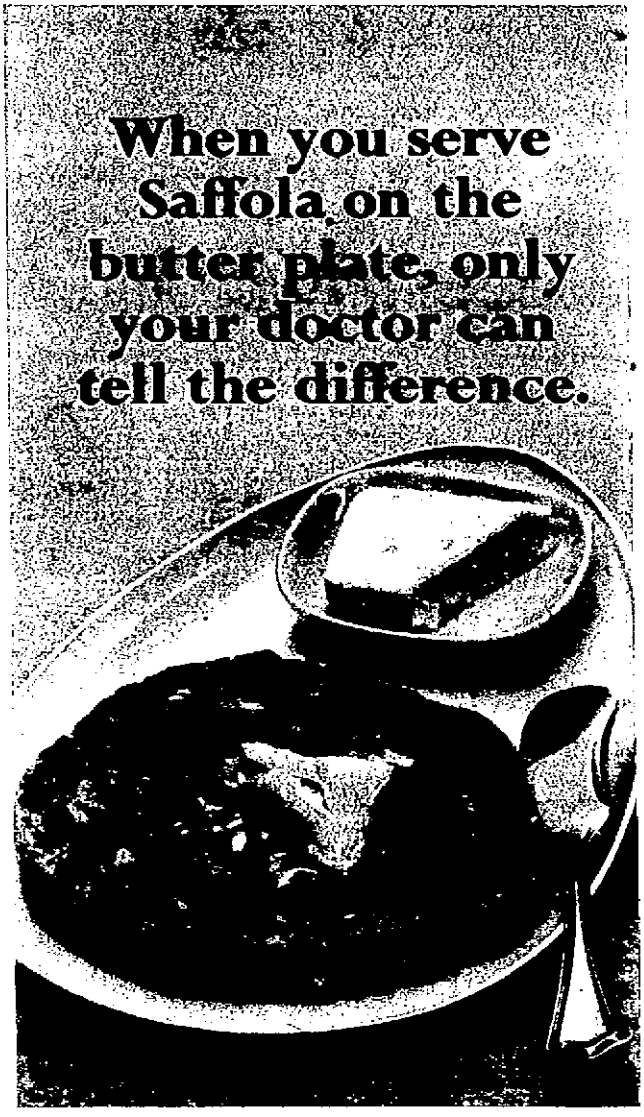

And, in fact, most educators and computer manufacturers agree with one teacher's assessment that "it would be a mistake to think you can teach a child just by sitting him down at a computer terminal with a set of earphones on from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Children need the human contact which only teachers can give them."

Computer scope

But they also feel it would be a mistake to expect that the computer will play no greater role in education than film-strips, record-players, and television. The computer is a far more human instrument. And as a fifth-grade teacher in Palo Alto, Calif., stated, "Teachers, just because they walk and talk, are not always so human. They too often look at teaching as a 9 to 5 job and, like everybody else, they've become machinelike. It's a fortunate thing that at least we're making some machines, like computers, more humanlike."

And if today's computers appear humanlike, tomorrow's will seem even more so. Already plans are on the drawing board for a computer that will respond to an audio input with an audio output—in other words, conversations between computer and student will be possible.

When this time comes, teachers may not be replaced, but they may find themselves competing with the computer for students.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

Hospital-Tested Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives often force action—cause griping, cramping; can become habit-forming.

This hospital-tested substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL®. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—you may never take a laxative again!

Is 65 Too Late to Marry?

"I do's" among older couples are on the increase in the United States and becoming a growing trend, according to sociologist Dr. Walter C. McKain of the University of Connecticut. In a recent ten-year period, for instance, the number of brides over 65 increased by 61 percent, grooms, 43 percent. Why all the marital activity in the grandparent set?

Two obvious reasons: largely because of medical advances older people have never been in better physical shape; financially, they generally have the stability of pensions, Social Security checks, savings, and sometimes stocks.

But there are other factors, too. Dr. McKain, author of Retirement Marriage, based on an in-depth study of 100 golden-age couples married more than five years, explains: "In our society, people like to be anchored to a family. When a husband or wife dies and the grown children aren't willing to take in the surviving old parent, there are few alternatives left. The old person can learn to live alone, can move into a home or old people's hotel—or can remarry and form another household."

The only fly in the orange blossoms, according to Dr. McKain's study, is society. It has to be educated to the fact that marriage is not only for the young, but for the young in heart as well. In fact, of the 100 couples Dr. McKain studied, 95 were doing just fine.

As a result of his study, Dr. McKain has devised a simple test for oldsters contemplating marriage which is included in his University of Connecticut monograph. If you personally don't qualify for the test, clip it and give it to an older unmarried couple. They will find it very helpful.

My Favorite Jokes

by Fannie Flagg

EDITOR'S NOTE: Funny Fannie Flagg, the strawberry blonde from Birmingham, Ala., is not a stand-up, gag-a-second comedienne. Her material, written by herself, concentrates rather on extracting laughter from character and situation. Fannie developed a repertoire of personalities that she uses in her act while hosting the 90-minute Morning Show, on WRBC-TV in Birmingham.

After a year and a half on the Morning Show, Fannie came to New York, where she appeared in the Upstairs at the Downstairs revue, Just for Openers. The show earned her excellent reviews, a job as writer-performer on TV's Candid Camera and appearances on the Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas shows. Her "Lady Bird" impressions led to two comedy records. Fannie recently broadened her horizons in theatrical productions of Noel Coward's Private Lives and in Goodbye, Charlie.

With her career heading in all directions—recordings, TV, movies, theatre, concerts and clubs, Fannie has lately begun to pay some attention to her personal life. For instance, she's recently noticed a change in her boy friend's appearance—he hasn't appeared for days.

Herewith some of her wry comments on life as she sees it:

I became a television addict when I was 8 years old. One winter our house burned down, and the only thing that really upset me was the loss of my baby pictures. I wondered what they'd use when I appeared on This Is Your Life.

I used to watch What's My Line and thought, "Why can't Mother be more like Arlene Francis?" I even began to greet visitors at the door with, "Won't you enter and sign in, please?"

I have a message to mothers. If you want a few minutes to yourself, alone and undisturbed—do the dishes.

If you have half a mind to get married, do it. That's really all it takes.

Those new hairdos—don't get me wrong, I like them—look like rejects from a mattress factory.

I used to have an hourglass figure, but the sand shifted.

I have a friend who has been in analysis for 13 years. Obviously, the analyst isn't doing her much good, but she's too kind-hearted to leave him. "I couldn't do that," she says. "He's so insecure."

The difference between a psychotic and a neurotic is that a psychotic is out of this world and a neurotic is here, but nervous about it.

I never drink or take tranquilizers. Whenever I get nervous about something I eat a bowl of grits.

I was shocked to see that my mother had turned gray, everything except her hair.

I was on an airline so small that they dusted crops along the way.

I went into a Chinese restaurant the other day where I broke a tooth on a fortune cookie that said, "Best to You in 1956."

A friend of mine believes in living dangerously; he got a job as a lifeguard in a carwash.

Will computers ever replace teachers? Here 11-year-old Kenneth Hack happily studies economics on a versatile computer in his classroom in Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

The teacher who 'never gets angry'

BY MICHAEL ALAN

Ten-year-old Denise Arnot sat poised in front of her "typewriter" in P.S. 9, Manhattan, New York City—ready to take her math lesson. She pressed the start-button on the right side of her "typewriter," and immediately the machine punched out its first question:

"WHAT IS YOUR NUMBER AND YOUR FIRST NAME?"

"1585. DENISE," the fifth-grader punched back, wasting no time.

"HELLO, DENISE ARNOT," the machine welcomed her. "TODAY YOU ARE DOING A LESSON ON FRACTIONS. START WITH THIS ONE: 1/6 OF 18 = ?"

"3," Denise typed.

"CORRECT. 15/18 = ?/6."

"5."

And so it went for 15 minutes. Then dipping into its memory, the machine informed Denise:

"END OF LESSON. 18 PROBLEMS CORRECT, 90 PERCENT, IN 873 SECONDS. GOOD-BYE, DENISE."

The fifth-grader turned off her "typewriter"-teacher, and smiled, obviously pleased with herself.

Denise Arnot is one of 6000 New York City schoolchildren who this year are learning math from "typewriters"—in reality, computer terminals linked by telephone line to an RCA Spectra 70/45G computer located in mid-Manhattan. P.S. 9 is one of approximately 500 elementary and secondary schools across the country—according to computer-education specialist, Dr. Albert Hickey—where a computer is now used to teach math, reading, science or economics courses. And the United States is one of several countries, including Canada, Britain and the Soviet Union, where computers have entered the classroom.

The wonder of all this is that the computer has arrived so late to class. For, in the United States, the world's most computer-conscious country, the country where from Wall Street to Washington men listen to their machines, the computer had to wait until the mid-sixties to get inside the classroom.

Now that it's inside, however, it seems likely to stay—and to multiply. That, at least, is the belief of the computer manufacturers.

And that, also, is the opinion of most educators who have introduced computers into their classrooms. According to Walter Goodman, a social studies teacher and innovator of computer-taught economics in Yorktown Heights, N.Y., "It is only a matter of time—until computers will be teaching all subjects."

Computers not only teach many subjects, but they teach them in many ways. The RCA Spectra in New York City, for instance, uses a "drill" technique. The teacher presents the concepts to her students, the computer does the drilling and grading of papers.

The Yorktown Heights computer, however, employs a more creative, "tutorial" approach in its economics course. Once its sixth-grade students have pushed the start-button and typed in their name and number, the computer raps back:

"YOU ARE READY TO PLAY THE SUMERIAN ECONOMIC GAME. IMAGINE THAT YOU HAVE JUST BEEN MADE RULER OF LAGASH, A CITY-STATE OF SUMER, IN THE YEAR 3500 B.C. IN ORDER TO BECOME FAMILIAR WITH THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY, LET'S EXAMINE A MAP OF SUMER [the map flashes on the attached video screen]. EVERY SIX MONTHS YOUR ROYAL STEWARD, URBABA, WILL REPORT TO YOU THE ECONOMIC CONDITION OF THE KINGDOM. GUIDED BY THESE REPORTS, YOU WILL DECIDE THE USE OF YOUR GRAIN AND OTHER RESOURCES, TRYING TO KEEP YOUR POPULATION STABLE AND WELL FED.

Seasoned rulers

By the time they have ruled Sumer for 36 years—which takes about 12 one-hour sessions—the sixth-graders have been introduced to the major concepts of a primitive agricultural economy.

In a still more imaginative use of computers, the student writes his own program by feeding the computer a set of data to which it coughs back a solution. This usage requires knowledge of Fortran or Quiktran—two of the more common computer lingos—and therefore has been limited to college students and a few high-school whiz kids.

All this is very impressive, of course, but—you might ask—isn't it a little early to be talking about computerized classrooms? In a way, it is. Because, while about 500 U.S. public schools have computers teaching courses, some 110,000 do not. And even more important, if we were to extend computer-assisted instruction to the bulk of the nation's 44 million public-school children, it is estimated that annual costs would range from $9 billion to $24 billion—or 30 to 80 percent of the total expenditure for public schools. So, for the moment, computer education is in an expensive and experimental stage.

But look ahead five or ten years when, some experts contend, education by computer will be no more expensive than education by teacher, and when a greater and greater amount of information will have to be taught in our already overcrowded classrooms.

Consider, also, some advantages the computer already has over the flesh-and-blood teacher:

1. A computer, unlike a teacher in a 30-student classroom, is able to individualize instruction. In many programs, it waits patiently for the student to master each lesson, at his own pace. If he fails or takes too long, the computer automatically "branches" him off to a level of lower difficulty. If he answers correctly and rapidly, it branches him off to tougher material.

Thus, to your child the computer is not just an impersonal hunk of metal.

In the simple words of Kenneth Hack, a sixth-grader in Yorktown Heights, "The computer seems to know me and to be talking to me. It knows just what I am doing and never gets angry when I am wrong."

2. A computer cannot be accused of animosity or favoritism: there is no such thing as a computer's pet. Says one third-grade boy in Brooklyn, N.Y.: "Miss R . . . is always picking on me. She doesn't like boys. That's why I like to learn on this computer. It doesn't pick on me."

But, what happens to the human element in education when computers take over? No computer can tousle a child's hair, pat him on the back or help him off with his boots. True enough.

And, in fact, most educators and computer manufacturers agree with one teacher's assessment that "it would be a mistake to think you can teach a child just by sitting him down at a computer terminal with a set of earphones on from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Children need the human contact which only teachers can give them."

Computer scope

But they also feel it would be a mistake to expect that the computer will play no greater role in education than film-strips, record-players, and television. The computer is a far more human instrument. And as a fifth-grade teacher in Palo Alto, Calif., stated, "Teachers, just because they walk and talk, are not always so human. They too often look at teaching as a 9 to 5 job and, like everybody else, they've become machinelike. It's a fortunate thing that at least we're making some machines, like computers, more humanlike."

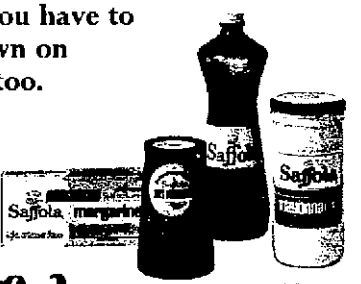

And if today's computers appear humanlike, tomorrow's will seem even more so. Already plans are on the drawing board for a computer that will respond to an audio input with an audio output—in other words, conversations between computer and student will be possible.

When this time comes, teachers may not be replaced, but they may find themselves competing with the computer for students.

When you serve Saffola on the butter plate, only your doctor can tell the difference.

The important difference in Saffola margarine is safflower oil. This 100% vegetable oil is highest in good poly-unsaturates—and lowest in saturated fats. Yet Saffola tastes just like the real thing: the rich, expensive spread. When your doctor recommends that you guard your health by cutting down on saturated fats, it doesn't mean you have to cut down on flavor, too.

My Favorite Jokes

by Fannie Flagg

EDITOR'S NOTE: Funny Fannie Flagg, the strawberry blonde from Birmingham, Ala., is not a stand-up, gag-a-second comedienne. Her material, written by herself, concentrates rather on extracting laughter from character and situation. Fannie developed a repertoire of personalities that she uses in her act while hosting the 90-minute Morning Show, on WRBC-TV in Birmingham.

After a year and a half on the Morning Show, Fannie came to New York, where she appeared in the Upstairs at the Downstairs revue, Just for Openers. The show earned her excellent reviews, a job as writer-performer on TV's Candid Camera and appearances on the Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas shows. Her "Lady Bird" impressions led to two comedy records. Fannie recently broadened her horizons in theatrical productions of Noel Coward's Private Lives and in Goodbye, Charlie.

With her career heading in all directions—recordings, TV, movies, theatre, concerts and clubs, Fannie has lately begun to pay some attention to her personal life. For instance, she's recently noticed a change in her boy friend's appearance—he hasn't appeared for days.

Herewith some of her wry comments on life as she sees it:

I became a television addict when I was 8 years old. One winter our house burned down, and the only thing that really upset me was the loss of my baby pictures. I wondered what they'd use when I appeared on This Is Your Life.

I used to watch What's My Line and thought, "Why can't Mother be more like Arlene Francis?" I even began to greet visitors at the door with, "Won't you enter and sign in, please?"

I have a message to mothers. If you want a few minutes to yourself, alone and undisturbed—do the dishes.

If you have half a mind to get married, do it. That's really all it takes.

Those new hairdos—don't get me wrong, I like them—look like rejects from a mattress factory.

I used to have an hourglass figure, but the sand shifted.

I have a friend who has been in analysis for 13 years. Obviously, the analyst isn't doing her much good, but she's too kind-hearted to leave him. "I couldn't do that," she says. "He's so insecure."

The difference between a psychotic and a neurotic is that a psychotic is out of this world and a neurotic is here, but nervous about it.

I never drink or take tranquilizers. Whenever I get nervous about something I eat a bowl of grits.

I was shocked to see that my mother had turned gray, everything except her hair.

I was on an airline so small that they dusted crops along the way.

I went into a Chinese restaurant the other day where I broke a tooth on a fortune cookie that said, "Best to You in 1956."

A friend of mine believes in living dangerously; he got a job as a lifeguard in a carwash.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE

Teens talk about problem skin.

Teenagers are experts when it comes to knowing about problem skin. These Westchester teens were given a new liquid anti-bacterial skin cleanser called HyperpHaze. For about two weeks, they washed with HyperpHaze instead of soap. Here's what they said about it...

Angela: Well, with soap, I used to wash my face two or three times before it really felt clean. But with HyperpHaze, it almost seemed to tingle!

Denise: I didn't expect it to clear up my whole face, but it did . . . I used it all up . . . after I stopped using it my face broke out again. It's like a preventative.

Camille: It really cleans out the oil and clears your face up . . .

Sue: I had pimples on my chin. It cleared those up . . .

Ron: Well . . . before I was using another product. HyperpHaze worked much better than that and it was a lot easier to use.

Camille: My brother . . . he's going to be a doctor . . . said "Hey, you're really looking great!"

Fran: I didn't break out like I usually would.

Fred: It was easy to use.

Ron: Well, the thing I liked about it was just one thing to use instead of a lot of separate things.

Angela: It's inexpensive because . . . you don't have to use more than one product. Once I used it, I felt I didn't have to worry . . . you can just, you know, go do what you want to do.

Russ: I felt more confident because . . . it helps your face and yet no one else can notice that you've got it on.

Jim: It took care of all the problems I had.

Bob: This HyperpHaze was really good.

Les: Well, if it's hospital-tested, it must be good enough. Right?

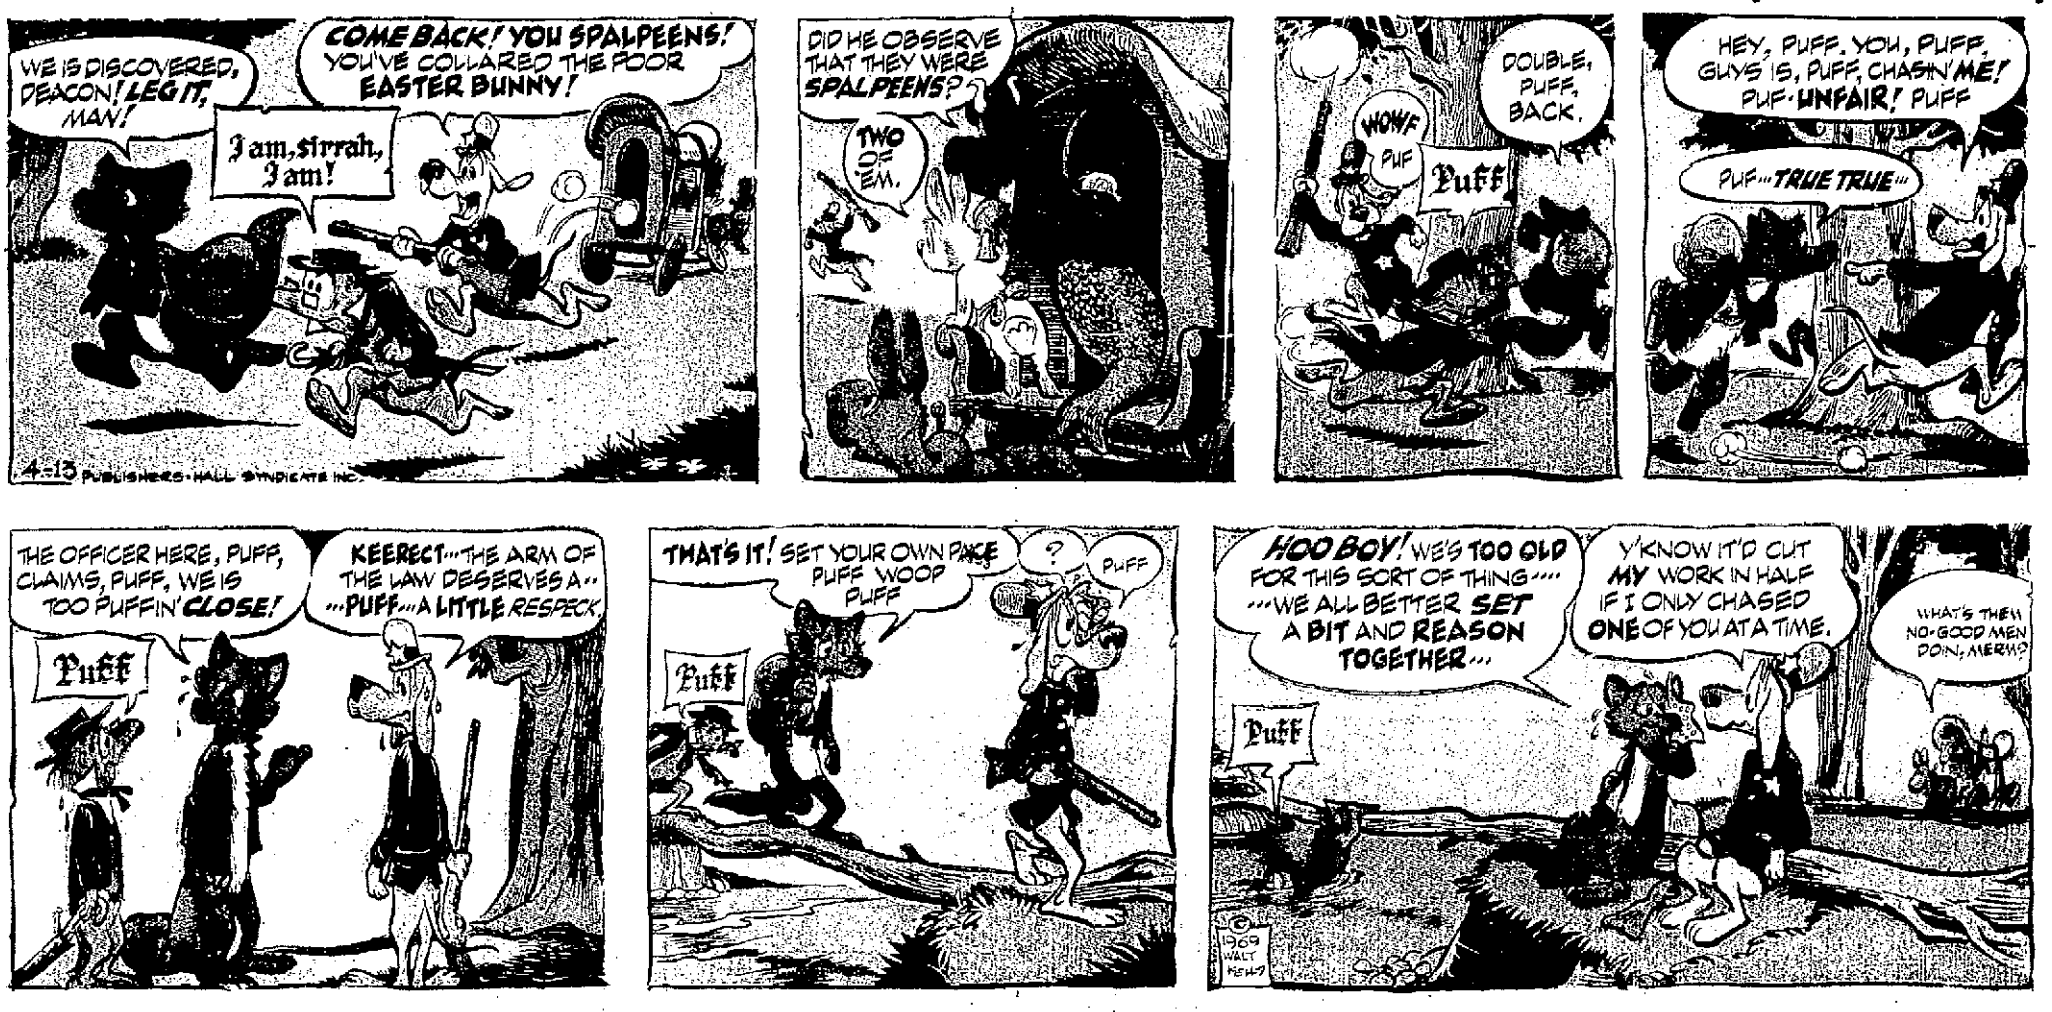

Ron: HyperpHaze works better than any other product that I ever used.

Wash with HyperpHaze™ instead of soap and see why teens agree... HyperpHaze -the clean, clear solution for skin problems.

Unmindful of his own peril, Nutchell leaped from the window to the flagpole...

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE

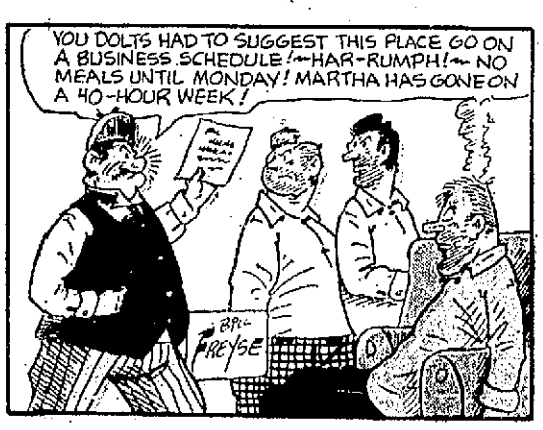

Teens talk about problem skin.

Teenagers are experts when it comes to knowing about problem skin. These Westchester teens were given a new liquid anti-bacterial skin cleanser called HyperpHaze. For about two weeks, they washed with HyperpHaze instead of soap. Here's what they said about it...

Angela: Well, with soap, I used to wash my face two or three times before it really felt clean. But with HyperpHaze, it almost seemed to tingle!

Denise: I didn't expect it to clear up my whole face, but it did . . . I used it all up . . . after I stopped using it my face broke out again. It's like a preventative.

Camille: It really cleans out the oil and clears your face up . . .

Sue: I had pimples on my chin. It cleared those up . . .

Ron: Well . . . before I was using another product. HyperpHaze worked much better than that and it was a lot easier to use.

Camille: My brother . . . he's going to be a doctor . . . said "Hey, you're really looking great!"

Fran: I didn't break out like I usually would.

Fred: It was easy to use.

Ron: Well, the thing I liked about it was just one thing to use instead of a lot of separate things.

Angela: It's inexpensive because . . . you don't have to use more than one product. Once I used it, I felt I didn't have to worry . . . you can just, you know, go do what you want to do.

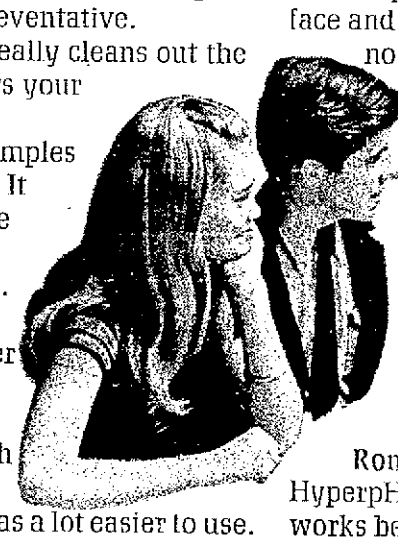

Russ: I felt more confident because . . . it helps your face and yet no one else can notice that you've got it on.

Jim: It took care of all the problems I had.

Bob: This HyperpHaze was really good.

Les: Well, if it's hospital-tested, it must be good enough. Right?

Ron: HyperpHaze works better than any other product that I ever used.

Wash with HyperpHaze™ instead of soap and see why teens agree... HyperpHaze -the clean, clear solution for skin problems.
